

Adelman Will Head County Demo Slate

by DICK BARTON

William Adelman of Bensenville is expected to be slated by the DuPage County Democratic party to oppose Republican incumbent John Erlenborn in November for the 14th Dist. Congressional seat.

Adelman, a former Con-Con candidate, is expected to be formally selected Tuesday at the party's convention, according to county party chairman William Redmond.

The Bensenville professor is replacing Nicholas Thomas who recently withdrew from the race for personal reasons, according to Redmond.

"He has outstanding qualifications and was the sensation of the Con-Con race last year," Redmond said of Adelman this week in making the announcement. Adelman finished in the top four of nine candidates for the two 39th Dist. Con-Con seats.

THE PARTY'S convention will start at 8 p.m. in the building of the Reserve Savings and Loan Association in Elmhurst. The general election for the U.S. Representative seat and others will be held Nov. 3.

Redmond said this week that he expects "no problems in formally selecting Adelman" at the convention.

Adelman, of 303 Park St., in Bensenville, is an assistant professor of labor and industrial relations at the University of Illinois Circle Campus in Chicago.

Past president of the East Bensenville Homeowners Association, Adelman is now vice president. He is also the vice-president of the West Region Steering Committee of the Welfare Council of Metropolitan Chicago.

He has lived in Bensenville for 15 years. He is married and has twin boys, twin girls and another daughter. He belonged to the legislative committee of the Illinois Federation of Teachers.

ADELMAN HAS A B.A. degree from Elmhurst College and masters and doctorate degrees in history from the University of Chicago.

In other recent Democratic slate making, the party selected Ralph Diehl of Wheaton and Ralph Gabric of Glen Ellyn to run for two vacancies as associate judges of the 18th Circuit Court. Mrs. Patricia Ring, a housewife from Downers Grove, has also been selected as a possible fill-in candidate for county clerk since Wood Dale resident Philip Grisolia has reported he is withdrawing from the race.

Grisolia in a public statement said he was dissatisfied with the party's organization and effort. However, according to Redmond, he has failed for formally notifying the party of his intentions and at present remains as a candidate.

The party leader said he expects DuPage voters to put at least one Democrat in office this November to establish some sort of balance to offset the all-Republican grip on county offices.

BENSENVILLE JUNIOR High School students will be able to continue enjoying the free play of the Park District's "drop-in" programs throughout the fall and winter. The program, which allows the young people to stop in at Blackhawk Junior High School and participate in sports and recreation activities, was initiated during the summer.

$11,000 Ceiling Set On Program

The Bensenville Park District's fall and winter recreational program is about to begin.

The park board Wednesday night passed a budget "not to exceed $11,000" for the proposed community fall and winter recreational program.

The program, which was proposed at the last meeting by Dan Plaza, superintendent of recreation, includes activities similar to the summer recreational program plus a high school age program and adult hobby classes. Registration will be held within the next several weeks, Plaza said.

The high school program, an innovation for the park district, will be informal and mostly unstructured, according to Plaza.

The Central Park Building and concession stand will be made available for high school students Monday through Friday from 3:30 to 5 p.m., Friday and Saturday nights from 8 to 11 p.m. and Saturday afternoons from 1 to 5 p.m.

PLAZA SAID the hours of operation could be flexible, depending on what is most convenient for the students.

There will be two supervisors working at Central Park while the building is open to the students.

"I have heard people talk about high school programs in the village and it has all been negative," Plaza said. "I don't want to buy that."

The fall junior high school program will closely resemble the junior high summer program. The "drop-in" day concept will continue on Saturdays.

The park district plans to show about 16 movies during the fall and winter at 35 cents for children and youth and 50 cents for adults (17-years-old and over). The movies will be shown at Chippewa School.

Plaza said he will ask several junior high school students to select the films to be shown.

Special events will be planned each month for the junior high program. These events could include going to a professional basketball game or taking a tobogganing trip, Plaza said.

The budget for the fall and winter recreation program also includes supervision for the ice skating rink at Central Park. The ice skating season will begin about Dec. 19 and end about Feb. 23.

West In Running For Superintendent's Job

by LINDA VACHATA

Norman E. West, principal of Fenton High School, threw his hat into the ring Tuesday to be considered for the position of superintendent of Bensenville Elementary Dist. 2 and Fenton High School Dist. 100.

West is presently acting superintendent in Dist. 100, a position he will maintain until the two boards of education select a new superintendent.

In a letter to board members, West said he was applying for the position "since it appears the boards may not go through a screening process for the selection of a superintendent."

West was referring to recent special sessions held by Dist. 2 and 100 and Wood Dale Elementary Dist. 7 board members to discuss moving toward creating a unit district by hiring Warren Carson, superintendent of Dist. 7, to fill the superintendent vacancy.

If hired, Carson would serve three districts, thus coordinating and unifying them toward the ultimate unit district. A unit district in the two communities would have one superintendent and one board of education.

When the unit plan proposal was presented last week, Dist. 2 and 100 board were holding a special joint session to members were holding a special joint session to review proposals from several consulting firms for the search of a new superintendent.

West said Wednesday he feels the boards have put aside reviewing the proposals, throwing their full attention to the unit district suggestion. This is why he is applying now for the superintendent vacancy.

"I feel that I am qualified to offer effective leadership because of my education and experience, both at the elementary and secondary level," West said in his letter.

"THERE ARE MANY qualified people around," West told the Register. "Dist. 2, 7 and 100 have contracted the Illinois Schools Consulting Service for a feasibility study of forming a unit district in these communities. The study is just ready to begin. I would think any major decision about hiring a superintendent would wait for the decision from the consulting firm."

"The boards have an acting superintendent for both districts. Things can continue as they are for several months. This is not an immediate or crucial problem. The boards should have ample time to study this."

served in various capacities in both the high school district and Bensenville's elementary district for the past 20 years.

He was a teacher at Fenton for five years and then served as a Fenton administrative assistant for three years. He was the first business manager for Fenton and served in that capacity for five years. Two years after becoming Fenton's business manager he also became the business manager for Dist. 2.

West was also a member of the Dist. 7 school board for two and one-half years.

Paddock Publications Will observe the Labor Day holiday Monday, Sept. 7 by not publishing newspapers that day.

Publication will resume on Wednesday for the Register editions.

Nitti Fined For Pollution

Frank Nitti, the owner of Frank's Auto Wrecking, located on east Irving Park Road, has cleared the air for the east section of Bensenville, but not without paying the penalty.

Earlier this week Nitti was found guilty in Wheaton Court of two violations of the Bensenville air pollution ordinance and was fined $100 on each count.

The charges stemmed from two fires on Nitti's property last July. Village officials contended the smoke from the fires was so dense, it hampered driving conditions on Irving Park Road.

Even though Nitti's property is not included in the limits of the village, Bensenville was allowed to prosecute under a state statute allowing village's jurisdiction over property up to one and one-half mile beyond their boundaries.

Nitti claimed the fires were started accidentally and he was not able to extinguish them. He told the court he has since equipped his property with fire equipment to handle any future fires.

'Stay-At-Home' Goings-On Set

While many Bensenville residents will be leaving town and taking to the highways in search of recreational activities this Labor Day weekend, those who stay at home will not have to remain idle.

This weekend is the last weekend of the season the Bensenville Park District pool will be open. The pool will be open today, tomorrow and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Labor Day has been declared "Community Day" at White Pines Golf Course. Residents of the park district may play 18 holes of golf Monday, by reservation only, for $1 per person.

Tomorrow and Sunday the park district is sponsoring the First Annual Bensenville Better Golf Tournament at White Pines.

The fee will be $18 per golfer and includes 36 holes of golf (18 holes each day) and a meal.

Members of Bensenville VFW Tioga Post 2145 will be sticking close to home this weekend by attending the Post's annual picnic Sunday.

The picnic will begin at 1 p.m. and will be held at the Salt Creek Forest Preserve, located on Wood Dale Road. Free food and beverages will be provided.

The traditional post "Army-Navy" softball game will be held at the picnic.

Mohawk Club Will Stay Open In '71

The Mohawk Country Club in Bensenville will stay open through the 1971 season, according to James Day, manager of the club.

The country club land is scheduled to be part of the William I. Fine Associates, Inc. and Real Estate Capital Corp. industrial development.

Originally this was to have been Mohawk's last season of operation.

"The developers have given us the go ahead to hold leagues, tournaments and banquets in 1971," Day said, adding, "We do not anticipate closing the club in 1971."

Day thought the developers would go ahead developing the area around the country club, but would hold off work on Mohawk property until after the 1971 season.

The 210 acre industrial development represents the last large, undivided tract in the immediate vicinity of O'Hare Airport, according to the developers.

The industrial development, to be called the O'Hare Metropolitan Industrial District, will cost an estimated $50 million.

Village Hall To Close For Weekend

The Bensenville Village Hall will be closed tomorrow, Sunday and Monday in observance of the Labor Day weekend.

The village hall will open again Tuesday morning at 8 a.m.

Brentwood Park To Be Renamed

Bensenville's Brentwood Park will be renamed Rudy Krempels Park, the park district board formally resolved Wednesday night.

The late Rudy Krempels was a member of the first Bensenville Park District board of commissioners.

GEORGETOWN SQUARE'S proposed 700-seat theater is scheduled to be completed by spring according to James DiFalco, co-owner of Movie

Rama. The lobby area has been extended and the theater architecture will conform to surrounding Georgetown. The Stardust Theater was originally scheduled to be completed by Dec. 15 but strikes in the construction field delayed the project.

A minority report, a recommendation to pay a bill over the wishes of a majority on the finance committee, got the county board's approval Tuesday. This was the first time in anyone's memory that the judgment of the chairman and a majority of the committee were ignored by board action. It came about only after much controversy and some parliamentary maneuvering that would have done credit to the U.S. Senate.

The issue was the payment of a claim for $14,187 submitted by Isham, Lincoln and Beale, Chicago bond attorneys, for services in the preparation of the $105 million bond issue election for a county-wide sewer program last March. The bond issue was defeated and the bond attorneys remain unpaid although they have been pressing for payment.

According to County Chairman Weeks, it had been turned down five times, either by failure to get a recommendation from the finance committee or outright rejection by the county board. The reason alleged in debate Tuesday, was that the firm had no contract which is required, there was no appropriation, and the claim did not make it clear precisely for what the charges are for. The impression conveyed was that there might be other services charged for not relative to the bond election.

Weeks has been close to the sewer bond referendum. As a lawyer, he filed an injunction against the use of general tax funds for the Glendale Heights sewer extension in connection with the bond referendum voted by the county board. He was upheld in court and the use of county funds was forbidden.

The county chairman, a former finance chairman, told us that the legal fund from which Isham, Lincoln and Beale are to be paid probably lacked the necessary money but this was the fault of "insufficient budgeting." The appropriation, legally necessary, he said could be found in a lump sum. As to a contract and the validity of the claim? This was brought out in several ways.

EDWARD J. VERTOVEC, assistant state's attorney and legal adviser for the public works committee which incurred the obligation, briefed the board on what services were performed, giving line and verse. He said that board members had met with Isham, Lincoln and Beale in that very room and discussed the bond issue and election, even answered questions. He said every board member must have realized that they would charge for their services and that they were recognized as experts in the field.

"I know the bill is legitimate, I know they did the work and I think they should be paid," Vertovec told the board.

James Kohler, York Twp., and Alvin Anderson, Downers Grove Twp., were the big guns in the debate for payment. Both members on the finance committee, they brought out the precedent setting minority report which won board approval.

Kohler argued that the county board knew what was going on, that they expected the bond attorneys to give them expert advice and services which were indispensable and that they expected to pay for these. He said he was no lawyer but it was clear to him that this bound the board. The intent was there.

Anderson argued, "The integrity of the county board is at stake. We're not deadbeats and by God I believe this bill should be paid."

PETE ERNST, York Twp., finance chairman replied in opposition, "I speak with authority only on the issue that there is no money appropriated to pay this and other bills."

"It's clear that the board never authorized a contract," William Swegler, Downers Grove Twp., insisted, "It is not clear what services were rendered."

The county chairman asked for a recess and requested the finance committee meet and bring in a recommendation for board action one way or another for a "transfer of funds" moved by Ray Haas, public works chairman. This would satisfy the objection registered by the finance chairman. The finance committee was confused and could arrive at no decision. County Chairman Weeks stuck his head in the door to prod them with "quit trying to play God," the board was waiting to vote on the committee's recommendation. By a vote of 4-2 the committee voted to "not pay."

Haas moved to suspend the rules and the minority report, by Kohler and Anderson, asked for a "vote to transfer funds." By a vote of 22-6, the board approved (21 votes necessary) to make the transfer. The claim is still without approval "to pay," but the money has been provided. Payment of the claim requires that it go through the finance committee, like any other claim, and be submitted for board approval. Since the board has provided the funds it is inconceivable that it would reject payment.

Outdoor Program Slated For Dist. 2

Some Bensenville Elementary Dist. 2 fifth and sixth grade youngsters will get a sample of the great outdoors later this fall.

It was announced at Tuesday's board meeting Dist. 2 has been invited by Northern Illinois University to participate in their resident outdoor education program at Loreda Taft Field Campus in Oregon, located just west of DeKalb. The district participated in the program for the first time last spring.

The Bensenville youngsters are scheduled to attend the camp during the week of December 7 through 11. This program is held in conjunction with the Dist. 2 student-teacher arrangement with NIU. The student teachers who will work in the district will be responsible for supervision of the Dist. 2 youngsters at the camp.

This year there will be one class from W. A. Johnson school and one class from Chippewa School attending, according to Kenneth Kaufman, acting superintendent of Dist. 2. Selection of the participating classes will be made after determining which fifth and sixth level teachers from the two schools are interested, Kaufman said.

The board Thursday night agreed with the concept of the outdoor education program, but final approval for sending the Bensenville youngsters to the camp will be made at a later meeting.

In his school operations report, Kaufman announced the school district would be providing free lunches to indigent children this year, but the state will reimburse the district for each lunch furnished.

"A new law has been passed requiring every school district to furnish free lunches to indigent children in every school building," Kaufman said in his report.

The acting superintendent said Dist. 2 would be providing about 20 children identified as indigent in the district with sack-type lunches. The lunches would cost about 15 cents each.

Republican Campaign Seminar Set

Republican precinct committeemen in the 14th Congressional Dist. have been invited to a campaign seminar at Pleasant Run Lodge on Saturday, Sept. 26. Their host is U.S. Rep. John N. Erlenborn, of Elmhurst.

Winfield; GOP state central committeeman William C. Ives, Hinsdale; DuPage County GOP chairman James

"Pete" Philip, Elmhurst; and Will County GOP chairman Thomas Feehan, Joliet.

U.S. Sen. Ralph Tyler Smith will be featured speaker at a luncheon which will conclude the seminar program.

During the morning committeemen will meet in private sessions with national and state Republican leaders. The program's theme is "Together We Can." Erlenborn said emphasis will be placed on national and state issues in the 1970 election.

Seminar participants will include Elly Peterson, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee; U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy; U.S. Rep. Barber Conable Jr. (R-NY); U.S. Rep. Edward J. Derwinski (R-Ill.); State Sen. William Harris who is the GOP assistant majority leader in the Illinois Senate; Illinois Republican state central committee director Robert Bradford; GOP nominee for Illinois treasurer Edmund Kucharski; and Sen. Smith.

Erlenborn sponsored a similar seminar two years ago. Charles M. Burlingham Jr., of Naperville, is Chairman of the Erlenborn Campaign Committee.

All Republican candidates in the District have also been invited to attend. Local GOP leaders participating in the program include Republican national Committeewoman Mrs. Brooks McCormick,

Tony's Pet Pony Lost

'My Little Guy Is Hurt'

by KEN HARDWICKE
Tony Bordenoro lost his best friend Aug. 23.
What matters to Tony, a 6-year-old boy living at 580 N. Central Ave., in Wood Dale, is that his newly-acquired pony disappeared without a trace.
"My little guy is pretty hurt and I'll give a reward when I receive any information leading to the recovery of the pony," said the boy's father.

But it's been a dozen days since Tony rode his pet around the pasture and nobody has even phoned.
Tony isn't the only child heartbroken by the pony's mysterious disappearance. The Bordenoros have five other children who make "King" a part of their family with daily feedings, brushings and short rides around the yard.

James Bordenoro was the last to see the family pet. He tied him to a tree in the pasture before entering the house around 9 p.m. Aug. 23.
"When the kids woke up around 8 o'clock, he was gone," recalls Bordenoro of the incident.
The Bordenoro family only had "King" for two days. He was a gift from a friend. It's not easy to build an attachment to anyone in two days but the Bordenoro family did. The tears in Tony's eyes will verify that.

"HE WAS SO good with the kids," Bordenoro said. "That's why I want him back. He's like a little dog."
To date, there has been no information on the whereabouts of "King" — a liver-chestnut, white-tailed pony who stands about 40 inches high.
Bordenoro believes someone has the pony locked up because nobody has reported seeing him. He is hoping the promise of a reward will bring the pony back home.
Anyone who has information on the location of the Bordenoro's pet pony should phone 766-5824.

Dist. 7 Growth Only 2 Per Cent

Enrollment figures recently compiled by Warren B. Carson, Dist. 7 school superintendent, indicate there will be only a one or two per cent growth from last year's total enrollment.

Approximately 1,569 students have enrolled in Wood Dale elementary schools but Carson expects about 60 or 70 more later this week.

"Our enrollment is not up from last year but a lot of people are still on vacation this week," said Carson.

The Wood Dale Junior High School has the highest enrollment with 519 students, followed by Westview with 419, Oak Brook with 273 and Highland with 350.

No figures could be obtained for last year's total school enrollment, Carson said Thursday.

New Hours Set

by PHYLLIS BENDTSEN
Wood Dale Library
There are many new things at the Wood Dale District Library, from new style library cards and check-out system, to big new rooms with many new books.
One new change includes the hours the library will be open to its patrons. Starting Tuesday, the library will be open longer hours giving readers and students much more time to study and look. The new hours are:
Monday, Tuesday, Thursday from 1 to 8:30; Wednesday from 10 to 8:30 and Saturday from 9 to 2 p.m.
Wanting to show off many of the library's new facilities, the staff has planned an open house for all those in the district. The open house will be held on Sept. 27, from 2 to 5 p.m. Punch and cookies will be served, with everyone cordially invited to take a good look around.

The Wood Dale Junior Woman's Club will provide free transportation to any senior citizens who want to attend. Please call the library at 766-6762 for further information.

The entire building now "belongs" to the library since the police vacated it for their new quarters in the new village hall. The space has been developed into more reading room space, a newly enlarged children's room, and several roomy offices for the staff.

To Open Bids On Addition Sept. 28

Bids for construction of the proposed addition to Bloomingdale's DuFardin School will be opened by the School Dist. 13 Board of Education, at 8 p.m. Sept. 28 at the school, 186 S. Euclid Ave.

Proposals will be based on general work, heating, ventilation, air conditioning, plumbing, drainage, electrical systems, carpeting and movable wardrobes.

The owner reserves the right to reject any and all proposals.

Smith Backs Village's Case

Bensenville officials are getting some help on the national level in their bid to curb noise pollution from jets flying over the village.

Two Companies Are Burglarized

Approximately $500 in equipment was taken in two separate construction site burglaries Tuesday night, Itasca police reported.

An estimated $300 in tools and other equipment was stolen from a building under construction at 701 District Dr. The items belonged to Grinnell Pipe Plumbing Co. of Chicago.

Officer Ed Innis said he discovered the theft while on regular patrol. He said upon inspecting the building, he found locks on two gang boxes had been broken off. The burglars apparently gained entry through the front dock door by breaking the locks with a bolt cutter, police said.

The second burglary occurred at Prospect Road and the Milwaukee Road tracks in which an air conditioner and a cook stove, valued at about $200, was taken from a trailer owned by the R. W. Duntzman & Co. of Bensenville.

Police said the burglars apparently pried open the rear window to gain entry.

Several other similar construction site thefts have occurred in the area within the last two months.

Itasca police are investigating all incidents.

In a letter to Village Pres. John Varble recently, Sen. Ralph Smith said he would be contacting the administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) "setting forth the facts presented by you (Bensenville officials) and others on the problems within the administration's jurisdiction."

Smith said, however, the construction of the northeast-southwest runway at O'Hare was out of the FAA's jurisdiction since "no federal funds were involved."

"The FAA was not in a position to legally prevent this development since the airport is owned and operated by the City of Chicago," the letter said.

Bensenville is presently involved in a suit seeking to halt runway construction at the airport until acceptable noise suppressing devices are installed on jets. Park Ridge, Elmhurst, Schiller Park,

Knights' Dinner Is October 17

The Addison Knights of Columbus, Damen Hildebrand Council, will hold their second annual dinner dance for the benefit of Driscoll High School on Oct. 17.

The dance is being sponsored to help keep the high school open. Last year the dance brought in $1,400 which was given directly to the school.

The dance will feature the Red Sario Orchestra and will be held in the gymnasium at Driscoll High School. Tickets are $5 per person and anyone is welcome to come.

For further information or tickets, contact Joseph Graziano, 1350 Holtz Ave., Addison, or phone 543-9533.

MAKE PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS PART OF YOUR DAILY LIFE

Norridge and several private citizens are also involved in the suit.

Smith also said in his letter he has "advocated the desirability of a third airport for the Chicago area" and has suggested "numerous times" that more flights should be diverted from O'Hare to Midway airport.

"I have been quite critical of noise and air pollution and have brought this to the personal attention of the administrator of the FAA," Smith said.

Dick's Sinclair Hit By Burglars

Burglars made off with an estimated $20 in small change Tuesday night from Dick's Sinclair Service Station, at Rte. 83 and Foster Avenue, according to Bensenville police.

While on routine patrol, Patrolman J. Ingebrigtsen reportedly discovered a window had been broken at the service station. Further investigation revealed someone had broken into the cigarette machine.

Police reported the burglars took only the money from the cigarette machine and possibly several packages of cigarettes.

With the children going back to school and vacations over, the days of packing lunches, snacks and dinner time are back. It's time for trains to be late, after school activities, sports and PTA. In the middle of all this is the family dinner. Trying to plan a meal for the whole family in between school, game time and train time can be hectic.

Betty Crocker has written a new cookbook for the hurried housewife called "Family dinners in a hurry." From an hour to only 15 minutes a variety of healthy, nutritious and delicious meals can be made. The ingredients are common ones and extra shopping is almost eliminated. They are so easy and quick to make, it is almost unbelievable.

But suppose the opposite situation is true. One has all afternoon to cook and nothing is planned for after school. There is no need to hurry through dinner or hurry to prepare it. But then suppose the 5:55 train is a half-hour late, or the guests have car trouble. Dinner ruined? Disasters can be prevented by using one of Patricia Brooks recipes in "Meals that can wait." There are 325 dishes for dinner, lunch and breakfast that can be prepared in advance and then stored until it's time to eat, with only a reheating or last-minute finishing.

Increased troubles and dangers on our public streets make "New Ways of Self Defense" an interesting and necessary book for anyone out after dark. Illustrations clearly show the methods, and the text describes the different techniques needed when confronted on the street.

Following his death, Drew Pearson's book, "The President," has been published. It is a continuation of his best selling book, "The Senator," with the character Benjamin Hannaford elected President in the late 1970's. It is a time of confusion, riots, soaring taxes, and the country is on the brink of disaster. Written in Pearson's style and with his political knowledge, "The President" is a last work all his readers will want to read.

Man Saves Skunk's Life, Dents Car

Skunks have been known to raise a stink, but in the case of Martin Huat, Jr., of Chicago, they raised a dent.

Huat was driving along Wrightwood Avenue in Addison at about 2 a.m. Wednesday when he was forced to stop to avoid hitting a skunk. Naturally, to avoid the usual consequences of a run-in with a skunk, Huat began backing up — and he backed right into a light pole.

Mrs. Stevenson To Attend Lunches

Mrs. Adlai Stevenson III, the wife of the Democratic senatorial candidate, will be in Bensenville Thursday and Friday next week as the guest of honor at two lunches held by Bensenville residents.

Thursday Mrs. Stevenson will attend a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Julius Wessel, of 1000 Irving Park Rd. Friday, Mrs. Donald Carroll, of 115 Forest View, will host Mrs. Stevenson at another luncheon.

Mrs. Stevenson's trips to Bensenville are part of her three-day tour of the county sponsored by the DuPage County Democratic Women's Organization.

Man Arrested For Auto Theft

Following a month long investigation, Terry Goad, 31, of Bartlett, was arrested Tuesday night on charges of auto theft, according to Bloomingdale police.

He was arrested on Aug. 8 by Policeman George Best on charges of reckless driving, at which time police said they suspected the car he was driving was stolen.

During the first arrest, Best said he noticed the vehicle identification plate was not being displayed in the proper place in Goad's car. Police said they also found five vehicle identification plates in his possession.

Representatives of the National Auto Theft Bureau were called in on the case Monday. Upon investigation, it was found that the car reportedly driven by Goad had apparently been stolen about one year ago, according to police reports.

Goad is presently in the DuPage County jail, where bond was set at $5,000 police said.

Final Registration For Elmhurst Today

Final registration for Elmhurst College's fall semester of evening classes will be held today from 8-9 p.m. in the Hammerschmidt Memorial Chapel.

Classes are scheduled to begin Sept. 9. Comparative Religion, a study of the history and influences of the world's major religions, will be one of over 130 classes and seminars offered during the 14-week semester.

The class, which is being offered for the first time at Elmhurst College, will examine the basic religious and ethical ideas, beliefs and practices of the various denominations in history.

Additional information on both the class, Comparative Religion, and the other courses and seminars being offered at Elmhurst College, may be obtained by calling the College's evening session office at 779-4100.

Nature Series To Continue

The DuPage County Forest Preserves will continue its series of public nature study and recreation outings by holding a hike, Sept. 20 at 3 p.m. at the Church Hill Forest Preserve, on St. Charles Road, about one mile west of Rte. 53 and one mile east of Main Street in Glen Ellyn.

This trek to the out-of-doors will last about two and one-half hours and will be followed by a supper-fire program.

Participants are asked to wear field clothes and bring a supper. Some participants may want to carry along a magnifying lens, binoculars, camera or note pad.

Follow Tips For A Safe Labor Day

By BRAD BREKKE
Each Labor Day a terrible price is paid on our highways to get from here to there.

Paid in full. Paid in blood.
The National Safety Council (NSC) estimates 670 motorists will be killed this weekend and 27,000 more will be injured. The statistics aren't encouraging and mean little to the average motorist, unless of course, he is one of them.

A large percentage of persons in the Northwest suburbs will be leaving town this weekend to visit relatives and friends.

And local officials have some safety tips:

Capt. Jack Aldrich of the Arlington

Heights police force said, "Avoid Golf, Algonquin, Arlington Heights and Palatine roads because of construction." He said the frequency of accidents is lower over holiday weekends, but the accidents which do occur are more severe.

IN MOUNT PROSPECT, the Jaycees Oktoberfest will be the only community activity and Police Chief Newell Esmond said he doesn't anticipate any special traffic problems due to it.

Robert Centner, Palatine Police Chief, said he expects local traffic to be less than on normal weekdays and urged residents "to leave early and take your time coming home."

In Rolling Meadows, Police Chief Lewis Case said an extra squad car will be patrolling the streets over the weekend and that the heaviest traffic will be Saturday morning and Monday night.

In Elk Grove, Fire Chief Allen Hulett warned against using gasoline to start outdoor grills or pouring it on hot lawnmowers for the final cutting of the year. It often starts fires, he said.

M. O. Horcher, Wheeling Police Chief, said, "People should be aware that driving conditions today are as adverse as they've ever been. Drive defensively. Your life depends on it. All we can do is cope with the problem."

IN HOFFMAN Estates and Schaumburg, local police and fireman say they foresee no special problems during the weekend. The same holds true for Itasca, Bensenville and Addison. Itasca police Chief Stanley Rossol is urging everyone to drive with their headlights on during the daytime until the weekend is over.

The NSC has four suggestions for drivers: First, use your safety belts. Second, if you've been drinking, allow one hour for each drink you put away before getting behind the wheel.

Third, watch your speed. Fourth, drive defensively.

So far this year, traffic deaths are below the 1969 toll: Last year 56,400 died in traffic crashes.

Aside from traffic accidents, the American Red Cross has warned boaters and swimmers to be extremely cautious this weekend.

So far this year, there have been nine persons who drowned from the Northwest suburbs: four adults and five children.

Every year some drownings occur when persons who don't even intend to be in the water fall off docks or are thrown from overturned boats. According to the statistics, boys and men are more likely to drown than girls.

THE RED CROSS urges persons who overturn in boats to stay with the craft. They say it will still float and support passengers until help can reach them.

Four rules they listed to help parents and their children avoid drowning are: First, never swim alone, but only in guarded areas and with a buddy.

Second, be sure each boat passenger has a life jacket and don't overload the boat.

Third, supervise children when they are near water, constantly. This includes ponds and drainage ditches as well as lakes and rivers.

And fourth, enter the water to save a swimmer in trouble only if you are a trained lifesaver. If you can, extend your reach to the victim by offering him an oar, tree limb, towel or lifesaving ring.

JCs Ice Cream Social Tomorrow

Roselle Jaycees are hoping everyone will be scooping and whooping it up at a specially sponsored ice cream social tomorrow at the Abbington House for the aged.

Jaycees are providing transportation for senior citizens in the community and surrounding areas for the festivities which begin at 1:30 p.m.

Ice cream is for people of all ages and the Jaycees are inviting everyone in the community to have a dish or cone and meet some of the residents of Abbington House.

Roselle girl scouts will help serve ice cream as well as cookies and punch. Jaycees have planned games and entertainment for the social.

Rev. Robert Kretschmar, assistant pastor at Roselle Trinity Lutheran Church, will sing and play the guitar.

Not A 'Nice Place To Visit'

by JUDY BRANDES

The waiting room for the intensive care unit at Northwest Community Hospital is in the hallway between the coronary care unit and the surgery rooms.

The hallway is where family and friends of people seriously hurt in automobile accidents wait for progress reports and a chance every hour to see their injured loved ones.

Right now, before the Labor Day weekend even begins, families of five area residents are sitting in the intensive care unit waiting room. Some of them have been there two weeks. They will all be there over the Labor Day weekend.

The patients are in serious or critical condition. One Wheeling man is still unconscious two weeks after his car hit a median strip on the Northwest Tollway in mid-afternoon.

The three men in the intensive unit were driving their cars, the two women were passengers. In four of the five cases the driver lost control of his car and hit a guard rail.

THE FIFTH PATIENT, a Rolling Meadows man, was struck head-on by an automobile which crossed the median on Route 53 near the Tollway.

Weather was not a factor in any of the accidents. All but one accident occurred in daylight hours. According to police reports, none of the drivers were under the influence of alcohol.

High speed and failure to have an automobile under control at all times were the factors which caused the accidents, police reports show.

A Palatine man lost control of his car on the Tollway near Oakton Road in Mount Prospect and hit a rail. He received a brain concussion. His passenger, an Arlington Heights woman, is also in the intensive care unit with a broken right leg and ankle, broken left hip and elbow, and facial injuries.

A ROLLING MEADOWS couple traveling south on Route 53 on a Saturday morning also hit a guard rail. The wife has a fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

The intensive care unit has eight beds in it. Today five are occupied by patients who were in automobile accidents which occurred under what police call "normal and safe road conditions."

"Our intensive care unit is not only for auto accident victims," a hospital spokesman said.

"We get other types of patients in intensive care, but the accident ones are the most tragic. They are also the ones who stay the longest."

The five intensive care unit patients will be recuperating for their injuries at least six months, hospital officials estimate. "They may be moved out of intensive care fairly soon, but they won't be up and about for quite a while," the observer said.

He gave one final fact about the five: the oldest is a 32-year-old man, the youngest, two 19-year-old wives.

Tax Levy Given OK

The tax levy for the 1970-71 fiscal year amounting to a total of $244,581 was approved as amended Tuesday night by the Itasca Village Board.

With the hope of lowering residents' tax bills, at least somewhat, trustees voted to amend the ordinance reducing the original $17,000 levied for the public benefit fund to $10,000, and the $12,000 for the road and bridges fund to $5,000.

According to Wilbert Nottke, village president, "We shouldn't get any more money than is necessary."

He said the sum for the public benefit fund was one of the amounts in excess of what it should be, and therefore ought to be reduced.

Similar comments were made by Nottke concerning the reduction of the original levy for roads and bridges. "If we don't have the fund earmarked for special purposes, it should be reduced."

There was apparently a surplus of funds in these two categories from previous years.

He added that tax bills would not be reduced by very much, but that "at least the board is trying."

When A Fellow Needs A Friend

The Way We See It

Aid Crime Victims

Too often, the victims of violent crime are overlooked as society focuses its attention on punishing the offender.

An individual may be beaten and robbed, may suffer disastrous personal and financial consequences, and the law treats the offense solely as crime against the state.

However, attitudes change, and a growing number of states are providing compensation to hard-pressed crime victims. Among them are New York, California, Hawaii, Maryland and Massachusetts. So far, they have paid out

$1.8 million to approximately 1,000 claimants.

That is a small sum but in individual cases the assistance can be vital.

How the compensation is paid varies from state to state. In New York, a three-member board rules on claims investigated by staff members and can pay up to $15,000 for loss of income. In Maryland, the highest allowable payout, for permanent disability is $45,000. In general, compensation is allowed only for unreimbursed medical expenses and loss of income. However, Hawaii's code permits claims for mental anguish, and a rape victim was compensated $108 for medical fees and more than $2,000 for pain, suffering and medical shock.

The concept of compensating crime victims dates back to ancient times but fell into disuse in modern times. The present system permits a crime victim to file a civil suit against his attacker, but the attacker usually has no resources.

Compensation acts recognize this injustice, as well as the growing incidence of crimes against individuals.

Veto-Proofing A Federal Bill

When the House voted to override the veto of the $4.4 billion education bill, there were pious statements about the enormous needs of the schools. Among observers, however, there was wide agreement that the biggest factor in the vote was the bill's allocation of an extra $126 million to "federally impacted" areas.

These are areas where the schools have heavy enrollments of children of Federal workers. While some such areas may indeed need special help, some of them are among the nation's wealthiest districts.

President Nixon had sought to trim this sort of assistance to a more reasonable level. But it happens that well over half the House members come from districts that would be favored by the bill.

So the lesson for proponents of legislative measures is clear: If you really want to veto-proof a bill don't worry too much about how well it is drawn. Just be sure it passes out enough bucks in enough places.

Itasca Beat

Communication Would've Helped

by LOIS KOCH

The lack of communication between different parties has caused many conflicts and problems in recent years throughout the state and nation.

One such situation exemplifying the hard feelings and misconceptions that can arise from a failure to communicate occurred about two weeks ago on a local scale.

SEVERAL RESIDENTS in the area along Bloomingdale Road in Itasca expressed dissatisfaction with the inconsiderate manner in which construction workers for the Illinois Hydraulic Co. were treating their property.

Illinois Hydraulic was contracted by the Illinois Bell Telephone Co. to lay concrete tiles, allowing the utility company to later install underground cables.

During the operation, workers apparently damaged some private property and several trees.

In spite of the fact that promises were made to completely restore that property damaged, the manner in which the entire situation was handled revealed there was a definite lack of communication between the companies, the village and the individual residents.

When asking about who was responsible, residents said they were referred from one party to another, with each one "passing the buck" to the other.

RESIDENTS ALSO complained about never having been notified that construction work was going to be in progress or for how long. Several said they returned from vacations to find the area around their homes completely torn up with no warning.

When the Register contacted the Illinois Hydraulic Co. to inquire about the controversy over the construction work, a representative there said the call was the first time he had heard of the problem.

A public relations spokesman for the phone company, who called the Register concerning the problem, also commented that he did not know so much concern had been stirred up until he had read the recent newspaper article on the issue.

Obviously, there was a communications problem involved. The blame cannot be placed on the shoulders of the village of Itasca or its officials. They actually functioned as a link between the companies and the resident.

BOTH ILLINOIS HYDRAULIC and Illinois Bell, however, could have provided for better rapport between themselves and the public, by letting residents know what would be taking place, and by keeping aware of the situation.

A spokesman for the phone company commented to the effect that to his regret the unfortunate situation evolved largely from a misunderstanding.

This is true. The finger really cannot be pointed at any one specific party as the sole offender.

The entire issue was simply one problem in a small town, which is constantly being reflected on a larger scale. It proved that more thought and concern should be devoted to effective communications.

If this was done, many serious and unnecessary conflicts could be avoided, making our town, and for that matter the entire world, a better place in which to live.

vention call, more so than any other organization, and the referendum was overwhelmingly approved.

Several other statewide organizations also are likely to take action on the new Constitution, and the odds are that they too will endorse it.

The Illinois Education Association, whose membership includes thousands of Illinois educators and administrators, probably will endorse the Constitution since it removes the office of state superintendent of public instruction from politics and replaces that office with an appointed state superintendent who would be selected by an elected state board of education.

And the Illinois Jaycees, whose membership includes more than 30,000 men between the ages of 21 and 35, also is likely to take favorable action on the document since it very closely parallels the model Constitution the Jaycees them-

Charles Hufnagel

IN THE 1970's can be seen coming on the horizon the revolt of the consumer in practically every facet of the economy. Free enterprise is challenged not by Communists but by the people for whom it professes to provide the best of services, second to none in the world. The politicians never looked for this but they are going to have to accept it. For the slogan-makers consumers are not just a symbol for this or that group of votes. Consumers represent the votes of everyone who earns and spends. So when the candidate gets on his soap box he had better be sure his speechwriter knows the temper of the voter who is critical of slick rhetoric.

The consumer wants to know how many ounces he is getting in the pound and what ingredients are contained in the merchandise. This is the climate of the 1970's. The opposing candidates will be weighed accordingly.

Beyond this and the cliché issues that candidates like to promote in their campaigns is transition politics itself. A national labor leader has warned that the Democrats are headed for lean days because their principal voting bases are disappearing. The great New Deal coalition of the 1930's comprising mainly union labor and the big city machines is long in decline. Both labor and the big city are said to have passed their peak and must become not primary but secondary factors in future state and national elections.

New voter groups — the young, the working professions, the racial and low-income minorities together with a growing army of pensioners — represent a formidable voting strength looking for constructive and trustworthy leadership. These are the people Sen. Robert Kennedy sought to organize when an assassin's bullet cut him down in 1968. Are they the wave of the future in the politics of the 1970's?

BUT THE MOST promising innovation to come in American politics in this decade are the many talented younger names now appearing in the news on the state and national scene. They are a different breed, highly educated with a social intelligence. They are knocking at the door of leadership, to take over from tired hands too weary and confused to face the problems of a new kind of society.

It is safe to say that the politics of this decade and the political destinies of our state and nation will be shaped almost entirely by these politically aware and younger men in both Republican and Democratic parties. Whatever their shortcomings they accept the realities of this age and have a sense of their world as a community.

The Fence Post

Change, But For The Better

The research done by one of your readers in regard to a letter I had written about "no-left-turn" signs was extensive.

However, although he clocked various routes down to a tenth of a second, he was not accurate enough to notice that there is no address 1007 W. Miner. That was a previous typographical error. The address is actually 1005. Why was the gentleman not accurate enough to notice this?

Secondly, he suggests we proceed straight ahead on Wing to Dunton. Did he not notice the sign at Vail and Wing "Right turn only"? To continue on through to Dunton would have been illegal.

FINALLY HIS suggestion of cutting through the Jewel Parking Lot to avoid the signs does not seem a legitimate one. Public streets are to be used as thoroughfares, not private property. To do so, infringes on property rights and purposes of another individual.

Therefore, the routes I previously outlined seem the only alternative to reach the train, bank or access to the Northwest Highway which many use to drive to and from work. The time involved would depend on the hour of day and weather conditions.

I certainly am not opposed to change if it be for the better or even if only a few were inconvenienced but benefited the majority. However, when many hundreds have attested their opposition by their signatures to petitions, it seems the plan should be reevaluated and a better solution formulated.

Looking At Con-Con

League Endorsement First Of Many

by ED MURNANE

The endorsement of Illinois' proposed Constitution this week by the League of Women Voters probably is only the first of many statewide endorsements the new document will receive.

The League's endorsement, which came even before the Constitutional Convention adjourned, was not surprising. LWV members pride themselves on their efforts in behalf of a new Constitution for Illinois during the last 25 years and the document written during the last nine months in Springfield is so close to the League's proposed Constitution that the League itself may have written it.

In fact, at last Tuesday's LWV program at which the endorsement was made, one League member said the Constitution would have been written long ago if the delegates had let the LWV write it.

THE LEAGUE'S endorsement means

Ed Murnane

10,000 LWV members in Illinois will campaign for the Constitution when it is submitted to the voters Dec. 15. That's a lot of support, particularly when the LWV's efforts on behalf of the Constitutional Convention call in 1968 are recalled.

It was the League that tirelessly worked to win voter approval of the con-

Witwer Urges Adoption...

by DOROTHY CLUNE

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Illinois constitutional convention President Samuel W. Witwer said today failure of the voters to approve the state's new charter would encourage "radical and revolutionary elements in our society."

Rejection of the constitution, Witwer said during signing ceremonies for the new document, would encourage such elements "because they know the failure of governmental institutions to respond to the wishes of the people breeds discontent and despair, the very catalysts of radical and revolutionary action."

The new constitution is a "balanced" document that is "neither reactionary nor radical," Witwer said, a "practical" charter that is "neither aggressive nor visionary."

More than 400 persons, including Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, U.S. Sen. Ralph T. Smith, state Treasurer Adlai E. Stevenson III and other elected officials attended the ceremony culminating nine months of delegate labor which cost Illinois taxpayers more than $12 million.

THE MOST conspicuous regrets came from Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, whose press secretary said, "We waited and waited and then made another commitment just before they let us know" about the time of the ceremony.

Chicago Democrats are miffed over their failure to have Illinois' unique cumulative voting system in three-member House districts and its elective process for judicial selection included in the main body of the constitutional package.

Instead, the voters will be presented with separately submitted ballot questions in which they will choose either cumulative voting and judicial selection or the positions advocated by many downstate Republicans and by Witwer — single-member districts and judges selected by the governor from nominees chosen by a judicial nominating commission.

But the signing ceremonies were carefully planned to avoid any evidence of the partisan strife which wracked the convention during its closing days. Representatives of Democratic, Republican and independent factions from Chicago and downstate all were to play parts in the introduction of speakers, resolutions and motions.

After hearing Mahalia Jackson sing the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," the delegates signed the new constitution on Abraham Lincoln's original desk with a pen filled with special permanent ink in the ceremony in the Representatives Hall of the Old State Capitol.

...And Alexander Says No

by MICHAEL FITZPATRICK

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Constitutional convention Vice President John Alexander, upset by what he branded as a "nonreformist" element, has decided to campaign against a new state charter proposed by his fellow delegates.

Alexander detailed at a news conference his reasons for opposing the convention's alternative to the outdated 1870 constitution.

A former legislative aide, Alexander, 27, had sought in the proposed new charter a reorganization of the Illinois House, a strong endorsement for the 18-year-old vote, a broad unrestricted revenue article and a 1971 referendum election on the convention's final recommendations. He got none of these.

"The package," Alexander said, "is void of any significant institutional reform... The proposals are a victory for the proponents of the status quo."

Alexander wanted the convention's main body of recommendations to contain a proposal requiring members of the House to be elected from single member districts. Instead, the convention voted to give the electorate a chance to decide on a separate ballot whether the state should be apportioned into single-member districts or three-member districts, the present system.

WHILE THE convention designated an 18-year-old vote proposal for separate ballot status, Alexander feels the delegates should have placed the recommendation in the main package. "I am disappointed we didn't give a positive recommendation to the 18-year-old vote."

He labeled the proposed new revenue article as "too restrictive" and charged it would "impose a repressive, flat-rate income tax" on Illinois' wage-earners.

"I didn't come here anti Con-Con," said Alexander, who campaigned hard for constitutional reform in his district. The Virden Republican said that he was not among "the insiders" in the convention administration.

"I didn't have a good working relationship with the president Samuel W. Witwer. Alexander said Witwer, a Kenilworth Republican, seldom consulted him on important constitutional convention matters.

"I don't think he feels anyone under 40 years old has a good idea," Alexander said.

PREPARING TO BLAST a drive into the venetian blind-like screen while playing All Seasons Golf is this linker. This unique golf course is such a challenge that the golfer has to use all the clubs in his bag. The surface he is teeing off from rotates depending on how his lie is on each particular hole. It varies from a smooth teeoff surface to a fairway surface, heavy rough and an artificial matted grass surface that resembles hitting out of sand.

Indoor Golf

Here's A Way To Play All Year

by PAUL LOGAN

Many people love the game of golf, but few enjoy putting up with the multitude of annoyances that plague them throughout the season.

In the spring there are the cold winds and the soggy fairways, in the summer the scorching temperatures and the baking humidity, and in the fall there are the bleak days with the terror of leaves swallowing balls.

And throughout the season the mosquitoes seem to thrive on linksters' blood while the woods, weeds and water keep healthy on a regular diet of golf balls.

Golfers put up with these problems year after year in the Midwest for their season is limited between the snows of November and February. But not anymore.

Now there is a place — All Seasons Golf — that can give the golfer just about everything he wants without all the above annoyances.

Located at the Brunswick Recreation Center, 19 W. 445 Roosevelt Rd. in Lombard, this indoor golf course gives Chicagoans a chance to play any time during the year without losing a ball, getting a sunstroke or paying for a caddy or cart.

All Seasons, an exclusive development of Brunswick research and engineering, is the first recreational device of its kind this side of New York State.

This is the fourth season that indoor golf has been in operation in Lombard but this fall will be the first time the new Brunswick equipment will be in operation.

All Seasons Golf is composed of two fairways, a 50-foot undulating green that can change its contours with the flick of a dial and a deep bunker for those who stray off the fairway.

The course, nine holes with a par 36, provides authentic golf action from tee to cup through the ingenious use of color photography, electronic computing and mechanical simulation.

Here is how the all season golfer plays this indoor game:

Using his own driver, or one from a set of rental clubs available for a $1 rental fee, he hits his tee shot into a full-color fairway scene of one of nine picturesque fairways.

The ball is shot into a screen made like narrow venetian blind-like slits. As the real ball disappears behind the screen, an electronic ball shows the flight of the ball down the fairway.

No matter how the golfer hits the ball — hook, slice, low shot or sky ball — the electronic wizardry of this machine recreates the shot. It bounces down the fairway or rough and when it stops a yardage indicator, located next to a diagram layout of the hole, shows the length of his drive.

The golfer then activates a change in the fairway scene to the spot where his drive stopped. The scene before is exactly the way it would look if he were actually on the hole of the course he is playing. Depending on his lie and the yardage remaining, he selects a club for his second shot.

If his lie is the fairway, the place where he hits his second shot will be a smooth artificial grass area. But if his shot went into the rough, he will have to hit out of deep artificial grass. And a fairway trap will be reproduced by having to hit from off a mat that will simulate pounding a shot out of the sand.

When the golfer reaches the green area, he moves from the fairway to the All Seasons green at the spot indicated by his approach shot. Then he may face the challenge of shooting a chip shot from the fringe of the green blasting from the deep sand bunker or putting from as far as 50 feet from the hole.

The holes used on the All Seasons course have been selected from golf courses located both in the Chicagoland area and from California.

Four holes are taken from the St. Charles Country Club, one from Medinah CC, two from Brierwood CC and two from Lake Norman CC in California. The yardage for the nine-hole layout is 3,157 and can be quite challenging as this reporter found out.

The course has a complete pro shop featuring MacGregor golf equipment and supplies. Heading up the whole operation is Nke BelCastre, veteran golf instructor and PGA member for over 35 years.

The cost of playing All Seasons is based on two-hour time charges — the average time it takes a foursome to shoot nine holes. The price is $10 to use one of the two courses with one person or up to four playing for the same amount of money.

The $10 charge is for between 9 p.m. until 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and $11 after 6 p.m. on weekdays. Naturally the cost is a little higher on weekends and holidays — $12.

Reservations have been going quickly for some of the prime times during the winter and BelCastre has regular golf leagues that have been playing year round. Reservations can be made by calling 627-6763.

All Seasons Golf is open from 9 a.m. until midnight every day until Oct. 3. After that date, All Seasons will open at 7 a.m. on weekdays and 6 a.m. on weekends and holidays.

BOOSTER BOOT. Don Schwanz, president of the Bison Booster Club, and head football coach Bob Appleby (the holder) prepare to swing into action in preparation for Bison Kick-off Day next Saturday. The day's activity will include four football games and the first annual Bison Invitational Cross Country Tournament. The harrier meet will be held at 11 a.m. at the White Pines Golf Course, the football games at Menneguin Field.

A little league game at 9:30 will be followed by a freshmen intersquad scrimmage at 11, a sophomore intersquad game at noon, and a varsity intersquad game at 2. Concession stands will be open, and the price of admission will be $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students. Receipts will be used for the purchase of a new Super-8 football camera for the Fenton Athletic department.

Kurth Comments

by PHIL KURTH

Vacations are great, but after a while the mind starts to slumber, along with the body and it's kind of nice to get back to the old desk and the old typewriter — especially when there's a rather interesting letter to greet you.

It came from a coach at an area high school, and it began:

"I am replying to your column of last Friday (Aug. 14) regarding respect for a person as a person rather than for his authority. I think your basic premise was wrong. In the service, when an enlisted person salutes an officer, he is saluting the rank, not the person. He can speak to the officer as a person, but the basic salute is recognition of the position of the officer.

"Several times this past baseball season you have been guilty of taking pot shots at umpires — and you did it again in the column. We don't need that. We need to teach respect. The umpire was not trying to make a wrong call. Maybe he shouldn't have been out there in the first place, but if that is true your comments should be directed to the people who he represents or his superiors. Perhaps the umpire needs more schooling in his field."

Of such dry and rotted timbers of logic are the flames fed that are licking at the world.

Respect is not an academic subject that can be taught and parroted in a classroom. And it isn't something that accrues to a person because he is black or because he is white, because he is young or because he is old, or because he wears a uniform.

It is a feeling — like love or hate, compassion or cruelty.

We love those who touch the chord of affection within us — it has little to do with a conscious decision or a reasoned judgment. We can love a bum as much as we love a prince. Love is as broad as our hearts — and so is respect.

But it can't be phony. It can't be demanded or commanded. You feel it or you don't.

To require a kid to respect age or authority is lightly absurd, particularly if we don't encourage age and authority to respect youth. One-way relationships are doomed to disaster.

If a disaster man should respect an adult, that adult should respect the young man. If women are to respect men, men should respect women.

More and more today, kids are beginning to understand the shams and the hypocrites and the superficialities of society and instead of accepting it like most of us did, they're fighting it.

Sure, some of them are going about it the wrong way but we're only pushing them farther in that direction when we insist on adherence to a meaningless ethic.

Why preach respect for cops or umpires or the aged? Why not try to instill a respect for everyone? A kid who respects a cop or an umpire as a person need never be burdened with the artificial importance of his uniform.

In answer to the respect of rank in the military, the situation is a singular one unparalleled in civilian life.

Unthinking adherence to orders if demanded because of the strict obedience that might be required in combat. You salute an officer whether or not he's a clown and you obey an order whether or not it makes sense.

I did it for two years like everyone else, but I hardly respected the officers who were self-inflated jerks — and there were a lot of them.

And it should be pointed out that the officers who treated me as a person, who related to me as a human being and not as an enlisted man, got their job done a whole lot better.

I obeyed the officers I disliked, but I did nothing more than was absolutely required. I and most others worked a lot harder and did the best job we possibly could for the officer we liked and respected.

And it's the same in a classroom or on a football field.

Most kids will display an artificial respect toward teachers or coaches, but attitude and results tell you quickly enough when it's the real thing.

Respect is one of the most important things we have going for us, and it's a shame that we treat it so coldly and dishonestly.

You can make a kid say "Yes, sir," but you can't make him feel it. And that's the tragedy. We're far more interested in the words.

You can't order kids to respect an umpire any more than you can order whites to love blacks. It just doesn't work that way.

Sure, you can impress upon a kid the vital role an umpire plays and require him to be courteous, but you can't make him respect the man.

Many umpires simply don't deserve respect and it should come as no surprise when they don't get it. Admittedly I've criticized umpires often — and if they were unnecessarily cheap shots I'm wrong.

But I refuse to concede that they're sacred or inviolable. When they do a particularly bad job and it affects the game, that's part of the story.

This column has pointed out in the past possible reasons for the incompetence of officials and has lamented the incredibly lax system of licensing. Nothing changes, though, in the bureaucracy that is the IHSA.

Licensing procedures are still pathetically loose and officials are still, for the most part, incompetent.

This is a sad fact of high school sports life, and to ignore it would accomplish nothing.

The letter-writer goes on to say:

"You wrote two columns during the summer which, in my opinion, were in direct conflict with your thoughts in Friday's effort. I refer to the ones you wrote on Ron Santo of the Cubs and Lou Boudreau of WGN."

"You were critical of them as people — something you said we shouldn't do."

The columns about Santo and Boudreau were in regard to their abilities on the ball field and in the press box. Neither was directed at the individual.

I respect them as persons even though I don't always think too highly of their professional ability.

And I respect the letter-writer for his thoughts even though I strongly disagree with his rationale.

Cross Country Booming: Preps Swing Into Action

by PHIL KURTH

John Kurtz wasn't preaching, just talking, and the subject was one of his favorites — cross country.

"This sport is really growing, and I think it's because people are finally coming to realize and appreciate just how much work goes into it."

"Cross country is one of the few sports left that requires a tremendous amount of sacrifice and dedication. There's a certain amount required in other sports, of course, but in cross country there's no one to help you. Everything is strictly up to you as an individual, and it takes a rare kind of strength to be a distance runner."

"I think it's just tremendous the way these kids can accept the extraordinary amount of work involved."

"And it's about time cross country lost the unfair brand of a minor sport. I don't think there should be such a thing as a 'minor' sport, and I really believe that cross country is growing quickly in popularity."

"And the more publicity it gets, the more recognition it receives, the greater the growth."

Both Lake Park coach Frank Ashenburt and Addison Trail coach Ken Hammond agree that the sport is on the upswing.

"No doubt about it," says Ashenburt. "The summer program is an indicator. They must have had 200 kids from all over the area running at the Glen Ellyn meets and countless kids were out running on their own."

"This Sunday TV series on track is helping, and I think track and cross country are both making great strides in popularity."

"A lot of kids are beginning to realize that if they're not able to make it in football, there's another sport open to them. And while it takes guts to go out for football, it takes another type of guts to go out for cross country. I admire these kids who really work at it."

Adds Hammond: "There is a very definite increase in interest. While this has always been a good area for cross country, the competition is getting even better."

"I think one of the big reasons is that cross country is developing into a sport of its own. It used to be used as a conditioner for athletes in other sports — now it's growing as an independent sport."

Ashenburt learned the hard way the identity of the sport.

"Last year the basketball coach and I decided we would force basketball players to go out for cross country. We figured this would get them in condition and give us some good runners. It turned out to be a mistake."

"What happened was that we had about six guys on the team who didn't want to be there, and you can imagine what it did to squad morale."

Hammond feels that spectator interest in cross country is largely dependent on the course.

"We have had tremendous turnouts on courses where people were sure they could see the race. It's simply a matter of the course layout itself. When people can watch the race, spectator interest is there."

And Kurtz has done something about it.

"We've designed our home course this year (at White Pines Golf Course in Bensenville) so that 70-75 per cent of the whole race will be visible to the spectator."

The course will get its first big test next Saturday with the running of the first annual Bison Cross Country Invitational.

Schools represented will be Fenton, Lake Park, Mundelein, Immaculate Conception, Luther, North, Stevenson and West Chicago.

"There will be four different races," says Kurtz, "starting at about 11 a.m. The first will be a three-quarter mile junior high race followed by a freshman race, a sophomore race, and a varsity race. The freshmen and sophomore races will be two miles, the varsity race 2.6. Ribbons will be awarded in all races and first place trophies will be presented in the last three."

"A meet like this will give the underclassmen a little more chance to be recognized, especially freshmen who will be running for themselves instead of being back-up men for the sophs."

Fenton opens the harrier season Tuesday with a triangular at Dundee followed by a home meet Thursday with East Leyden.

"It should be an interesting season," says Kurtz. "For the first time in the history of the school we had two boys who ran a thousand miles during the summer — junior Rick Terhune and sophomore Russ Dahl. Both have been running all summer at the Glen Ellyn meets

"Right now we have about a 22-man squad, and we should be adding some more."

"I'm particularly enthusiastic so far with our freshmen. They have really accepted the challenge to the work and responded well."

Hopes at Lake Park also rest with youth, Dennis Dempsey being the only senior member of the team.

"We're a young squad, but I really feel we'll be a better one than we were a year ago," says Ashenburt. "The attitude is much improved, the kids are really working hard, and I have a year of experience to work with."

"We'll be stronger on the varsity than we were a year ago with Dempsey, juniors Dave Wall, Ken Smiegowski, and Jim Shaul a solid nucleus. All these guys worked hard during the summer — Dempsey chalked up a thousand miles and the others got about 500 as did sophomore Gary Andres."

"Our number one freshman runner moved to Ohio but we picked up a guy from football who could help us — junior Bill Decker."

Opening action for the Lancers will be the Bison Invitational. Addison Trail, which opens the season against Elk Grove in a dual meet Thursday, will also field a junior-dominated team.

"We had a lot of seniors last year," says Hammond, "so this year we'll be depending on juniors and our success will depend on how much they improve during the season."

Senior Keith Trexler and junior Dan Forest are the only varsity veterans returning for the Blazers.

"I'm really excited about the possibilities for our frosh-soph squad, too," says Hammond. "This is the best bunch of freshmen I've had since I've been here and the sophomores look good so we're quite pleased with this group."

Horse Show On Tap

The Illinois Allbreeds Horse Club will hold an All English Horse Show on Sept. 12, starting at 9 a.m., at the Huntoon Stables, Reservation Road, Oswego.

This show is a Northern Illinois Horse Show Association Class "B" approved show. There are 19 classes ranging from halter to 3 and 5 gaited pleasure, hunter over fences and pleasure driving. There are also pay back classes.

Additional information may be obtained from Betty Thompson at 678-0511.

Midget Football Opens

by FRANK HOLAN

About 800 boys and 300 cheerleading girls, representing 30 teams in three divisions, will converge on Lions Park on Labor Day (Monday), September 7th when the Mount Prospect Midget Football Association kicks off its 14th Season. This year the league has added five teams and created the new Lions System which will be ably guided by Tony Arredia who will again coach the bantam Boilermakers. Big Bill Butler will handle the rookie senior Lions eleven. The junior Jets and raw Raiders squads will be under the supervision of Jim Jacobs and Tom Taylor respectively.

Bears System Director — senior coach Bob Kranz has Roger Spielmann (Vikings), Joe Allegretti (Browns), and Norb Chmura (Illini) returning. The Wildcats destiny has been placed in the hands of Mike Alesia.

Ron Wold will continue as the Colts System Head and has all five coaches returning, namely dandy Dick Grigsby (Colts), Bill Radtke (Cowboys), Bud Clark (Wolverines), Kurt Teichert (Rams) and Frank Vlach (Hoosiers).

Veteran Cardinals System Director Larry Ostling will assist 40ers major-domo Bob Moore. Happy Howie Van Schalk has been put at the helm of the senior Cards and Dick Hiller will start his first full season as the Buckeyes boss-man. Bob Carroll, after an absence of several years, returns as the Redskins top warrior. Pete Petran, dean of all bantam coaches, continues with the Badgers.

The Giants System Director Frank Holan is taking over the Hawkeyes this season. Don Spohr has moved up to the Giants head mentor and Joe Hayer will harden the Steelers. The new Falcons coach will be Connie Maestranzi and Scotty Dixon will toughen up the new bantam Tigers.

Capable Ken O'Callaghan will double as the Packers System Director and senior eleven head coach. Other returnees include Tony Falduto (Chiefs), Dave Dowejko (Gophers), and Roger Patterson (Spartans). Newcomer Jim Frankowski hopes to make the Eagles soar.

Association officers this year are: Elmer Ballotti, President; Cliff Heranson, vice president; Hal Hetherington, treasurer; William Reinert, secretary; Charles Dominick, head referee; Ed Henrich, commissioner; Dave Mann, Dennis Kennedy, Wayne Hamilton, Warren Starkey, Tosh Okuma and Vic Rose, Assistant Commissioners.

The Women's Auxiliary is headed up by Carol Hopp, president; Shirley Daigle, 1st vice president; Wilma Reitz, 2nd vice president; Kay Ost, assistant vice president; Joyce Antonson, secretary; Lynn Bennett, director of special events; and Delores Vodenberg, assistant director of special events.

Meet Saturday

Every year Northwest Suburban YMCA conducts an Annual Novice Swim Meet. The meet is held to give youngsters who have never completed an opportunity to swim against someone of similar ability. Members of the 1969-70 Swim Team are not allowed to enter.

This year's meet is Saturday, Sept. 5, at Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines. The meet starts at 10 a.m. and is open to any "Y" member between 6-15 years old who was not on the swim team last year. Ribbons will be given for the first six places.

Both boys and girls are welcome to swim in freestyle and back stroke for their respective age groups. Winners in this meet are usually asked to try out for the swim team. Entry fee is 25 cents. Entry blanks may be picked up at the front desk of the "Y". Entries must be in by Friday, Sept. 4.

High Harrier Hopes In Prospect's Camp

by JIM LOOK
Third in 1969. Second in 1968. ??? in 1970.

The countdown is on for the Prospect cross country team. After their most impressive season under the direction of head coach Joe Wanner last year, the Knight harriers are seeking the top perch that has barely eluded them over the past three campaigns.

None of the other Mid-Suburban League teams are ready to concede the title, and nobody knows it better than Wanner.

"This league is going to be better balanced this year than it has in the past," Wanner said. "Fremd, Elk Grove and Arlington should all be better this season."

Busy Batter

Matty Alou had 698 official at bats in 1969, a major league record for a single season.

Fremd especially will be tough with most of their 1969 state champion squad still intact. Elk Grove is young with a pair of freshmen vying for a starting assignment, and Arlington has a senior duo that is already established and a trio of juniors that should give them valuable depth.

Prospect will be gunning with senior Bob Pomrenke leading the parade. Ron Hinkel, Mark Tamsen, Dan Young, Al Treese and Howie Larson round out the Knight returning letterman corps who are being pushed by a quartet of juniors.

George Busse, Tom Schiesser, Karl Prinslow and Tony Brocato "are all looking good for us," Wanner said.

The Prospect coach accented depth as a necessary ingredient for a winning team. "You can have two or three fantastic runners, but if your fourth and fifth men get beat, you'll lose the meet."

With the likes of Bill Allen, Keith Matthews, Tom Kikher and Al Morrison gone from a squad that posted eight victories against one setback (a one point defeat at the hands of Fremd last season) the task of filling the holes will be challenging.

"Allen was our leader out there," Wanner said. "He kept the boys running. I hope someone will be able to assume his role this year."

Injuries are the nightmare of any coach's dream. Last season they took care of Pomrenke who was hindered by a respiratory infection toward the latter part of the campaign. He still paced the Knights to a second place conference finish with a brilliant 14:05 in the league meet and helped upset Fremd in the district with another dazzling display of endurance running.

Prospect's home course is a flat layout highlighted by a few curves, but advantageous to coaches and spectators because the runners are in full view during the entire 2.75 mile tour.

"We should be respectable," Wanner said in reviewing the prospects of this year's team. "We can't afford to be caught with our heads down, because any team in our league is capable of upsetting."

With one week of practice under their belts, Wanner said that most of the pre-season time is spent in long running drills. "The boys run 5-10 miles after school. We haven't begun wind sprints yet."

With Fremd earmarked as the team to beat again this season, Wanner's strategy is simple. "We just have to outrun them," he said. "They're the team to beat and everyone will be gunning for them."

Especially Prospect. Last season's only loss was a 27-28 heartbreaker to the Vikings and revenge is already the subject in the Knight camp.

This year's showdown will take place at Fremd on Thursday, Sept. 24. The Knights open the season at Maine West's big Center Meet, Saturday, Sept. 12.

The Lighter Side

Junkmailmanship Coup?

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON UP!—When two such well-meaning senators as Mike Mansfield and Barry Goldwater co-sponsor a piece of legislation, motivational purity is taken for granted.

Otherwise, in the case of a postal pornography bill they are promoting, I might have suspected them of playing footsie with the junk mail lobby.

The measure, subject of hearings by the Senate Post Office Committee this week, would provide that unrequested mail likely to be considered indecent must carry warning labels similar to those found on cigarette packages.

"The enclosed material may be obscene or offensive to the addressee" is the way the alarm would be worded.

BOTH MANSFIELD, a high-minded Montana Democrat, and Goldwater, a high-minded Arizona Republican, as-

Dick West

As presently worded, the "obscene or offensive" warning label requirement would apply to all forms of junk mail. It may not be obscene, but I've never seen a piece of junk mail yet that wasn't in some way offensive.

Thus you can see that Mansfield and Goldwater are indirectly abetting a potential coup in junkmailmanship. We poor addressees won't stand a chance.

sured the committee the bill was pro bono publico, so to speak.

Protects us innocent addressees against unwanted salacious solicitation, they said. And I am convinced that they are convinced of that.

But when David A. Nelson, a post office official, testified that "the possibilities for abuse of such a statute would be very great indeed," he uttered himself a verity.

For one thing, the bill would be a bonanza for junk mailers. To see why, ask yourself this: What is the first principle of direct mail solicitation?

Answer: To make sure we addressees open it. For if the envelope is tossed into the wastebasket unopened, it is so much sweetness wasted on the desert air.

OVER THE YEARS, many of us on the mailing lists have become immune to the enticements appearing upon the envelopes. These ordinarily promise only pecuniary or cultural rewards to the addressee.

Suppose that invitations to join the Encyclopedia-of-the-Month Club, or buy retirement property in the Mojave Desert, arrived in envelopes hinting that the contents were lascivious.

How many of us addressees would then be able to resist at least a sneak-peek at what's inside?

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1609 Henry Hudson discovered the Island of Manhattan.

In 1781 Spanish settlers founded the City of Los Angeles.

In 1940 Adolf Hitler promised the German people he would invade Great Britain, a promise he never carried out.

In 1969 Brazilian terrorists kidnaped American Ambassador Burke Elbrick. He was released three days later when the Brazilian government freed 15 political prisoners.

Rockets Set To Blast Off

The Glen Ellyn Rocket Society will launch its Fifth Annual Public Demonstration of Model Rocketry, at 2 p.m. Labor Day at Glen Ellyn's South Park, two blocks north of Roosevelt Road and one block east of Park Boulevard.

Members of the society will demonstrate how various model rocket competitions are conducted under official rules of the National Association of Rocketry. Included will be a scale altitude contest, an egg lifting-payload contest, a spot landing competition, a drag race and a parachute duration contest.

FOLLOWING THE competition demonstrations, members of the society will launch special rocket models they have made.

A feature of the demonstration will be a display of actual rocket parts and components furnished by the Aero-Dyne

Corp.

The first rocket will be launched by Ernest Grob, Central Officer in Aurora for the Federal Aviation Administration.

The Glen Ellyn society is one of the largest in the country sanctioned by the National Association of Rocketry.

Fearsome Family Perched In Castle

by HOWARD A. TYNER
BEILSTEIN, West Germany (UPI)—When Claus Fentzloff lets his pets out to play, everyone else in the neighborhood calls theirs in.

Fentzloff is a falconer and his feathered legions consist of half a dozen falcons, 10 eagles, 17 vultures, 8 giant eagle-owls and another 40 or so smaller birds of prey.

He keeps his fearsome family in the ruins of an 800-year-old castle perched above the lush green vineyards tended by residents of this village in southern West Germany.

Townfolk dismayed at the thought of an eagle breakfasting on the family cat console themselves with the knowledge that falconry annually draws more than 100,000 visitors.

"I really receive very few complaints," said Fentzloff.

Falconry, the sport of hunting with birds of prey, flourished in Germany during the Middle Ages. It became popular again at the beginning of this century and today there are more than 400 registered German falconers.

Fentzloff is no ordinary falconer. The castle above Beilstein also serves as a clinic for injured birds.

"Only about half our birds are full-time," he explained while supervising training of an Asian vulture in the castle's grassy courtyard. "The rest have been brought here injured or as abandoned young. We treat them, sometimes put them on display, and eventually turn them free."

A walk around the crumbling castle's vine-covered outer wall reveals an astonishing array of meat-eating birds — each securely tethered with tough leather thongs.

There is Floridan, the 25-pound vulture; Wong, the giant fish owl; Leif and Tabu, the golden eagles; and a scattering of snowy owls. They came from Asia, Africa and South America as well as Europe.

On weekends Fentzloff puts some of his "full-timers" through their paces for the public. First come the falcons. Striking round the castle tower they snap dummy pigeons out of the air as fast as Fentzloff can toss them over his head.

A Vanishing Breed Of 'Silver Bird'

After one short ride in a Waco UPS-7 open cockpit biplane, a person really knows what flying is all about.

There are only about 40 of these planes in the United States today. One belongs to the four Runyan brothers, all pilots, who keep their rare bird at Twinbrook Aviation Co., next to the Schaumburg Airport.

Reminiscent of an era when flying was not as precise, perhaps more haphazard, what the Waco lacks in technical advancement is compensated by its agility and grace.

While jumbo jets offer comfort and luxury, one spin in a Waco provides an exhilaration derived only from the complete sense of participating in the flight.

MANY YOUNGSTERS have been treated to their first airplane ride in the red biplane and many more have wished for a ride in it as they watch one of the Runyans guide the craft through varied twists and turns.

Experienced pilots learn the colorful gyrations of aerobatic flying in this completely rebuilt antique made in 1940.

Roger, the plane's most regular pilot, explains the romantic lure of the Waco this way, "When you fly in it, you can smell the engine, hear the sounds and feel the air . . . it makes all the difference in the world."

"Oh, I have surely slipped the bonds of Earth . . ."

" . . . Sunward I've Climbed."

" . . . and done a hundred things you have not dreamed of."

" . . . I've trod the high untrodden sanctity of space . . . and touched the face of God." -- Flight Officer John G. Magee Jr.

THE 11-FOOT sloop, "Little One" Capt. William Willis to conquer two and the raft "Age Unlimited" are silent witnesses of the story of unmatched courage in the attempt by great oceans. (Photos, courtesy the Mariners Museum)

A portion of 165-acre Lake Maury of The Museum. Fishing is available by boat or from shore areas.

Museum Captures Culture Of The Sea

Are we losing our sense of leisure? We rush through the days and weeks not living life, but consuming it. Most of us are animated machines, bored with the repetition of work, sleep and eat. The most frequently heard excuse for omitting necessary recreation is lack of time. "We had better take time before time takes us."

It is the leisure hours happily used that often open up a new world. There is no lack of things to do or places to go if money is no object, but with the family budget battle against inflation, leisure expenditures are a major problem.

Some respite is provided in relief of this boring cycle of daily routines. One such adventure is a days outing at The Mariners Museum in Newport News. First a trip through the Museum's nine galleries, then a picnic lunch in the park and a stroll through its 860-acres of natural woods. Finally an afternoon of fishing from a boat or in the free areas on shore for children, on the mile-long museum lake — total cost, including boat rental for a family with two children, $3.50.

THE REACTION FROM the majority of inflation minded Americans, "For that price how can it be worth while?" More than four million persons who have visited the museum know the answer in their discovery of the "Romance of the Sea."

The name Huntington is famous for its association with cities, museums, parks or schools in many parts of the country. The Mariners Museum became one of these associations with its founding in 1930 by Archer M. Huntington. He devoted a good part of life to the study and collection of artifacts and books devoted to the history and culture of Spain. In this connection he built the Hispanic Society building at 155th Street and Broadway in New York City to house his collection and library of 40,000 volumes. In this same area known as Audubon Terrace, he established museums to American Indians, The Numismatic Society, Geographical Society, American Academy of Arts and Letters and also built a Spanish church.

THE HUNTINGTON Museum and Library, which includes the famous "Blue Boy" painting was established by other members of the family in Pasadena, Calif.

Collis P. Huntington, one of the builders of the Central Pacific Railroad had amassed the fortune used for these many public service institutions. He had also established the world's largest shipyard at Newport News — it followed that a museum devoted to ships and the sea would be a natural adjunct.

Thus Archer Huntington decided to establish the museum 30 years after his father's death with the purchase of 1,000 acres of country side property on the James River. The present Lake Maury was formed by the building of a dam across the mouth of the creek emptying into the river.

THE FIRST acquisitions for the museum were made by the Huntingtons and their friends in their world travels. In later years millions were to be expended in purchases during field trips by the Museum staff to the West Indies, Great Lakes, Mississippi Valley, Europe and United Kingdom. When the word was spread of the establishment of the museum, sale offers were received from throughout the world.

In addition, in 1939, the museum was bequeathed the collection of R. L. Hauge consisting of 450 items. This lifetime marine effort consisting of oil and water color paintings, ship models, sea relics and scrimshaw was sufficient to establish a small museum. In 1940 the museum purchased the Eldridge Collection of 300 paintings, 1,100 prints and posters, tens of thousands of postal cards and photographs and numerous relics and models including many pieces of ships' china-ware. Supplemented by a continuous acquisition effort of nearly forty years, the museum's 13,000 items now are one of the most extensive, varied, historical and interesting collections of marine artifacts in the world.

A library of over 48,000 books and pamphlets, 3,000 ships' papers, 6,000 maps and charts and 150,000 photographs makes the museum a center for research in world maritime history.

A huge bronze ship's propeller greets the visitors at the north entrance to the museum on Route 60. The approach on this same route at the other entrance is down a picturesque half mile lane completely covered overhead by old Cedars, past a dam forming Lake Maury on one side and the James River on the other. On a knoll overlooking this same end of the lake is a stately grouping of five life-like figures entitled "Conquering the Wild" by this same artist and dedicated to Collis P. Huntington.

After a pleasant drive of several miles through the natural wooded area of the museum park, the heroic bronze statue of Leif Erickson looms ahead and signals your approach to the museum.

TWO EMBOSSED bronze Spanish cannons over 200-years-old guard the front entrance. The landscaped area to the right has dozens of huge anchors from the past. Cannons from history including many recovered from British ships sunk at Yorktown. Featured in the outdoor display is a huge walking beam and A-Frame which was used to propel an excursion steamer of 1880 up the Hudson River to Albany.

Then through the bronze doors depicting a variety of nautical designs and on either side the museum's purpose — "This museum is devoted to the culture of the sea and its tributaries — its conquest by man and its influence on civilization." A colorful King Neptune flanked by two seahorses welcomes visitors to the lobby.

A mammoth golden eagle figurehead with a wing spread of over 18 feet greets visitors in the main gallery. Other colorful figureheads from the collection of over 35 are mounted on wall pilasters and are tilted forward at the same angle as on the bows of ships for which they were carved. In the Chesapeake Bay Room are two full size boats, one showing the lost art of forming the hull by hollowed logs; the other beautiful craft was used in by-gone days for oystering. A collection of relics recovered from the British ships sunk at Yorktown during the Revolutionary War are among the dozens of exhibits.

THE BOATS FROM around the world in the outdoor collection numbers over 50 full size craft. Included are many types of dugouts, canoes, lifeboats and other primitive vessels. Largest to be seen are Portuguese and Italian fishing boats and the beautiful fin keel American sloop, Dilemma, designed in 1891. World War II contributed a Japanese two-man midge submarine and a German one-man submarine. Also on display is the famous Willis raft and "Little One," from which the intrepid seaman lost his life.

In addition to the figureheads, the main gallery contains a collection of twenty large commercial steamship models from the fleets of many nations. A number of large model sailing vessels, a collection of chronometers, ships silver, items recovered from the famous Bounty, and a number of dioramas are but a few of the artifacts featured in this gallery.

THE WHALING Room is filled with two full size, fully equipped whaleboats together with harpoons, cooperstools, and other whaling equipment. This exhibit also includes a selection of scrimshaw, hundreds of colorful sea shells and a collection of Eskimo handiwork.

The Mississippi River exhibit has a Mark Twain display which includes the original pilots license of the famous author. Another unusual item is a team calico from the Mississippi River show-boat, French's New Sensation.

The route back to the other wings of the museum passes the John F. Kennedy exhibit. Among the nautical possessions of the former President displayed are his naval uniform, his collection of scrimshaw and many models including the one presented to him by Khrushchev of Russia.

The last, but probably most interesting gallery, is that containing the Crabtree Collection of 18 miniature ship models.

The development of water transportation — from the most primitive raft to the advent of steam propulsion — is revealed in fascinating detail in these exquisitely carved models. August F. Crabtree devoted 28 years of his life to this prodigious task. Built from the keel up as the actual vessels, the models display remarkable artistry as well as historical and technical accuracy.

The museum is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays from 12 Noon to 5 p.m. Admission fees are a nominal 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for children, children under 6 free and servicemen 25 cents.

Mighty Midgets To Appear At Waukegan Oval Tonight

The mighty midgets will appear at the Waukegan Speedway on Friday night, Sept. 4, with a 40-lap feature race scheduled. A large field of cars is expected as these points will count towards the Midwest Midget Auto Racing Championship.

Waukegan is included in this series of midget races in this area whose points count towards this new title. While Friday's events are sanctioned by the UARA of Joliet, the Midwest Championship Series is joined by the Badger Midget Auto Racing Association.

Terry Vaughn of Milwaukee leads in the series with Jim Gates of Plano and Bob Walldan of Zion close behind. Bruce Flekl of Lockport ranks fifth. For these drivers the Waukegan events will hold special significance.

Gates, who drives the No. 44 midget prepared by his father and brother, currently leads the UARA standings and has led the Midwest standings for much of the season. Tom Steiner of Joliet ranks second and Phil Stebbins of New Lenox is third.

Joining these top names at the Waukegan track will be Gary Byers of Burnettsville and 1969 UARA Champion, Bill Krueger of Lombard. Also expected are

Coaches Group Plans Family Picnic Sept. 13

An ambitious Coaches for the High School District 214 Coaches Association is planned, according to President Ken Arneson of Forest View High School.

Formed with a desire to strengthen relationships between the schools and coaches in District 214, the Association held a coaches luncheon recently and will involve the families in a special picnic on Sunday, Sept. 13.

"Many projects are planned for the school year," says Arneson. "The group has been an on-and-off thing in recent years and we're concerned right now with just getting established — again."

Other officers are Vice-President Len Burt, Secretary Rich Chew, and Treasurer Brendan Flynn.

THE BEST IN Sports

Labor Day evening is being held as a raindate for the midget races. The midgets will be joined by Waukegan's own hobby stock division. Gates will open at 6:30 p.m. with the first race slated to start at 8 o'clock. The Waukegan Speedway is located 1/4 mile east of Rt. 41 on Washington Street. The track is a 1/4 mile semi-banked asphalt track which is ideally suited for the midgets.

Bob Blume of Logansport, Ind., Don Carmichael of Hobart, Ind., Bob Hauck of Joliet, Denny Cullick of Joliet and Aaron Willis of Joliet.

The midgets are the only type of car to clock in the 13 second bracket at the Waukegan Speedway with their one lap mark now at :13.64.

We think it'll be just your size.
Because Vega is little on the outside, yet amazingly roomy on the inside. In fact, Vega gives you as much room per passenger as many big cars.
Plus a peppy 90-horsepower overhead-cam aluminum-alloy engine, front disc brakes and power ventilation — all standard.

Vega's just as much car as any big car, only smaller.
And Vega comes four ways, too: coupe, sedan, wagon, and even a little panel truck.
Come in the 10th. Pick up a Vega catalog. Talk to our salesman.
About Vega. The little car that does everything well.

The Weeds In Their Garden Grow There On Purpose

by MARY B. GOOD

Mrs. Dale Schafernak, named along with her husband last year as "master gardeners" by the Men's Garden Club of Villa Park, has weeds in her garden.

No ordinary weeds, the Schafernak dock (DOCK??), canary grass and ribbon grass elbow their way among the more sophisticated pink pussy willow, dahlia and rhododendron. And there are the rattlesnake master, spiderwort, bloodroot, Jo Pye weed, coneflower, bee-balm, hepatica...

This garden is a place where gardening tips grow wild, and ideas are there for the stealing.

Chiding Judy Schafernak on the "weeds" that she uses to dramatize flower arrangements just shows a streak of envy. She has one of the outstanding gardens in the area, complete with a rose bed, sand garden and bonsai collection, perimeter grandmother garden, a lily pond and waterfall and an elegant Schafernak patio original.

A FORMER PRESIDENT of the Addison Community Garden Club, Mrs. Schafernak has been gardening only five years — since moving to 413 Wesley Drive.

The master gardener has crammed a lot of knowledge into a short space of time, probably because she spends two or three hours a day preening and picking weeds (but not the dock).

Winter care of bonsai, some of which are grown in rocks, includes laying those grown in pots in trenches and covering to prevent shattering. A few bonsai, like the tender azaleas, spend their winter in the basement.

Dale Schafernak is a product designer, and his creativity spills over into the layout and construction of their raised wood patio deck and geometric cobblestone walk-over. Dale crafted a copper pan-type waterfall and arranged natural rushes in the pool. Calico shubunkins, fantail goldfish and a clam or two add to the water life. The Schafernaks feed the shubunkins (straight tail goldfish) a slice of bread each day, but rely on them to grab their own mosquito larvae for breakfast.

WATER LILIES are for perusing, not picking, since they close almost as soon as they are severed. But the Schafernaks dote on lilies so they've acquired yellow, pink, violet, and white natives — high class wild plants!

They can remain in the pond over winter, while the tropical varieties have to be brought indoors and kept submerged in water.

Their lilies are planted in cedar tubs in a two-inch bed of gravel and a soil mix of two parts garden loam, one part cow manure and one inch sand (for weight). Since new tubers can float out, they sometimes put a brick over it for protection.

Because their pool has a liner, the only winter protection it needs is a couple of logs Mr. Schafernak throws in to stabilize expansion and contraction.

The Schafernak garden has a personality all its own — with originality written over the pond, patio, perennials and "weed" patch.

WITH A GARDEN WALKWAY that looks like this, it's no wonder the Dale Schafernaks of Addison spend a lot of time outdoors. Their brick-set-in-sand design is a creative approach to breaking up a mass expanse of lawn. Mr. Schafernak is a product designer by profession.

JUDY SCHAFFERNAK SCANS her pond for a trace of the shubunkins and calicoes that swim amidst water lilies and natural reeds. Her husband built the pond and made the copper saucer sculpture.

The Potting Shed

by MARY B. GOOD

Brown patches on lawn may mean webworms at work. The webworm comes out at night and eats like a horse on the grass.

A well-maintained lawn can withstand the greedy attack of as many as four webworms per square foot. Any more than that will produce noticeable lawn damage. The only control is with insecticides — Sevin or Diazinon. Follow manufacturer's directions carefully; take safety precautions during use.

If you lost tomatoes to blossom-end rot, chances are your babies were staked plants, heavily pruned, that got hit during hot, dry weather. To help reduce losses grow tomatoes in well-drained soil, avoid excessive use of commercial fertilizer, avoid close deep cultivation in dry weather, try growing different varieties.

SLOW GROWTH and general decline of trees is a sign of starvation. If the growth of the smaller twigs at branch ends is short — just a few inches — or becoming less and less each year, the tree needs feeding. Other indications are yellow or brown leaves, undersized buds, dead branches, undersized or sparse foliage. Drill numerous holes, 12 to 15 inches apart over the entire root system and apply tree food.

Begonias transform a bald porch to an inviting summer garden. They need very little, if any, direct sunlight. If leaves turn yellowish and develop brown tips, it may mean too much light; if leaf stalks are long or leggy, it may mean lack of light. All begonias like a loose, well drained humus soil. Waterlogged soil means rot and poor success.

THE NORTHEASTERN Illinois Rose Society will hold its fall show — true test of the rose buff (the survivor) on Sunday from 1:30 to 7 p.m. at the International Minerals and Chemicals Corp., Route 45 and Winchester Road, Libertyville.

Fresh flowers in the bedroom — bowls of soul-reviving flowers, placed where you can see and smell them can do more to revitalize than anything else. The bedroom gets my vote for the best plant placement in the home. Bath rates second, kitchen third. Other good spots — suspended from the ceiling, going up the stairs, on the picnic table, in a child's room.

Publicity Clinic Time Again

News Workshop Is 'Capsule Course'

"A capsule course in journalism and public relations, your publicity workshop was delightful, informative and interesting."

"A clever idea beautifully carried out."

So read just two of the scores of letters received by the Herald and Registers

Sorry 'Bout That!

Just as we expected — we are receiving calls from PTA publicity chairmen wishing to attend one of the Paddock-sponsored publicity workshops.

The workshops are designed especially for women's clubs and organizations, and although the sessions might be of some help to these PTA news chairmen, it will not answer many of their questions nor fill their needs for publicity help. We suggest that the PTA presidents and news chairmen contact the news editors from their individual towns for particulars about sending in PTA news.

Following last year's publicity workshops. Because of the enthusiastic response to the workshops in past years and because Paddock Publications wishes to help each and every woman assigned the job of publicity chairman for her club, the newspaper chain again will sponsor the workshops for presidents and publicity chairmen of northwest suburban women's clubs and organizations.

THIS YEAR THE newspaper chain has added a third workshop to better accommodate the women. The first workshop for DuPage area women, is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 10, in the Tioga Post VFW, 25 N. York Road, Bensenville. The second will be held in the Plum Grove Club, Plum Grove Estates, Palatine, and the third in the Northwest Suburban YMCA, Des Plaines. Cook County area clubwomen may attend either the Palatine or the Des Plaines workshop, whichever is more convenient for them.

All workshops will be held from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and will include a coffee and roll break in mid-morning. The workshops will close at 11:30 a.m. so that busy homemakers can be home by lunchtime.

THE TIOGA AND Plum Grove Club to

cations, the same as last year, were chosen again as centrally located, easy-to-get-to spots. The Des Plaines location should prove convenient not only for Des Plaines women, but also for those in Mount Prospect and other nearby suburbs.

Invited to participate in the workshops are the presidents and publicity chairmen of all social and service clubs, community and church groups, women's organizations and all other clubs in which the membership is predominately women. PTA's are not specifically invited as the workshop coverage will not completely fill their needs.

THE WORKSHOPS are designed to help publicity chairmen write releases of interest to all readers and thereby perform a greater service to their clubs. A helpful pamphlet will be given to those in attendance, and it is expected that there will be time for a question and answer period.

Of special interest will be a slide presentation depicting both good and bad publicity pictures.

So that comfortable seating arrangements may be made for all, club presidents and news chairmen are asked to make reservations for the workshops by calling Paddock Publications, 394-2300, Extension 233. In Des Plaines, the chairmen may call 297-6633; in DuPage, 773-1588.

Equal Rights Amendment In Trouble In Senate

by GENIE CAMPBELL

After passing the House in glorious style Aug. 10, the proposed equal rights amendment, prohibiting any discrimination on account of sex, has had a minor setback on the Senate floor.

While the House made short work of the amendment guaranteeing equal rights for women, the Senate is giving it second thoughts. It has already been on the floor much longer than expected.

With 80 senators together co-sponsoring the measure, it was expected to receive quick certain approval.

In a survey of support for the bill, however, only 32 ballots have thus far been returned; 31 in favor and one in opposition. The other 68 senators have made no reply, according to Sen. Birch Bayh, chief backer in the upper house.

THIS SMALL SHOWING could be caused in part by the cloud of misunderstanding that has constantly been surrounding the controversial amendment.

To begin with, the equal rights amendment will not nullify all laws distinguishing on the basis of sex, but will require that men and women be treated equally in all instances. This simply means that the individual laws now pertaining only to women will be extended to include men or be ruled unconstitutional.

One popular expressed opinion is that women will actually lose more than they might gain; that protective legislation now in their favor will be erased from the books. This is not necessarily so.

FOR INSTANCE, in those states where alimony is limited to women, it is felt that the amendment's interpretation will include men and allow them to become eligible under the same circumstances. In most cases, it will be both to a woman's and man's advantage if the amendment passes.

Minimum wage laws, rest periods and lunch period laws now protecting women also will be extended to include men. Laws prohibiting hours of work beyond a specified number, night work, employment in particular occupations, (Women are still not allowed to mine coal in Illinois) and weightlifting will be invalidated. That is to say, if women are able to do the job, they are entitled to it.

In the area of employment, the equal rights amendment will require equal pay for equal work only for employees of the government.

THIS IS BECAUSE Title VII of the 1964 civil rights bill has more or less preempted the field of labor legislation affecting private employment.

However, no area is surrounded with as great a padding of confusion as the question of military service.

Having women being subject to the draft would not necessarily mean they would have to serve in all assignments any more than all men serve now in all assignments.

Women with children in their personal care could be excused, just as men could be under the same circumstances. Women volunteers however, would have to be admitted under the same standards as men where currently they have to meet higher standards.

Equality, in short, does not mean sending every woman out of the house. Yet an equal rights amendment would elevate the position of women and extend opportunities to those deserving women who so desire them.

Sen. Charles Percy has indicated he will support the amendment. Sen. Ralph Smith did not reply to the survey.

Storkfeathers

Lori To Wear 1907 Dress

A snowwhite christening dress that dates back to 1907 will swaddle the latest addition to the Starnes "clan" when she wears it Sunday for her big day.

Lori Ann Starnes is the ninth baby in the family to wear the heirloom outfit. She was born Aug. 19 at LaGrange Community Hospital and weighed 8 pounds 3 ounces. Her brothers, Lee, 4, and William David, 2, also wore the dress. Mr. and Mrs. David Starnes, formerly of Arlington Heights, live with their three children in Downers Grove.

Grandmother Mrs. William Starnes, 605 Burton Place, Arlington Heights, described the long dress as made of very fine batiste, with French lace insertions and hand-embroidered dress bodice and slip, with tiny pearl buttons down the back. In excellent condition and prevented from yellowing because it has been preserved in blue tissue paper, the dress, according to Grandmother Starnes, is ready to be worn by many more babies.

ST. ALEXIUS

Gary Steven Ellis' birth Aug. 24 makes it a trio of sons for Mr. and Mrs. James W. Ellis, 220 Green Court, Streamwood. Leland James, 4, and Donald David, 2, are the brothers of the 7 pound 11 ounce baby. The Leland R. Reillys of Roselle and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ellis of Dell Rapids, S.D., are his grandparents.

Brett Francis Davies Jr. was born

Aug. 15 and weighed 9 pounds and 9 ounces. Brett is the third child of Mr. and Mrs. Brett Davies of 68 Elizabeth Drive, Addison. He joins Susan Ann, 3, and Pamela, 1½. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Brett Davies of Oak Park and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Govas of Chicago.

MEMORIAL DU PAGE

Diane Jeannette Duty was born Aug. 22 and weighed 9 pounds 6 ounces. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Duty of 4N 285 Ninth Ave. in Addison, have three other children. They are Sandra, 4, Russell, 3, and Kristal, 2. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Duty and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Paulson, all of Addison.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

Kenneth Schurman Roth is number three in the Richard V. Roth household. He was born Aug. 29 and weighed 10 pounds and 14 ounces. Kenneth has two sisters, Susan, 6, and Karen, 3. Mr. and Mrs. Dwight B. West of Mount Prospect and Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Roth, Sr. of Clarendon Hills are the grandparents. The Roths live at 544 Estate Drive, Buffalo Grove.

LUTHERAN GENERAL

Julie Kay Spengler arrived Aug. 3, the first child for Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Spengler, 211 N. Rohlwing Road, Palatine. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Albano of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Spengler also of Chicago. Julie weighed 5 pounds and 14 ounces at birth.

OTHER HOSPITALS

Michael Farr Koenigsberger was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Koenigsberger, 715 Lawler Ave., Addison. The Aug. 13 arrival has a sister Julie Ann, 16 months. Grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. C. Sommerfeld of Maywood, Mr. and Mrs. W. Farr of Roselle and Arthur H. Koenigsberger of Niles. Weighing 5 pounds and 14 ounces, Michael arrived at LaGrange Community Memorial Hospital.

Cynthia Lynn Barkalow is the first child for Mr. and Mrs. Dale Barkalow of 1919 S. Lincoln, Springfield, Ill. The paternal grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. Barkalow, formerly of Bensenville, are residing in Davis, Ill. Herfords Budsberg of Bensenville is the child's maternal grandfather. Mrs. George Baumel of Bensenville is Cynthia's great-grandmother. Born on Aug. 30 in the Springfield Memorial Hospital, the baby weighed 6 pounds and 11 ounces.

Tennisons of Barrington.

Double Dydees To Install

Double Dyde Mothers of Twins Club will begin its fall season at 8 p.m. next Thursday in the meeting room of the Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 200 Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. Any mother of twins interested in joining the club may contact Mrs. Pat Tuttle, 437-8345.

Finalizing convention business and voting for delegates and alternates are topics for Thursday's meeting. It is suggested that those planning to attend the convention be at this meeting.

This year's annual convocation of the Illinois Organization Mothers of Twins Clubs will be held Oct. 16 through Oct. 18, at the Arlington Park Towers in Arlington Heights.

NEW OFFICERS to be installed at Thursday's meeting are Mrs. Joseph Gruspiet, president; Mrs. Dennis Walters, vice president; Mrs. Stanley Peterson, secretary, and Mrs. Bruce Woody, treasurer.

Board members include Mrs. Jerome Gaul, editor; Mrs. Joseph Kennedy, reporter; Mrs. Pat Tuttle, membership; Mrs. Donald Martiny, hospitality; Mrs. Robert Berg and Mrs. Robert Sofka, banquet; Mrs. Charles Sohn, publicity; Mrs. Victor Pascolla and Mrs. Tony Petricca, ways and means; Mrs. Harold Chamberlain, state representative.

Repellent Pays Off

If you want to retain a natural wood look for outdoor structures, apply a water-repellent finish. If possible, dip the wood before it is installed. Then coat exposed surfaces after assembling. Brushing is preferred.

Bride Carries Old Bible

A white Bible carried by her mother at her own wedding was the "something old" for Patricia Spengler when she became the bride of Norbert Zyk on Aug. 2. The Bible was covered in lace and was decorated with three dozen white Sweetheart roses and knotted streamers.

Patricia, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Sidney S. Spengler, and Norbert, son of the Harry Zyks, 337 Catalpa, Roselle, were married in the chapel of Glenview Naval Air Station at 7:30 p.m. Rabbi Daniel Friedman and Fr. Eric Gerde-man officiated at the service.

The Spenglers, who are moving to Miami, have made their home across the street from the Zyks at 332 Catalpa in Roselle, but Patricia and Norbert didn't meet until both were home from college at the same time.

THE NEWLYWEDS honeymooned in Wisconsin and are residing in Murphysboro, Ill., where the bride, a June '70 graduate of the University of Illinois at Champaign, will be teaching high school.

Mrs. Norbert Zyk

The groom attends Southern Illinois University in Carbondale.

Given in marriage by her father, Patricia wore a peau de soie gown with Alencon lace trim. Lace appliques also trimmed the train of her gown and a spray of orange blossoms held her 4-tiered elbow-length veil of English illusion.

Matron of honor was Patricia's sister, Judy Newton, who came from Panama for the wedding. Judy's 2-year-old daughter, Lisa, was flower girl. A cousin of the bride, Ann Spengler of Fort Lee, Va., Helen Lerman of Chicago and the groom's sister, Bernadette Zyk, and Marilyn Gierens, both of Roselle, were bridesmaids.

THEIR FLOOR length empire gowns were of violet with white Venise lace, and they carried bouquets of white Sweetheart roses with violet carnations tied with white satin streamers.

Kenneth Zyk served as his brother's best man, and ushers were Frank Graham of Springfield, Jim Campbell of Hoffman Estates, the bride's brother, Richard Spengler and Arthur Szakonyi of Roselle.

The reception for 160 guests was held at the Glenview Naval Air Station Officers Club. Besides the bride's sister, brother-in-law and niece from Panama, out-of-town guests included the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Selma Schuster of

by Marilyn Hallman

Mix some liquid laundry starch with tempera paint or food color. Pour it into a "squeeze" bottle, such as an empty honey jar or detergent bottle, with a small hole in the top. You may want to use several bottles, each with a different color. Dribble designs on a sheet of paper by squeezing the paint from the bottles.

IT'S NOT SPRINGTIME but this tree, a horticultural first, will be sprouting leaves in the fall just outside St. Alexis Hospital. New leaves will appear as reservations are made for the hospital's annual ball to be held Oct. 3 at Arlington Park Towers. Brother Ferdinand Leyva, CFA, and Mrs. Edwin Plaza steady the new tree as Mrs. James Romano shovels the soil.

This Tree Sprouts In Fall Tra La

"And Daddy always told me it didn't grow on trees," one member of St. Alexis Hospital Auxiliary was heard to murmur as she watched a "money tree" being planted outside the hospital.

With their characteristic optimism, the Auxiliaries have embarked on a prodigious project to have not only a successful fund raising affair but also a horticultural first. With each reservation for the annual ball to be held Saturday, Oct. 3, the "money tree" will sprout a new leaf.

The Jimmy Durante Room of the Arlington Park Towers has been selected for the dinner dance with the Don Jarish Orchestra providing the melodies for dancing. The Auxiliary's annual ad book will be distributed in conjunction with the ball.

Co-chairmen of the ball committee are Mrs. Edwin Plaza of Lake Briarwood and Mrs. Edward W. Lewis of Arlington Heights. Mrs. Robert Fidler of Elk Grove Village is the reservation chairman and can be contacted at 437-2521 for information.

THE AUXILIARY, formed in 1963, has donated more than $130,000 to the hospital. Its initial pledge covered equipment for the pediatric service and the day nursery care center provided for children of hospital employees. The hospital pioneered the concept of providing day care in this area so that qualified professionals could return to work and help eliminate the shortage of trained personnel.

Dessert Luncheon for Unit Board

The Executive Board of the Bloomington Unit of the DuPage County Homemakers' Extension Association will meet on Monday, Sept. 14, at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Joseph Koschak, unit president. A dessert luncheon will precede the business session.

Mrs. Charles Franzen, unit county board member, will report on county plans and activities. Discussion topics will be future programs, meetings and tours for the coming year. Plans for the 11th Annual Antique Show, Sept. 22, 23 and 24, at the Fairgrounds in Wheaton will be finalized.

The board members are Mrs. Joseph Koschak, president; Mrs. Lester Bresner, first vice president; Mrs. William Fiene, second vice president; Mrs. Fred Hoepfner, secretary; Mrs. Norman Williamson, treasurer; Mrs. Charles Franzen, county board member; and Mrs. Harry Heier, publicity.

Other board members are Mrs. Arthur Fiehlitz, Mrs. James Healy, Mrs. Ray Miller, Mrs. Ben Pliska, Mrs. Lucy Smith, Mrs. Max Trout, Mrs. C. M. Whitney, Mrs. Joseph Manley and Mrs. Charles Kroil.

Serving on two special service committees are Mrs. C. M. Whitney, Mark Lund Hilltop Foundation and Mrs. Chris Hoff, DuPage County Home.

The same floral plan will be featured in the flowers carried by the 22 debutantes to be introduced that evening and also in the standing arrangements placed throughout the entire ball area.

Master of ceremonies for the presentation ceremony will be John Doremus of radio station WAIT. The dinner affair will also include dancing to the music of the Bill Russell orchestra, and duets, encores and other members of the "young set" will have Mr. Lonely and the Tear-drops to provide their music in the Walnut Room.

A limited number of tickets are still available and those wishing to attend may call Mrs. Richard Bowman of Itasca, ticket chairman, at 778-0587.

Love, The Best Therapy

Both Pamela K. Eisenhower and Michael S. Taylor worked in physical therapy at St. Alexis Hospital and when he left for Navy service, they became engaged. Their wedding took place Aug. 7 in St. Hubert's Church, Hoffman Estates.

Michael, who plans to be a therapist, is a Navy corpsman stationed at Great Lakes, and the newlyweds are residing in Waukegan where Pam is employed at Victory Memorial Hospital. Pam is a graduate of Conant High School and Michael is a graduate of East Leyden. He also studied at Harper College.

The 7 o'clock wedding was performed by Fr. Dore. Garden floral arrangements in the same blue, peach and yellow carnations that were carried by the bride's attendants, decorated the altar for the double ring service.

Pam is the daughter of the Jacob Eisenbauers, 178 Payson St., Hoffman Estates, and was given in marriage by her father. Michael is the son of the James Taylors, 562 Yarmouth, Elk Grove Village.

PAM'S WEDDING gown was of cotton ottoman with daisy lace trim at the neckline, the hemline and on the train. Daisy petals and crystal bead centers trimmed the daisies. Her flowers were daisies, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Linda Bugbee, sister of the bride from Schaumburg, was matron of honor, and Deborah Walker of Hoffman Estates was bridesmaid. Both wore in empire crepe gowns fashioned with ivory bodices and brown skirts.

The reception for 150 guests was held in The Living Room Restaurant in Roselle where Mrs. Eisenhower greeted the guests in a turquoise and white knit with yellow roses and carnations. Mrs. Taylor chose a beige lace with a corsage of red tea roses and carnations.

James A. Taylor of Elk Grove was best man to his brother, and Joseph Muro of Hoffman Estates was usher.

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA

The Park Ridge Alumnae Chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota will open its 1970-71 season with a musicale and tea on Sunday, Sept. 13, at 3 p.m. Mrs. William Wilkins, 111 N. Kenilworth, Mount Prospect will be hostess and Mrs. Harry Neibel will assist.

Soloist for the musicale will be Mrs. L. W. King of Palatine. Mrs. King has sung with the Pekin Civic Chorus and done solo work with Peoria summer stock. She is currently a music teacher at Jack London Junior High School in Wheeling. She will perform a cycle of five children's songs called "I Hate Music" by Bernstein and then do arias by Puccini and Korngold and end with an Italian song by Sibella.

The 1970-71 yearbooks will be distributed and highlights of the year will be discussed. All members and patronesses in the northwest suburban area are invited. The chapter president, Mrs. Albert Pranno may be called at 825-7476 for information.

PI BETA PHI

Oct. 13 has been set by the Arlington Heights Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club for its annual Arrowcraft sale and fashion show. Mrs. Lawrence Brown is chairman for this event to be held at the Arlington Heights Masonic Temple.

Plans for the sale and a program, "The Art of Decoupage," will head the agenda next Wednesday when members meet at the home of Mrs. Richard Nieland, 906 White Gate Drive, Mount Prospect.

Any new members wishing further information may call Mrs. N. Scott Davis, 392-3705.

Jaycee Wives Coffee

Palatine Jaycee Wives will hold a new membership coffee next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. James Brumage, 122 David, Palatine at 8 p.m.

Membership in Palatine Jaycee Wives is open to any wife of a Palatine Jaycee. Anyone interested in attending may call 358-6131.

'Round The Corner

A special Labor Day performance of "Luv" starring Bob Denver, will be presented at Pheasant Run Playhouse Monday. The doors will open for dinner at 5:30 p.m. and the curtain will be at 7:30 p.m.

This will be the final performance of the Murray Schisgal comedy. The theatre will be dark for two days and then reopen with Tammy Grimes in "Goodbye Charlie" Sept. 10.

Almost 100 hand-dyed and hand-hooked rugs will be on public display Friday and Saturday, Sept. 11 and 12, at Langendorf Park Fieldhouse, Barrington, just off Route 14 and 59. The rugs, from all parts of the U.S. and Canada, are the work of professional teachers and their students who have trained under Pearl McGown. Many of the rugs will be available for purchase.

The exhibit, named "Yesterday — Today — Tomorrow," is presented by the Barrington Park District Hooked Rug Guild under the guidance of Mrs. Mildred Prall. Exhibition hours are noon to 9 p.m. Sept. 11, and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on the 12th.

The 45-piece Air Force Band of the Midwest will present a concert Monday at 4 p.m. in the William K. Robbins Memorial Bandshell in Libertyville.

The eighth annual Oakbrook Fine Arts Promenade, an outdoor art gallery, will be presented on the Mall at Oakbrook Center Saturday and Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. both days. The works of approximately 150 artists representing sculpture, ceramics and painting in all media, will be featured.

"Fiddler on the Roof" will be presented for a three-week engagement beginning next Tuesday at the Auditorium Theatre in Chicago.

Bob Carroll is the singing-acting-dancing star of the musical, and Fittz Burr is top-featured in the large cast.

Auditions

Best Off Broadway Players will hold auditions for their next musical production, "Li'l Abner," at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights, Sept. 21, 22 and 23 at 7:30 p.m. The show will be presented Dec. 2, 5, 11 and 12.

To banish those "audition night jitters," the BOB Players are scheduling two singalongs for individuals interested in auditioning who wish to familiarize themselves with the music prior to actual tryouts. The dates of the two singalongs are Sept. 15 and 16. Further information is available through 392-2330 or 956-0930.

In addition to "Li'l Abner" Best Off Broadway Players is presenting another musical, "Take Me Along," in June and a straight play in March.

TAMMY GRIMES opens in "Goodbye Charlie" next Thursday at Pheasant Run Playhouse. The show will run through Oct. 4.

MILL RUN THEATRE

'Mary Sunshine' To Open

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild will celebrate its 25th consecutive season Friday, Sept. 11, with a champagne premiere opening of "Little Mary Sunshine," a musical comedy.

The production, staged jointly by DPTB and Music on State, will be in the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. During intermission champagne will be served to everyone in the audience.

A cocktail hour at 7:30, by invitation only, will precede the performance.

James Tuverson of Buffalo Grove is president of the Guild this year. Edward Sauer of Des Plaines, a charter member who is currently serving on the board as historian, recalls when DPTG first performed on a makeshift stage in the gymnasium of Rand Park Fieldhouse in Des Plaines. The production, "Ghost Train," played to 25 people.

IN 1963 DPTG bought its own playhouse in downtown Des Plaines. It is one of the few community theater groups in the area that owns its own stage.

Membership today in the Guild is composed of men and women residing in 15 northwest suburbs and Chicago.

The 25th anniversary presentation of "Little Mary Sunshine" is a bubbling spoof of old-time operettas. It first opened in Chicago in 1963 with Eileen Brennan in the starring role.

"Little Mary Sunshine" will be played by Sandra Grabowski of Prospect Heights. The two male leads will be taken by Carl Gustafson of Crystal Lake and Jim Tuverson.

ALSO APPEARING in the musical will be Karen Mason, Chuck Smith, Doug Patterson and Lynn Jensen, all of Arlington Heights; Larry Mayer and Fred Holper, both of Chicago; Ed Sauer, Des Plaines; and Karol Verson of Niles.

"Little Mary Sunshine" will be presented each Friday and Saturday evening for four consecutive weekends. Season tickets are available through the box office, 296-1211, or through the mail, Des Plaines Theatre Guild, P.O. Box 84, Des Plaines.

Drama Classes

The Mill Run Theater in Niles is offering classes in drama, ballet and voice for anyone aged six to sixty beginning Sept. 19. Students may enroll now through Harry Lee Roberts, 296-2170.

Pump Room Lunch For Newcomers

Arlington Heights Newcomers Club will start its season of tours by visiting the Jim Conway Show Thursday, Oct. 1. A luncheon and fashion show will follow at the Pump Room. The bus will leave Arlington Market at 8 a.m. and return about 2:30 p.m.

Any members interested in this tour

A new restaurant unlike any other. Top of the Towers.

Nothing quite like it anywhere.

You'll enjoy a bird's eye view of our golf course, and beyond it. Arlington Park Race Track, where thoroughbreds run all spring and summer.

Your gaze will take in a stunning interior, a feast of color wherever you look.

Then, when you call for the menu, another feast begins. Entrees from around the world, with the accent always on fine dining.

During dinner The Notables play old and new tunes for dancing. Starting at 9:30, they blend music, song and comedy and turn Top of the Towers into a supper club.

In the Towers Lounge, Cees Beart plays guitar and sings in seven languages. A most entertaining background for cocktails.

Spend an evening at Top of the Towers. There's nothing quite like it anywhere.

At Arlington Park Towers, Chicago's new suburban hotel, Arlington Heights, Illinois. For reservations, call 394-2000.

Adelman Will Head County Demo Slate

by DICK BARTON

William Adelman of Bensenville is expected to be slated by the DuPage County Democratic party to oppose Republican incumbent John Erlenborn in November for the 14th Dist. Congressional seat.

Adelman, a former Con-Con candidate, is expected to be formally selected Tuesday at the party's convention, according to county party chairman William Redmond.

The Bensenville professor is replacing Nicholas Thomas who recently withdrew from the race for personal reasons, according to Redmond.

"He has outstanding qualifications and was the sensation of the Con-Con race last year," Redmond said of Adelman this week in making the announcement. Adelman finished in the top four of nine candidates for the two 39th Dist. Con-Con seats.

THE PARTY'S convention will start at 8 p.m. in the building of the Reserve Savings and Loan Association in Elmhurst. The general election for the U.S. Representative seat and others will be held Nov. 3.

Redmond said this week that he expects "no problems in formally selecting Adelman" at the convention.

Adelman, of 303 Park St., in Bensenville, is an assistant professor of labor and industrial relations at the University of Illinois Circle Campus in Chicago.

Past president of the East Bensenville Homeowners Association, Adelman is now vice president. He is also the vice-president of the West Region Steering Committee of the Welfare Council of Metropolitan Chicago.

He has lived in Bensenville for 15 years. He is married and has twin boys, twin girls and another daughter. He belonged to the legislative committee of the Illinois Federation of Teachers.

ADELMAN HAS A B.A. degree from Elmhurst College and masters and doctorate degrees in history from the University of Chicago.

In other recent Democratic slate making, the party selected Ralph Dichtel of Wheaton and Ralph Gabric of Glen Ellyn to run for two vacancies as associate judges of the 18th Circuit Court. Mrs. Patricia Ring, a housewife from Downers Grove, has also been selected as a possible fill-in candidate for county clerk since Wood Dale resident Philip Grisolia has reported he is withdrawing from the race.

Grisolia in a public statement said he was dissatisfied with the party's organization and effort. However, according to Redmond, he has failed for formally notifying the party of his intentions and at present remains as a candidate.

The party leader said he expects DuPage voters to put at least one Democrat in office this November to establish some sort of balance to offset the all-Republican grip on county offices.

Itasca Joins Mass Transit District

Itasca is the first community along the Milwaukee Road's west line to adopt an ordinance for membership to the proposed Northwest Suburban Mass Transit District.

The railroad is seeking creation of the district, which is a part of its Project Transi-Plan for all suburban service lines, to qualify it to receive federal grants and funds to subsidize its operation. The overall transi-plan is a program of business-government cooperation for the improvement of suburban service.

According to Thomas Ploss, a spokesman for the Milwaukee Railroad, "Every suburban commuter system is in financial trouble." Creation of these districts will make federal funds available to improve suburban service, through the purchase of new equipment and facilities and repairs on the old.

"Funds are available for transportation services," he said. "Without the transit plan nothing is available; with it, funds can be obtained."

Ploss said, "The federal government is the investor in the service, and the municipalities will control it. Its operation won't depend on revenues raised by property taxes."

"It is to the community's benefit and not its detriment to join," he added.

THE PURPOSE of the district will be to acquire, construct, own and operate mass transit facilities for public service.

Other towns along the west line, including Roselle, Bensenville and Wood Dale, as well as several others whose residents use the Milwaukee Road commuter service, have been asked to join the district.

All of these towns, or a combination of them, must also pass the ordinance for membership if the district is to be organized.

Letters of intent, indicating approval of the plan, have already been received from East Dundee, Elgin, Roselle, Streamwood, Bensenville, Wood Dale,

Elk Grove Village, Franklin Park and River Grove.

If and when the district is created, each member community will appoint a trustee representing the town, to serve on the district's board of trustees. This body will determine what the needs and requirements of the district are, with administrative, and clerical services being provided by the railroad.

ACCORDING TO Ploss, west line communities have unanimously agreed to appoint trustees with explicit instructions not to establish any tax for mass transit purposes.

Itasca Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke said he would announce Itasca's representative to the board of trustees at the next village board meeting.

Nottke also expressed his opinions concerning the proposal.

"I have always been against federal intervention, federal subsidy or federal participation of any kind. In this instance, I am convinced that without this help, suburban transportation will deteriorate to nothing and will cause a real hardship to the commuter. I believe in this case, we are forced to help the railroad or eventually do without its passenger service," he said.

Other commuter lines are presently taking similar action.

Ordinances were filed by 10 western suburbs early last month to officially form the West Suburban Mass Transit District, along the Burlington Northern Railroad's main commuter line which serves 13 suburbs.

PILOTING THE WACO UPS-7, an open cockpit biplane, is quite a challenge for Roger Runyan. Sporting his three brothers.

You Can't Misplace This One

Most everyone wishes he could find a way to "stretch" the dollar . . . well, someone has.

The Itasca State Bank is displaying a 4 1/2 by 10 1/2 foot American Express traveler's check in its lobby, in the form of a yarn rug.

The rug, which reproduces the designs and colors of the travelers check, was consigned to the bank for about three to four weeks by the American Express Co.

According to Edward Lake, cashier, it is being displayed during August mainly to remind college students returning to school to use travelers checks. He added that so far, it has attracted quite a bit of attention.

Being hand woven by the Pai Ping Carpet Salon in Hong Kong, China, the rug is the only one of its kind.

The process of manufacturing begins with the basic design being drawn on paper. This design is then enlarged, divided into squares and transferred to a stencil. About three days of work is required to accomplish this.

The stencil is then used to mark out the canvas, which forms the base or back of the rug. Following this, the canvas is placed on a vertical frame, taking two weavers about 10 days and 24 pounds of yarn to fashion the rug.

When the actual weaving is completed, a coating of latex is applied. A gauze mesh is then used to help the latex combine with the canvas. After drying for several hours, the entire surface is hand sheared to even off the face.

The rug is the result of 15 days work by a master craftsman, two weavers and two other workers.

KATHY MCCOY and Nancy Ball, two Itasca State Bank employees, are probably wishing they had the weight of this 25 pound rug in real money.

The 4 1/2 by 10 1/2 foot rug, duplicating the design and color of an American Express travelers check, is the only one of its kind.

1-Plane 'Flying Circus?'

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

Whether nostalgic adults or intrigued children, there is always an audience ready to watch the flashy red airplane with two sets of wings as it takes off from the runway at the Schaumburg Airport, west of Roselle.

The attention getter that twists and turns so gracefully in the air is a Waco UPS-7, open cockpit biplane, owned by the four Runyan brothers.

The Runyans grew up flying, but even the versatile Waco was before their time. All their years of experience are adequately challenged by the sporty little craft they bought eight years ago, and have since completely rebuilt.

"IT'S A TRICKY plane to handle, very demanding on the runway," Roger Runyan said.

Roger, now living in Glendale Heights, is a charter pilot and flight instructor at Twinbrook Aviation, where the Waco is kept. Besides giving eager and perhaps apprehensive passengers rides in the Waco for a small fee, he uses the plane for aerobatic instruction.

The Runyans bought the plane in Troy, Ohio, for $3,000 and have spent about three times that amount rebuilding it. They have searched the country for parts. The hardest parts to find were the lower wings, according to Roger.

The most notable deviation from the original is the electric starter the Runyans installed. Other than that, the plane has been restored almost identically to its classic state.

UPS-7's were first manufactured in 1937 and production continued through 1939. The 1940-42 models went to the military for the World War II pilot training programs.

TODAY THE PLANE is an antique showpiece used mainly for pleasure flying and aerobatics, for which it is particularly suited.

The Waco doesn't take off, it springs into the air, soaring almost vertically after it leaves the ground.

The 244 square feet of wing area enable the Waco to perform spirited lifts as well as breathtaking turns, spins and stalls.

The romantic notion of touching the clouds isn't too far fetched in the Waco, as pilot and rider are completely exposed to the elements. Yet it is this very aspect that attracts seasoned pilots who want to recapture the original sensations of flying.

The Waco definitely isn't for those who depend on modern luxury. Getting in and out requires agility. The pilot must jump onto the wing and then over the side of the cockpit. In order to see where he is going, he must occasionally poke his head over the side.

The plane can fly up to 150 miles per hour and reaches an altitude of 10,000 feet (any higher and riders would need oxygen masks).

Finally, landing the plane is especially tricky, because Wacos react strangely in crosswinds.

It's not a calm and closed jumbo jet, but that's why the Runyans like their Waco.

A minority report, a recommendation to pay a bill over the wishes of a majority on the finance committee, got the county board's approval Tuesday. This was the first time in anyone's memory that the judgment of the chairman and a majority of the committee were ignored by board action. It came about only after much controversy and some parliamentary maneuvering that would have done credit to the U.S. Senate.

The issue was the payment of a claim for $14,187 submitted by Isham, Lincoln and Beale, Chicago bond attorneys, for services in the preparation of the $106 million bond issue election for a countywide sewer program last March. The bond issue was defeated and the bond attorneys remain unpaid although they have been pressing for payment.

According to County Chairman Weeks, it had been turned down five times, either by failure to get a recommendation from the finance committee or outright rejection by the county board. The reason alleged in debate Tuesday, was that the firm had no contract which is required, there was no appropriation, and the claim did not make it clear precisely for what the charges are for. The impression conveyed was that there might be other services charged for not relative to the bond election.

Weeks has been close to the sewer bond referendum. As a lawyer, he filed an injunction against the use of general tax funds for the Glendale Heights sewer extension in connection with the bond referendum voted by the county board. He was upheld in court and the use of county funds was forbidden.

The county chairman, a former finance chairman, told us that the legal fund from which Isham, Lincoln and Beale are to be paid probably lacked the necessary money but this was the fault of "insufficient budgeting." The appropriation, legally necessary, he said could be found in a lump sum. As to a contract and the validity of the claim? This was brought out in several ways.

EDWARD J. VERTOVEC, assistant state's attorney and legal advisor for the public works committee which incurred the obligation, briefed the board on what services were performed, giving line and verse. He said that board members had met with Isham, Lincoln and Beale in that very room and discussed the bond issue and election, even answered questions. He said every board member must have realized that they would charge for their services and that they were recognized as experts in the field.

"I know the bill is legitimate, I know they did the work and I think they should be paid," Vertovec told the board.

James Kohler, York Twp., and Alvin Anderson, Downers Grove Twp., were the big guns in the debate for payment. Both members on the finance committee, they brought out the precedent setting minority report which won board approval.

Kohler argued that the county board knew what was going on, that they expected the bond attorneys to give them expert advice and services which were indispensable and that they expected to pay for these. He said he was no lawyer but it was clear to him that this bound the board. The intent was there.

Anderson argued, "The integrity of the county board is at stake. We're not deadbeats and by God I believe this bill should be paid."

PETE ERNST, York Twp., finance chairman replied in opposition, "I speak with authority only on the issue that there is no money appropriated to pay this and other bills."

"It's clear that the board never authorized a contract," William Swegler, Downers Grove Twp., insisted, "It is not clear what services were rendered."

The county chairman asked for a recess and requested the finance committee meet and bring in a recommendation for board action one way or another for a "transfer of funds" moved by Ray Haas, public works chairman. This would satisfy the objection registered by the finance chairman. The finance committee was confused and could arrive at no decision. County Chairman Weeks stuck his head in the door to prod them with "quit trying to play God," the board was waiting to vote on the committee's recommendation. By a vote of 4-2 the committee voted to "not pay."

Haas moved to suspend the rules and the minority report, by Kohler and Anderson, asked for a "vote to transfer funds." By a vote of 22-5, the board approved (21 votes necessary) to make the transfer. The claim is still without approval "to pay," but the money has been provided. Payment of the claim requires that it go through the finance committee, like any other claim, and be submitted for board approval. Since the board has provided the funds it is inconceivable that it would reject payment.

Outdoor Program Slated For Dist. 2

Some Bensenville Elementary Dist. 2 fifth and sixth grade youngsters will get a sample of the great outdoors later this fall.

It was announced at Tuesday's board meeting Dist. 2 has been invited by Northern Illinois University to participate in their resident outdoor education program at Loretta Taft Field Camps in Oregon, located just west of DeKalb. The district participated in the program for the first time last spring.

The Bensenville youngsters are scheduled to attend the camp during the week of December 7 through 11.

This program is held in conjunction with the Dist. 2 student-teacher arrangement with NIU. The student teachers who will work in the district will be responsible for supervision of the Dist. 2 youngsters at the camp.

This year there will be one class from W. A. Johnson school and one class from Chippewa School attending, according to Kenneth Kaufman, acting superintendent of Dist. 2. Selection of the participating classes will be made after determining which fifth and sixth level teachers from the two schools are interested, Kaufman said.

The board Thursday night agreed with the concept of the outdoor education program, but final approval for sending the Bensenville youngsters to the camp will be made at a later meeting.

In his school operations report, Kaufman announced the school district would be providing free lunches to indigent children this year, but the state will reimburse the district for each lunch furnished.

"A new law has been passed requiring every school district to furnish free lunches to indigent children in every school building," Kaufman said in his report.

The acting superintendent said Dist. 2 would be providing about 20 children identified as indigent in the district with sack-type lunches. The lunches would cost about 15 cents each.

Republican Campaign Seminar Set

Republican precinct committeemen in the 14th Congressional Dist. have been invited to a campaign seminar at Pleasant Run Lodge on Saturday, Sept. 26. Their host is U.S. Rep. John N. Erlenborn, of Elmhurst.

U.S. Sen. Ralph Tyler Smith will be featured speaker at a luncheon which will conclude the seminar program.

During the morning committeemen will meet in private sessions with national and state Republican leaders. The program's theme is "Together We Can." Erlenborn said emphasis will be placed on national and state issues in the 1970 election.

Seminar participants will include Ely Peterson, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee; U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy; U.S. Rep. Barber Conable Jr. (R-NY); U.S. Rep. Edward J. Derwinski (R-Ill.); State Sen. William Harris who is the GOP assistant majority leader in the Illinois Senate; Illinois Republican state central committee director Robert Bradford; GOP nominee for Illinois treasurer Edmund Kucharski; and Sen. Smith.

Erlenborn sponsored a similar seminar two years ago. Charles M. Burlington Jr., of Naperville, is Chairman of the Erlenborn Campaign Committee.

All Republican candidates in the District have also been invited to attend. Local GOP leaders participating in the program include Republican national committeewoman Mrs. Brooks McCormick,

Winfield; GOP state central committeeman William C. Ives, Hinsdale; DuPage County GOP chairman James

"Pete" Philip, Elmhurst; and Will County GOP chairman Thomas Feehan, Joliet.

Adelman Will Head County Demo Slate

by DICK BARTON

William Adelman of Bensenville is expected to be slated by the DuPage County Democratic party to oppose Republican incumbent John Erlenborn in November for the 14th Dist. Congressional seat.

Adelman, a former Con-Con candidate, is expected to be formally selected Tuesday at the party's convention, according to county party chairman William Redmond.

The Bensenville professor is replacing Nicholas Thomas who recently withdrew from the race for personal reasons, according to Redmond.

"He has outstanding qualifications and was the sensation of the Con-Con race last year," Redmond said of Adelman this week in making the announcement. Adelman finished in the top four of nine candidates for the two 39th Dist. Con-Con seats.

THE PARTY'S convention will start at 8 p.m. in the building of the Reserve Savings and Loan Association in Elmhurst. The general election for the U.S. Representative seat and others will be held Nov. 3.

Redmond said this week that he expects "no problems in formally selecting Adelman" at the convention.

Adelman, of 303 Park St., in Bensenville, is an assistant professor of labor and industrial relations at the University of Illinois Circle Campus in Chicago.

Past president of the East Bensenville Homeowners Association, Adelman is now vice president. He is also the vice-president of the West Region Steering Committee of the Welfare Council of Metropolitan Chicago.

He has lived in Bensenville for 15 years. He is married and has twin boys, twin girls and another daughter. He belonged to the legislative committee of the Illinois Federation of Teachers.

ADELMAN HAS A B.A. degree from Elmhurst College and masters and doctorate degrees in history from the University of Chicago.

In other recent Democratic slate making, the party selected Ralph Dichtl of Wheaton and Ralph Gabric of Glen Ellyn to run for two vacancies as associate judges of the 18th Circuit Court. Mrs. Patricia Ring, a housewife from Downers Grove, has also been selected as a possible fill-in candidate for county clerk since Wood Dale resident Philip Grisolia has reported he is withdrawing from the race.

Grisolia in a public statement said he was dissatisfied with the party's organization and effort. However, according to Redmond, he has failed for formally notifying the party of his intentions and at present remains as a candidate.

The party leader said he expects DuPage voters to put at least one Democrat in office this November to establish some sort of balance to offset the all-Republican grip on county offices.

Itasca Joins Mass Transit District

Itasca is the first community along the Milwaukee Road's west line to adopt an ordinance for membership to the proposed Northwest Suburban Mass Transit District.

The railroad is seeking creation of the district, which is a part of its Project Transi-Plan for all suburban service lines, to qualify it to receive federal grants and funds to subsidize its operation. The overall transi-plan is a program of business-government cooperation for the improvement of suburban service.

According to Thomas Ploss, a spokesman for the Milwaukee Railroad, "Every suburban commuter system is in financial trouble." Creation of these districts will make federal funds available to improve suburban service, through the purchase of new equipment and facilities and repairs on the old.

"Funds are available for transportation services," he said. "Without the transit plan nothing is available;

Ploss said, "The federal government is the investor in the service, and the municipalities will control it. Its operation won't depend on revenues raised by property taxes."

"It is to the community's benefit and not its detriment to join," he added.

THE PURPOSE of the district will be to acquire, construct, own and operate mass transit facilities for public service.

Other towns along the west line, including Roselle, Bensenville and Wood Dale, as well as several others whose residents use the Milwaukee Road commuter service, have been asked to join the district.

All of these towns, or a combination of them, must also pass the ordinance for membership if the district is to be organized.

Letters of intent, indicating approval of the plan, have already been received from East Dundee, Elgin, Roselle, Streamwood, Bensenville, Wood Dale,

Elk Grove Village, Franklin Park and River Grove.

If and when the district is created, each member community will appoint a trustee representing the town, to serve on the district's board of trustees. This body will determine what the needs and requirements of the district are, with administrative, and clerical services being provided by the railroad.

ACCORDING TO Ploss, west line communities have unanimously agreed to appoint trustees with explicit instructions not to establish any tax for mass transit purposes.

Itasca Village Pres. Wilbert Nottke said he would announce Itasca's representative to the board of trustees at the next village board meeting.

Nottke also expressed his opinions concerning the proposal.

"I have always been against federal intervention, federal subsidy or federal participation of any kind. In this instance, I am convinced that without this help, suburban transportation will deteriorate to nothing and will cause a real hardship to the commuter. I believe in this case, we are forced to help the railroad or eventually do without its passenger service," he said.

Other commuter lines are presently taking similar action.

Ordinances were filed by 10 western suburbs early last month to officially form the West Suburban Mass Transit District, along the Burlington Northern Railroad's main commuter line which serves 13 suburbs.

It came about only after much controversy and some parliamentary maneuvering that would have done credit to the U.S. Senate.

The issue was the payment of a claim for $14,187 submitted by Isham, Lincoln and Beale, Chicago bond attorneys, for services in the preparation of the $106 million bond issue election for a countywide sewer program last March. The bond issue was defeated and the bond attorneys remain unpaid although they have been pressing for payment.

According to County Chairman Weeks, it had been turned down five times, either by failure to get a recommendation from the finance committee or outright rejection by the county board. The reason alleged in debate Tuesday, was that the firm had no contract which is required, there was no appropriation, and the claim did not make it clear precisely for what the charges are for. The impression conveyed was that there might be other services charged for not relative to the bond election.

Weeks has been close to the sewer bond referendum. As a lawyer, he filed an injunction against the use of general tax funds for the Glendale Heights sewer extension in connection with the bond referendum voted by the county board. He was upheld in court and the use of county funds was forbidden.

The county chairman, a former finance chairman, told us that the legal fund from which Isham, Lincoln and Beale are to be paid probably lacked the necessary money but this was the fault of "insufficient budgeting." The appropriation, legally necessary, he said could be found in a lump sum. As to a contract and the validity of the claim? This was brought out in several ways.

EDWARD J. VERTOVEC, assistant state's attorney and legal adviser for the public works committee which incurred the obligation, briefed the board on what services were performed, giving line and verse. He said that board members had met with Isham, Lincoln and Beale in that very room and discussed the bond issue and election, even answered questions. He said every board member must have realized that they would charge for their services and that they were recognized as experts in the field.

"I know the bill is legitimate, I know they did the work and I think they should be paid," Vertovec told the board.

James Kohler, York Twp., and Alvin Anderson, Downers Grove Twp., were the big guns in the debate for payment. Both members on the finance committee, they brought out the precedent setting minority report which won board approval.

Kohler argued that the county board knew what was going on, that they expected the bond attorneys to give them expert advice and services which were indispensable and that they expected to pay for these. He said he was no lawyer but it was clear to him that this bound the board. The intent was there.

Anderson argued, "The integrity of the county board is at stake. We're not deadbeats and by God I believe this bill should be paid."

PETE ERNST, York Twp., finance chairman replied in opposition. "I speak with authority only on the issue that there is no money appropriated to pay this and other bills."

"It's clear that the board never authorized a contract," William Swegler, Downers Grove Twp., insisted. "It is not clear what services were rendered."

The county chairman asked for a recess and requested the finance committee meet and bring in a recommendation for board action one way or another for a "transfer of funds" moved by Ray Haas, public works chairman. This would satisfy the objection registered by the finance chairman. The finance committee was confused and could arrive at no decision. County Chairman Weeks stuck his head in the door to prod them with "quit trying to play God," the board was waiting to vote on the committee's recommendation. By a vote of 4-2 the committee voted to "not pay."

Haas moved to suspend the rules and the minority report, by Kohler and Anderson, asked for a "vote to transfer funds." By a vote of 22-6, the board approved (21 votes necessary) to make the transfer. The claim is still without approval "to pay," but the money has been provided. Payment of the claim requires that it go through the finance committee, like any other claim, and be submitted for board approval. Since the board has provided the funds it is inconceivable that it would reject payment.

Outdoor Program Slated For Dist. 2

Some Bensenville Elementary Dist. 2 fifth and sixth grade youngsters will get a sample of the great outdoors later this fall.

It was announced at Tuesday's board meeting Dist. 2 has been invited by Northern Illinois University to participate in their resident outdoor education program at Loreda Taft Field Campus in Oregon, located just west of DeKalb. The district participated in the program for the first time last spring.

The Bensenville youngsters are scheduled to attend the camp during the week of December 7 through 11.

This program is held in conjunction with the Dist. 2 student-teacher arrangement with NIU. The student teachers who will work in the district will be responsible for supervision of the Dist. 2 youngsters at the camp.

This year there will be one class from W. A. Johnson school and one class from Chippewa School attending, according to Kenneth Kaufman, acting superintendent of Dist. 2. Selection of the participating classes will be made after determining which fifth and sixth level teachers from the two schools are interested, Kaufman said.

The board Thursday night agreed with the concept of the outdoor education program, but final approval for sending the Bensenville youngsters to the camp will be made at a later meeting.

In his school operations report, Kaufman announced the school district would be providing free lunches to indigent children this year, but the state will reimburse the district for each lunch furnished.

"A new law has been passed requiring every school district to furnish free lunches to indigent children in every school building," Kaufman said in his report.

The acting superintendent said Dist. 2 would be providing about 20 children identified as indigent in the district with sack-type lunches. The lunches would cost about 15 cents each.

Republican Campaign Seminar Set

Republican precinct committeemen in the 14th Congressional Dist. have been invited to a campaign seminar at Pleasant Run Lodge on Saturday, Sept. 26. Their host is U.S. Rep. John N. Erlenborn, of Elmhurst.

U.S. Sen. Ralph Tyler Smith will be featured speaker at a luncheon which will conclude the seminar program.

During the morning committeemen will meet in private sessions with national and state Republican leaders. The program's theme is "Together We Can." Erlenborn said emphasis will be placed on national and state issues in the 1970 election.

Seminar participants will include Elly Peterson, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee; U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy; U.S. Rep. Barber Conable Jr. (R-NY); U.S. Rep. Edward J. Derwinski (R-ILL.); State Sen. William Harris who is the GOP assistant majority leader in the Illinois Senate; Illinois Republican state central committee director Robert Bradford; GOP nominee for Illinois treasurer Edmund Kucharski; and Sen. Smith.

Erlenborn sponsored a similar seminar two years ago. Charles M. Burlington Jr., of Naperville, is Chairman of the Erlenborn Campaign Committee.

All Republican candidates in the District have also been invited to attend. Local GOP leaders participating in the program include Republican national committeewoman Mrs. Brooks McCormick, Winfield; GOP state central committeeman William C. Ives, Hinsdale; DuPage County GOP chairman James "Pate" Philip, Elmhurst; and Will County GOP chairman Thomas Feehan, Joliet.

Adelman Will Head County Demo Slate

by DICK BARTON

William Adelman

William Adelman of Bensenville is expected to be slated by the DuPage County Democratic party to oppose Republican incumbent John Erlenborn in November for the 14th Dist. Congressional seat.

Adelman, a former Con-Con candidate, is expected to be formally selected Tuesday at the party's convention, according to county party chairman William Redmond.

The Bensenville professor is replacing Nicholas Thomas who recently withdrew from the race for personal reasons, according to Redmond.

"He has outstanding qualifications and was the sensation of the Con-Con race last year," Redmond said of Adelman this week in making the announcement. Adelman finished in the top four of nine candidates for the two 39th Dist. Con-Con seats.

THE PARTY'S convention will start at 8 p.m. in the building of the Reserve Savings and Loan Association in Elmhurst. The general election for the U.S. Representative seat and others will be held Nov. 3.

Redmond said this week that he expects "no problems in formally selecting Adelman" at the convention.

Adelman, of 303 Park St., in Bensenville, is an assistant professor of labor and industrial relations at the University of Illinois Circle Campus in Chicago.

Past president of the East Bensenville Homeowners Association, Adelman is now vice president. He is also the vice president of the West Region Steering Committee of the Welfare Council of Metropolitan Chicago.

He has lived in Bensenville for 15 years. He is married and has twin boys, twin girls and another daughter. He belonged to the legislative committee of the Illinois Federation of Teachers.

ADELMAN HAS A B.A. degree from Elmhurst College and masters and doctorate degrees in history from the University of Chicago.

In other recent Democratic slate making, the party selected Ralph Dichtl of Wheaton and Ralph Gabric of Glen Ellyn to run for two vacancies as associate judges of the 18th Circuit Court. Mrs. Patricia Ring, a housewife from Downers Grove, has also been selected as a possible fill-in candidate for county clerk since Wood Dale resident Philip Grisolia has reported he is withdrawing from the race.

Grisolia in a public statement said he was dissatisfied with the party's organization and effort. However, according to Redmond, he has failed for formally notifying the party of his intentions and at present remains as a candidate.

The party leader said he expects DuPage voters to put at least one Democrat in office this November to establish some sort of balance to offset the all-Republican grip on county offices.

New Plan Puts Trust In Kids

by JIM FULLER

The young people in this country have been clamoring for greater independence, and Addison Trail High School is about to find out if the kids are as good as their word.

The high school will be participating this year in a newly-devised plan which it hopes will relieve overcrowding, cut costs, offer a better educational program, and give the students a chance to practice what they preach.

The new program has been adopted by the entire high school district, and is called the Dist. 86 Plan.

Basically, the plan centers on a new bus schedule in which bus routes are set up on an urban-type transportation system. Also, study halls have been eliminated, allowing teachers to devote more time to classroom instruction.

"We were looking for a way to get greater utilization of our buildings," said Addison Trail principal David Koch, referring to the district's three high schools, Yorktown, Willowbrook and Addison Trail.

Koch stated that Addison Trail's present enrollment of 2,600 students is about 33 per cent over capacity for the building. The high school picked up 300 new students this year alone, and this meant adding 13 new teachers.

"WITH THE educational budget being as tight as it is these days, we were also looking for ways to keep quality education, but cut costs," Koch explained. "Of course, we couldn't fire teachers and expect to get quality education. So we had to try and get the most out of our teachers."

This apparently has been accomplished with the elimination of the study halls where teachers were seen more as "babysitters" than anything else.

But without the study halls many students would be left stranded with no place to go while they waited for the late afternoon school bus to take them home. Two thousand of the 2,600 students at Addison Trail are hauled to the school and returned home by bus. Some students live as far as eight miles from the school.

This problem was solved by increasing the number of bus trips. Buses now leave the school and return eight times a day as opposed to twice a day as in the past. And this does not include the late and late-late runs.

According to the new scheduling, buses now pick students up at 7:35, 8:30, 9:25 and 10:20 a.m., and depart from school to take students home at 12:50, 1:40, 2:30 and 3:20 p.m.

What the new scheduling has done is allowed the student much greater flexibility and freedom. While one student can come to school at 7:30 a.m. and stay until 3:20 p.m. or even later, another student, who may want to get out of school as soon as possible, can schedule himself for the minimum program, coming in at 7:35 a.m. and leaving around noon.

PREVIOUSLY, if a student had finished his classes, he would have to attend a study hall, where attendance was taken, and wait for the late afternoon bus.

Now, instead of study halls, a student can leave school as early as noon, or stay at school and attend one of the various resource centers, open labs or the library, where no attendance is taken.

"In the past, students were allowed a maximum of five minutes in the halls between classes," Koch said. "Now there are no such restrictions, especially on the first floor where most of the resource centers and open labs are held."

Koch said one had to assume that most kids were willing to accept the responsibility — that no teacher would be on top of them to make them go to a resource center or the library.

"It used to be that they were required to enter the study hall and roll was taken," Koch said. "Now it's up to the student."

"The young have been asking for more opportunities, more independence," he said. "Now we'll ask them to be as good as their word. And I believe they can and will accept this responsibility."

Koch said he thought there would probably be a transition period before students could get adjusted to the new plan. This was mostly because students are accustomed to being told what to do in school, and now they would only be controlled for part of the day.

THE PRESENT CAPACITY of the school has been increased immensely under the new plan. The elimination of study halls has made more classroom space available. Previously all students were at school for seven hours. Now the majority are there for only five hours.

The plan also offers tremendous educational advantages to the serious student who wants to devote his extra time to the resource centers (special study areas in math, science or liberal arts where a student can read or consult with a teacher in that special area), or the open labs where equipment and tools are available.

The plan also makes it easier on students enrolled in the work-study program to get to their jobs. It also allows for more offerings and more courses in the total school day.

THIS IS A tentative-preliminary plan of what Randhurst might look like when and if it should come to Addison. Randhurst officials have stated that their decision to come would largely depend on the passing of the $3 million bond referendum. The shopping center would take about four years to build.

Man Found Dead

A man was pronounced dead on arrival at Elmhurst Hospital Wednesday after being found unconscious at the bottom of a railroad tank car at 50 W. Commercial Ave. in Addison.

He was identified as Albert Maker, 50, of Chicago. The cause of death is undetermined.

Maker was working for R. J. Reynolds Foods, 140 W. Commercial Ave., and was last seen alive sitting on top of the tank car around noon by Ross Blodgett, a foreman.

Maker had been cleaning the tank car, which had been used to haul rendered pork fat, with hot water 180 to 190 degrees in temperature. At approximately 12:30 p.m. Maker was found at the bottom of the tank car.

Maker was employed by the Chicago

Finest Manpower Co., 5824 W. Roosevelt Road, Chicago, a company which supplies temporary help to other companies.

Library Gap Exists Here

Not even the Addison Public Library can keep up with the population explosion occurring in Addison, it was learned at a meeting of the library board Tuesday.

The library is growing rapidly, and with 30,199 books for a population of 24,000, it is approaching one and one-half books per capita. However, the national standard is two and one-half to three books per capita.

Based on present growth trends, the library would have to add at least 8,000 books a year to keep up with the population.

"Our book budget is increasing," said Mrs. Ruth Snyder, head librarian, "but book prices are skyrocketing. Therefore the budget is actually shrinking in relative terms. We just can't keep up."

In spite of the growth the library board approved a proposal to serve the school children living in the unincorporated areas of Addison's school Dist. 4, charging the school district a fee of $1.50 for each of these children.

NORMALLY, CHILDREN living outside the village limits are required to pay a fee of $3 per year for library service in Addison, and families $6.

But since the children living in the unincorporated areas of Dist. 4 are without library service, and since the school district often requires them to use the public library, the library board will propose the $1.50 student fee arrangement to the school board.

In suggesting the $1.50 fee, Mrs. Snyder said, "With the world as disorganized as it is, we should be trying to attract youth to the library; and the school board might go along with the fee if it isn't too high."

Adolph Rittmueller, president of the board, will appear before the school board on Sept. 14 to make the proposal.

Also during the meeting, the board agreed to hire architect James F. Keizer, formerly of Frazier, Rafferty, Orr and Fairbank, Inc., to draw up the designs for a planned expansion of the library's basement facilities.

KEIZER WHO recently began his own firm, designed the present library building which was completed in October, 1968. The finance committee was asked to draw up a contract for Keizer.

In other action, the board approved the purchase of a mimeograph machine costing $895. The machine will be used by the library staff and board members.

The board also approved an expenditure of $60 to pay for the college courses three staff members have enrolled in this fall. All the courses are related to library work.

Rittmueller also directed the personnel committee to study the subject of educational reimbursement for staff members, and to recommend an established policy for the future.

'This We Believe' Title Of Series

"This We Believe" is the title of the new adult discussion series at St. Paul Lutheran Church in Addison.

The class will begin this Sunday and will continue over a ten week period, from 9:20 to 10:20 a.m.

The discussion series is a provocative study for Christians who want to rethink their faith in modern terms.

Such doctrines as the nature of man, God, the means of Grace, the church, human relationships, God's mission and the end of the world will be discussed. Robert Schlesselman will be the group leader.

Village Offices To Close Tomorrow

The Village of Addison offices will be closed tomorrow. The offices will resume normal Saturday hours from 8:30 a.m. to noon on Sept. 12.

Normal office hours during the week are from 8:15 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

GEORGETOWN SQUARE'S proposed 700-seat theater is scheduled to be completed by spring according to James DiFalco, co-owner of Movie

Rama. The lobby area has been extended and the theater architecture will conform to surrounding Georgetown. The Stardust Theater was originally scheduled to be completed by Dec. 15 but strikes in the construction field delayed the project.

A minority report, a recommendation to pay a bill over the wishes of a majority on the finance committee, got the county board's approval Tuesday. William Adelman of Bensenville is expected to be slated by the DuPage County Democratic party to oppose Republican incumbent John Erlenborn in November for the 14th Dist. Congressional seat.

Adelman, a former Con-Con candidate, is expected to be formally selected Tuesday at the party's convention, according to county party chairman William Redmond.

The Bensenville professor is replacing Nicholas Thomas who recently withdrew from the race for personal reasons, according to Redmond.

"He has outstanding qualifications and was the sensation of the Con-Con race last year," Redmond said of Adelman this week in making the announcement. Adelman finished in the top four of nine candidates for the two 39th Dist. Con-Con seats.

THE PARTY'S convention will start at 8 p.m. in the building of the Reserve Savings and Loan Association in Elmhurst. The general election for the U.S. Representative seat and others will be held Nov. 3.

Redmond said this week that he expects "no problems in formally selecting Adelman" at the convention.

Adelman, of 303 Park St., in Bensenville, is an assistant professor of labor and industrial relations at the University of Illinois Circle Campus in Chicago.

Past president of the East Bensenville Homeowners Association, Adelman is now vice president. He is also the vice president of the West Region Steering Committee of the Welfare Council of Metropolitan Chicago.

He has lived in Bensenville for 15 years. He is married and has twin boys, twin girls and another daughter. He belonged to the legislative committee of the Illinois Federation of Teachers.

ADELMAN HAS A B.A. degree from Elmhurst College and masters and doctorate degrees in history from the University of Chicago.

In other recent Democratic slate making, the party selected Ralph Dichtl of Wheaton and Ralph Gabric of Glen Ellyn to run for two vacancies as associate judges of the 18th Circuit Court. Mrs. Patricia Ring, a housewife from Downers Grove, has also been selected as a possible fill-in candidate for county clerk since Wood Dale resident Philip Grisolia has reported he is withdrawing from the race.

Grisolia in a public statement said he was dissatisfied with the party's organization and effort. However, according to Redmond, he has failed to formally notifying the party of his intentions and at present remains as a candidate.

The party leader said he expects DuPage voters to put at least one Democrat in office this November to establish some sort of balance to offset the all-Republican grip on county offices.

Land Transaction Source Of Hassle

by KEN HARDWICKE
A News Analysis

Some Wood Dale Park District officials are openly miffed and privately infuriated at the recent sale disclosure of lot 68 in Crestwood Estates.

The lot was donated in 1964 by Joe Willens, a subdivider, to be used for recreational purposes or as a neighborhood park.

Park officials and concerned citizens say the recent sale was never made public until a village treasurer's annual financial report earlier this month revealed the lot had been sold for $7,500.

Actually the lot wasn't sold, it was vacated to the original owner on July 5. That was when the village council passed ordinance 586 which vacated the lot 68 dedication to its original owner — Joe Willens.

Willens didn't pay his $7,500 until June 5 — almost a month before the ordinance was adopted. What is irking park representatives and others is that the park transfer was never properly brought to the public's attention.

The property was legally transferred (with the aid of the ordinance) but the park district was never notified and has not received any of the money from the sale.

The village doesn't have to donate the money to the park district but the original intent puts a burden on the village council to do so.

"WE COULD use the money," said Jo Kuffel, park commissioner, when informed of the sale.

When contacted by the Register Thursday, Willens indicated that he donated lots 68 and 84 to be used specifically as neighborhood parks. He also donated lot 57 to be used for a street.

There was no park district in 1964, so the two lots donated for recreation went to the village. Willens donated the property in return for permission to run pipes underground on another lot.

Apparently the village council also agreed that the lot should be in park district domain. On May 16, 1968, Ralph Madonna, village councilman, directed the village attorney to prepare a lease agreement with the park district for lots 84 and 68. His motion was passed by the council.

"The lease was never received," said Kuffel, park secretary, in reviewing the council's action.

Former Mayor Herbert Gilbert was also adamant on the lots being used as parks. He appeared before the council last year to argue their retention for recreational use.

When the village council vacated lot 68 to Willens through a trust at the Oak Park Trust and Savings Bank, Willens was actually paying for the land he donated to the village six years earlier. The $7,500 is under village control.

Lot 68 was transferred from trust 2710 (Willens) to nominee Anita Thon who transferred it to trust 5985 at the Oak Park bank. In 10 days the lot was purchased for $7,500 and resold to $18,000, a $10,500 profit.

A house now stands on lot 68 and is owned by John B. Carlson, 137 N. Cedar Ave., Wood Dale.

Official silence on the sale of the lot and a sizable profit have left much concern over the transaction.

PARK OFFICIALS are concerned because they were never notified of the sale of lot 68. They think the revenue from its sale might come in handy since it is in negotiations with Wood Dale Lions for the sale of Lionwood Park. The Lions want $25,000 but the park district is offering only $20,000.

Don Mazur, park district president, said he was in favor of the land or the money being given to the park district.

Losing a park the district never knew it had is one thing, but not making the transaction an explained public record is another.

The only mention of the lot vacating to Willens was the adoption of ordinance 586 on July 5. The public was never told what transpired except that two readings on the ordinance was approved.

The next move concerning lot 68 is up to the village council. Park officials think an explanation is in order, if for nothing else than to clear the air.

Annual Fun Fair Set At Highland

The Wood Dale PTA will sponsor its annual fun fair Sept. 26 at 10 a.m. at the Highland School.

This year's theme is Americanism. Plenty of children's games and prizes will be available.

West Seeks 'Super's' Job

by LINDA VACHATA

Norman E. West, principal of Fenton High School, threw his hat into the ring Tuesday to be considered for the position of superintendent of Bensenville Elementary Dist. 2 and Fenton High School Dist. 100.

West is presently acting superintendent in Dist. 100, a position he will maintain until the two boards of education select a new superintendent.

In a letter to board members, West said he was applying for the position

"since it appears the boards may not go through a screening process for the selection of a superintendent."

West was referring to recent special sessions held by Dist. 2 and 100 and Wood Dale Elementary Dist. 7 board members to discuss moving toward creating a unit district by hiring Warren Carson, superintendent of Dist. 7, to fill the superintendent vacancy.

If hired, Carson would serve three districts, thus coordinating and unifying them toward the ultimate unit district. A unit district in the two communities would have one superintendent and one board of education.

When the unit plan proposal was presented last week, Dist. 2 and 100 board members were holding a special joint session to review proposals from several consulting firms for the search of a new superintendent.

West said Wednesday he feels the boards have put aside reviewing the proposals, throwing their full attention to the unit district suggestion. This is why he is applying now for the superintendent vacancy.

"I feel that I am qualified to offer effective leadership because of my education and experience, both at the elementary and secondary level," West said in his letter.

"THERE ARE MANY qualified people around," West told the Register. "Dist. 2, 7 and 100 have contracted the Illinois Schools Consulting Service for a feasibility study of forming a unit district in these communities. The study is just ready to begin. I would think any major decision about hiring a superintendent would wait for the decision from the consulting firm."

"The boards have an acting superintendent for both districts. Things can continue as they are for several months. This is not an immediate or crucial problem. The boards should have ample time to study this."

THE 41-YEAR-OLD principal has served in various capacities in both the high school district and Bensenville's elementary district for the past 20 years.

He was a teacher at Fenton for five years and then served as a Fenton administrative assistant for three years. He was the first business manager for Fenton and served in that capacity for five years. Two years after becoming Fenton's business manager he also became the business manager for Dist. 2.

West was also a member of the Dist. 7 school board for two and one-half years.

A minority report, a recommendation to pay a bill over the wishes of a majority on the finance committee, got the county board's approval Tuesday. This was the first time in anyone's memory that the judgment of the chairman and a majority of the committee were ignored by board action. It came about only after much controversy and some parliamentary maneuvering that would have done credit to the U.S. Senate.

The issue was the payment of a claim for $14,187 submitted by Isham, Lincoln and Beale, Chicago bond attorneys, for services in the preparation of the $105 million bond issue election for a countywide sewer program last March. The bond issue was defeated and the bond attorneys remain unpaid although they have been pressing for payment.

According to County Chairman Weeks, it had been turned down five times, either by failure to get a recommendation from the finance committee or outright rejection by the county board. The reason alleged in debate Tuesday, was that the firm had no contract which is required, there was no appropriation, and the claim did not make it clear precisely for what the charges are for. The impression conveyed was that there might be other services charged for not relative to the bond election.

Weeks has been close to the sewer bond referendum. As a lawyer, he filed an injunction against the use of general tax funds for the Glendale Heights sewer extension in connection with the bond referendum voted by the county board. He was upheld in court and the use of county funds was forbidden.

The county chairman, a former finance chairman, told us that the legal fund from which Isham, Lincoln and Beale are to be paid probably lacked the necessary money but this was the fault of "insufficient budgeting." The appropriation, legally necessary, he said could be found in a lump sum. As to a contract and the validity of the claim? This was brought out in several ways.

EDWARD J. VERTOVEC, assistant state's attorney and legal adviser for the public works committee which incurred the obligation, briefed the board on what services were performed, giving line and verse. He said that board members had met with Isham, Lincoln and Beale in that very room and discussed the bond issue and election, even answered questions. He said every board member must have realized that they would charge for their services and that they were recognized as experts in the field.

"I know the bill is legitimate, I know they did the work and I think they should be paid," Vertovec told the board.

James Kohler, York Twp., and Alvin Anderson, Downers Grove Twp., were the big guns in the debate for payment. Both members on the finance committee, they brought out the precedent setting minority report which won board approval.

Kohler argued that the county board knew what was going on, that they expected the bond attorneys to give them expert advice and services which were indispensable and that they expected to pay for these. He said he was no lawyer but it was clear to him that this bound the board. The intent was there.

Anderson argued, "The integrity of the county board is at stake. We're not deadbeats and by God I believe this bill should be paid."

PETE ERNST, York Twp., finance chairman replied in opposition. "I speak with authority only on the issue that there is no money appropriated to pay this and other bills."

"It's clear that the board never authorized a contract," William Swegler, Downers Grove Twp., insisted. "It is not clear what services were rendered."

The county chairman asked for a recess and requested the finance committee meet and bring in a recommendation for board action one way or another for a "transfer of funds" moved by Ray Haas, public works chairman. This would satisfy the objection registered by the finance chairman. The finance committee was confused and could arrive at no decision. County Chairman Weeks stuck his head in the door to prod them with "quit trying to play God," the board was waiting to vote on the committee's recommendation. By a vote of 4-2 the committee voted to "not pay."

Haas moved to suspend the rules and the minority report, by Kohler and Anderson, asked for a "vote to transfer funds." By a vote of 22-6, the board approved (21 votes necessary) to make the transfer. The claim is still without approval "to pay," but the money has been provided. Payment of the claim requires that it go through the finance committee, like any other claim, and be submitted for board approval. Since the board has provided the funds it is inconceivable that it would reject payment.

Outdoor Program Slated For Dist. 2

Some Bensenville Elementary Dist. 2 fifth and sixth grade youngsters will get a sample of the great outdoors later this fall.

It was announced at Tuesday's board meeting Dist. 2 has been invited by Northern Illinois University to participate in their resident outdoor education program at Loreda Taft Field Campus in Oregon, located just west of DeKalb. The district participated in the program for the first time last spring.

The Bensenville youngsters are scheduled to attend the camp during the week of December 7 through 11. This program is held in conjunction with the Dist. 2 student-teacher arrangement with NIU. The student teachers who will work in the district will be responsible for supervision of the Dist. 2 youngsters at the camp.

This year there will be one class from W. A. Johnson school and one class from Chippewa School attending, according to Kenneth Kaufman, acting superintendent of Dist. 2. Selection of the participating classes will be made after determining which fifth and sixth level teachers from the two schools are interested, Kaufman said.

The board Thursday night agreed with the concept of the outdoor education program, but final approval for sending the Bensenville youngsters to the camp will be made at a later meeting.

In his school operations report, Kaufman announced the school district would be providing free lunches to indigent children this year, but the state will reimburse the district for each lunch furnished.

"A new law has been passed requiring every school district to furnish free lunches to indigent children in every school building," Kaufman said in his report.

The acting superintendent said Dist. 2 would be providing about 20 children identified as indigent in the district with sack-type lunches. The lunches would cost about 15 cents each.

Republican Campaign Seminar Set

Republican precinct committeemen in the 14th Congressional Dist. have been invited to a campaign seminar at Pleasant Run Lodge on Saturday, Sept. 26. Their host is U.S. Rep. John N. Erlenborn, of Elmhurst.

U.S. Sen. Ralph Tyler Smith will be featured speaker at a luncheon which will conclude the seminar program.

During the morning committeemen will meet in private sessions with national and state Republican leaders. The program's theme is "Together We Can." Erlenborn said emphasis will be placed on national and state issues in the 1970 election.

Seminar participants will include Elly Peterson, vice chairman of the Republican National Committee; U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy; U.S. Rep. Barber Conable Jr. (R-NY); U.S. Rep. Edward J. Derwinski (R-IL); State Sen. William Harris who is the GOP assistant majority leader in the Illinois Senate; Illinois Republican state central committee director Robert Bradford; GOP nominee for Illinois treasurer Edmund Kucharski; and Sen. Smith.

Erlenborn sponsored a similar seminar two years ago. Charles M. Burlingham Jr., of Naperville, is Chairman of the Erlenborn Campaign Committee.

All Republican candidates in the District have also been invited to attend. Local GOP leaders participating in the program include Republican national committeewoman Mrs. Brooks McCormick, Winfield; GOP state central committeeman William C. Ives, Hinsdale; DuPage County GOP chairman James "Pate" Philip, Elmhurst; and Will County GOP chairman Thomas Feehan, Joliet.

'Some Activities May Be Curtailed'

Dist. 59 Schools To Open On Schedule

Dist. 59 schools will be open as scheduled despite a teachers' professional sanction of the district, the school administration announced yesterday.

Schools are scheduled to open Tuesday.

Teachers rejected the board of education's proposed contract Tuesday and voted to support a professional sanction of the district, therefore, providing limited services during school hours.

Letters were mailed to parents yesterday to notify them that school would be open, Mrs. Leah Cummins, specialist, public and community relations, said.

"We do expect that their will be curtailment of outside activities such as sports, until an agreement is reached with teachers," she added.

THE DISTRICT has also installed a 24-hour recorded phone message service for parents wishing more information about schools. The number is 437-7839. The service has been put into operation especially for the Labor Day weekend, so that parents will know any developments in the school situation before Tuesday.

The district plans to use the recorded message, however, to tell parents about special programs of interest to them during the year, including bus route changes, snow day closings, and other items.

The first day of school will be a full day for all except kindergarten students. For these students, the first day will be a visitation day for parent and child. Their first full day will be Wednesday.

Kindergarten half-day sessions will run from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 12:45 to 3:15 p.m. Grades one through five are scheduled from 9 to 11:45 a.m. and from 12:45 to 3:15 p.m.

Lively and Holmes Junior High Schools are scheduled from 7:55 a.m. to 2:40 p.m. and Grove and Dempster Junior High schools are scheduled from 8:20 a.m. to 3:05 p.m.

Parents are asked by the administration to be patient if buses do not arrive on schedule, or if children come home later than scheduled because of road construction, Mrs. Cummins said.

"Everybody knows that in this area the main arteries are torn up and we are almost certain that it will make the buses a little later than planned," she said.

"We are asking parents to tell their children to wait for the bus in the morning even if it hasn't arrived on time," she said.

15-Year-Old Girl Dies In 2-Car Crash

A 15-year-old Elk Grove Village girl died Wednesday night in a two-car collision on Rt. 83 at the tollway in Elk Grove Township.

Cook County Sheriff's Police, who handled the accident, identified the youth as Candy Otters, of 234 Peach Tree Ln.

The girl was pronounced dead on arrival at the emergency room of St. Alexius Hospital at 8:25 p.m.

Police said the collision occurred about 7:30 p.m. when a southbound car driven by Michael Kostopoulos, 18, of 564 Florian Dr., Des Plaines, went out of control and crossed the median strip under the tollway.

Kostopoulos' car was then struck on the right side by a northbound car driven by Julian Seifert, 35, of Melrose Park.

Police said the pavement was slippery due to rain and driving conditions were poor.

MISS OTTERS was a passenger in the car driven by Kostopoulos.

Seifert had four passengers in his car, but none was injured seriously. They were his wife, Joan Seifert, 30; George and Marjorie Gangialosa, of North Lake; and Floyd Kerner of Chicago.

All were rushed by ambulance to St. Alexius Hospital, along with Kostopoulos, and later released.

Elk Grove Village police assisted county police with traffic at the scene, and the Elk Grove Fire Department was called to cut Miss Otters from the car with an acetone torch.

The speed limit on Rt. 83 is 50 miles an hour at the point the accident occurred, but police said they had no idea how fast the vehicles were going on impact.

Kostopoulos was charged with driving too fast for conditions and driving on the wrong side of the road. He is scheduled to appear in Niles traffic court on Oct. 5.

MISS OTTERS was a sophomore at Elk Grove High School. Visitation will be at the Lautenberg and Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights from 2 to 10 p.m. Friday.

Funeral services will be held there at 2:30 p.m. Saturday with the Rev. Gerald Malgren, North Austin Lutheran Church of Oak Park, presiding.

She is survived by her parents, William H. Jr. and Rosemary; a sister, Linda; and her grandparents, William H. (Sr.) and Ada Otters of Oak Park.

STOP SIGNS have been installed on Elk Grove Blvd. at Kennedy Blvd., cited as a potentially hazardous intersection by Elk Grove Village police. Warning tickets will be issued through next Friday.

Village Teens Start Hotline

The Elk Grove Village teen hotline is scheduled to go into operation today at 4 p.m.

The number that teenagers may now call whenever they have problems to discuss or questions to ask is 439-8600.

The hotline, to be manned by 15 volunteer teenagers under supervision, will be open for calls daily. Tom Woodard, youth director at Elk Grove Community Service, which is sponsoring the hotline, said the volunteers voted Thursday to start the operation, even though the new location is not yet available. Location of the line is not being released.

The hours, which will continue after the phones are moved to the new location, are: 4 to 11 p.m. Sundays through Thursdays and 6 p.m. to 3 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

The volunteers have been trained in listening techniques for at least 35 hours, according to Woodard, who will supervise the volunteers.

No Paper On Monday

Paddock Publications will observe the Labor Day holiday Monday, Sept. 7 by not publishing newspapers that day.

Publication will resume as usual on Tuesday for the Cook County Herald.

Cry 'Nothing To Do' — Has Teen Center Failed?

Teenagers in Elk Grove Village have communicated a feeling of boredom to anyone who would listen. Not only are there cries of "there's nothing to do" but more often than the cry comes out, "there's nothing we want to do." A teen center was opened last February to help alleviate the problem. Some people think it has failed. Others call it a success. While teen center officials have not openly announced the center as a success, they feel it has done some good and has been worthwhile. They have outlined some plans which they hope will better meet the needs of the teens. New teen center hours and scheduling are expected to begin next week.

The Elk Grove Village Teen Center operation may be revamped this fall based on questioning of youth who have participated in the center since it opened last February.

New supervisors in the center are considering several ideas to encourage more participation in use of the center, either for social gatherings or programs.

THE NEW scheduling would be based on observations made by Richard Ludovissy, teen center director since last September. Although Ludovissy has been transferred to the position of recreation program supervisor for the Elk Grove Park District, he will still be advising the center personnel until Bill Hughes, the new supervisor, returns to the position full time in December. The park district sponsors the center.

Hughes, and Bob Kuroski, new activities coordinator, may be initiating the schedule next week to determine if it is more acceptable to teens.

Hughes presented a tentative scheduling which includes opening specific evenings for special groups. For example, Monday night the center would be open to freshmen, Tuesday to sophomores, Wednesday to juniors and seniors and Thursdays to all teens. Friday and Saturday evenings would be dedicated to special events.

THE MAIN special events for these evenings would be dances, but other projects such as a fun carnival and casino night are being considered.

Hughes and Kuroski began their positions this week, and said they were still in the planning stages.

Hughes is completing requirements for a recreation administration degree this fall at Western Illinois University. At 22, he has had several years of part-time and summer experience in park district work.

Kuroski, 22, a Western Illinois University graduate, was hired as full-time activities coordinator.

Although the teen center has a membership of 800, only 50 to 75 have been using the center on a daily basis. Critics of the center have used this fact to term the center a failure.

"It all depends on what you mean by success," Mrs. Sandra Little, park district recreation superintendent, said.

"WE DON'T feel the teen center has been a failure just because only 50 kids show up regularly if that's 50 kids that wouldn't have a place to go without the teen center," she said.

Ludovissy agreed with her. "If you are speaking of quantity when you talk about success, then you may say it hasn't been as successful as expected. But quality-wise, well, the kids that use it enjoy it, and many of the places that once had problems with loitering teens no longer are complaining.

"The bowling alley donated cue sticks to the center because kids evidently aren't hanging around there any more; Jake's Pizza doesn't seem to have as much a problem with kids loitering, and the park police say there are fewer problems around the pools," he said.

OTHER CHANGES at the center will include new opening hours. The center will now be open from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays. Fridays it will be open 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 11 p.m. and Saturdays from 1 to 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 11 p.m.

Last year the center was open from 3 to 10 p.m. during the school week but it was discovered that the teens usually go home by 5:30 p.m. for dinner, Ludovissy said.

He added that the center will now open a half hour later because he found that some teens were cutting their last class to come to the center. Now the hours are more coordinated with class hours.

As soon as school gets under way, and dances at the teen center become more frequent, more teens are expected to participate, according to Kuroski. During the summer, dances drew the biggest crowds, averaging 200 teens.

A MEMBERSHIP drive beginning the first week in October may also give an indication of the student turnout this year.

Beginning Oct. 1 old membership cards are invalid and new ones must be purchased for the year for $2. Any high school age persons living within the Elk Grove Park District boundaries or attending Elk Grove High School is eligible for teen center membership. The fee includes a photo-identification card, special rates for dances, special events and general admittance to the center.

The membership drive will run through the second week in October. Elections for teen council officers will be held at the end of October, approximately two weeks after membership is completed.

Some of the activities scheduled for this year are scuba diving instruction, flag football for boys, powderpuff flag football for girls, splash parties and discussion groups. Several small ski trips in the area are also being planned, Hughes said.

Home Aid Plan Needs $10,000

Plans for a Northwest Suburban Home-maker Service to be initiated in the Elk Grove Village area have stalled due to lack of funds, according to Thomas Smith, Elk Grove Village Community Service director.

The Homemaker service provides a trained child care specialist who has had experience in working with families and raising children and will help in the home upon request when a mother is absent.

At least $10,000 "seed money" is needed to start the program in January of 1971, Smith said.

The homemaker service is offered in north, south and west suburban Chicago, and plans were begun six months ago by Community Service to start an office for northwest Chicago in Elk Grove Village.

"The homemaker service is still interested in coming out here but we're at the point where we recognize that it's going to be Elk Grove people without support of the surrounding communities," Smith said.

ORIGINALLY PEOPLE in Hoffman Estates, Elgin and Streamwood were planning on participating in the program but have withdrawn interest, Smith said.

"We are appealing to a number of potential funding sources hoping some realize the problem and the need," he said.

He added, "The northwest suburban area is younger than some other wings of Metropolitan Chicago, but growth is more rapid and expensive. As the area grows there will be need for developing human problem solving resources in the area.

"The problems handled by a Homemaker Service are serious. If help isn't available when a mother is absent from the home, chaos results for the kids, the father must work, and normalcy doesn't prevail. The problem may seem low incidence in any single community, but the area has real need," Smith said.

A Day Early...

We'd like to be able to give our readers the news a day early every day, but not in the way we did it yesterday.

It was just one of those inevitable production errors that caused yesterday's Herald to be dated "Wednesday, Sept. 2" rather than "Thursday, Sept. 3." We're sorry.

MAYFAIR INDUSTRIAL PARK, a $10 million development covering 36 acres on Higgins Road near Rte. 83 in Elk Grove Village, is scheduled for completion in 30 months. Groundbreaking for the first building located on Joey Road, was held yesterday. It is scheduled for completion in four months.

Break Mayfair Park Ground

Ground was broken Thursday, for the first building to be constructed in the new Mayfair Industrial Park, a $10 million development planned in Elk Grove Village.

Village President Jack D. Pahl was present for the ceremony. Others included: Thomas Rettenbacher, building superintendent in Elk Grove Village; Leonard E. Wine, of Dwin Shaffer Co., financier; and Gary Thompson, of Van C. Argiris & Co., exclusive agent for the industrial park. Mayfair Engineering Co. is the developer of the 36-acre project.

The first structure, scheduled for completion in four months, will be a 40,000 square foot inventory building convertible to various industrial uses. It will be located on Joey Drive, north of Higgins Road, one block east of Bond St.

MAYFAIR Industrial Park is the first of its type built by Mayfair Engineering Co., located in Elmwood Park. The firm has had experience in the construction of single industrial structures, and is developing condominiums in Florida.

The only commercial property in the park is the Three Musketeers Restaurant which is almost completed, according to Gus King, president of Mayfair Engineering. His partner in the project is Nick Traiforos. Architect for the project is Nicholas J. Marchese, AIA.

Streets and utilities, including water, sewer, gas and electricity, have been added to the site, according to the developer.

An estimated 25 to 30 buildings are planned. "I would think that within three light manufacturing and warehousing operations. I would think that within three to four years, the development will be completed," said Thompson. "The number of buildings in the project may decrease if there are unusually large users attracted," he said.

"We've had a lot of interest shown in the development," Thompson continued. "We'll probably know in the next week if we will go ahead on the construction of a second, build-to-suit structure."

Thompson said both inventory and built-to-suit facilities are planned for Mayfair Industrial Park.

"The developers are striving for unique design and architecture in each of the buildings," Thompson said.

New Rules Passed By Racing Board

All officers, directors and substantial owners of Arlington Park, along with those of other tracks in the state, will be required to make certain disclosures to the Illinois Racing Board under new rules adopted by the board yesterday.

The Illinois Racing Board approved three new rules—representing substantial changes to a proposed licensing regulation unveiled at a committee hearing last week.

The proposed regulation, released Aug. 25 by a special subcommittee, would have required the licensing of all directors, officers and substantial owners of any association, corporation or business entity desiring to conduct a racing meeting in the state.

Yesterday the subcommittee, headed by board commissioner Herman A. Stamer, proposed three rules that cover in part the original proposal. Prior to the board's vote on the new rules, Alexander MacArthur, board chairman, explained that the over-all nature of the rules would be one of disclosure instead of licensing.

REPRESENTATIVES of Chicago

Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE), operators of Arlington Park, and other track owners voiced objections to the original proposal, but accepted the new rules.

The first rule accepted states, "A license to conduct a horse race meeting is non-transferable, and will terminate upon a substantial change of ownership of the licensee, without prior approval of the board. The sale or transfer of 25 percent or more will be considered a substantial change."

The second new rule provides that all officers, directors and substantial owners of an applicant for racing dates must make a written financial disclosure to the board prior to Oct. 1, on forms provided by the board. This disclosure would be made under oath, as stipulated in the forms.

Newton Mandel, a member of the board of CTE, said the new rules are "sensible." He added, "Without reviewing them carefully, they are entirely acceptable. This is what we proposed all along. We have nothing to hide."

Stamer said rules regarding these areas must go through the attorney general's office before they can be proposed to the board. Stamer said those rules, which might be ready in two weeks, also are in the nature of disclosure rather than licensing.

Crane-Wagon Starts To Roll

U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-10th, will launch his campaign for reelection tomorrow with a full day of activities in Schaumburg Township, the western edge of the district.

Crane, who was elected to the United States House of Representatives in a special election last November, will visit Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Hanover Park during the day and will conclude his activities at the Hoffman Estates Fireman's Dance Saturday evening.

The congressman will visit customers at the Suburban Bank in Hoffman Estates from 10 to 11 a.m. and then will move to the Schaumburg State Bank where he will stay from 11 a.m. until noon.

At 12:30 p.m., he will attend a luncheon at the Lancer Restaurant, Algonquin and Meacham roads.

From 3 to 5 p.m., Crane will attend several neighborhood receptions in the three communities, with special emphasis in Hanover Park, according to GOP Committeewoman Mrs. Sally Catlin.

A COCKTAIL party is planned for 7 to 9 p.m. at the home of Committeeman Donald L. Totten prior to the fireman's dance.

"We're trying to get the congressman and the grass roots together here in Schaumburg Township in just a 19-hour period," Mrs. Catlin said. "Communication between representatives and the constituency is a basic necessity for the successful operation of democracy and we hope interested residents will take advantage of this opportunity to meet and influence their congressman."

Rep. Philip Crane

Schaumburg Township was one of Crane's most solid supporters when he ran against Democratic State Rep. Edward Warman in the special election to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former Rep. Donald Rumsfeld.

Since he was sworn in December, Crane has received national publicity because of his visit to the Mid-East in February and his visit to China and South Vietnam in July.

Following the Vietnam visit, Crane refuted charges by two other congressmen that conditions in the Con Son prison were "inhumane" and accused Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., of being "blind or deliberately trying to mislead the public."

Crane is considered a safe winner in his Nov. 3 rematch with Warman.

THE LAST NEW rule stipulates that the board must be notified within 10 days of any new officers or directors of a licensee and the identity of every person, trust or foundation acquiring 5 percent or more of the licensee's equity.

The new rules did not touch on some of the issues that CTE attorneys took exception to last week. Those areas include who would incur the expense of an investigation the board might decide to hold into the applicant's financial and moral integrity and the question of whether or not an applicant's interest in a legal gaming operation in another jurisdiction would be cause to deny racing dates.

School Taxes May Go Up 5.6%

High School Dist. 214 property owners could see their tax bills increase by about 5.6 per cent next year, a district official told the school board's budget committee Wednesday night.

Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business affairs, showed the board that the 1971-72 tax rate could climb from this year's figure of $2.27 to a new total of $2.33 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget committee was meeting to examine not only the district's projected tax rate, but also means of cutting into possible future deficit spending.

have to seek taxpayer support for a bond issue.

SEVERAL BOARD members are working to eliminate the need for another school. For example, Richard Stamm has argued strongly in recent weeks for a community program involving local businesses educating students in vocational fields.

And Mrs. Leah Cummins has added that evening courses for students could help channel the student population out of the regular, traditional schedule, thus allowing the district to serve more students in the present seven high schools.

Com. 75 also is studying a four-quarter plan. It has recommended that the board adopt a four-quarter plan "at the earliest feasible time." That could eliminate the eighth high school, too.

Lutheran Church To Educate Retarded

The Lutheran Church of the Holy Spirit, Elk Grove Village, Illinois, will introduce into its class schedule a session of Christian Education for Mentally Retarded Children beginning Sept. 10.

It will be for children ages approximately 6 to 14 and will meet on Thursday after school for about one hour from Sept. 10 to June. Parents must arrange transportation. Anticipated cost for the year is $5 per child.

The course of study planned will cover basic Christian teachings and it is open to all. No more than five children per teacher will be enrolled.

The program will be directed by Mr. Robert W. Smith, who studied special education at Northern Illinois University and taught a public school class of educable, mentally handicapped children.

For further information concerning this class or the Christian education of other handicapped children, contact Smith at 437-1556.

$200 Theft Reported

George Sittler, 44, of Indianapolis, reported to Elk Grove Village police Wednesday his room at the Holiday Inn was broken into and burglarized.

Sittler told police a suitcase, radio and other miscellaneous items valued at $200 were missing.

Police said the room had been ransacked, with dresser drawers pulled open and other suitcases searched.

Sittler said he was in Elk Grove on business, along with his daughter, and didn't discover the theft until he returned that night. Police are investigating the case.

Follow Tips For A Safe Labor Day

By BRAD BREKKE

Each Labor Day a terrible price is paid on our highways to get from here to there.

Paid in toll. Paid in blood.

The National Safety Council (NSC) estimates 670 motorists will be killed this weekend and 27,000 more will be injured.

The statistics aren't encouraging and mean little to the average motorist, unless of course, he is one of them.

A large percentage of persons in the Northwest suburbs will be leaving town this weekend to visit relatives and friends.

And local officials have some safety tips:

Capt. Jack Aldrich of the Arlington Heights police force said, "Avoid Golf, Algonquin, Arlington Heights and Palatine roads because of construction." He said the frequency of accidents is lower over holiday weekends, but the accidents which do occur are more severe.

IN MOUNT PROSPECT, the Jaycees Oktoberfest will be the only community activity and Police Chief Newell Esmond said he doesn't anticipate any special traffic problems due to it.

Robert Centner, Palatine Police Chief, said he expects local traffic to be less than on normal weekdays and urged residents "to leave early and take your time coming home."

In Rolling Meadows, Police Chief Lewis Case said an extra squad car will be patrolling the streets over the weekend and that the heaviest traffic will be Saturday morning and Monday night.

BE CAREFUL—On the highways and near lakes and ponds, residents are urged to be extremely cautious this Labor Day weekend. Traffic in the Northwest suburbs is expected to be light over the holiday as many persons will be out of town visiting friends and relatives. Others will remain home and visit a forest preserve, such as Beck Lake in Des Plaines, where families can picnic, boat and fish during the last days of summer.

Not A 'Nice Place To Visit'

by JUDY BRANDES

The waiting room for the intensive care unit at Northwest Community Hospital is in the hallway between the coronary care unit and the surgery rooms.

The hallway is where family and friends of people seriously hurt in automobile accidents wait for progress reports and a chance every hour to see their injured loved ones.

Right now, before the Labor Day weekend even begins, families of five area residents are sitting in the intensive care unit waiting room. Some of them have been there two weeks. They will all be there over the Labor Day weekend.

The patients are in serious or critical condition. One Wheeling man is still unconscious two weeks after his car hit a median strip on the Northwest Tollway in mid-afternoon.

The three men in the intensive unit were driving their cars, the two women were passengers. In four of the five cases the driver lost control of his car and hit a guard rail.

THE FIFTH PATIENT, a Rolling Meadows man, was struck head-on by an automobile which crossed the median on Route 53 near the Tollway.

Weather was not a factor in any of the accidents. All but one accident occurred in daylight hours. According to police reports, none of the drivers were under the influence of alcohol.

High speed and failure to have an automobile under control at all times were the factors which caused the accidents, police reports show.

A Palatine man lost control of his car on the Tollway near Oakton Road in Mount Prospect and hit a rail. He received a brain concussion. His passenger, an Arlington Heights woman, is also in the intensive care unit with a broken right leg and ankle, broken left hip and elbow, and facial injuries.

A ROLLING MEADOWS couple traveling south on Route 53 on a Saturday morning also hit a guard rail. The wife has a fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

The intensive care unit has eight beds in it. Today five are occupied by patients who were in automobile accidents which occurred under what police call "normal and safe road conditions."

"Our intensive care unit is not only for auto accident victims," a hospital spokesman said.

"We get other types of patients in intensive care, but the accident ones are the most tragic. They are also the ones who stay the longest."

The five intensive care unit patients will be recuperating for their injuries at least six months, hospital officials estimate. "They may be moved out of intensive care fairly soon, but they won't be up and about for quite a while," the observer said.

He gave one final fact about the five: the oldest is a 32-year-old man, the youngest, two 19-year-old wives.

NORTH PARK GRADUATES
At commencement exercises June 14, two Arlington Heights students received degrees from North Park College.
Dana Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Johnson of 1504 E. Campbell St., majored in philosophy.
Roger E. Griffith son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Griffith of 521 S. Mitchell, majored in mathematics.

GRADUATED FROM CULVER
Dennis L. Stevens of Palatine received his diploma during Culver Military Academy's historic Iron Gate Ceremony on June 8.
Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Stevens, 332 N. Lexington Drive, Palatine, was a member of the band and one of 180 seniors from 30 states and six foreign countries graduated following colorful June Week activities.
Stevens, although active in company sports, participated most actively in all phases of musical events. He won first place awards in both district and state music contests all three years of his attendance at Culver.
During his senior year he was captain of the Honor Band which was formed two years ago and is made up of selected instrumentalists who play for special concerts and outside music events.
Stevens expects to attend the Adams State College at Alamosa, Colorado.

ROCKFORD GRADUATE
Jeffrey William Lind, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lind of 451 Comfort Lane, Palatine, has been awarded a bachelor of arts degree from Rockford College.

Nature Series To Continue

The DuPage County Forest Preserves will continue its series of public nature study and recreation outings by holding a hike, Sept. 20 at 3 p.m. at the Churchill Forest Preserve, on St. Charles Road, about one mile west of Rte. 53 and one mile east of Main Street in Glen Ellyn.

This trek to the out-of-doors will last about two and one-half hours and will be followed by a supper-fire program.

Participants are asked to wear field clothes and bring a supper. Some participants may want to carry along a magnifying lens, binoculars, camera or note pad.

Campaign Comments

by ED MURNANE

GOP County Chairman Edmund Kucharasi, who is the Republican candidate for state treasurer, said the suburbs are the key to victory for the Republican Party this fall. Kucharasi's remarks were made at the first of a series of breakfasts the GOP county candidates are having with suburban newspaper editors. Democrats also have been saying the suburbs will be the battleground this fall.

Edmund Kucharasi

Herald offices could have passed for Republican headquarters Wednesday afternoon. Three top-level GOP personalities converged on the Arlington Heights office at one time. Robert P. Hanrahan, county superintendent of schools, was in for a candidate interview; Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, stopped by to deliver a news release; and Richard Cowen, Wheeling GOP committeeman, was in to talk about Tom Hauser's visit to the area.

Saturday night's Hoffman Estates Fireman's dinner will be a political battleground of its own. Scheduled to visit the affair are U. S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-13th; Adlai E. Stevenson III, Democratic candidate for United States Senator; and Michael Bakalis, Democratic candidate for state superintendent of public instruction.

Crane plans to spend the entire day in Schaumburg Township while Bakalis will be campaigning all day in Wheeling Township.

Township.

Crane, incidentally, will be honored Sunday by the American Zionist Association as the Republican congressman who has contributed most to the welfare of Israel this year. He visited the Mid-East in February.

Michael Howlett, auditor of Illinois and a Democrat, said Sen. Ralph Smith is "trying to divide the people of Illinois" by his use of billboards saying he represents downstate Illinois.

"A United States Senator must represent Republicans, Democrats, the rich, the poor, black, white, young and old," Howlett said.

A series of campaign workshops is planned for Wheeling Township Democrats this month by State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and Democratic Committeeman James L. McCabe, Sept. 10 and 17 are the dates and both will be held in Mrs. Chapman's home, 16 S. Princeton Ct., Arlington Heights, at 8 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling 253-7082.

A reception for Sen. John A. Crane, R-Barrington, is scheduled for Sept. 20 at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel. Bob Burrow, of Burrow Chevrolet in Barrington, is chairman and donations to Graham's campaign fund may be sent to Roy Klepper at the First National Bank and Trust Co. in Barrington.

Graham will have a hard time duplicating the excitement he had at last summer's reception. The day was July 20 and just as the reception began, Neil Armstrong's voice on the television sets reported, "Tranquility Base here, the Eagle has landed."

Driving this weekend? The Illinois Tollway Authority will provide free coffee between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m. on Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday at the Fred Harvey Restaurants along the tollway system.

The law of symmetry is one of the greatest frauds perpetrated on the bridge playing public. The idea of this pseudo law is that if you have a singleton or singletons then everyone else will have singletons.

The reason why some people believe this is that when you have a singleton, you have a long suit; when you have a long suit someone else has a short suit.

South was looking at two singletons, one in his hand and one in dummy. He was also looking at nine spades.

All else being equal the correct play with nine of a suit is to play out the ace and king. Once both opponents follow small to the first lead the odds are that the queen will drop on the next lead.

This applies no matter how many singletons declarer is looking at. The opponents' spades don't know how declarer's suits are divided. They just split in accordance with the law of averages which is a valid law and never has been repealed.

With this hand there is a further and really cogent reason to play out the ace and king of trumps. If the queen of trumps doesn't drop, South can try the club finesse. If it works he can discard both his hearts on the ace and king.

South knew all this but he had also fallen for the symmetry propaganda. He had one singleton. Dummy had one singleton. There had to be a singleton in spades.

South played his ace of spades. Ruffed a diamond to get to dummy and tried the trump finesse.

West took his queen gratefully and led a heart to his partner's ace.

THE ACCEPTED INFLUENCE IN THE NORTHWEST SUBURBS

Smith To Contact FAA On Jet Issue

Bensenville officials are getting some help on the national level in their bid to curb noise pollution from jets flying over the village.

In a letter to Village Pres. John Varble recently, Sen. Ralph Smith said he would be contacting the administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) "setting forth the facts presented by you (Bensenville officials) and others on the problems within the administration's jurisdiction."

Smith said, however, the construction of the northeast-southwest runway at O'Hare was out of the FAA's jurisdiction since "no federal funds were involved."

"The FAA was not in a position to legally prevent this development since the airport is owned and operated by the City of Chicago," the letter said.

Bensenville is presently involved in a suit seeking to halt runway construction at the airport until acceptable noise suppressing devices are installed on jets. Park Ridge, Elmhurst, Schiller Park, Norridge and several private citizens are also involved in the suit.

Smith also said in his letter he has "advocated the desirability of a third airport for the Chicago area" and has suggested "numerous times" that more flights should be diverted from O'Hare to Midway airport.

"I have been quite critical of noise and air pollution and have brought this to the personal attention of the administrator of the FAA," Smith said.

Schools Set Safety Plan

With schools opening early this month for the fall term, Ray Page, Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, is asking that school officials stress safety:

"Our most important asset, our children, will once again be traveling between home and school. Again this year I ask each of you to stress safety, whether a child is walking, riding his bicycle, or being transported by family car, a public or school bus."

Page's message was directed to Illinois school administrators and school boards throughout the state.

HE ALSO ASKED that every effort be made to remind "Parents and all drivers of the need for extreme caution during the hours when children will be on the streets and roads of Illinois traveling between their home and their school."

Section 29 of the Illinois School Code spells out protection for school buses and children, when a visual signal indicates for school buses receiving or discharging children, when a visual signal indicates the bus is stopping for that purpose.

Page pointed out, "School bus" means every motor vehicle operated by or for public or governmental agency or by a private or religious organization solely for the transportation of pupils in connection with any school activity."

Obituaries

Candace R. Otters

Candace R. (Candy) Otters, 15, of 234 Peach Tree Ln., Elk Grove Village, was pronounced dead on arrival Wednesday evening at St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village, from injuries suffered in a two-car collision on Elmhurst Road bridge over the Northwest Tollway in Elk Grove Village.

Visitation is today from 2 to 10 p.m. in Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, and tomorrow until time of funeral services at 2:30 p.m. in the chapel of the funeral home.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie Faye Odgers, 49, of 512 S. Plymouth, Schaumburg, a resident for seven years, who died Wednesday in St. Alexius Hospital, Elk Grove Village, following a short illness, will be held at 2 p.m. today in Martin Funeral Home, 333 S. Roselle Rd., Roselle.

The Rev. John Sternberg of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Schaumburg, will officiate. Burial will be in Lake Street Memorial Cemetery, Elgin.

Preceded in death by her husband, Donald in 1967, survivors include four sons, Larry, Steven and Jerry, all at home and Dennis of Hoffman Estates; one grandchild; and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mildred Odgers of Highland Park, Mich.

Pet Pony Lost; Reward Offered

by KEN HARDWICKE

Tony Bordenoro lost his best friend Aug. 23.

What matters to Tony, a 6-year-old boy living at 580 N. Central Ave., in Wood Dale, is that his newly-acquired pony disappeared without a trace.

"My little guy is pretty hurt and I'll give a reward when I receive any information leading to the recovery of the pony," said the boy's father.

But it's been a dozen days since Tony rode his pet around the pasture and nobody has even phoned.

Tony isn't the only child heartbroken by the pony's mysterious disappearance. The Bordenoros have five other children who make "King" a part of their family with daily feedings, brushings and short rides around the yard.

James Bordenoro was the last to see the family pet. He tied him to a tree in the pasture before entering the house around 9 p.m. Aug. 23.

"When the kids woke up around 8 o'clock, he was gone," recalls Bordenoro of the incident.

The Bordenoro family only had "King" for two days. He was a gift from a friend. It's not easy to build an attachment to anyone in two days but the Bordenoro family did. The tears in Tony's eyes will verify that.

"HE WAS SO good with the kids," Bordenoro said. "That's why I want him back. He's like a little dog."

To date, there has been no information on the whereabouts of "King" — a liver-chestnut, white-tailed pony who stands about 40 inches high.

Bordenoro believes someone has the pony locked up because nobody has reported seeing him. He is hoping the promise of a reward will bring the pony back home.

Anyone who has information on the location of the Bordenoro pet pony should phone 766-6824.

They're having a blast learning piano, and their school grades will improve, too.

Here's how:

Our sparkling new approach guarantees to make piano lessons fun, as they should have been all along. The result is rapid achievement of piano skills, along with the development of good learning habits which will last for a lifetime.

Motivation to learn comes from the student's own achievements in our classes as they learn quickly to compose their own songs, improvise, sight read, and play in any key. All of this is accomplished with a program which stresses the understanding of music, rather than the memorizing of music.

While learning piano with us our students are at the same time assured the scientifically proven advantages of music study, for music rightly taught is the best mind trainer on the list.

Our fall term begins the week of Sept. 14th. You may assure a convenient class time by calling 253-5592 now to pre-register. Tuition is $2.00 a month. The registration and materials fee of $10.00 includes everything that will be needed for the entire school year. Guarantee the magic of music for your school-ager by enrolling in the M.E.C. Piano class now. Call 253-5592.

When A Fellow Needs A Friend

The Way We See It

Aid Crime Victims

Too often, the victims of violent crime are overlooked as society focuses its attention on punishing the offender.

An individual may be beaten and robbed, may suffer disastrous personal and financial consequences, and the law treats the offense solely as crime against the state.

However, attitudes change, and a growing number of states are providing compensation to hard-pressed crime victims. Among them are New York, California, Hawaii, Maryland and Massachusetts. So far, they have paid out

$1.8 million to approximately 1,000 claimants.

That is a small sum but in individual cases the assistance can be vital.

How the compensation is paid varies from state to state. In New York, a three-member board rules on claims investigated by staff members and can pay up to $15,000 for loss of income. In Maryland, the highest allowable payout, for permanent disability is $45,000. In general, compensation is allowed only for unreimbursed medical expenses and loss of income. However, Hawaii's code permits claims for mental anguish, and a rape victim was compensated $108 for medical fees and more than $2,000 for pain, suffering and medical shock.

The concept of compensating crime victims dates back to ancient times but fell into disuse in modern times. The present system permits a crime victim to file a civil suit against his attacker, but the attacker usually has no resources.

Compensation acts recognize this injustice, as well as the growing incidence of crimes against individuals.

Veto-Proofing A Federal Bill

When the House voted to override the veto of the $4.4 billion education bill, there were pious statements about the enormous needs of the schools. Among observers, however, there was wide agreement that the biggest factor in the vote was the bill's allocation of an extra $126 million to "federally impacted" areas.

These are areas where the schools have heavy enrollments of children of Federal workers. While some such areas may indeed need special help, some of them are among the nation's wealthiest districts.

President Nixon had sought to trim this sort of assistance to a more reasonable level. But it happens that well over half the House members come from districts that would be favored by the bill.

So the lesson for proponents of legislative measures is clear: If you really want to veto-proof a bill don't worry too much about how well it is drawn. Just be sure it passes out enough bucks in enough places.

Eye on Arlington

Imagination In Park Programs

by SANDRA BROWNING

The lack of creative thinking by personnel at the Arlington Heights Park District continues to amaze me.

A glance at the fall programs sponsored by the park district show activities like sports for boys, gourmet cooking classes and lessons in gift wrapping.

What about the girls in this town who might have the misfortune of being tomboys and want to play sports? They're offered something like cooking for girls. Big deal.

THE TOMBOYS of the town are releghetti.

AS FOR THE adult programs, the selection is great but irrelevant to daily living.

Gift wrapping, scuba diving and gourmet cooking may be nice to know, but are they necessary to everyday existence?

How about a course on how to get around the no-left-turn downtown Arlington Heights to pick your husband up at the train? Or some lessons on how to get from southern Arlington Heights to the northern part of the village without using Arlington Heights Road during rush hour?

Gourmet cooking is nice. you don't have finicky kids and a husband who never gets home on time.

A better course might be 100 different ways to serve scrambled eggs to a child who will eat only that. Incorporated into that class should be lessons on how to keep a dinner edible after being on the stove for three hours waiting for hubby.

Another suggestion might be 1,001 different ways to spend two hours while standing in line waiting to buy your summer swimming pool pass from the park district.

A special event type program for a one night shot could be "How to Stop Worrying and Love the Pill."

FOR RESIDENTS who are affected by special assessment projects, the park district could start a class to help citizens win arguments with the Board of Local Improvements (BOLI). It could be entitled "How to Win Enemies and Influence Board Members." or "The Impossible Dream."

Although the park schedule includes something like 110 programs, I think park employees could jog their minds and come up with ideas better than boys' basketball league and gift wrapping.

I may be cutting my own throat by suggesting some different programs. The park district will probably suggest I take a class entitled "How to Move to a South Seas Island and Stay There Forever."

vention call, more so than any other organization, and the referendum was overwhelmingly approved.

Several other statewide organizations also are likely to take action on the new Constitution, and the odds are that they too will endorse it.

The Illinois Education Association, whose membership includes thousands of Illinois educators and administrators, probably will endorse the Constitution since it removes the office of state superintendent of public instruction from politics and replaces that office with an appointed state superintendent who would be selected by an elected state board of education.

And the Illinois Jaycees, whose membership includes more than 30,000 men between the ages of 21 and 35, also is likely to take favorable action on the document since it very closely parallels the model Constitution the Jaycees them-

The Political Beat

Campaign Slow Starter

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

Though virtually reams of political news is being written and distributed through newspapers and additional reams broadcast over the airwaves on the 1970 election campaign, that campaign has not yet got off the ground. From observations everywhere candidates seeking votes are going to find slow and rough going.

In the first place these candidates are already learning that the campaign donation is not easy to come by this year, and volunteers no longer are interested in working for "the good of the party" without reward. The politics of the last decade with its student revolts has led to a distrust of politicians, political methods and political goals.

The enthusiasm generated at the beginning of the decade for participation in the great American circus has all but disappeared in this era of uncertainty we are now beginning. The 1960's for the most part belonged to the politicians of both parties as is testified to by the debacles of 1964 and 1968 respectively. Now there is good reason to believe such decision-making will be removed almost entirely from these hands.

IN THE 1970's can be seen coming on the horizon the revolt of the consumer in practically every facet of the economy. Free enterprise is challenged not by Communists but by the people for whom it professes to provide the best of services, second to none in the world. The politicians never looked for this but they are going to have to accept it. For the slogan-makers consumers are not just a symbol for this or that group of votes. Consumers represent the votes of everyone who earns and spends. So when the candidate gets on his soap box he had better be sure his speechwriter knows the temper of the voter who is critical of slick rhetoric.

The consumer wants to know how many ounces he is getting in the pound and what ingredients are contained in the merchandise. This is the climate of the 1970's. The opposing candidates will be weighed accordingly.

Beyond this and the cliché issues that candidates like to promote in their campaigns is transition politics itself. A national labor leader has warned that the Democrats are headed for lean days because their principal voting bases are disappearing. The great New Deal coalition of the 1930's comprising mainly union labor and the big city machines is long in decline. Both labor and the big city are said to have passed their peak and must become not primary but secondary factors in future state and national elections.

New voter groups — the young, the working professions, the racial and low-income minorities together with a growing army of pensioners — represent a formidable voting strength looking for constructive and trustworthy leadership. These are the people Sen. Robert Kennedy sought to organize when an assassin's bullet cut him down in 1968. Are they the wave of the future in the politics of the 1970's?

BUT THE MOST promising innovation to come in American politics in this decade are the many talented younger names now appearing in the news on the state and national scene. They are a different breed, highly educated with a social intelligence. They are knocking at the door of leadership, to take over from tired hands too weary and confused to face the problems of a new kind of society.

It is safe to say that the politics of this decade and the political destinies of our state and nation will be shaped almost entirely by these politically aware and younger men in both Republican and Democratic parties. Whatever their shortcomings they accept the realities of this age and have a sense of their world as a community.

The Fence Post

Change, But For The Better

The research done by one of your readers in regard to a letter I had written about "no-left-turn" signs was extensive.

However, although he clocked various routes down to a tenth of a second, he was not accurate enough to notice that there is no address 1007 W. Miner. That was a previous typographical error. The address is actually 1005. Why was the gentleman not accurate enough to notice this?

Secondly, he suggests we proceed straight ahead on Wing to Dunton. Did he not notice the sign at Vail and Wing "Right turn only"? To continue on through to Dunton would have been illegal.

FINALLY HIS suggestion of cutting through the Jewel Parking Lot to avoid the signs does not seem a legitimate one. Public streets are to be used as thoroughfares, not private property. To do so, infringes on property rights and purposes of another individual.

Therefore, the routes I previously outlined seem the only alternative to reach the train, bank or access to the Northwest Highway which many use to drive to and from work. The time involved would depend on the hour of day and weather conditions.

I certainly am not opposed to change if it be for the better or even if only a few were inconvenienced but benefited the majority. However, when many hundreds have attested their opposition by their signatures to petitions, it seems the plan should be reevaluated and a better solution formulated.

gated to playing sports in school usually with other girls, something which a dedicated tomboy would disdain.

Some competitive sports should be offered for girls because they have as much energy to work off as many of the boys do. Powderpuff football can be fun and an inter-league game at the end of the year with boys could be interesting.

Channeling boys only into the sports program is also not necessary. Perhaps the cooking class should be opened to boys.

A survey of students at south Junior High School showed boys had an interest in cooking and during their free period, boys may elect to attend a cooking class which has proven to be popular.

Many young men hit college and apartment life without knowing anything about household chores. A basic course in cooking would relieve the necessity of living on frozen pot pies and canned spa-

Looking At Con-Con

League Endorsement First Of Many

by ED MURNANE

The endorsement of Illinois' proposed Constitution this week by the League of Women Voters probably is only the first of many statewide endorsements the new document will receive.

The League's endorsement, which came even before the Constitutional Convention adjourned, was not surprising. LWV members pride themselves on their efforts in behalf of a new Constitution for Illinois during the last 25 years and the document written during the last nine months in Springfield is so close to the League's proposed Constitution that the League itself may have written it.

In fact, at last Tuesday's LWV program at which the endorsement was made, one League member said the Constitution would have been written long ago if the delegates had let the LWV write it.

THE LEAGUE'S endorsement means

Ed Murnane

10,000 LWV members in Illinois will campaign for the Constitution when it is submitted to the voters Dec. 15. That's a lot of support, particularly when the LWV's efforts on behalf of the Constitutional Convention call in 1968 are recalled.

It was the League that tirelessly worked to win voter approval of the con-

No Room For Fishing, Swimming Public Waters Of Illinois Vanishing

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Do you happen to have $2.25 in your pocket?

I'm talking about $2.25 that you have no use for.

If you would like to throw away $2.25, buy an Illinois fishing license.

It's as good a way as any to waste your money.

The state of Illinois will gladly milk you of your $2.25 but it does not give the fisherman a place to wet his line, particularly in northeastern Illinois.

And the situation is getting worse.

If you want to fish in the waters of northeastern Illinois you must either (1) own a boat, (2) live on a lakefront lot, or (3) know somebody who lives on a lakefront lot.

The biggest problem facing fishermen are those lakefront lots.

For some reason or another (probably greed), Illinois has sold nearly every square foot of land surrounding the waters of lakes, bays, ponds and rivers.

Fox Lake is nearly surrounded by private homes whose lots reach right down to the water. Grass Lake is the same. So is Pistakee Lake, Long Lake, Round Lake, Lake Zurich, Deep Lake and Lake Villa. There are probably many more that I have missed in my 300 miles of journeying seeking fishing grounds in northeastern Illinois.

Not only does the fisherman face the dilemma of finding a place to fish, when he does discover one, the waters are usually polluted from the wastes that the lakefront home owners spew into the lakes and bays.

The state, somewhere along the line, figured that it could get more money by selling lots near lakefronts.

Well, Illinois, which is so poorly managed by the government that it was on the verge of bankruptcy before the state income tax was imposed, got its money from selling lakefront lots.

Thus, nearly 5,000,000 people in northeastern Illinois have little water for, not only fishing, but swimming as well.

Inevitably, somebody is going to mention the forest preserves and state parks that Illinois has established.

But let's get one thing straight — the forest preserves are nothing more than parks with a few acres of trees and grass. Forest preserves is just a fancy name for a park.

There are few bodies of water on these forest preserves for fishing, boating or swimming. A few forest preserves have rivers running through them, such as the Des Plaines River, but they are disgustingly polluted.

There are a few state parks but these are next to useless to the average weekend fisherman.

Take the Chain O' Lakes State Park, for instance.

There is only one road accessible to Grass Lake, on which the state park is located. And that one road leads to a boat ramp.

Waters around boat ramps, filled with oil spewed forth from boat engines, motor noise and congestion, are not exactly a haven for fish.

The McHenry Dam State Park is in the same boat, so to speak, as the Chain O' Lakes park.

Therefore, if you do not own a boat, or if you cannot afford to rent a boat for the outlandish prices renters charge, the state parks are worthless to the average fisherman.

Not only have local developers purchased most of the area around lakes, many of these developers have bought entire lakes from the obliging Illinois government.

At some of these lakes, no one except the land owners in the housing development may fish in the lake.

As a sign said on one such lake, "No fishing unless you have a special permit card and necessary identification."

One landowner at such a development found a way to make money with a sign, "Fish here — $1.50 for two hours," on his property.

Please note that I am just a run-of-the-mill fisherman. I like to get out and drop the bobber in the water once every couple of weeks. I'm not a fanatical sportsman, just a guy who likes to spend time in the outdoors once in a while.

Many readers might say that I am em-playing unnecessary scare tactics and that I am over-exaggerating the situation.

Well, I am using scare tactics. I'm scared myself. I am not over-exaggerating, in fact, I may be understating the issue.

I used to think that New Jersey, which some mole called the Garden State, was the absolute hole in the ground.

But Illinois is quickly surging into the lead. Illinois is rapidly heading toward the No. 50 ranking in outdoor recreation for Americans. And No. 50 is even lower than the same state which boasts such awful places as Camden, Newark and Trenton.

But, unless Illinois begins setting aside places for water recreation and starts to halt pollution of its waters, the Land of Lincoln will be known as . . . well . . . you can make up your own line.

As it stands now, Illinois' recreation facilities are terrible.

And it's enough to sicken the stomach.

IT LOOKS GOOD but this pond and adjoining lake are unavailable to the public. The above is located in a private development. Many housing developers have purchased entire, or most shoreline, of a majority of the lakes in Illinois . . . which leaves little room for public water recreation.

Kickin' It Around

by BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

FOR MANY YEARS the Little League baseball mother was the undisputed champion of the irate phone calls.

It wasn't even a contest.

The phone would ring, and we'd all sit there looking at it, and each other.

"A baseball mother," someone would say. We'd all nod. Nobody moved. Everybody tried to look busy.

"You answer it."

"No, you answer it."

"It's your turn."

"But I talked to that mother of the 9-year-old right felder yesterday."

"Yes, but you forgot that call just before quitting time from the woman whose son pitched that 10-bitter, walking 17, but didn't get his name in the paper."

"Sure, sure, but I got a call at home last night from some gal whose 10-year-old caught four balls in the outfield and didn't get one mention in the bleep sports section."

"I did forget that. It is my turn."

According to an eminent psychologist, Dr. Clifford Adams of Penn State University, a woman seeks love, affection, sentiment, security, companionship, home and family, community acceptance and sex in that order.

He spent 30 years researching the subject.

Dr. Adams is dead wrong. He never bothered to consult our sports department.

According to many years of research by the Herald sports staff, the first thing a woman seeks is publicity for her son or daughter.

Further research shows that 99 per cent of our irate phone calls come from women. Sure, a man phones now and then, but on a clear day you can hear the wife screaming instructions in the back-ground.

For many years the Little League mother dominated the field. And then, suddenly, dramatically, another mother moved into the coveted No. 1 spot. The swimming mother has now vaulted into the lead with the track and field mother second and the Little League baseball mother pushed down to third place.

It's a tremendous race and every time that phone rings, it signals a new development in the never-ending battle to make sure Johnny gets what publicity he deserves.

This was a summer for the swimming mother. She passed the Little League mother and moved into a commanding lead. It was almost like the Mets surge to the pennant last year.

The swimming mother has this approach:

"I think it would be wonderful if you'd come out and take a picture. Your swimming coverage has been terrible and these boys and girls just aren't getting the credit they deserve, especially the six-year-olds.

"If it was a football team, you'd be out here. No, I'm not interested just because I have four children on the team."

How can you single out a swimming mother? Well, she leans just a wee bit forward as she walks. This comes from years of carrying a stop watch around her neck.

Now, it would be easy to get the track mother and the swimming mother mixed up. They both carry stop watches. But the track mother is a shade paler since she does most of her timing during the cold, windy days of April and early May.

Both ladies squint. This comes from years of peering into the sun in an effort to catch the smoke of the gun when the starter fires his weapon.

Both have loud, penetrating voices. You would too if you constantly shouted, "C'mon Sid, You can do it Sid. C'mon Sid. Keep it up, keep it up, Sid. OOOOOH, Sid."

Sid didn't do it.

The track and field mother makes a poor finish look good.

"Atta boy, Sid. That was a seven minute mile. Did you get the school record?"

The track and swimming mothers have another thing in common. They can spot a photographer the proverbial mile away. If they can't see one, they know how to dial this number and ask us to send one out.

"If it was a football team, you'd be out here."

There are, of course, football mothers, basketball mothers, American Legion mothers, tennis mothers, wrestling mothers, cross country mothers, golf mothers, and, in this area particularly, gymnastics mothers, the fourth ranking gals for irate phone calls.

Lacrosse mothers are the finest. We haven't had a call from one in years.

I sure wish Dr. Adams would spend a year up here. I know he'd reverse his findings.

Sorry, there goes that phone again.

"It's your turn, Larry."

"No, I had the last one, it's Paul's turn."

"Paul's on vacation. It's Phil's turn."

"No, I had one this morning. Jim gets it."

"Keith should take this one."

"Yes, but he only works nights — lucky guy."

"It is my turn."

Everybody watches as you pick up the phone, slowly, cautiously.

"May I help you?"

"What? What was that?"

"A Lacrosse team? Where?"

State Champion Fremd Eyes Banner Campaign Again In Cross Country

by LARRY EVERHART

Fremd's cross country team about now must know how the Notre Dame football squad feels every year at this time.

In both cases, a banner season is likely. But there is plenty of pressure because so very much is expected.

That's understandable. When five of your top seven boys are back from a state champion, the talk this year isn't about a Mid-Suburban League title. It's about another state title. Most everyone assumes Fremd will again be wearing the MSL crown.

In discussing the upcoming season, coach Ron Menely doesn't harp on the obvious wealth of strength on his squad. He doesn't need to.

"One thing we've got to guard against is overconfidence," he warns. "We don't think we're necessarily the top team in the state. But barring injuries we should be in at least the top three or five."

"Of course we're looking for a real good year. But we're not going around saying we're number one and we're going to win state. That wouldn't be a realistic goal. Our kids are very level-headed."

"What you've got to do is just shoot for being a strong contender, in the top five or so, and hope that everything goes right for you on that given day — the state meet."

"It's a very uncertain thing when it comes down to that moment. But our kids know what has to be done because they've done it before."

Back from last year's champions of Illinois are Dan Pittenger, Bill Jarocki, Wally Spiniolas, Mike Pithell and Jim Jarocki.

Pittenger was the Vikings' premier runner last year, finishing first in the conference meet and third in the state. In nine conference duals last year he was first eight times and second once.

Bill Jarocki and Spiniolas were Fremd's third and fourth best finishers in the state meet. Jarocki was 12th in the conference meet and Spiniolas had two seconds and five thirds in MSL duals.

Pithell, as Menely says, has "made tremendous improvement" since last year, as has Jim Jarocki, who has cut a full minute off his time. These two were also among the conference's better runners last year.

The top five are all seniors. At present, the sixth and seventh men are junior Bill Greps and sophomore Jamie Olsen. Menely says, "These are the top seven right now but it could change."

Ron Menely

"We don't have a number one boy which is real good for team morale. We should have a real strong pack of five for every meet. This is a good competitive squad. Last year, there was pretty much a set, routine order, but this year there is more competition within the squad. When you're coming off the state championship, you need something like this going for you so there isn't complacency."

The only key runners lost by graduation were Chuck Porter, who will attend Northwestern University starting this fall, and Rich Bowman, who will enroll at Eastern Illinois U. Bowman and Porter were seventh and eighth in last year's conference meet.

The seven boys who made up last year's champ added another feather to their cap this past summer when they set a new world record in the Hundred Mile Run at Pekin. This is a relay in which each boy runs two five-mile legs.

Menely also gave a hint that the harrier dynasty at Fremd could continue for years. "I think we've got the best eight freshmen ever to come into the school. They're working real hard and helping each other out. This kind of attitude is very hard to instill but once you've got it you can really build on it."

Menely feels the Vikings' strongest competition in the state will probably come from Maine East, Proviso West, Glenbard West and Evanston.

A lot is expected from the Fremd runners. But with a team so obviously loaded . . . why not?

Paddock Tennis Tourney Starts

The 10th annual Paddock Publications Tennis Tournament will be held this Saturday, Sunday and Monday at the Arlington High School courts. Competition will be singles only and will include four divisions: men, women, boys and girls.

Trophies will be awarded to the four division winners as well as the runners-up.

For the past nine years, this amateur meet has been a mixed doubles affair. It was changed to singles play to give more players a chance to participate.

Handling the seeding as well as the organization of the tourney is Dick Adashek, president of the Arlington Tennis Club.

Rules are as follows:

•The boys and girls divisions are for youths 18 and under.

•New balls will be supplied by both players with the winner keeping the used balls.

•A 15-minute default time will be enforced.

•Players who have a bye will be notified in advance by phone.

•Boys and girls divisions will begin at 9 a.m. with men and women starting at noon Saturday, Sept. 5.

There is no entry fee for the tournament. Entries have been closed.

The Arlington High School courts are located at Ridge Ave., one block north of Euclid Ave.

Chasing Rugged Fremd 'Hope To Be In Battle'

by PAUL LOGAN

When a state championship team is returning just as strong as it was when it lugged home the No. 1 hardware, it's bad news for the rest of the teams in its conference.

And so it is with the Mid-Suburban League which boasts of the 1969 cross country champs—the Fremd Vikings. It's almost a foregone conclusion that the Vikings are in a class by themselves.

"I think it could be pretty even after that," said Bruce Samore, Arlington High School's head harrier coach, while discussing the positions after front-running Fremd.

"I kinda hope to be in the battle after that... We've got as good a shot as anybody."

The key to a high finish in the MSL is depth — a problem that many coaches face each fall in cross country. If a couple of Cardinals get hurt, it could be disastrous.

Samore will have two leaders in veterans Scott Tauber and Mike Splitt, both seniors. Tauber finished 18th in the conference meet (14:44) and Splitt was 42nd (15:44) at the Prospect course. Both boys should be strong runners, according to Samore.

Joining this duo will be a trio of talented juniors. Leading the list is Tom Jarm Jarm placed first in the conference meet — the class of the MSL sophomore crop with a time of 9:50.

Also finishing in the top 10 was Scott Barnett with an eighth.

Phil Radmer and junior Jim Hauer.

Jim McGrath rounds out this three-

Bruce Samore

"As a league I think the Mid-Suburban is going to be quite strong," Samore said. He added that he thought the toughest teams behind Fremd would come from Prospect, Forest View, Conant and Elk Grove.

Should the Cards stay healthy, Samore expects to be battling these four to a high place in the conference. They finished fifth in the league meet, a tie for fifth in duals and placed a half a point behind Conant last year in sixth position.

some. He was 21st in the league meet.

Two others of the upperclassmen that could help Samore this year are senior

A sophomore that the Card coach is pretty high on is Pat Gullfoll. "He could have a good year," he said.

Arlington will open up the season at Maine East on Thursday, Sept. 10 at 4:45 p.m. The MSL campaign will get underway 12 days later when Conant comes to town at 4:45 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 22.

Chrysler's great value speaks for itself.

And what does it say? Chrysler's the car to buy. Not just for its great value, but also for features like Torsion-Quiet Ride. More room than any other American production car. A standard 383 V-8 that runs on regular gas. All this and a great year-end price.

Women Launch Classic Action At Thunderbird

Eight teams of women bowlers will be liberated at Thunderbird Lanes Saturday as the first half of the Paddock Women's Classic League unfolds.

The men's division christened the eight-month campaign last week at Elk Grove Bowl and are scheduled to resume their strikes at Hoffman Lanes on Saturday, Sept. 12.

Host Elk Grove made good use of their home lane advantage in the opening league matches, burying 3,061 total pins for an average of 1,017 per game and a seven-point sweep of Bulck in Evanston.

Morton Pontiac followed suit by drubbing International Iron Works in three straight games to share the top perch with Elk Grove during the week layoff.

The men appeared to have little trouble regaining Classic League form after a four-month summer vacation. Eleven pinsmen left Elk Grove Lanes with 200-plus averages, a good indication of the top-notch amateurs that compete each week.

Gaare Oil's Ray Reid paced the opening round with a blistering 698 series derived from games of 203, 235 and 235. Teammate Terry Herliky also cracked the magical barrier with games of 211, 200 and 205 for another impressive 616 total.

Reid's 232.2 average is followed closely by Rich Lau's 227.1 for Aladdin's Lamp Restaurant. Others topping 600 were Bob Glaser and Bill Smith of Morton's Pontiac, Ray Magnuson, Ken Helse, Al Brown and John Giovannelli of Elk Grove Village Bowl, Aladdin's Doug Verdonck and Ray Rosland of Uncle Andy's Cow Palace.

The women ignite the season with defending champion Des Plaines meeting Doyle's Striking Lanes. In other action, Lattof Chevrolet battles Thunderbird Country Club, Girard-Bruns Incorporated faces Franklin-Weber Pontiac and Arlington Towers encounters Morton Pontiac.

If the men's statistics were impressive, these women will also surprise the average spectator. No one averages less than 180.

Two Attend All-State Camp

Steve Koelsch, Prospect Heights and Thomas Braniner, Arlington Heights (both of Hersey High School) attended the Third Annual All-State Sports Camp recently held on the Parsons College Campus. The football training camp was sponsored by the Westinghouse Learning Corporation of Iowa City.

The training session, under the direction of Head Coach Paul Read, stressed practical application of techniques and methods learned. According to Read,

"The object of the one-week program was to make the players more valuable to their high school football team."

Those assisting Coach Read in the program were Parsons' Coaches Larry Blykt, Frank Falk and Tom Schlarbaum. John Lanier, Parsons' All-American candidate, served as the student assistant.

Plans for next year included expanding the program to two weeks and offering, in addition to football, both basketball and baseball.

Racing's No Drag

A pair of area sports enthusiasts really know how to get away from it all during summer weekends.

Both Bob Gillig and Frank Naples of Arlington Heights make the journey to Great Lakes Dragway in Union Grove, Wis. where the two men compete in drag racing contests.

Gillig of 230 S Highland is 22 years old and has been racing since he was 16. He has invested $3500 in his 1967 Chevy II Nova, aptly titled "Some-tn Burning."

The size of the engine is a small but most efficient 308 cubic inch model which qualifies him for the modified eliminator class of D/Modified production.

Top speed of the Nova so far is 118.17 miles per hour, this accomplished with an elapsed time for the quarter mile standing start of 11.52.

Naples owns, maintains and drives a B/Gas Dragster. Frank, of 1605 Windsor Dr., is 26 years old and has been a part of the racing scene for 10 years.

"Chevrolet" is his dragster is named, runs a fuel injection system on premium pump gasoline and is driven by Naples very close to its own National record with speeds of 172 miles per hour and an elapsed time for the quarter mile from a standing start of 8.62 seconds. Naples will be entering his dragster in the big National Championships over the Labor Day weekend.

Also included in the weekend card will be nitro fuel dragsters, supercharged funny cars and wheelstanding racers. Races are scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights at 8:30 and Sunday and Labor Day at 2 p.m.

Besides competing in their own divisions, the 220 mph nitro fuel dragsters and funny cars will also race against each other all four days.

Included in the funny cars are the nation's only two four engine cars. Gary Weckesser of Denver, Colo. will drive a Mustang with four 427 horsepower Shotgun engines and Tom McCompy of Los Angeles will pilot a Buick Wagonmaster powered by four Riviera engines.

Chevrolet funny car drivers include Terry Hedricks of Detroit, Dickie Harrel of Kansas City, Kelly Chadwick of Dallas, and Vick Cecelia of Milwaukee.

Dodge funny cars are entered by Pat Munick of Chicago, Romeo Palamides of Oakland, Al Van Der Woude of San Francisco and Phil Castranova of Trenton.

Driving Ford funny cars are Tom

Grove of Pittsburg, Don Cook of San Francisco and Jerry Camille of New York. Plymouth funny car entries include Miss Paula Murphy and Fred Geeke of Los Angeles and Don Schmecker of Chicago.

Arnie Beswick of Morrison, Ill., with a Pontiac, and Dick Bourgoise of San Diego, driving a Javelin, are other top funny car entries.

Driving the powerful dragsters are Chris Karamesines, Bob Lutz and Don Collins of Chicago, Dave Powers of Duquene, La., Jim Nicoll and Tommy Ivo of Los Angeles, Jim King of Providence and Dan Wingert of Milwaukee.

Wheelstanding racers include Bill Golden of Los Angeles, Fritz Burals of Burlington, Wis., Bob Perry of Phoenix, Richard Hutchins of Miami and George Tours of Los Angeles.

Golden drives the Dodge pickup "Little Red Wagon." Burals drives a Wheelstanding motorcycle, Perry handles the "Fugitive" Corvette, Hutchins pilots the "Chevy Rebellion" pickup truck and Tours drives the Ford "Backup Pickup."

Great Lakes Dragway is located 12 miles north of the Illinois-Wisconsin state line and four miles west of I-94 at Union Grove, Wis.

121-Hour Marathon Pays Off Big

Volleys For Cash

by MARGE FERROLI

Temperatures ranged from below 60 to well above 90 degrees throughout the week. The ball sometimes was hot from the sun's heat and muddy from the morning dew.

But at all times, the players were in good spirits as the ball and the lead was tossed from one side to the other each of the five days of the game.

This year it was more than just a grudge match between the Meadows Baptist Church and the Arlington Evangelical Free Church. This year the annual Volleyball Marathon had a definite purpose other than to simply provide 24-hour-a-day exercise for members of the community and to give area teams the chance to stay out all night with parental approval.

Among the players on the two teams, more than $600 was raised through pledges in the community to be presented to the Evangelical Christian School on Chicago's South Side. Businessmen and residents agreed to donate a specific amount of money if the volleyball players were able to last a certain number of hours.

Their 121-hour game not only proved they were able to last but also broke the national record for marathon play by almost 15 hours.

ANYONE OF HIGH school freshman age or older was eligible to play, and businessmen took advantage of the situation by stopping off before work to serve a few balls. Housewives also joined in during the day, but the majority of players were the area teens who enjoyed the competition and the challenge of 121 hours worth of volleyball.

Refreshments were set up on the sidelines during the week so players could sustain themselves with munchies from sandwiches and quick swigs of Kool-Aid as they continued the nonstop play.

Spectators gathered in the evening hours and many players practically begged to get into the game. However, the marathon was not quite as popular during the early-morning hours after sunrise when most players had thoughts of returning to their homes to catch a little sleep.

The Arlington team captured the lead, lost it, and regained it as the ball was slapped from side to side. At times the teams were separated by as many as 300 points, but in the end, Arlington came out the winner.

The final score of 6,794 to 6,611 may seem an embarrassing loss for the Meadows team, but considering that they've lost by almost 1,000 points in previous years, this year's marathon was a moral victory.

"What d'ya mean, a net ball?" players jeer from the sidelines.

Players stand ready to receive the ball as an opponent jumps and reaches to return.

Jim Frost

Able-bodied residents of all ages were invited to take their turn on the volleyball court.

U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, will launch his campaign for reelection tomorrow with a full day of activities in Schaumburg Township, the western edge of the district.

Crane, who was elected to the United States House of Representatives in a special election last November, will visit Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Hanover Park during the day and will conclude his activities at the Hoffman Estates Fireman's Dance Saturday evening.

The congressman will visit customers at the Suburban Bank in Hoffman Estates from 10 to 11 a.m. and then will move to the Schaumburg State Bank where he will stay from 11 a.m. until noon.

At 12:30 p.m., he will attend a luncheon at the Lancer Restaurant, Algonquin and Meacham roads.

From 3 to 5 p.m., Crane will attend several neighborhood receptions in the three communities, with special emphasis in Hanover Park, according to GOP Committeewomen Mrs. Sally Catlin.

A COCKTAIL party is planned for 7 to 9 p.m. at the home of Committeewoman Donald L. Totten prior to the fireman's dance.

"We're trying to get the congressman and the grass roots together here in Schaumburg Township in just a 12-hour period," Mrs. Catlin said. "Communication between representatives and the constituency is a basic necessity for the successful operation of democracy and we hope interested residents will take advantage of this opportunity to meet and influence their congressman."

Schaumburg Township was one of Crane's most solid supporters when he ran against Democratic State Rep. Edward Warman in the special election to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former Rep. Donald Rumsfeld.

Since he was sworn in December, Crane has received national publicity because of his visit to the Mid-East in February and his visit to China and South Vietnam in July.

Following the Vietnam visit, Crane refuted charges by two other congressmen that conditions in the Con Son prison were "inhumane" and accused Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., of being "blind or deliberately trying to mislead the public."

Crane is considered a safe winner in his Nov. 3 rematch with Warman.

Vow Fun for All At Holiday Fest

Hanover Park's first annual Stay-At-Home Labor Day Festival being staged this weekend promises something for everyone.

The festival, at Tradewinds Shopping Center, Barrington and Irving Park roads, starts at 6 p.m. tonight and ends with a fireworks display at 9:30 p.m. Sunday.

Special attractions will include a boxing exhibition Saturday night at 8 p.m. The Boxing Club will dedicate its newly acquired ring.

Art Lindblad, a former professional clown, will pass out balloons to children tonight, Saturday night, Sunday afternoon and Sunday night. He will also give an archery exhibition Sunday between 3:30 and 4 p.m.

Lindblad is director of the local Civil Defense unit, which will have an information booth at the festival and show tornado films in the evenings.

SCHAUMBURG'S MAYOR Robert O. Atcher, also a country-western singer, will perform Sunday night before the fireworks display. The $2,200 fireworks display is scheduled to start between 8 and 8:30 p.m. with a half-hour interval and a finale at 9:30 p.m.

The Community Service Committee organized the festival and all adult organizations were invited to participate.

The Jaycees will operate game booths and a dunking machine. The Ontarioville Fire Department will also have a game booth.

The Woman's Club will run a bumper car booth. Children may participate and receive prizes at the completion of their "road trip."

The Teen Club will sponsor a dance.

THE LIONS Club will have a beer garden. The Knights of Columbus will serve soft drinks, cotton candy, popcorn, Italian beef, sausage sandwiches, and pizza at their booth.

The Church of the Living Christ food stand will offer hotdogs, bratwurst, soft drinks and snow cones.

Send-Off For Laurie Set

by MARY HUTCHINGS

Numerous friends, neighbors, teachers and relatives are planning to wish Conant High School junior Laurie Smith the best of luck at O'Hare International Airport Saturday when she begins the first leg of her journey to New Zealand.

Miss Smith will spend the year as an exchange student in Christchurch, New Zealand, on a program sponsored by Rotary International.

Senior Jeff Ross, the student head of the exchange club at Conant, has organized car pools of students who will see Miss Smith off on the 8:35 p.m. United Air Lines flight to Los Angeles, where she will board a Pan Am airliner to Auckland, N.Z. From there, she will take an Air New Zealand flight to her final destination.

It's a lot of flying for someone who has never traveled by plane.

Miss Smith will meet her family at the Christchurch airport at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday (Monday afternoon Chicago time.)

THOUGH ONE of her school's exchange students, Miss Leslie Stansell of Schaumburg, was killed in a plane crash Aug. 9 while returning from Peru, Miss Smith doesn't like to think about the possibility of such an accident recurring.

"It's the kind of thing that can happen anytime," she said, "even in a car."

Her new home will be with a dentist and his wife, whose three girls are no longer living at home. Though she will be the only child in the household, the girl next door is head prefect of her school and promises to make her welcome in her new social life.

In New Zealand, Miss Smith will attend a Catholic girls' school, where she will study nine subjects compared to her four at Conant.

All girls at the school wear uniforms, which cuts down on the number of clothes she will need. She is allowed 44 pounds of luggage for her year stay, and though it doesn't sound like a lot, her suitcases weighed in during her packing at about 30 pounds.

THOUGH SHE is a ski enthusiast and will be able to ski in the mountains near her new home, most of her clothes will be geared to the spring, summer and fall weather she will have.

She's packing casual clothes — minis, but no midis, and of course jeans. "I'm taking mostly the things I wear here," she said.

Part of her responsibility as an exchange student is speaking before various civic and school groups. She emphasizes that the things she will tell her audiences, will be her own opinion. She said, "I can't speak for all of American youth."

She will probably be questioned about Vietnam. She expects that her audience will favor American involvement in Southeast Asia, and she plans to tell them her belief that "the U.S. should be there, because it's in the world's interest."

Though free to speak her mind on all subjects, certain rules do bind the students in other ways. No driving and no going steady are two stipulations placed on the exchanges, under penalty of being sent home.

Miss Smith says she will act as a "youth ambassador" during her stay, and she hopes for informal "aunt and uncle" type relations with her new parents.

WHILE ON THE exchange, Miss Smith, pays all her expenses, with some help from Conant. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irv Smith, 189 Illinois Blvd., Hoffman Estates, are financing the trip. There are four other children in the Smith family, including a senior and a freshman at Conant, where Mrs. Smith is a faculty service manager.

Earlier in the summer, Miss Smith was honored at a party given by four friends for 250 guests, including teachers and classmates.

The exchange student has a yen for traveling, and hopes to be a Spanish teacher with a minor in education after studying at Northern Illinois University. Conant awards full credit for her year abroad, upon approval of the school board.

She thinks she will probably get homesick, as is expected, during the year. "After two weeks, the novelty wears off," she said, but she knows the experience of living in a foreign country will be invaluable to her in college.

Right now she is only apprehensive about going to an all girls school, and anticipates her only problem will be "getting used to the way they talk."

PILOTING THE WACO UPS-7, an open cockpit by-plane, is quite a challenge for Roger Runyan. Sporting the traditional flight hat and goggles, Roger enjoys taking the plane through breathtaking aerobatic stunts. The flashy red Waco was completely rebuilt by Roger and his three brothers.

1-Plane 'Flying Circus?'

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

Whether nostalgic adults or intrigued children, there is always an audience ready to watch the flashy red airplane with two sets of wings as it takes off from the runway at the Schaumburg Airport, west of Roselle.

The attention getter that twists and turns so gracefully in the air is a Waco the four Runyan brothers.

The Runyans grew up flying; but even the versatile Waco was before their time. All their years of experience are adequately challenged by the sporty little UPS-7, open cockpit biplane, owned by craft they bought eight years ago, and have since completely rebuilt.

"IT'S A TRICKY plane to handle, very demanding on the runway," Roger Runyan said.

Roger, now living in Glendale Heights, is a charter pilot and flight instructor at Twinbrook Aviation, where the Waco is kept. Besides giving eager and perhaps apprehensive passengers rides in the Waco for a small fee, he uses the plane for aerobatic instruction.

The Runyans bought the plane in Troy, Ohio, for $3,000 and have spent about three times that amount rebuilding it. They have searched the country for parts. The hardest parts to find were the lower wings, according to Roger.

The most notable deviation from the original is the electric starter the Runyans installed. Other than that, the plane has been restored almost identically to its classic state.

UPS-7s were first manufactured in 1937 and production continued through 1939. The 1940-42 models went to the military for the World War II pilot training programs.

TODAY THE PLANE is an antique showpiece used mainly for pleasure flying and aerobatics, for which it is particularly suited.

The Waco doesn't take off, it springs into the air, soaring almost vertically after it leaves the ground.

The 244 square feet of wing area enable the Waco to perform spirited lifts as well as breathtaking turns, spins and stalls.

It's not a calm and closed jumbo jet, but that's why the Runyans like their Waco.

Silence Follows Teachers' Vote

The word is still "mum" on the rejection of a salary negotiations agreement by the High School Dist. 211 Teacher's Association Wednesday afternoon.

"I think we'll hold off on any public statement for another 12 to 24 hours," said James Humphrey, chairman of the board of education's negotiating committee.

Gerald Chapman, a member of the teacher's negotiating committee and president of the Teacher's Association, made a similar statement.

Information concerning the 2-1 defeat of a proposed pay accord "could hurt our chances of reaching any agreement soon," Humphrey said.

Wednesday, about three-fourths of the district's teaching staff voted against a settlement reached last week. The vote was 224 to 103 against the proposal.

THUS, MEMBERS of both negotiating teams are working as fast as they can to reach an agreement since the first pay day for teachers is Sept. 15 and because Sept. 13 is the end of a 90-day period within which negotiators agreed to reach a settlement.

The resumption of negotiating sessions is awaiting the results from a questionnaire which the Teacher's Association is now circulating among faculty members to determine what areas of the agreement led to dissatisfaction and defeat.

Although no figures concerning the range of the new schedule have been made public knowledge, Humphrey did say "I feel we gave them a good offer. I feel quite strongly about this."

Chapman affirmed Humphrey's statement, saying that the association's negotiating committee urged ratification of the overdue agreement.

AND EVEN THOUGH Chapman would not comment on the possibility of a teacher's strike, Humphrey said "I would assume teachers will not strike. They'll leave it up to the negotiating committee to see if they can come up with an agreement with the board."

Three factors are currently pressing the negotiating teams to reach a settlement.

One of these is the rapidly approaching first pay period. Having begun school Aug. 31, teachers are working under last year's salary provisions ($7,300 bottom and $14,600 top pay.)

They have agreed to work in this way until a new contract, retroactive to Aug. 31, was drawn up. James Slater, business manager for Dist. 211, said "it is still up in the air" as to how the teachers will be paid on Sept. 15.

"We're hoping this thing is wrapped up by then," he said. If not, checks issued next Tuesday will be based on last year's contracts.

A SECOND FACTOR urging the board and the association to come to terms is the 90-day negotiating limit which was part of the negotiations procedures agreement.

Among other rules and procedures for negotiating, teachers and board members agreed to complete salary negotiations within 90 days after they began. Talks started June 15 which means the 90th day is Sept. 13.

If no agreement is reached by then an impasse will be called. Then, an outside mediator will be brought in "to see if he can get the two sides together," Humphrey said.

If this fails, the mediator will then form a fact-finding group to look deeper into the disagreement in hopes of reaching a settlement. And lastly, the negotiators will turn to arbitration in an effort to reach an accord.

AND THE LAST factor pressing negotiators toward a settlement is the fact that Dist. 211 teachers are working without contracts.

"Whether they (teachers) will get dissatisfied somewhere along the way, and if this snail pace continues, then I couldn't say what will happen," Humphrey said.

On Blackboard: 'No', 224 Times

The rejection of a salary negotiations agreement by the High School Dist. 211 Teacher's Association was approximately a 2 to 1 vote against the agreement in each of the district's four high schools.

Gerald Chapman, president of the Teacher's Association, said the breakdown of the 224 to 103 vote held Wednesday was as follows:

At Palatine High 26 teachers voted yes, while 49 voted no. At Fremd High, it was 30 yes against 72 no. Schaumburg High's results were 8 yes and 35 no. And teachers at Conant High voted 39 yes and 68 no on the salary agreement.

Thus, members of the board of education and the Teacher's Association are now working to resume negotiations in an effort to "reach a settlement as soon as possible," Chapman said.

Tennis Group Sets Tourney

Hoffman Estates Tennis Association will hold its first open tournament Sat., Sept. 12 and Sun., Sept. 13 at Pinger Park tennis courts, according to Gary Coulter, an officer in the organization.

Advance registration is now being taken for all divisions and individuals may enter singles for men, women, boys or girls.

Singles competition will have double elimination and trophies for first, second and consolation prizes will be awarded.

The tournament will also feature mixed doubles for all ages, Coulter said.

Fee for those who are not currently members of the association is $1 for adults and fifty-cents for persons under 18 years of age.

The tournament is free to all present members.

While play is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. both mornings, specific play times will be given at registration.

New Rules Passed By Racing Board

All officers, directors and substantial owners of Arlington Park, along with those of other tracks in the state, will be required to make certain disclosures to the Illinois Racing Board under new rules adopted by the board yesterday.

The Illinois Racing Board approved three new rules—representing substantial changes to a proposed licensing regulation unveiled at a committee hearing last week.

The proposed regulation, released Aug. 25 by a special subcommittee, would have required the licensing of all directors, officers and substantial owners of any association, corporation or business entity desiring to conduct a racing meeting in the state.

Yesterday the subcommittee, headed by board commissioner Herman A. Stamer, proposed three rules that cover in part the original proposal. Prior to the board's vote on the new rules, Alexander MacArthur, board chairman, explained that the over-all nature of the rules would be one of disclosure instead of licensing.

REPRESENTATIVES of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE), operators of Arlington Park, and other track owners voiced objections to the original proposal, but accepted the new rules.

The first rule accepted states, "A license to conduct a horse race meeting is non-transferable, and will terminate upon a substantial change of ownership of the licensee, without prior approval of the board. The sale or transfer of 25 per cent or more will be considered a substantial change."

The second new rule provides that all officers, directors and substantial owners of an applicant for racing dates must make a written financial disclosure to the board prior to Oct. 1, on forms provided by the board. This disclosure would be made under oath, as stipulated in the forms.

THE LAST NEW rule stipulates that the board must be notified within 10 days of any new officers or directors of a licensee and the identity of every person, trust or foundation acquiring 5 per cent or more of the licensee's equity.

The new rules did not touch on some of the issues that CTE attorneys took exception to last week. Those areas include who would incur the expense of an investigation the board might decide to hold into the applicant's financial and moral integrity and the question of whether or not an applicant's interest in a legal gaming operation in another jurisdiction would be cause to deny racing dates.

Stamer said rules regarding these areas must go through the attorney general's office before they can be proposed to the board. Stamer said those rules, which might be ready in two weeks, also are in the nature of disclosure rather than licensing.

Newton Mandel, a member of the board of CTE, said the new rules are "sensible." He added, "Without reviewing them carefully, they are entirely acceptable. This is what we proposed all along. We have nothing to hide."

'Pavement' To Play At Park

In line with an impromptu extension of Hoffman Estates Park District's summer series, which was requested by representatives of youth in the area, "Pavement" will play from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. tonight at Vogel Park and Community Recreation Center.

No admission will be charged, and a refreshment stand will operate during the three hour performance.

This is the last in the park district's annual summer concert series which has been designed to provide musical and dramatic entertainment for all age groups in the area.

WHERE IS THE BEST INVESTMENT PROPERTY FOUND?

Downtown? Or up? Where is the "smart" money going? If there was ever a field where an investor must be alert to changing trends and future developments, it has to be the specialty of real estate investment property.

An investor proceeding without the counsel of a seasoned Broker who thoroughly knows his local market, is just plain lucky if he avoids costly mistakes and ends up with a sound, income-producing property.

Experienced investors, many of whom have made fortunes in the real estate field, usually patronize a particular lawyer they have come to rely on who knows their objectives and financing potential. The lawyer values these investors as clients and friends and his specialized knowledge protects them from making serious errors.

Similar confidence in a competent Broker is often rewarded with opportunities to make unusually good investments before they are publicized. The Broker is not operating a service to a favored few; it is simply that when a good investment presents itself, he immediately thinks of clients who might be interested.

One of the first steps to make profitable real estate investments is to ally yourself with an expert Broker who is an investment specialist.

Kemmerly Real Estate has been lending their services for years to professional Real Estate investors. We know where the "Smart" money is going.

Flood Damage Statistics Ready

Residents Urge Action By Legislators

All the necessary data has been collected for a survey of the flooding damage that occurred in Wheeling during the spring rains, according to an Illinois Division of Waterways spokesman.

Statistics from a house-to-house survey are in and are now being evaluated. The results will be compiled into a comprehensive report which will be released in the near future, the spokesman said.

The survey, which began July 1, was conducted to prepare for discussions of funding for the local watershed flood control program in legislative committees. The information gathered will be used to prepare charts showing the cost of flood control as related to the costs of damages resulting from flooding.

Almost 500 persons have signed petitions urging legislators to appropriate funds for work to stop the flooding in the Buffalo Creek-Wheeling Drainage Ditch watershed.

MEANWHILE, ILLINOIS Division of Waterways personnel are also at work preparing for the upcoming presentation to the legislature. Although the waterways division has had plans for widening and deepening the creek for several years, the legislature had not funded the project.

This year's round of flooding occurred June 2 when the second "100-year rain" in the last three years hit the village. Dundee Road was impassable near the municipal building and water levels reached five feet on Wolf Road near Highland Avenue. Water from the Wheeling Drainage Ditch rose several feet over the bridge at Jeffrey Avenue, making access to the Meadowbrook west portion of the village impossible except by truck.

LATER IN JUNE, John Guillou, chief engineer for the Illinois Division of Waterways visited Wheeling and listened to resident's complaints about the flooding.

According to division of waterway studies, a $2.4 million improvement program for the creek and $9 million worth of work on the Des Plaines River are needed to help drainage in the watershed.

Wheeling is currently undertaking a $225,000 flood control program designed to alleviate flooding in the western end of Wheeling and the northern portion of Buffalo Grove. Construction consists of a flood retention basin and pumping station in Husky Park.

$576 Profit Is Reported By Jaycees

A profit of $576 was made on last year's Diamond Jubilee celebration in Wheeling, according to an audit completed this week by the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank.

According to John Koeppen, co-chairman of the Wheeling Diamond Jubilee Committee, the festivities took in $39,000. All but $576 of this was spent on activities relating to the Jubilee.

"We paid all our bills. We owe no one," Koeppen said. He added that the remaining money would be turned over to the Village of Wheeling.

Koeppen said that the audit, which took about three months to complete, will be given to the village auditor for his inspection and will also be inspected by the other members of his committee. "If Wheeling is satisfied, the audit will be published," he said.

KOEPPEN SAID THE purpose of the Jubilee was not to make a profit but "to give everyone a good time."

He said that he thought the Jubilee succeeded in that respect. Moreover, "people have asked us what we're going to do this year," he noted.

Koeppen said that about 300 or 400 commemorative plates which were to have been sold as keepsakes during the Jubilee last year were not sold. The plates bear a sketch of the Wheeling Historical Museum.

About 1,900 souvenir booklets also remained unsold. Koeppen said the booklets and plates are now being stored at the historical society. "I don't know what we'll do with them," he said.

THE JUBILEE WAS held in August last year to mark the 75th anniversary of the town.

The Village of Wheeling donated $5,000 to the Diamond Jubilee Corp. The funds had been given to the village by the Crescent Cardboard Co. of Wheeling to be used for the purchase of furniture for the village hall. However, the village board decided instead to donate the money to the Jubilee.

Three Cars Collide At Wolf, Dundee

Three autos were involved in a collision Wednesday at the intersection of Wolf and Dundee roads in Wheeling.

The accident took place at 4:20 p.m. The three autos were driven by Ronald Pawlak, 35, of Hoffman Estates, Walter Krueger, 51, of Bannock Burn, and John Orlovski, 20, of 607 S. Milwaukee, Wheeling.

An estimated $120 damage was done to the Pawlak car, $350 damage to the Krueger car and $120 to the Orlovski car. No charges were filed in connection with the accident.

Ex-Writer Is Principal

by SUE CARSON

A former journalist switched to a teaching career six years ago, and now he's principal of Holmes Junior High School in Wheeling.

He's James Johnson, who came to Dist. 21 this year from Northwood Junior High in Highland Park, where he was assistant principal.

Johnson spent seven years in the newspaper and public relations field before deciding to go back for a teaching certificate at Northern Illinois University. He received his bachelor's degree from Boston University.

"I always wanted to get into education. My wife was a teacher. But there wasn't enough money in it to support my family.

"But salaries went up steadily and finally I went back to school. It took me five years to get my teaching certificate and master's at Northern, by taking evening courses, but I've never regretted it.

"I do think my experience in business and industry have been valuable as a teacher and administrator. It gave me a better understanding of the public."

RAISED IN Mundelein, Johnson is now a resident of Lake Zurich. He and his wife are the parents of three children, two girls and a boy.

The new principal said he has "never seen such cooperation" as he has seen among the staff at Holmes Junior High.

Johnson said he would like to review scheduling of classes and grouping of students at Holmes, but he doesn't want to make any changes on his own at the school.

"I want to work with the staff. Any changes should be a product of our joint efforts," he explained.

Johnson believes in innovation in education, but with some reservations. "In some areas we need more innovation. But much more research needs to be done.

"HELPING STUDENTS meet the demands of the future" should be the goal of education, says James Johnson, new principal of Holmes Junior High.

"Students need to learn to analyze more. They have been judged too much on how well they know facts, not on how well they can apply these facts."

Johnson stressed the need for keeping the public informed of new teaching methods and programs.

"EDUCATORS MUST continually inform and educate the public. Parents went to schools that in many areas are completely different from the schools their children are attending today." He advocates the increased emphasis placed on teaching with audio-visual aids and special education programs in recent years.

"Audio-visual aids are not being used enough. Many tapes and films are of great help to students. But two problems arise. First, the aids have to be available, which means the community has to be willing to spend money. And secondly, teaching personnel have to learn how to use them effectively.

"There have been many advances in special education. Today we can diagnose learning problems."

Although he enjoys the administrative end of education, Johnson admitted he misses teaching.

He taught sixth grade and a gifted science class Highland Park for four years before serving as assistant principal there for two years.

"I miss getting into the classroom and meeting the students. If I had a choice, I would spend little time at this desk. Even so, I hope to stop in the classrooms whenever I can."

Babiarz Annex Is Delayed

A proposal for annexation and zoning of 23 acres of land near the northeastern part of Buffalo Grove has run into another snag.

Wednesday night the village plan commission voted to table the proposal to annex the 22.9-acre tract, commonly known as the Babiarz property after a public hearing earlier that night.

The commission cited lack of information as the reason behind the decision.

John Loftus, attorney for Michael Babiarz owner of the land, had sought general retail and multiple family zoning for the area, located on the west side of Highway 83 in Lake County.

The developer has proposed 156 one and two-bedroom units. The business portion would include doctors' offices, retail stores and an indoor movie theater.

Wednesday's presentation was the second one on the proposal. Last fall Babiarz sought annexation and zoning for his property. However, the village refused to annex a small tract that was necessary to make the Babiarz site contiguous.

As a result, the Babiarz proposal was held in abeyance until annexation of a tract just south of it was completed. Once that annexation was made, Babiarz was contiguous to the village and thus able to be considered for annexation.

Following more than two hours of discussion Wednesday the commission directed Loftus to return to the commission's next meeting, in two weeks, with information on traffic flow in the area. The commissioners also want to see a revised annexation drawn up.

Specifically the commission wants a traffic study done of the area showing the impact of the development on the traffic load. It also wants a letter from the state highway department approving the entrances and exits proposed. The commission wants the annexation agreement revised giving them authority to see detailed plans for the development and to make any changes they deem necessary.

Several surrounding property owners at Wednesday's hearing expressed concern that proper drainage standards would not be met. Said one resident, "drainage has to be taken care of. We've got to have something in writing."

Most residents from land outside of the village feared that field drainage tiles would be broken when construction began, causing the surrounding property to flood during a storm.

When asked about how sewer and water connections were to be made, Charles Fletcher, engineer for Babiarz said, "We're not sure how far we can come for the sewer or where we're going to get it."

A representative for the village's engineering firm, Michael Stearns replied, "there is no possibility of connecting to the sewage treatment plant as it now exists."

Concerning storm water run-off, Fletcher said plans call for an outlet to a creek to the west which runs through the Buffalo Grove Golf Course.

About storm water retention he said, "it's something we'll have to take up with your engineers."

In proposing the motion to postpone action, Commissioner Carl Genrich said, "I think there is a body of logic we agree on. In terms of basic land use, this is probably the best, but until public services (sewer and water) are provided in that area, the best use is farm land."

Crane-wagon Starts Rolling In 'West'

U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, will launch his campaign for reelection tomorrow with a full day of activities in Schaumburg Township, the western edge of the district.

Crane, who was elected to the United States House of Representatives in a special election last November, will visit Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Hanover Park during the day and will conclude his activities at the Hoffman Estates Fireman's Dance Saturday evening.

The congressman will visit customers at the Suburban Bank in Hoffman Estates from 10 to 11 a.m. and then will move to the Schaumburg State Bank where he will stay from 11 a.m. until noon.

At 12.30 p.m., he will attend a luncheon at the Lancer Restaurant, Algonquin and Meacham roads.

From 3 to 5 p.m., Crane will attend several neighborhood receptions in the three communities, with special emphasis in Hanover Park, according to GOP Committeewomen Mrs. Sally Catlin.

A COCKTAIL party is planned for 7 to 9 p.m. at the home of Committeeman Donald L. Totten prior to the fireman's dance.

"We're trying to get the congressman and the grass roots together here in Schaumburg Township in just a 12-hour period," Mrs. Catlin said. "Communication between representatives and the constituency is a basic necessity for the successful operation of democracy and we hope interested residents will take advantage of this opportunity to meet and influence their congressman."

Schaumburg Township was one of Crane's most solid supporters when he ran against Democratic State Rep. Edward Warman in the special election to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former Rep. Donald Rumsfeld.

Since he was sworn in December, Crane has received national publicity because of his visit to the Mid-East in February and his visit to China and South Vietnam in July.

Following the Vietnam visit, Crane refuted charges by two other congressmen that conditions in the Con Son prison were "inhumane" and accused Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., of being "blind or deliberately trying to mislead the public."

Crane is considered a safe winner in his Nov. 3 rematch with Warman.

Preliminary Plan For Complex OK'd

The preliminary plat for Sandpebble Walk, a 4.5 million condominium and office development in Wheeling, was approved by the Wheeling Plan Commission Wednesday.

The development, which would be built on the north side of Palatine Road just west of Wheeling Road, would include 200 one and two-bedroom condominium units and a three-story office building.

Four "Y" shaped condominiums three stories high would be included in the residential part of the proposed development, as well as a swimming pool, putting green, recreational building tennis courts, ice skating and play areas.

The office building would be on one acre of the property at the southwest corner of the development.

The site contains 13.6 acres in all. Developer of the site is Miller-LaPierre Inc. of Wheeling.

WEDNESDAY The plan commission amended the preliminary plat to provide for a 20-foot-wide driveway in the development. Originally the plat had called for a 16-foot-wide driveway.

A proposed outdoor fountain was also removed from the preliminary plat.

The revised preliminary plat must now be submitted to the village board for approval. An opinion from the village's professional planner will also be included with the revised plat submitted to the village.

The site of the development was originally in Prospect Heights. It was annexed to Wheeling in June.

None Hurt In Two-Car Crash

More than $2,000 damage resulted from a two-car collision in Wheeling Wednesday on Dundee Road.

The accident occurred at 7:45 p.m. about 55 feet east of the intersection of Dundee and Route 83.

The collision occurred when an auto driven by Calvin Valandra, 24, of Prairie View, hit an auto driven by Martin Fredrick, 42, of 1351 W. Anthony Rd., Wheeling.

The Valandra car was traveling west on Dundee and the Fredrick car was going east on Dundee at the time of the accident.

An estimated $800 damage was caused by the Valandra car and an estimated $1,500 damage was done to the Fredrick auto.

Valandra was charged with driving too fast for conditions and is scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court on Oct. 13.

people to negotiate this consent decree. We've spent almost two years working out the details of the consent decree, which outlines the specific development of the property.

"I'm very happy with the proposed planned-unit development because it fulfills our goal to preserve as much open space in the community as possible. The development of single-family residences is not the only way to develop land in order to maintain open space in the community," Teichert said.

TEICHERT SAID the golf course, under the terms of the consent decree, will remain as recreational open space for 50 years. At that time, if the owner decides to sell the property, the village will have the option to purchase the land. Teichert said the golf course is about a 100-acre parcel.

Teichert said the consent decree ends more than seven years of negotiations and planning for the annexation and development of the property. "Old Orchard petitioned for annexation in the village about 1963 or 1964, at which time the village promised to rezone the property for a planned-unit development, which at that time was called a recreational open-space ordinance."

"After the country club was annexed by the village, the village repealed the zoning ordinance for the development of the property. When this happened, Old Orchard asked for disannexation from the village. This started a legal controversy (involving lawsuits) that we finally settled Tuesday," Teichert said.

New Rules Passed By Racing Board

All officers, directors and substantial owners of Arlington Park, along with those of other tracks in the state, will be required to make certain disclosures to the Illinois Racing Board under new rules adopted by the board yesterday.

The Illinois Racing Board approved three new rules—representing substantial changes to a proposed licensing regulation unveiled at a committee hearing last week.

The proposed regulation, released Aug. 25 by a special subcommittee, would have required the licensing of all directors, officers and substantial owners of any association, corporation or business entity desiring to conduct a racing meeting in the state.

Yesterday the subcommittee, headed by board commissioner Herman A. Stamer, proposed three rules that cover in part the original proposal. Prior to the board's vote on the new rules, Alexander MacArthur, board chairman, explained that the over-all nature of the rules would be one of disclosure instead of licensing.

REPRESENTATIVES of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE), operators of Arlington Park, and other track owners voiced objections to the original proposal, but accepted the new rules.

The first rule accepted states, "A license to conduct a horse race meeting is non-transferable, and will terminate upon a substantial change of ownership of the licensee, without prior approval of the board. The sale or transfer of 25 percent or more will be considered a substantial change."

The second new rule provides that all officers, directors and substantial owners of an applicant for racing dates must make a written financial disclosure to the board prior to Oct. 1, on forms provided by the board. This disclosure would be made under oath, as stipulated in the forms.

THE LAST NEW rule stipulates that the board must be notified within 10 days of any new officers or directors of a licensee and the identity of every person, trust or foundation acquiring 5 percent or more of the licensee's equity.

The new rules did not touch on some of the issues that CTE attorneys took exception to last week. Those areas include who would incur the expense of an investigation the board might decide to hold into the applicant's financial and moral integrity and the question of whether or not an applicant's interest in a legal gaming operation in another jurisdiction would be cause to deny racing dates.

Stamer said rules regarding these areas must go through the attorney general's office before they can be proposed to the board. Stamer said those rules, which might be ready in two weeks, also are in the nature of disclosure rather than licensing.

Newton Mandel, a member of the board of CTE, said the new rules are "sensible." He added, "Without reviewing them carefully, they are entirely acceptable. This is what we proposed all along. We have nothing to hide."

Agree On Old Orchard Plan

An agreement paving the way for a multimillion-dollar apartment, office and hotel complex at Old Orchard Country Club in Mount Prospect was reached Tuesday.

The settlement, agreed to by the Mount Prospect Village Board and the owner of the property, ends more than five years of controversy and litigation about the annexation and development of the 205-acre site at Euclid Street and Rand Road.

As a result of the settlement, a consent decree outlining the details of the development will be entered in court as soon as possible.

The consent decree calls for the development of 13 12-story buildings and the preservation of the golf course for 50 years. Two office buildings, 10 apartment buildings and a hotel have been proposed for the site.

The village will be required to allow construction of the development as outlined in the consent decree. No plans for the start of construction have yet been announced.

ALBERT NEWMAN, owner of the property, has agreed to turn over about two acres of land to the village for the construction of a two-million-gallon reservoir and pump station and a fire station. Construction of the fire and other facilities has not yet been decided by the village, however.

Mayor Robert Teichert said the board voted unanimously to authorize the consent decree following an executive session held after the board meeting Tuesday.

"The resolution of the Old Orchard property ends one big nagging problem for everyone concerned in the negotiations. This will be a beautiful development that will be a great asset to the community. I expect it will be one of the best developments in the Northwest suburban area," Teichert said.

"It's taken an awful lot of time and one hell of a lot of work by a lot of

School Taxes May Go Up 5.6%

High School Dist. 214 property owners could see their tax bills increase by about 5.6 per cent next year, a district official told the school board's budget committee Wednesday night.

Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business affairs, showed the board that the 1971-72 tax rate could climb from this year's figure of $2.27 to a new total of $2.33 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget committee was meeting to examine not only the district's projected tax rate, but also means of cutting into possible future deficit spending.

THE INCREASE would include a hike from $1.56 to $1.59 in the education fund, which makes up the largest portion of the budget and covers teacher's salaries, the largest single item in the budget.

Weber and Supt. Edward Gilbert cautioned that the proposed tax rates must be approved by the board, and could be changed by an upsurge in assessed valuation in the district.

Also, there is a possibility that the district might levy a small working cash fund levy, to cover the district coming up in the red if early tax collections don't keep pace.

This year, early collections of tax money gave the district a surplus. A working cash fund, which would collect interest for the district, could cover the district in case of a drop in early collection.

JACK COSTELLO, who is chairman of the budget committee, raised that question, as well as wondering if November might be suitable time for a referendum to raise tax revenue in the district.

However, both Weber and Gilbert said that the time might not be right. Weber said that early collections, to put the district in the black, would help this spring.

Gilbert pointed out that the district has not been involved in deficit spending through tax anticipation warrants, that disreputable gimmick of borrowing money to cover revenue deficits.

The committee spent much of their meetings looking ahead to the projected 1971-72 budget and a possible deficit of $682,000 in the education fund.

THE DISTRICT must look ahead, officials explained, as the 1970-71 levy, part of the official budget to be acted upon later this month, provides revenue for the 1971-72 school year.

That year will be a financially rough one for the district, as the district's seventh high school—Rolling Meadows High School—will boost the number of teachers and custodial and clerical personnel in the district.

Some expenditures can be shifted into the building fund to cover the deficit in the education fund, explained Weber. Budgets aren't the only money matters facing the board. If the district decides that an eighth high school is needed for the district by 1974-75, the board will have to seek taxpayer support for a bond issue.

SEVERAL BOARD members are working to eliminate the need for another school. For example, Richard Stamm has argued strongly in recent weeks for a community program involving local businesses educating students in vocational fields.

And Mrs. Leah Cummins has added that evening courses for students could help channel the student population out of the regular, traditional schedule, thus allowing the district to serve more students in the present seven high schools.

Com 75 also is studying a four-quarter plan. It has recommended that the board adopt a four-quarter plan "at the earliest feasible time." That could eliminate the eighth high school, too.

'Greatest Event Of The Year'

Buffalo Grove Days To Begin Tonight

GAYE SENNE demonstrates her baton twirling talents. The twirling instructor will start a twirling class this fall in the Buffalo Grove Park District.

Festivities for one of the largest celebrations Buffalo Grove has ever known will begin tonight.

Buffalo Grove Days, sponsored by the Village of Buffalo Grove and several community organizations, will continue through Sunday.

Larry Lufack, WLS radio disk jockey, will appear at a "Battle of the Bands" at the Buffalo Grove Mall at 7:30 tonight. He will give away record albums and autographed photos of himself until 10:30 p.m.

The top three winners of the "battle" will receive cash prizes. The winner will play at a dance Sunday.

Buffalo Grove talent will be featured in the variety show at St. Mary's Hall at 2 p.m. tomorrow. Tickets, which may be purchased by calling 537-5173, are 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

HIGHLIGHTING TOMORROW'S portion of the celebration will be a Western Roundup, a dinner-dance for adults at the Buffalo Grove Golf Course. "Redeye Hour" begins at 7 p.m. and dinner will be served at 8 p.m. From 7 to 9 p.m. entertainment will be provided by the Wheeling Music Shoppe Trio. At 9 p.m. the "Sage Riders," a nationally known western band, will perform. Other entertainment includes the Steve and Sylvia Duet, the AC Square Wheels and a special surprise guest star.

Dinner for the Western Roundup includes prime round of beef, hot baked ham, beverages and desserts. Tickets for the Roundup are limited and will not be sold at the door. The ticket, which does not include alcoholic beverages, may be purchased at the Village Hall or by calling 537-0802.

BEGINNING SUNDAY'S activities is the annual homemaking competition. Ribbons will be awarded for baking, sewing and needlecraft, canning and gardening competition. A trophy will be awarded to the individual compiling the most points. To qualify for the trophy competition and title of Homemaking Queen, a person must place at least once in each of the four categories.

Entries for the homemaking competition will be accepted at the Emmer-

Free Bus For Festivities

To alleviate traffic congestion and overcrowded parking facilities in connection with the Buffalo Grove Days celebration at Emmerich Park free shuttle bus service will be available throughout the village Sunday, from 11:45 a.m. through 9:30 p.m.

The buses will run continuously. Three routes have been set up: one to cover the Lake County portion of the village; one for the southwestern part; and one for the southeastern part and the Cambridge area. Buses will stop for passengers at all intersections along the route.

ich Park Building Sunday from 8:30 to 11 a.m. Sunday.

More than 25 floats and marching units will carry the theme of "American Heritage Day" in a parade beginning at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Among the units are the Wheeling High School Marching Band, the Scarlett Knights Drum and Bugle Corps, the Hersey High School Marching Band, the Northwest Regional Antique Car Association, Stevenson High School Marching Band, the Guardsman Cadet Drum and Bugle Corps and the Buffalo Grove Fire Dept.

The Fifth Army Band, the U.S. Coast Guard, Chicago Highlanders, Great Lakes Naval Drum and Bugle Corps, Chicago Light Artillery, and the 45th Artillery.

Grand Marshal for this year's parade will be Steve Haisley, of Buffalo Grove, a Vietnam war veteran who received a purple heart after being wounded in Vietnam in September, 1968. Haisley was graduated from Wheeling High School.

The Buffalo Grove Days Parade will assemble at Bernard and Indian Hill. It will move east on Bernard Drive from Indian Hill to Navajo Trail, north to St. Mary's Parkway and west to Raupp Boulevard. It will then travel north to Emmerich Park where it will disassemble.

FOLLOWING THE PARADE will be a short ceremony at which Village Pres. Donald Thompson and several other persons will speak.

Demonstrations by the Great Lakes Recruit Band, the Buffalo Grove twirlers, the Chicago Highlanders, the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps, the Scarlett Knights Drum and Bugle Corps and Medinah Motor Cycles will be between 2 and 3 p.m.

At 3 and 5 p.m. Deny the Magician will perform in Emmerich Park. Also in the park, music provided by the Wheeling Music Shoppe will be provided from 3 to 8 p.m.

The Buffalo Grove-Wheeling Little League All-Star baseball game will start at 3 p.m. At 5 p.m. the Buffalo Grove major league will play the Elk Grove All-Stars.

A PERFORMANCE by the Chicago Light Artillery will be at 3:30 p.m. A fireman's demonstration will be held at 4:15 p.m.

The homemakers display will be shown from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday. The Homemakers awards will be presented at 8 p.m.

Rocket competition and demonstrations will begin at 6 p.m. Following this, circus groups will entertain. The groups include America's Trampoline Family — The Austins, Jeffrey's Aerial Ballet and the Jeff and Lita Novelty French Dance Team. All of the groups have appeared in Shrine Circuses.

A FIREWORKS display starting about 8:15 p.m. Sunday at Emmerich Park will climax the three-day event. The display will be staged by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees. Following the fireworks, the winner of Friday's "Battle of the Bands" will play for a teen dance, also at Emmerich Park.

Carnival rides, games and refreshments will continue throughout the celebration. Rides include a train, Crazy Dip, Tubs O'Fun, pony rides and a merry-go-round.

Four Injured In 2-Car Accident

Four Buffalo Grove residents suffered minor injuries Wednesday when they were involved in an auto accident at the intersection of Route 83 and Arlington Heights roads in Buffalo Grove.

The accident occurred shortly before 7 p.m. when an auto driven by Judith Woodruff, 23, of 573 Beechwood, Buffalo Grove, collided with an auto driven by Otto Klasek, 51, of Chicago.

At the time of the accident, the Klasek car was traveling east on Route 83 and the Woodruff auto was proceeding north on Arlington Heights Road.

The Klasek car collided with the Woodruff auto, sending the Woodruff car into a ditch north of Route 83.

The Klasek car was pulling a trailer with a sailboat on it at the time of the accident. The impact caused the sailboat to hit the right rear of the Klasek car.

Judith Woodruff and the passengers in the Woodruff car, Beth Woodruff, 2, and James Woodruff, 5, both of 573 Beechwood, and Vincent Kerzman, 12, of 5 Beechwood Ct., were taken to Northwest Community Hospital.

All were treated and released.

Park Twirling Teacher Is Named

Buffalo Grove girls who enroll in the upcoming baton twirling class sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Park District will have one of the top baton teachers in the Midwest for their instructor.

She is Gaye Senne of Des Plaines, who has won innumerable regional and national awards both for her own performances and the performances of the groups she has taught.

For five years she has been the instructor for the Jo-Gay Baton Corps in Des Plaines. The group she plans to instruct in Buffalo Grove will be known as the Buffalo Barons.

Gaye has high hopes for the Buffalo Barons, and past experience shows that her hopes will probably be rewarded. After Gaye began teaching the senior corps of the Jo-Gays, the corps soon moved into several high places in national competition. When the senior corps was disbanded four years later, Gaye instructed a junior corps which placed third in national competition during its first year of twirling.

BESIDES INSTRUCTING the new Buffalo Barons, Gaye is teaching twirling at Maine West High School. She has also been working at the Des Plaines Park District, which sponsors the Jo-Gays.

Gaye began twirling when she was a child. Her mother was also a twirler. She received a full scholarship to the University of Mississippi for her twirling and majored in education there. Later she traveled with a professional twirling corps.

Besides twirling in the United States, Gaye has performed in Canada, Mexico and South America.

Now one of Gaye's daughters, Kim, 9, is following in her footsteps. Kim is the corps captain of the Jo-Gays. Gaye's son, Mark, 13, is a member of The Vikings, a drum and baton corps in Glen Ellyn.

After the Buffalo Barons have begun to master the precision and skill of baton twirling, Gaye hopes to enter them in the Illinois Park and Recreation Society competition circuit where they will compete with other park district twirlers. She also hopes to bring the corps to the Illinois State Fair next year and set up several accredited baton twirling courses in Buffalo Grove.

"WE WILL ALSO march in parades,"

Gaye said.

Right now the corps has 17 twirlers and six drummers. Gaye hopes to have eight more drummer boys and color guards. Gaye is also teaching a tiny tot twirling class for children age 4 and up.

"It's very easy to get started," Gaye said. "It only takes about four months to teach them to twirl." The instructor said all children who want to twirl should be given a chance. "But make them stick with it for a certain amount of time so they can see if they really like it or not. And above all, compliment them once in a while. Show them that you enjoy watching them perform."

Even though competition is important, Gaye said it is not the main part of twirling. "I'm mostly interested that they have a good time when they're twirling," she said.

The baton instructor said twirling is a "good and wholesome" thing for children to become involved in. "And it's rewarding," she said. "They meet a lot of different people, and that's a good education in life. They also get to travel a lot."

Gaye said, "It also teaches discipline. They know they can't give up in competition."

Babiarz Annexation Is Delayed

A proposal for annexation and zoning of 23 acres of land near the northeastern part of Buffalo Grove has run into another snag.

Wednesday night the village plan commission voted to table the proposal to annex the 22.9-acre tract, commonly known as the Babiarz property after a public hearing earlier that night.

The commission cited lack of information as the reason behind the decision.

John Loftus, attorney for Michael Babiarz owner of the land, had sought general retail and multiple family zoning for the area, located on the west side of Highway 63 in Lake County.

The developer has proposed 150 one and two-bedroom units. The business portion would include doctors' offices, retail stores and an indoor movie theater.

Wednesday's presentation was the second one on the proposal. Last fall Babiarz sought annexation and zoning for his property. However, the village refused to annex a small tract that was necessary to make the Babiarz site contiguous.

As a result, the Babiarz proposal was held in abeyance until annexation of a tract just south of it was completed. Once that annexation was made, Babiarz was contiguous to the village and thus able to be considered for annexation.

Following more than two hours of discussion Wednesday the commission directed Loftus to return to the commission's next meeting, in two weeks, with information on traffic flow in the area. The commissioners also want to see a revised annexation drawn up.

Specifically the commission wants a traffic study done of the area showing the impact of the development on the traffic load. It also wants a letter from the state highway department approving the entrances and exits proposed. The commission wants the annexation agreement revised giving them authority to see detailed plans for the development and to make any changes they deem necessary.

Several surrounding property owners at Wednesday's hearing expressed concern that proper drainage standards would not be met. Said one resident, "drainage has to be taken care of. We've got to have something in writing."

Most residents from land outside of the village feared that field drainage tiles would be broken when construction began, causing the surrounding property to flood during a storm.

When asked about how sewer and water connections were to be made, Charles Fletcher, engineer for Babiarz said, "We're not sure how far we can come for the sewer or where we're going to get it."

A representative for the village's engineering firm, Michael Stearns replied,

"there is no possibility of connecting to the sewage treatment plant as it now exists."

Concerning storm water run-off, Fletcher said plans call for an outlet to a creek to the west which runs through the Buffalo Grove Golf Course.

About storm water retention he said, "it's something we'll have to take up with your engineers."

In proposing the motion to postpone action, Commissioner Carl Genrich said, "I think there is a body of logic we agree on. In terms of basic land use, this is probably the best, but until public services (sewer and water) are provided in that area, the best use is farm land."

Crane-wagon Starts Rolling In 'West'

U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, will launch his campaign for reelection tomorrow with a full day of activities in Schaumburg Township, the western edge of the district.

Crane, who was elected to the United States House of Representatives in a special election last November, will visit Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Hanover Park during the day and will conclude his activities at the Hoffman Estates Fireman's Dance Saturday evening.

The congressman will visit customers at the Suburban Bank in Hoffman Estates from 10 to 11 a.m. and then will move to the Schaumburg State Bank where he will stay from 11 a.m. until noon.

At 12:30 p.m., he will attend a luncheon at the Lancer Restaurant, Algonquin and Meacham roads.

From 3 to 5 p.m., Crane will attend several neighborhood receptions in the three communities, with special emphasis in Hanover Park, according to GOP Committeewoman Mrs. Sally Catlin.

A COCKTAIL party is planned for 7 to 9 p.m. at the home of Committeeman Donald L. Totten prior to the fireman's dance.

"We're trying to get the congressman and the grass roots together here in Schaumburg Township in just a 12-hour period," Mrs. Catlin said. "Communication between representatives and the constituency is a basic necessity for the successful operation of democracy and we hope interested residents will take advantage of this opportunity to meet and influence their congressman."

Schaumburg Township was one of Crane's most solid supporters when he ran against Democratic State Rep. Edward Warman in the special election to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former Rep. Donald Rumsfeld.

Since he was sworn in December, Crane has received national publicity because of his visit to the Mid-East in February and his visit to China and South Vietnam in July.

Following the Vietnam visit, Crane refuted charges by two other congressmen that conditions in the Con Son prison were "inhumane" and accused Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., of being "blind or deliberately trying to mislead the public."

Crane is considered a safe winner in his Nov. 3 rematch with Warman.

Preliminary Plan For Complex OK'd

The preliminary plat for Sandpebble Walk, a 4.5 million condominium and office development in Wheeling, was approved by the Wheeling Plan Commission Wednesday.

The development, which would be built on the north side of Palatine Road just west of Wheeling Road, would include 200 one and two-bedroom condominium units and a three-story office building.

Four "Y" shaped condominiums three stories high would be included in the residential part of the proposed development, as well as a swimming pool, putting green, recreational building tennis courts, ice skating and play areas.

The office building would be on one acre of the property at the southwest corner of the development.

The site contains 13.6 acres in all. Developer of the site is Miller-LaPierre Inc. of Wheeling.

WEDNESDAY THE plan commission amended the preliminary plat to provide for a 20-foot-wide driveway in the development. Originally the plat had called for a 16-foot-wide driveway.

A proposed outdoor fountain was also removed from the preliminary plat.

The revised preliminary plat must now be submitted to the village board for approval. An opinion from the village's professional planner will also be included with the revised plat submitted to the village.

The site of the development was originally in Prospect Heights. It was annexed to Wheeling in June.

None Hurt In Two-Car Crash

More than $2,000 damage resulted from a two-car collision in Wheeling Wednesday on Dundee Road.

The accident occurred at 7:45 p.m. about 55 feet east of the intersection of Dundee and Route 83.

The collision occurred when an auto driven by Calvin Valandra, 24, of Prairie View, hit an auto driven by Martin Fredrick, 42, of 1351 W. Anthony Rd., Wheeling.

The Valandra car was traveling west on Dundee and the Fredrick car was going east on Dundee at the time of the accident.

An estimated $800 damage was caused to the Valandra car and an estimated $1,500 damage was done to the Fredrick auto.

Valandra was charged with driving too fast for conditions and is scheduled to appear in Arlington Heights court on Oct. 13.

people to negotiate this consent decree. We've spent almost two years working out the details of the consent decree, which outlines the specific development of the property.

"I'm very happy with the proposed planned-unit development because it fulfills our goal to preserve as much open space in the community as possible. The development of single-family residences is not the only way to develop land in order to maintain open space in the community," Teichert said.

TEICHERT SAID the golf course, under the terms of the consent decree, will remain as recreational open space for 50 years. At that time, if the owner decides to sell the property, the village will have the option to purchase the land. Teichert said the golf course is about a 100-acre parcel.

Teichert said the consent decree ends more than seven years of negotiations and planning for the annexation and development of the property. "Old Orchard petitioned for annexation in the village about 1963 or 1964, at which time the village promised to rezone the property for a planned-unit development, which at that time was called a recreational open-space ordinance."

"After the country club was annexed by the village, the village repealed the zoning ordinance for the development of the property. When this happened, Old Orchard asked for disannexation from the village. This started a legal controversy (involving lawsuits) that we finally settled Tuesday," Teichert said.

New Rules Passed By Racing Board

All officers, directors and substantial owners of Arlington Park, along with those of other tracks in the state, will be required to make certain disclosures to the Illinois Racing Board under new rules adopted by the board yesterday.

The Illinois Racing Board approved three new rules—representing substantial changes to a proposed licensing regulation unveiled at a committee hearing last week.

The proposed regulation, released Aug. 25 by a special subcommittee, would have required the licensing of all directors, officers and substantial owners of any association, corporation or business entity desiring to conduct a racing meeting in the state.

Yesterday the subcommittee, headed by board commissioner Herman A. Stamer, proposed three rules that cover in part the original proposal. Prior to the board's vote on the new rules, Alexander MacArthur, board chairman, explained that the over-all nature of the rules would be one of disclosure instead of licensing.

REPRESENTATIVES of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE), operators of Arlington Park, and other track owners voiced objections to the original proposal, but accepted the new rules.

The first rule accepted states, "A license to conduct a horse race meeting is non-transferable, and will terminate upon a substantial change of ownership of the licensee, without prior approval of the board. The sale or transfer of 25 per cent or more will be considered a substantial change."

The second new rule provides that all officers, directors and substantial owners of an applicant for racing dates must make a written financial disclosure to the board prior to Oct. 1, on forms provided by the board. This disclosure would be made under oath, as stipulated in the forms.

THE LAST NEW rule stipulates that the board must be notified within 10 days of any new officers or directors of a licensee and the identity of every person, trust or foundation acquiring 5 per cent or more of the licensee's equity.

The new rules did not touch on some of the issues that CTE attorneys took exception to last week. Those areas include who would incur the expense of an investigation the board might decide to hold into the applicant's financial and moral integrity and the question of whether or not an applicant's interest in a legal gaming operation in another jurisdiction would be cause to deny racing dates.

Stamer said rules regarding these areas must go through the attorney general's office before they can be proposed to the board. Stamer said those rules, which might be ready in two weeks, also are in the nature of disclosure rather than licensing.

Newton Mandel, a member of the board of CTE, said the new rules are "sensible." He added, "Without revealing them carefully, they are entirely acceptable. This is what we proposed all along. We have nothing to hide."

Agree On Old Orchard Plan

An agreement paving the way for a multimillion-dollar apartment, office and hotel complex at Old Orchard County Club in Mount Prospect was reached Tuesday.

The settlement, agreed to by the Mount Prospect Village Board and the owner of the property, ends more than five years of controversy and litigation about the annexation and development of the 205-acre site at Euclid Street and Rand Road.

As a result of the settlement, a consent decree outlining the details of the development will be entered in court as soon as possible.

The consent decree calls for the development of 13 12-story buildings and the preservation of the golf course for 50 years. Two office buildings, 10 apartment buildings and a hotel have been proposed for the site.

The village will be required to allow construction of the development as outlined in the consent decree. No plans for the start of construction have yet been announced.

ALBERT NEWMAN, owner of the property, has agreed to turn over about two acres of land to the village for the construction of a two-million-gallon reservoir and pump station and a fire station. Construction of the fire and other facilities has not yet been decided by the village, however.

Mayor Robert Teichert said the board voted unanimously to authorize the consent decree following an executive session held after the board meeting Tuesday.

"The resolution of the Old Orchard property ends one big nagging problem for everyone concerned in the negotiations. This will be a beautiful development that will be a great asset to the community. I expect it will be one of the best developments in the Northwest suburban area," Teichert said.

"It's taken an awful lot of time and one hell of a lot of work by a lot of

School Taxes May Go Up 5.6%

High School Dist. 214 property owners could see their tax bills increase by about 5.6 per cent next year, a district official told the school board's budget committee Wednesday night.

Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business affairs, showed the board that the 1971-72 tax rate could climb from this year's figure of $2.27 to a new total of $2.33 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget committee was meeting to examine not only the district's projected tax rate, but also means of cutting into possible future deficit spending.

THE INCREASE would include a hike from $1.65 to $1.59 in the education fund, which makes up the largest portion of the budget and covers teacher's salaries, the largest single item in the budget.

Weber and Supt. Edward Gilbert cautioned that the proposed tax rates must be approved by the board, and could be changed by an upsurge in assessed valuation in the district.

Also, there is a possibility that the district might levy a small working cash fund levy, to cover the district coming up in the red if early tax collections don't keep pace.

This year, early collections of tax money gave the district a surplus. A working cash fund, which would collect interest for the district, could cover the district in case of a drop in early collection.

JACK COSTELLO, who is chairman of the budget committee, raised that question, as well as wondering if November might be suitable time for a referendum to raise tax revenue in the district.

However, both Weber and Gilbert said that the time might not be right. Weber said that early collections, to put the district in the black, would help this spring.

Gilbert pointed out that the district has not been involved in deficit spending through tax anticipation warrants, that disreputable gremlin of borrowing money to cover revenue deficits.

The committee spent much of their meetings looking ahead to the projected 1971-72 budget and a possible deficit of $682,000 in the education fund.

THE DISTRICT must look ahead, officials explained, as the 1970-71 levy, part of the official budget to be acted upon later this month, provides revenue for the 1971-72 school year.

That year will be a financially rough one for the district, as the district's seventh high school—Rolling Meadows High School—will boost the number of teachers and custodial and clerical personnel in the district.

Some expenditures can be shifted into the building fund to cover the deficit in the education fund, explained Weber.

Budgets aren't the only money matters facing the board. If the district decides that an eighth high school is needed for the district by 1974-75, the board will have to seek taxpayer support for a bond issue.

SEVERAL BOARD members are working to eliminate the need for another school. For example, Richard Starnam has argued strongly in recent weeks for a community program involving local businesses educating students in vocational fields.

And Mrs. Leah Cummins has added that evening courses for students could help channel the student population out of the regular, traditional schedule, thus allowing the district to serve more students in the present seven high schools.

Com 75 also is studying a four-quarter plan. It has recommended that the board adopt a four-quarter plan "at the earliest feasible time." That could eliminate the eighth high school, too.

Merchant Says Bag Sale Unfair

A Palatine merchant charged yesterday that members of the Chamber of Commerce who sell village approved garbage bags and take part in the chamber's Greeting Service are being "exploited."

Gus C. Holzrichter, who runs both a sporting goods store and a motorcycle dealership, said the chamber was making too much money on the services at the expense of the local businessman.

Holzrichter also renewed charges that the chamber did not legally hire Kenneth P. Eriksen as full-time director, because it was hiring on the basis of funds which were not collected as dues.

Instead, he said, the chamber planned to pay him out of profits it made from services it offers. This is not a "legal" expense for the executive board to take without unanimous approval, he said. Since the board did not have unanimous approval, he said, the hiring is illegal.

HOLZRICHTER SAID if there was any question as to the validity of his argument, he would like to see the matter discussed at a general membership meeting.

The former chamber president said that he has circulated two petitions among merchants. One calls for the chamber to reduce the price of the bags to the merchant and the other asks that the cost of the Greeting Service be reduced from $20 to $15 a month.

Holzrichter said he was taking the action "in a sincere effort to see the chamber run properly."

BY TAKING the action, he said he hoped to "re-affirm the knowledge of what the function of the chamber should be." The money it makes, he said, should be put into promotions for the businessman and to assistance for the business man.

The petition to reduce the cost of the bags reads as follows: "The following Palatine Chamber of Commerce members feel that the chamber board did not have all the information pertinent to the setting of sale price to the consumer, cost to merchant and ultimate loss to the merchant and profit to the Chamber."

The petition says that a box of 100 bags are sold to the public for $8. The merchant pays $7.75 for the bags while the Chamber pays $6.92.

The merchant makes from 4 to 8 per cent on the bag while the Chamber makes 11 per cent, the petition says.

The petition asks that the chamber lower its profit to three per cent which would account for a $2,500 to $3,000 contribution to the treasury and sell the bags to the merchants for $7.15. Seven signatures were on the petition.

ERIKSEN, WHO IS now part-time director, said yesterday the Chamber would do whatever the businessmen wanted. He said bids would soon be let on a new garbage bag contract and the "chances are" that the chamber will get a better price and lower the price to the merchants.

The other petition charged that the price of the Greeting Service was raised from $15 to $20 without executive board authority and without consultation with the Greeting Service members.

It asks that all funds collected from chamber members over $15 per month be returned and the price be lowered. That petition carried 25 signatures.

Eriksen, who was hired for a base annual salary of $15,000 plus commissions on new members and new greeting service members, said he thought it was "obvious" that Holzrichter wanted to see the chamber in a position where it could not pay him.

Holzrichter has previously said that when Eriksen's salary is added up, it will come to more than $20,000 which is more than a village the size of Palatine, ought to be paying a chamber director.

Cedar Park Work Planned For Fall

Palatine Park District officials are still planning to begin work on Cedar Park this fall.

Located at the Southwest corner of Palatine Road and Cedar Street, the park stretches east past Pine Street and has been on the waiting list for park projects since 1965.

When finished, it will feature several picnic areas, and a children's play area consisting of modernistic playground equipment made from telephone poles and railroad ties.

To do this, $8,500 has been set aside from the 1965 park district referendum, says Paul Jensen, vice president of the park board.

This fall's work will consist primarily of clean-up work along Salt Creek, which cuts diagonally through Cedar Park, and landscaping work on the edge which borders Palatine Road.

No Paper On Monday

Paddock Publications will observe the Labor Day holiday Monday, Sept. 7 by not publishing newspapers that day.

Publication will resume as usual on Tuesday for the Cook County Herald.

THIS IS THE "before" picture of Cedar Park. In a year or so Palatine Park District officials hope to turn the two and one-half acre site into a rustic and well-kept recreational area. The bridge here leads to Palatine Road and Cedar Street Apartments. Clean-up work is slated to begin sometime this fall.

Silence Follows Teachers' Vote

The word is still "mum" on the rejection of a salary negotiations agreement by the High School Dist. 211 Teacher's Association Wednesday afternoon.

"I think we'll hold off on any public statement for another 12 to 24 hours," said James Humphrey, chairman of the board of education's negotiating committee.

Gerald Chapman, a member of the teacher's negotiating committee and president of the Teacher's Association, made a similar statement.

Information concerning the 2-1 defeat of a proposed pay accord "could hurt our chances of reaching any agreement soon," Humphrey said.

Wednesday, about three-fourths of the district's teaching staff voted against a settlement reached last week. The vote was 224 to 103 against the proposal.

THUS, MEMBERS of both negotiating teams are working as fast as they can to reach an agreement since the first pay day for teachers is Sept. 15 and because Sept. 13 is the end of a 90-day period within which negotiators agreed to reach a settlement.

The resumption of negotiating sessions is awaiting the results from a questionnaire which the Teacher's Association is now circulating among faculty members to determine what areas of the agreement led to dissatisfaction and defeat.

Although no figures concerning the range of the new schedule have been made public knowledge, Humphrey did say "I feel we gave them a good offer. I feel quite strongly about this."

Chapman affirmed Humphrey's statement, saying that the association's negotiating committee urged ratification of the overdue agreement.

AND EVEN THOUGH Chapman would not comment on the possibility of a teacher's strike, Humphrey said "I would assume teachers will not strike. They'll leave it up to the negotiating committee to see if they can come up with an agreement with the board."

Three factors are currently pressing the negotiating teams to reach a settlement.

One of these is the rapidly approaching first pay period. Having begun school Aug. 31, teachers are working under last year's salary provisions ($7,300 bottom and $14,600 top pay.)

They have agreed to work in this way until a new contract, retroactive to Aug. 31, was drawn up. James Slater, business manager for Dist. 211, said "it is still up in the air" as to how the teachers will be paid on Sept. 15.

"We're hoping this thing is wrapped up by then," he said. If not, checks issued next Tuesday will be based on last year's contracts.

A SECOND FACTOR urging the board and the association to come to terms is the 90-day negotiating limit which was part of the negotiations procedures agreement.

Among other rules and procedures for negotiating, teachers and board members agreed to complete salary negotiations within 90 days after they began. Talks started June 15 which means the 90th day is Sept. 13.

If no agreement is reached by then an impasse will be called. Then, an outside mediator will be brought in "to see if he can get the two sides together," Humphrey said.

If this fails, the mediator will then form a fact-finding group to look deeper into the disagreement in hopes of reaching a settlement. And lastly, the negotiators will turn to arbitration in an effort to reach an accord.

AND THE LAST factor pressing negotiators toward a settlement is the fact that Dist. 211 teachers are working without contracts.

Youth Group May Move To Downtown Location

Seeds were planted Wednesday night for what could be several major changes in the structure of the Palatine Township Youth Organization (PTYO).

Mayor John Moodie, several village trustees and local teens met to discuss the status of the PTYO, which, in recent months, has lost much of the local teen-age support.

One of the major topics of discussion was The Joint, a teen center located at 938 N. Smith Road, the site of the former Levade Ranch.

For almost two years since the teens purchased the site, they have been working to remodel the ranch house and stables into a usable coffeehouse-dance hall center.

During the duration of this project, The Joint has become a sore spot with local teens. For nearly two years a teen club has been promised to them with no tangible results. Thus, many teens have lost interest and no longer support PTYO.

TO REMEDY this situation, the suggestion was made that the PTYO rent a fairly large facility near the industrial section of downtown Palatine.

This, says Clayton Brown, could give the teens a chance to see if the community would support a PTYO-sponsored club which could be used immediately, and to see if the teens could manage such a project on their own.

In this way, Brown said, community interest in the PTYO could be rekindled. There was even talk of selling the Smith Road site and purchasing this downtown facility.

The location of the new facility has not been disclosed because the owner of the building has not been contacted for negotiations at this point, Brown said.

Another turn about in PTYO operations came when the suggestion was made that adults be responsible for building or obtaining a facility, while the teens be solely responsible for developing programs.

This type of separation of duties would take "a lot off the shoulders" of Mrs. Lorraine LaSusa, who has unofficially been acting as the chairman of the Joint building project as well as a teen consultant, Brown said.

A potential chairman was named who would, if elected by the teens, head the teen center facility aspect of the PTYO, while Mrs. LaSusa would continue her work with teens on other aspects of the PTYO.

He is Harry Bernstein of Bernstein and Associates Insurance, 100 N. Brockway. His new position will be official only after teen members give their approval, he said.

On Teacher
Negotiations

Elementary and high schools in the community opened their doors to their students this week, but not before several of the school districts had gone through lengthy contract negotiations with the teachers.

It took teachers and board of education members in Elementary School Dist. 15 four months to reach a salary agreement. Teachers in High School Dist. 211 Wednesday rejected a salary proposal and have still not signed contracts for this school year.

The possibility exists that these teachers who have not yet signed contracts may strike.

"They have the right to strike, but sometimes it can be carried too far," Mrs. Joseph Piro, 2300 Rohlwing Road, Rolling Meadows, said. Beginning teachers in Dist. 211 receive an annual salary of $7,300, which "is a fine salary for women, but it would be difficult for a man with a family to get along on that," Mrs. Piro said.

IF SOME OF the teachers' demands are not met, the school districts "might lose some of their good male teachers to industry and business," Mrs. Piro warned.

"The teachers should be heard, but something should be worked out other than striking," Mrs. Wilton E. Aikin, 2611 Flicker Lane, Rolling Meadows, said. "It isn't fair to the kids if they strike because they are the ones that would get kipped."

Some people view teachers as being in a position that makes striking extremely difficult. "I feel they are just like government employees," said Mrs. Marion C. Lynch, 800 Lily Lane, Palatine. "It's just a big mess."

Others think that striking would be the worst solution to the situation. "I don't believe in striking to begin with," Mrs. William R. Harvey, 2310 George St., Rolling Meadows, said. "Teachers and every one else should settle their problems through negotiations."

ALTHOUGH Mrs. Warren Erdmann, of 2302 Willow Lane, Rolling Meadows, doesn't think teachers should strike because of the consequences the students would be faced with, "they should be getting more than $7,300 a year."

On the other hand, Mrs. R. E. Davidson, 2103 Wren Lane, Rolling Meadows, thinks $7,300 a year salary "for a beginner is pretty good." However, she said teachers should go along with bargaining as long as possible before they consider a strike.

"I think they have the right to strike, but only for a short period of time," Mrs. Steven Bergstrom, 833 Carmel Drive, Palatine, said.

To Mrs. Paul A. Nowack, of 852 N. Martin Drive, Palatine, striking "seems to be the only way to get results."

New Rules Passed
By Racing Board

All officers, directors and substantial owners of Arlington Park, along with those of other tracks in the state, will be required to make certain disclosures to the Illinois Racing Board under new rules adopted by the board yesterday.

The Illinois Racing Board approved three new rules—representing substantial changes to a proposed licensing regulation unveiled at a committee hearing last week.

The proposed regulation, released Aug. 25 by a special subcommittee, would have required the licensing of all directors, officers and substantial owners of any association, corporation or business entity desiring to conduct a racing meeting in the state.

Yesterday the subcommittee, headed by board commissioner Herman A. Stamer, proposed three rules that cover in part the original proposal. Prior to the board's vote on the new rules, Alexander MacArthur, board chairman, explained that the over-all nature of the rules would be one of disclosure instead of licensing.

REPRESENTATIVES of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE), operators of Arlington Park, and other track owners voiced objections to the original proposal, but accepted the new rules.

The first rule accepted states, "A licensee to conduct a horse race meeting is non-transferable, and will terminate upon a substantial change of ownership of the licensee, without prior approval of the board. The sale or transfer of 25 percent or more will be considered a substantial change."

The second new rule provides that all officers, directors and substantial owners of an applicant for racing dates must make a written financial disclosure to the board prior to Oct. 1, on forms provided by the board. This disclosure would be made under oath, as stipulated in the forms.

THE LAST NEW rule stipulates that the board must be notified within 10 days of any new officers or directors of a licensee and the identity of every person, trust or foundation acquiring 5 percent or more of the licensee's equity.

The new rules did not touch on some of the issues that CTE attorneys took exception to last week. Those areas include who would incur the expense of an investigation the board might decide to hold into the applicant's financial and moral integrity and the question of whether or not an applicant's interest in a legal gaming operation in another jurisdiction would be cause to deny racing dates.

Stamer said rules regarding these areas must go through the attorney general's office before they can be proposed to the board. Stamer said those rules, which might be ready in two weeks, also are in the nature of disclosure rather than licensing.

Newton Mandel, a member of the board of CTE, said the new rules are "sensible." He added, "Without reweaving them carefully, they are entirely acceptable. This is what we proposed all along. We have nothing to hide."

Away From Home

Do you have a friend or relative in Palatine who is out-of-town? Clip this weekly column and send it to him to let him in on all the local happenings in the past week.

—The population of Palatine has increased 127 per cent since 1960, according to preliminary census reports. Palatine now has a population of 26,104 compared with a population of 11,504 in 1960.

—Residents of Township High School Dist. 211 can expect their tax rate to remain stable this year, despite the board of education's approval of a new budget exceeding last year's budget by more than $3 million. Final approval was given to a balanced budget of $14,710,641.

—Construction work on Quentin Road will cause local motorists and school officials a good deal of detouring and headaches for the next two weeks. Quentin Road is being widened and resurfaced from Algonquin Road to Dundee Road.

—More than 55 classes in 33 different activities, plus 15 organized clubs and groups make up the schedule of 1970 Fall Quarter Programs at the Countryside YMCA.

—The Herald published a poem about the Hunting Ridge subdivision written by Cornelio E. Casclang, Sr., a visitor from the Philippines. The housing development was described as "A little barrio in the Palatine village."

The Palatine Village Board decided to start condemnation proceedings on a parcel of land at the southwest corner of

Smith and Colfax to stop a drive-in banking facility from being built there. The action came after an executive session meeting with Gerald F. Fitzgerald, president of the Palatine National Bank, who is proposing the new facility. The village believes it will play havoc with traffic in the area.

—The village board also rejected a bid to locate a sign for a theater now under construction near Northwest Highway west of Route 53 in the public right of way.

—In 17 days, voters of Palatine and Schaumburg Townships will be asked to go to the polls and vote on a $17 million building referendum for High School Dist. 211.

—The Countryside YMCA will hold a novice swim meet for children in its service area Sept. 18 at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights.

—Rolling Meadows made the front page of the Ashai Newspaper in Japan last month. The city was mentioned in connection with a resident who was the first person to offer a donation from a Western Hemisphere country to the Research Institute for Nuclear Medicine and Biology based at Hiroshima University.

—Two Palatine men were injured Friday night when the motorcycle on which they were riding struck the rear of an auto on Northwest Highway near Princeton Avenue in Arlington Heights.

Agree On Old Orchard Plan

An agreement paving the way for a multimillion-dollar apartment, office and hotel complex at Old Orchard County Club in Mount Prospect was reached Tuesday.

The settlement, agreed to by the Mount Prospect Village Board and the owner of the property, ends more than five years of controversy and litigation about the annexation and development of the 205-acre site at Euclid Street and Rand Road.

As a result of the settlement, a consent decree outlining the details of the development will be entered in court as soon as possible.

The consent decree calls for the development of 13 12-story buildings and the preservation of the golf course for 50 years. Two office buildings, 10 apartment buildings and a hotel have been proposed for the site.

The village will be required to allow construction of the development as outlined in the consent decree. No plans for the start of construction have yet been announced.

ALBERT NEWMAN, owner of the property, has agreed to turn over about two acres of land to the village for the construction of a two-million-gallon reservoir and pump station and a fire station. Construction of the fire and water facilities has not yet been decided by the village, however.

Mayor Robert Teichert said the board voted unanimously to authorize the consent decree following an executive session held after the board meeting Tuesday.

"The resolution of the Old Orchard property ends one big nagging problem for everyone concerned in the negotiations. This will be a beautiful development that will be a great asset to the community. I expect it will be one of the best developments in the Northwest suburban area," Teichert said.

"It's taken an awful lot of time and one hell of a lot of work by a lot of people to negotiate this consent decree. We've spent almost two years working out the details of the consent decree, which outlines the specific development of the property."

"I'm very happy with the proposed planned-unit development because it fulfills our goal to preserve as much open space in the community as possible. The development of single-family residences is not the only way to develop land in order to maintain open space in the community," Teichert said.

TEICHERT SAID the golf course, under the terms of the consent decree, will remain as recreational open space for 50 years. At that time, if the owner decides to sell the property, the village will have the option to purchase the land. Teichert

Group Still Lack Funds

Plans for a Northwest Suburban Home-maker Service to be initiated in the Elk Grove Village area have stalled due to lack of funds, according to Thomas Smith, Elk Grove Village Community Service director.

The Home-maker service provides a trained child care specialist who has had experience in working with families and raising children and will help in the home upon request when a mother is absent.

At least $10,000 "seed money" is needed to start the program in January of 1971, Smith said.

The home-maker service is offered in north, south and west suburban Chicago, and plans were begun six months ago by Community Service to start an office for northwest Chicago in Elk Grove Village.

"The home-maker service is still interested in coming out here but we're at the point where we recognize that it's going to be Elk Grove people without support

PILOTING THE WACO UPS-7, an open cockpit biplane, is quite a challenge for Roger Runyan. Sporting the traditional flight hat and goggles, Roger enjoys taking the plane through breathtaking aerobatic stunts. The flashy red Waco was completely rebuilt by Roger and his three brothers.

1-Plane 'Flying Circus?'

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

Whether nostalgic adults or intrigued children, there is always an audience ready to watch the flashy red airplane with two sets of wings as it takes off from the runway at the Schaumburg Airport, west of Roseville.

The attention getter that twists and turns so gracefully in the air is a Waco the four Runyan brothers.

The Runyans grew up flying, but even the veritable Waco was before their time. All their years of experience are adequately challenged by the sporty little UPS-7, open cockpit biplane, owned by craft they bought eight years ago, and have since completely rebuilt.

"IT'S A TRICKY plane to handle, very demanding on the runway," Roger Runyan said.

Roger, now living in Glendale Heights, is a charter pilot and flight instructor at Twinbrook Aviation, where the Waco is kept. Besides giving eager and perhaps apprehensive passengers rides in the Waco for a small fee, he uses the plane for aerobatic instruction.

The Runyans bought the plane in Troy, Ohio, for $3,000 and have spent about three times that amount rebuilding it. They have searched the country for parts. The hardest parts to find were the lower wings, according to Roger.

The most notable deviation from the original is the electric starter the Runyans installed. Other than that, the plane has been restored almost identically to its classic state.

UPS-7's were first manufactured in 1937 and production continued through 1939. The 1940-42 models went to the military for the World War II pilot training programs.

TODAY THE PLANE is an antique showpiece used mainly for pleasure flying and aerobatics, for which it is particularly suited.

The Waco doesn't take off, it springs into the air, soaring almost vertically after it leaves the ground.

The 244 square feet of wing area enable the Waco to perform spirited lifts as well as breathtaking turns, spins and stalls.

The romantic notion of touching the clouds isn't too far fetched in the Waco, as pilot and rider are completely exposed to the elements. Yet it is this very aspect that attracts seasoned pilots who want to recapture the original sensations of flying.

The Waco definitely isn't for those who depend on modern luxury. Getting in and out requires agility. The pilot must jump onto the wing and then over the side of the cockpit. In order to see where he is going, he must occasionally poke his head over the side.

The plane can fly up to 150 miles per hour and reaches an altitude of 10,000 feet (any higher and riders would need oxygen masks).

Finally, landing the plane is especially tricky, because Wacos react strangely in crosswinds. It's not a calm and closed jumbo jet, but that's why the Runyans like their Waco.

Fall Football
Leagues Slated

Girls as well as boys will be given a chance this fall to participate in football leagues sponsored by the Rolling Meadows Park District.

The Powder Puff Football program, open to girls in fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, will instruct them on how to catch, throw and kick a football and also give them lessons on the rules of the game.

Three sessions have been set up for the powder puff play. Girls should meet behind the park district swimming pool for instruction on Sept. 18, Sept. 25 and Oct. 2.

Registration is free and must be done at the park district office before Sept. 16.

The regular football league games for boys will begin Sept. 14 and players should meet behind the swimming pool. Fourth through sixth grade boys will play at 4 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays.

Sixth and seventh graders will play at 4 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and high school boys and older will play at 2 p.m. on Sundays.

Registration for the league play must be done at the park district office by Sept. 11 and a fee of $2 will be charged to each player.

A special Flag Football Clinic will also be held this fall for fourth through eighth grade boys. Clinic sessions, which will offer instruction and practice in the fundamental techniques of the game, will be held at 3:45 p.m. Sept. 8, 9 and 11. The sessions will conclude with a game at 10 a.m. Saturday.

The meeting place for all three sessions will be behind the swimming pool.

Dist. 59 Schools Will Open

Dist. 59 schools will be open as scheduled despite a teachers' professional sanction of the district, the school administration announced yesterday.

Schools are scheduled to open Tuesday. Teachers rejected the board of education's proposed contract Tuesday and voted to support a professional sanction of the district, therefore, providing limited services during school hours.

Letters were mailed to parents yesterday to notify them that school would be open, Mrs. Leah Cummins, specialist, public and community relations, said.

"We do expect that their will be curtailment of outside activities such as sports, until an agreement is reached with teachers," she added.

THE DISTRICT has also installed a 24-hour recorded phone message service for parents wishing more information about schools. The number is 437-7839. The service has been put into operation especially for the Labor Day weekend, so that parents will know any developments in the school situation before Tuesday.

The district plans to use the recorded message, however, to tell parents about special programs of interest to them during the year, including bus route changes, snow day closings, and other items.

The first day of school will be a full day for all except kindergarten students. For these students, the first day will be a visitation day for parent and child. Their first full day will be Wednesday.

Kindergarten half-day sessions will run from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 12:45 to 3:15 p.m. Grades one through five are scheduled from 9 to 11:45 a.m. and from 12:45 to 3:15 p.m.

Lively and Holmes Junior High Schools are scheduled from 7:55 a.m. to 2:40 p.m. and Grove and Dempster Junior High schools are scheduled from 8:20 a.m. to 3:05 p.m.

Parents are asked by the administration to be patient if buses do not arrive on schedule, or if children come home later than scheduled because of road construction, Mrs. Cummins said.

"Everybody knows that in this area the main arteries are torn up and we are almost certain that it will make the buses a little later than planned," she said.

"We are asking parents to tell their children to wait for the bus in the morning even if it hasn't arrived on time," she said.

PALATINE MAYOR John Moodie helped to officially launch Indian Guide Week by signing a proclamation Wednesday which he was handed by Bill Huffman.

Bus Co. Meeting Set For Tonight

Officials from 15 area suburbs will meet in Des Plaines tonight to discuss the financial problems of United Motor Coach Co., which has said it may go out of business without some kind of subsidy.

The meeting, called by Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel, will hear a presentation from Elmer Schuermann, the firm's vice president and general manager, who has already met with officials of Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Park Ridge and Niles.

In addition to representatives of suburbs from Evanston to Barrington, which are all served by the ailing bus company, school districts 59, 207, 62 and 63 are invited to the meeting, to be held in the Des Plaines Municipal Building, 1412 Miner St.

According to Schuermann, representatives of the Milwaukee Road and the Chicago Transit Authority are also expected to attend.

THE COMPANY has been unable to get any commitment for aid from Des Plaines, Niles and Elk Grove Village and was turned down by Park Ridge after a meeting with city officials there.

United Motor Coach, according to Schuermann, lost $70,000 in the first six months of this year. The firm lost $84,000 in 1969 and more than $130,000 in 1968, Schuermann said.

In a letter to suburban mayors, Behrel said the bus firm "apparently is in dire financial circumstances, is already planning serious curtailment of its services, and there is also a great possibility that if some assistance is not forthcoming, (it) will go out of business."

There is some question, however, about the legality of any direct aid by area cities and villages to the bus company. Des Plaines City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi, said that in his opinion direct grants of municipal corporate or motor fuel tax funds to United Motor Coach would not be allowed under Illinois law.

PTA Notes

Wendell Jones, assistant superintendent of the Cook County schools, will speak at the opening meeting of the Kimball Hill PTA at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the school gym.

Jones' speech on "Parents As the First Teachers" will be followed by a question and answer period. Refreshments will be served and new parents and teachers in the community are urged to attend the first meeting.

A Fun Fair offering an assortment of games and prizes will be held from noon to 4 p.m. Sept. 12 in the Winston Churchill gym.

Sponsored by the Churchill and Winston Park PTAs, the fair will feature clowns, balloons, cotton candy, popcorn and many carnival games in which every player will win a prize.

The first meeting of the school year of the Immanuel Lutheran School Parent Teacher League will be held at 8 p.m.

Tuesday in the school cafeteria.

Dale Elmshausen will speak on the topic "Aims and Goals of the School Music Program" and will respond to questions following his discussion.

WHERE IS THE BEST INVESTMENT PROPERTY FOUND?

Downtown? Or up? Where is the "smart" money going? If there was ever a field where an investor must be alert to changing trends and future developments, it has to be the specialty of real estate investment property.

An investor proceeding without the counsel of a seasoned Broker who thoroughly knows his local market, is just plain lucky if he avoids costly mistakes and ends up with a sound, income-producing property.

Experienced investors, many of whom have made fortunes in the real estate field, usually patronize a particular lawyer they have come to rely on who knows their objectives and financing potential. The lawyer values these investors as clients and friends and his specialized knowledge protects them from making serious errors.

Similar confidence in a competent Broker is often rewarded with opportunities to make unusually good investments before they are publicized. The Broker is not operating a service to a favored few; it is simply that when a good investment presents itself, he immediately thinks of clients who might be interested.

One of the first steps to make profitable real estate investments is to ally yourself with an expert Broker who is an investment specialist.

Kemmerly Real Estate has been lending their services for years to professional Real Estate investors. We know where the "Smart" money is going.

THE DRIVEWAY and yard of 4202 Linden Ln. of Rolling Meadows have presented problems to city officials and residents in the neighborhood who would like to see it cleaned up. For several years, the city has been issuing citations for violation of city ordinances on weeds, parking and fire hazards.

City May Go To Court On Home Issue

After 3½ years of issuing city ordinance violations for weeds, illegal parking of vehicles and accumulation of materials which provoke a fire hazard and various other violations, the City of Rolling Meadows is expected to go to court to get the owners of a Linden Lane home to improve their property.

Six city officials entered the house at 4202 Linden Ln. about 9 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 23 to search for fire and building code violations and health hazards.

"I have not received the fire marshal's report or the health officer's, and I have only looked briefly at the building and zoning officer's reports," City Atty. Donald Rose said. "I am reasonably certain we will go to court for the building code violations."

Rose said he understood John Schultz, health officer, did not find any violations on Aug. 23. Schultz is on vacation and not available for comment.

Fire Marshal Tom Fogarty said his representative on the Sunday morning search reported there were fire code violations.

The search warrant issued to the city Aug. 20 stated Fogarty, Schultz and Building and Zoning Officer Sverre Haug were to search the premises for "open and unguarded fire place, uncurbed carcasses of dead animals and filth and excrement."

Three police officers were included in the search party to maintain peace, Police Lt. Ralph Evans said.

Paul Rutherford, owner of the property which is on the southeast corner of Central Road and Linden Lane, said he has not heard from the city since they entered his home Aug. 23.

"They want me to move," Rutherford said yesterday. "The city has made me an offer and has let me know they want me out of here." City officials had no comment on the offer.

Mrs. Rutherford said she went to the door Sunday morning when the search party knocked. "I cracked the door open. I wasn't fully dressed and I thought it might be my sister," she said. "They burst in on me."

Rutherford said he heard noise downstairs and picked up an unloaded gun before he went downstairs. "I guess they were surprised I had a gun," he said. "After we found out what the situation was, they gave us the search warrant. As far as I know, none of the things in the warrant were found in the house. They came in and took a lot of pictures."

Rutherford said he has been "harassed unmercifully" by the city for several years. "I don't know how to defend myself, I don't know what I'm going to do."

City Atty. Rose said that if the city does go to court and is successful, a court order will be issued giving the owners a specified length of time to bring the property up to the standards of the building code. If the property is not improved, the owners would be held in contempt of court and have to answer to the charges.

School Taxes May Go Up 5.6%

High School Dist. 214 property owners could see their tax bills increase by about 5.6 per cent next year, a district official told the school board's budget committee Wednesday night.

Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business affairs, showed the board that the 1971-72 tax rate could climb from this year's figure of $2.27 to a new total of $2.33 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget committee was meeting to examine not only the district's projected tax rate, but also means of cutting into possible future deficit spending.

THE INCREASE would include a hike from $1.55 to $1.59 in the education fund, which makes up the largest portion of the budget and covers teacher's salaries, the largest single item in the budget.

Weber and Supt. Edward Gilbert cautioned that the proposed tax rates must be approved by the board, and could be changed by an upsurge in assessed valuation in the district.

Also, there is a possibility that the district might levy a small working cash fund levy, to cover the district coming up in the red if early tax collections don't keep pace.

This year, early collections of tax money gave the district a surplus. A working cash fund, which would collect interest for the district, could cover the district in case of a drop in early collection.

JACK COSTELLO, who is chairman of the budget committee, raised that question, as well as wondering if November might be suitable time for a referendum to raise tax revenue in the district.

However, both Weber and Gilbert said that the time might not be right. Weber said that early collections, to put the district in the black, would help this spring. Gilbert pointed out that the district has not been involved in deficit spending through tax anticipation warrants, that disreputable gremlin of borrowing money to cover revenue deficits.

The committee spent much of their meetings looking ahead to the projected 1971-72 budget and a possible deficit of $683,000 in the education fund.

THE DISTRICT must look ahead, officials explained, as the 1970-71 levy, part of the official budget to be acted upon later this month, provides revenue for the 1971-72 school year.

That year will be a financially rough one for the district, as the district's seventh high school — Rolling Meadows High School — will boost the number of teachers and custodial and clerical personnel in the district.

Some expenditures can be shifted into the building fund to cover the deficit in the education fund, explained Weber.

Budgets aren't the only money matters facing the board. If the district decides that an eighth high school is needed for the district by 1974-75, the board will have to seek taxpayer support for a bond issue.

SEVERAL BOARD members are working to eliminate the need for another school. For example, Richard Stamm has argued strongly in recent weeks for a community program involving local businesses educating students in vocational fields.

And Mrs. Leah Cummins has added that evening courses for students could help channel the student population out of the regular, traditional schedule, thus allowing the district to serve more students in the present seven high schools.

Com 75 also is studying a four-quarter plan. It has recommended that the board adopt a four-quarter plan "at the earliest feasible time." That could eliminate the eighth high school, too.

War Memorial Will Be Reality

Rolling Meadows residents can soon expect to find a war memorial set up at City Hall honoring the city's soldiers that have lost their lives in Vietnam action.

The newly elected Teen Government has set a deadline of Memorial Day for raising enough money to purchase a solid bronze plaque with the names of the fallen soldiers inscribed. The group has already raised some $400 for the plaque, although another $300 is needed to make the purchase of the 36" by 48" memorial they want.

The idea to raise money for the memorial began in 1967. The Teen Government officers that year held several fund-raising events, such as paper drives and car washes. However, the group is still short of its goal.

ALTHOUGH SEVERAL community organizations have offered to donate the balance of the necessary funds, the new Teen Government, which has taken over responsibility of the project, has refused to accept it. The teens decided to raise all the funds themselves because of the obligation they feel to remember other youths of the city.

The teens are currently working on gathering more information on the total number of area soldiers that have lost their lives in the war. City churches, American Legion posts and the Arlington Heights Brigade have been contacted.

THE MOST RECENT fund-raising activity sponsored by the Teen Government was running the Dunking Machine at West Fest this year. Almost $100 was raised at the Fest when the teens manned the machine.

The group has no definite plans as to what further drives they will sponsor in order to raise the money. Plans will be discussed at the next meeting of the group Oct. 7. The Teen Government meets the first Wednesday of every month in the city council chambers.

Speak Out

People Talk
On Teacher
Negotiations

Elementary and high schools in the community opened their doors to their students this week; but not before several of the school districts had gone through lengthy contract negotiations with the teachers.

It took teachers and board of education members in Elementary School Dist. 15 four months to reach a salary agreement. Teachers in High School Dist. 211 Wednesday rejected a salary proposal and have still not signed contracts for this school year.

The possibility exists that these teachers who have not as yet signed contracts may strike.

"They have the right to strike, but sometimes it can be carried too far," Mrs. Joseph Piro, 2300 Rohlwing Road, Rolling Meadows, said. Beginning teachers in Dist. 211 receive an annual salary of $7,300, which "is a fine salary for women, but it would be difficult for a man with a family to get along on that," Mrs. Piro said.

IF SOME OF the teachers' demands are not met, the school districts "might lose some of their good male teachers to industry and business," Mrs. Piro warned.

"The teachers should be heard, but something should be worked out other than striking," Mrs. Wilton E. Aikin, 2611 Flicker Lane, Rolling Meadows, said. "It isn't fair to the kids if they strike because they are the ones that would get by-passed."

Some people view teachers as being in a position that makes striking extremely difficult. "I feel they are just like government employees," said Mrs. Marion C. Lynch, 890 Lily Lane, Palatine. "It's just a big mess."

Others think that striking would be the worst solution to the situation. "I don't believe in striking to begin with," Mrs. William R. Harvey, 2310 George St., Rolling Meadows, said. "Teachers and everyone else should settle their problems through negotiations."

ALTHOUGH Mrs. Warren Erdmann, of 2302 Willow Lane, Rolling Meadows, doesn't think teachers should strike because of the consequences the students would be faced with, "they should be getting more than $7,300 a year."

On the other hand, Mrs. R. E. Davidson, 2103 Wren Lane, Rolling Meadows, thinks $7,300 a year salary "for a beginner is pretty good." However, she said teachers should go along with bargaining as long as possible before they consider a strike.

"I think they have the right to strike, but only for a short period of time," Mrs. Steven Bergstrom, 833 Carmel Drive, Palatine, said.

To Mrs. Paul A. Nowack, of 852 N. Martin Drive, Palatine, striking "seems to be the only way to get results."

New Rules Passed
By Racing Board

All officers, directors and substantial owners of Arlington Park, along with those of other tracks in the state, will be required to make certain disclosures to the Illinois Racing Board under new rules adopted by the board yesterday.

The Illinois Racing Board approved three new rules—representing substantial changes to a proposed licensing regulation unveiled at a committee hearing last week.

The proposed regulation, released Aug. 25 by a special subcommittee, would have required the licensing of all directors, officers and substantial owners of any association, corporation or business entity desiring to conduct a racing meeting in the state.

Yesterday the subcommittee, headed by board commissioner Herman A. Stamer, proposed three rules that cover in part the original proposal. Prior to the board's vote on the new rules, Alexander MacArthur, board chairman, explained that the over-all nature of the rules would be one of disclosure instead of licensing.

REPRESENTATIVES of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE), operators of Arlington Park, and other track owners voiced objections to the original proposal, but accepted the new rules.

The first rule accepted states, "A license to conduct a horse race meeting is non-transferable, and will terminate upon a substantial change of ownership of the licensee, without prior approval of the board. The sale or transfer of 25 per cent or more will be considered a substantial change."

The second new rule provides that all officers, directors and substantial owners of an applicant for racing dates must make a written financial disclosure to the board prior to Oct. 1, on forms provided by the board. This disclosure would be made under oath, as stipulated in the forms.

THE LAST NEW rule stipulates that the board must be notified within 10 days of any new officers or directors of a licensee and the identity of every person, trust or foundation acquiring 5 per cent or more of the licensee's equity.

The new rules did not touch on some of the issues that CTE attorneys took exception to last week. Those areas include who would incur the expense of an investigation the board might decide to hold into the applicant's financial and moral integrity and the question of whether or not an applicant's interest in a legal gaming operation in another jurisdiction would be cause to deny racing dates.

Stamer said rules regarding these areas must go through the attorney general's office before they can be proposed to the board. Stamer said those rules, which might be ready in two weeks, also are in the nature of disclosure rather than licensing.

Newton Mandel, a member of the board of CTE, said the new rules are "sensible." He added, "Without reviewing them carefully, they are entirely acceptable. This is what we proposed all along. We have nothing to hide."

Keeping Up

This column is a wrap-up of the news of Rolling Meadows during the past week. Clip it and send it to students, servicemen and other Rolling Meadows residents who are away from home. The column appears in the Friday edition of the Rolling Meadows Herald.

THE SPORTS COMPLEX will be opening this fall. Located beside the park district swimming pool, it will have an ice skating rink, a large gym, smaller activity rooms and locker rooms for the pool. The park board this week named Robert Goranson, who was manager of the pool this summer, as the director for the complex. Park district programs will begin in the complex about Oct. 1.

KIDS WERE BACK in school on Monday, though Labor Day was still a week away. All the school districts have larger enrollments this year. Forest View High School will have 350 more students this year for a total of 2,850. About 300 Rolling Meadows ninth graders are at Elk Grove High School this year. They will go to Rolling Meadows High School on Central Road when it is finished in a year.

A COMMUNITY PLAN for action against drug abuse in the Northwest area was attended by school, medical, and youth-oriented officials at Northwest Community Hospital Aug. 28. More than 100 people attended and expressed enthusiasm for finding out what has to be done to reduce drug use in the area.

IN THE WEEK-LONG volleyball tournament, kids from the Arlington Evangelical Free Church beat the Meadows

Baptist Church youth group 6,794 to 6,611. The game lasted 121 hours and set a new record for the length of a volleyball game.

ROUTE 53 AT the Northwest Tollway is being reconstructed so that the new I-90 can connect to the tollway on the south side. Motorists can't get off Route 53 at Algonquin as they come north while the ramp is being realigned. The whole interchange is supposed to be done in about a year.

1970 CENSUS FIGURES are out and Rolling Meadows grew to a population of 18,907. In 1960, the city's population was 10,879. Nearby, Arlington Heights grew from 27,878 to 62,568 and Palatine from 11,504 to 26,104.

ON THE POLITICAL SCENE, the Democrats in Palatine Township will hear U.S. Rep. William Anderson of Tennessee speak at their dinner Sept. 11. Anderson is one of the congressmen who toured Vietnam and started the Con-Con prison controversy. Palatine Township's U.S. Rep. Philip Crane disagreed with Anderson this summer after he toured the same prison.

PAM KOLKER, 3102 Swallow Ln., is the first woman mayor of teen government. Other teens elected to the mock city government are Brad Davidson, 3801 Central Rd., city manager; Sue Schlegel, 1537 Circle Ln., city clerk; Kathy Kolker, 3102 Swallow Ln., city treasurer; George Tucker, 2406 Kirchhoff, police chief; Patti Winslow, 2404 Maple, park board president; and Pat Meyer, 4705 Clark, fire chief.

Agree On Old Orchard Plan

An agreement paving the way for a multimillion-dollar apartment, office and hotel complex at Old Orchard County Club in Mount Prospect was reached Tuesday.

The settlement, agreed to by the Mount Prospect Village Board and the owner of the property, ends more than five years of controversy and litigation about the annexation and development of the 205-acre site at Euclid Street and Rand Road.

As a result of the settlement, a consent decree outlining the details of the development will be entered in court as soon as possible.

The consent decree calls for the development of 13 12-story buildings and the preservation of the golf course for 50 years. Two office buildings, 10 apartment buildings and a hotel have been proposed for the site.

The village will be required to allow construction of the development as outlined in the consent decree. No plans for the start of construction have yet been announced.

ALBERT NEWMAN, owner of the property, has agreed to turn over about two acres of land to the village for the construction of a two-million-gallon reservoir and pump station and a fire station. Construction of the fire and water facilities has not yet been decided by the village, however.

Mayor Robert Teichert said the board voted unanimously to authorize the consent decree following an executive session held after the board meeting Tuesday.

"The resolution of the Old Orchard property ends one big nagging problem for everyone concerned in the negotiations. This will be a beautiful development that will be a great asset to the community. I expect it will be one of the best developments in the Northwest suburban area," Teichert said.

"It's taken an awful lot of time and one hell of a lot of work by a lot of people to negotiate this consent decree. We've spent almost two years working out the details of the consent decree, which outlines the specific development of the property."

"I'm very happy with the proposed planned-unit development because it fulfills our goal to preserve as much open space in the community as possible. The development of single-family residences is not the only way to develop land in order to maintain open space in the community," Teichert said.

TEICHERT SAID the golf course, under the terms of the consent decree, will remain as recreational open space for 50 years. At that time, if the owner decides to sell the property, the village will have the option to purchase the land. Teichert

Group Still Lack Funds

Plans for a Northwest Suburban Home-maker Service to be initiated in the Elk Grove Village area have stalled due to lack of funds, according to Thomas Smith, Elk Grove Village Community Service director.

The Home-maker service provides a trained child care specialist who has had experience in working with families and raising children and will help in the home upon request when a mother is absent.

At least $10,000 "seed money" is needed to start the program in January of 1971, Smith said.

The home-maker service is offered in north, south and west suburban Chicago, and plans were begun six months ago by Community Service to start an office for northwest Chicago in Elk Grove Village.

"The home-maker service is still interested in coming out here but we're at the point where we recognize that it's going to be Elk Grove people without support

PILOTING THE WACO UPS-7, an open cockpit biplane, is quite a challenge for Roger Runyan. Sporting the traditional flight hat and goggles, Roger enjoys taking the plane through breathtaking aerobatic stunts. The flashy red Waco was completely rebuilt by Roger and his three brothers.

1-Plane 'Flying Circus?'

by VIRGINIA KUCMIERZ

Whether nostalgic adults or intrigued children, there is always an audience ready to watch the flashy red airplane with two sets of wings as it takes off from the runway at the Schaumburg Airport, west of Roselle.

The attention getter that twists and turns so gracefully in the air is a Waco four Runyan brothers.

The Runyans grew up flying, but even the venerable Waco was before their time. All their years of experience are adequately challenged by the sporty little UPS-7, open cockpit biplane, owned by craft they bought eight years ago, and have since completely rebuilt.

"IT'S A TRICKY plane to handle, very demanding on the runway," Roger Runyan said.

Roger, now living in Glendale Heights, is a charter pilot and flight instructor at Twinbrook Aviation, where the Waco is kept. Besides giving eager and perhaps apprehensive passengers rides in the Waco for a small fee, he uses the plane for aerobatic instruction.

The Runyans bought the plane in Troy, Ohio, for $3,000 and have spent about three times that amount rebuilding it. They have searched the country for parts. The hardest parts to find were the lower wings, according to Roger.

The most notable deviation from the original is the electric starter the Runyans installed. Other than that, the plane has been restored almost identically to its classic state.

UPS-7's were first manufactured in 1937 and production continued through 1939. The 1940-42 models went to the military for the World War II pilot training programs.

TODAY THE PLANE is an antique showpiece used mainly for pleasure flying and aerobatics, for which it is particularly suited.

The Waco doesn't take off, it springs into the air, soaring almost vertically after it leaves the ground.

The 244 square feet of wing area enable the Waco to perform spirited lifts as well as breathtaking turns, spins and stalls.

The romantic notion of touching the clouds isn't too far fetched in the Waco, as pilot and rider are completely exposed to the elements. Yet it is this very aspect that attracts seasoned pilots who want to recapture the original sensations of flying.

The Waco definitely isn't for those who depend on modern luxury. Getting in and out requires agility. The pilot must jump onto the wing and then over the side of the cockpit. In order to see where he is going, he must occasionally poke his head over the side.

The plane can fly up to 150 miles per hour and reaches an altitude of 10,000 feet (any higher and riders would need oxygen masks).

Finally, landing the plane is especially tricky, because Wacos react strangely in crosswinds.

It's not a calm and closed jumbo jet, but that's why the Runyans like their Waco.

Fall Football
Leagues Slated

Girls as well as boys will be given a chance this fall to participate in football leagues sponsored by the Rolling Meadows Park District.

The Powder Puff Football program, open to girls in fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, will instruct them on how to catch, throw and kick a football and also give them lessons on the rules of the game.

Three sessions have been set up for the powder puff play. Girls should meet behind the park district swimming pool for instruction on Sept. 18, Sept. 25 and Oct. 2.

Registration is free and must be done at the park district office before Sept. 16.

The regular football league games for boys will begin Sept. 14 and players should meet behind the swimming pool. Fourth through sixth grade boys will play at 4 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays.

Sixth and seventh graders will play at 4 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and high school boys and older will play at 2 p.m. on Sundays.

Registration for the league play must be done at the park district office by Sept. 11 and a fee of $2 will be charged to each player.

A special Flag Football Clinic will also be held this fall for fourth through eighth grade boys. Clinic sessions, which will offer instruction and practice in the fundamental techniques of the game, will be held at 3:45 p.m. Sept. 8, 9 and 11. The sessions will conclude with a game at 10 a.m. Saturday.

The meeting place for all three sessions will be behind the swimming pool.

District Asks Slough Be Used For Retention

by KAREN RUGEN

Prospect Heights Old Town Sanitary District (OTSD) has asked the Hillcrest Lake Homeowners Assn. to donate Hillcrest slough to the district for use as a retention basin.

The 13-acre lake, located north of Willow Road and east of Route 83, is currently owned jointly by members of the association.

Richard Schuld, OTSD president, said the district would probably dredge and deepen the lake to hold more water if it is donated. The basin would then help alleviate flooding south of Willow Road. The lake is connected to McDonald Creek and now acts as a natural retention basin.

Richard Michaels, president of the homeowner association, told Schuld he would present the district's proposal to homeowners at a meeting in October.

The Prospect Heights Park District is also considering adding the slough to its area. Bill Kuhns, president of the park board, said he plans to talk to the association sometime before the October meeting.

"WE WOULD like the slough," Kuhns said. "We would probably maintain it as a natural game reserve." He would not say if the park district plans to purchase the slough though he did say it would accept it as a donation.

Schuld said the sanitary district has not made definite plans for the slough. He said if the slough is donated, the district would have engineers draw up plans for the basin. He said there is a possibility OTSD would work with the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) in developing the basin.

"We need as much retention as we can get because of a tremendous amount of water coming from Arlington Heights," said Schuld. "The basin would be another helper."

Kuhns said he didn't see any reason why the slough couldn't work for the park district as well as the sanitary district. He said if the park district obtained the slough it would probably keep it as a retention basin.

"I wouldn't see what was wrong with making it a better retention basin as long as it didn't destroy the wildlife," Kuhns said.

SCHULD SAID the sanitary district may put in a fountain if it gets the slough. He said the fountain would "look nice but would be used to pump oxygen into the water" and would keep the fish alive. When ice on the lake broke in March, homeowners discovered thousands of dead carp, bass and pike floating on the surface. Officials of the MSD said not enough oxygen was left under the ice for the fish to live.

Schuld said the sanitary district "would be inclined to work out a program" with the park district but added "we're not in the recreation business."

Park district commissioners did not decide to actively investigate adding the slough to the district until early August when a Prospect Heights resident, Max Lyle proposed it at a park board meeting.

Lyle told the park board the lake would be an asset to the community if it became park property. He said then residents would not be faced with the threat of someone wanting to fill in the slough.

Recently Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals recommended denial of a special permit to dump fill in the Hillcrest slough. A decision on the permit now depends on the Cook County Board. Objections were filed at the hearing by the park board and OTSD.

WILLIAM BLAUW, owner of a one-acre lot on the edge of the slough, had sought a special permit from the county to dump fill on the lower portion of his lot. He claimed it was covered with water and said he planned to construct a single-family home on his land.

Lyle secured 277 signatures protesting Blauw's land fill proposal. The objectors charged that filling in the slough would destroy the natural ecology and aggravate flooding.

Residents also banded together to protest land fill in the south portion of the slough last fall. H. C. Hauvner, then owner of the lake, requested a land fill permit as a preliminary step to building. His case was dismissed after he failed to appear at a continuance of the hearing.

Gravel Path Set For Pupils

Students crossing McDonald Creek to get to Dist. 23 Eisenhower School will soon be able to use a gravel path on their way to school.

The Prospect Heights Jaycees have agreed to construct the pathway and plan to have it finished within several weeks.

Currently, a 36-inch and 30-foot long culvert encloses a portion of the creek next to Camp McDonald Road near the Prospect Heights school. The culvert and a temporary dirt path was installed last week under the direction of the Prospect Heights Park District.

The Jaycees plan to install a 2,000 foot Y-shaped gravel path over the culvert.

The path will start at two places on Elm Street and then join into one path over the creek. The path will have side rails to keep it from washing out during heavy rains.

TOM TALBOT, chairman of the committee for the pathway, said the path will still be "a temporary project."

Talbot said the cost of installing the path will be minimal. Jaycees will do the work themselves and hope the gravel will be donated. If not, Ron Greenberg, park district director, said the district could take care of the cost of the path. He said $600 had been allotted for the project and because the culvert was free, the district still has money left for the path.

Originally the Jaycees planned to install the culvert and pathway last year in conjunction with Dist. 23. When the park and school district signed a joint-use permit for school sites, the park district decided to install the culvert.

Talbot said the Jaycees have been waiting to be formally approached for the gravel path by the park district. He said he received a letter from the district last week.

MONDAY NIGHT the Dist. 23 school board voted to give the Jaycees a "hold harmless" agreement. This means that once the path is constructed the school is legally liable for any accident and injuries to children using it.

Before the culvert was installed children walked to the school in the street because there is no pathway along Camp McDonald Road and no way for them to cross McDonald Creek. The creek winds its way under the road across several acres of vacant school land under Elm Street.

Phase 1 Of Sewer System May Be Completed In Oct.

Phase one of a $1.5 million sewer system in Prospect Heights should be finished by the middle of October.

The system is being built by the Prospect Heights Old Town Sanitary District (OTSD) and will eventually hook up to a sewer interceptor south of Willow Road being built by the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD).

According to Richard Schuld, OTSD president, about 775 homes are involved in the first phase that has been divided into four portions and issued to three contractors.

Phase one includes approximately 130,000 feet of sewer lines worth $635,000.

SCHULD SAID Scully, Hunter and Scully contractors have completed all of the portion west of Route 83 and south of Willow Road. The firm has just begun work on the portion north of Camp McDonald Road and east of Wheeling Road.

Between 90 to 95 per cent of two other portions have been completed, according to Schuld. One covers parts of the line east of Route 83, west of Wheeling Road, south of Willow Road and north of Camp McDonald Road. The other takes in the line east of Route 83, west of Wheeling Road and north of Euclid Avenue.

Schuld said residents living in homes in the portion that has been completed should notify the OTSD by letter if any repairs need to be done. Schuld said the district would take care of such items as resurfacing of driveways or reinstalling of culverts but would not sow any grass seed.

No Paper On Monday

Paddock Publications will observe the Labor Day holiday Monday, Sept. 7 by not publishing newspapers that day.

Publication will resume as usual on Tuesday for the Cook County Herald.

A WORKMAN for the Cook County Highway Department uses a steam roller to compact the surface of Camp McDonald Road, just west of River Road, in Prospect Heights. The county is widening a mile of the road.

New Lunch Plan At Ross School

The Ross School PTA is organizing a new hot lunch program for the Dist. 23 school.

Starting Sept. 10, mothers of students will volunteer to bring a hot lunch to the school once a week.

Previously students had to walk from their building at 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd. across the street to the MacArthur Jr. High School cafeteria if they wanted a hot lunch.

Monday night, however, the school board voted to stop allowing Ross students to eat in the cafeteria because of overcrowding also because of the short lunch period.

Mrs. Esther Pearson, Ross principal, said the new lunch program would be better for the 255 students from kindergarten to second grade who attend the school.

SHE SAID BAD weather causes problems for the children who must walk outside to lunch and that the smaller children were often reluctant to eat with junior high students.

During winter days, Ross would send only about 35 students to the cafeteria, Mrs. Pearson said. She said the figure would rise to about 80 at other times, however.

All Ross students will now eat in the all-purpose room at the school. Milk and ice cream can be purchased for students who bring a sack lunch.

2nd Annual Oktoberfest Starts Tonight

Beer, kraut and German music will highlight the Mount Prospect Jaycees' 2nd Annual Oktoberfest which begins tonight at the Mount Prospect Plaza.

Village Pres. Robert Teichert will join a car caravan which will organize at the Chicago and North Western RR station and journey to the Plaza for the official opening of the festival at 6 p.m.

Tonight the Oktoberfest will run until midnight under a large tent set up in the parking lot at the shopping center. The festivities will continue Saturday through Monday from noon to midnight.

The event is modeled after the Bavarian celebration of the harvest. For the gourmet, German brats, beer and kraut will be sold along with the American favorites of hot dogs, pop, taffy apples and popcorn.

KARL KUHN and his German band will perform nightly for dancing and impromptu singing.

A fashion show, with Jaycees serving as models, will be presented at 2 p.m. Saturday. Jaycees will sport pajamas, polo shirts and swimtrunks. Children's and women's fashions will also be included in the show.

Linda Zachman, a Jaynece and owner of Linda Z's Lingerie Fabrics in the Mount Prospect Plaza, is sponsoring the show in cooperation with the Jaycees.

Mrs. Zachman said all the fashions for the show have been handmade by herself and her staff at the Lingerie Fabrics. More than 50 fashions including lingerie will be shown during the hour-long show.

For the kids there will be pony-drawn hayrides during the day. Continuous activities will include a rock group, a folk singing concert, a performance by the Guardsmen drum and bugle corps and a concert band appearance.

ROCK AND FOLK singing will take place Saturday afternoon after the fashion show. The drums and bugle corps concert will take place Sunday afternoon.

A square dance jamboree will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. with Doc Adams, Gene Tidwell and Joe Gipson doing the calling.

"If there is any good weather at all we should have at least 6,000 people over the weekend," said Terry Frakes, chairman of the event. "If the weather is good people might want to bring lawn chairs and sit on the grass near the parking lot."

"The event has been published in German newspapers in Chicago so we may get a lot of people. We've got plenty of parking and that tent is the biggest you can get."

Besides urging residents to attend, Frakes said it would be a perfect opportunity to hold a black party, reunion or neighborhood association party.

Admission to the Oktoberfest is free.

I haven't noticed any list in the building over at St. Paul's Church, but Bob Berlinger, 201 N. Fairview, who is a pillar of that congregation, has certainly been very busy of late with things other than church matters.

His daughter, his son, and then his wife, came down with mononucleosis — not together, but in spaced-out succession. Bob has spent the better part of the last month traveling between Mount Prospect and Holy Family Hospital. We understand that most of the family, if not all, are "out" now, but send regards, won't you?

Bob also holds up his corner of the Mount Prospect Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce. And slices a few jokes into your meat order at the J. & B. Market.

Mrs. A. Gundersen (Shirley), director of library services in Dist. 57, comes back to school this fall with new libraries to arrange at Gregory, Sunset Park and Lincoln Junior High.

Also a new son-in-law.

Shirley's daughter, Christine, 22, was married this summer to William Price Jr., and the couple now live in Ypsilanti,

Mich. where Bill has a private law practice with a partner.

They met at Ann Arbor while both were in school. Christine has a degree in business administration and a job with Arthur Anderson. She is working on her CPA exam right now.

Shirley isn't the only staff member to display new relations. Mrs. James Baker, (Esther), 414 S. Emerson, had a small party recently to introduce close friends to the Bakers' daughter-in-law, Jeannine De Raimes Baker, the new wife of their son, Blake.

The couple was married in Indianapolis, so many local friends had not yet become acquainted with the bride.

The young Mrs. Baker has a masters' degree in math and has taught in a junior high outside Boston. Blake does his thing with computers.

Esther, as you know, teaches Lions Park school. Now if those four young people would incorporate under the law and form a company to manufacture computers to teach math, marketing the thing through school libraries with Esther as a consultant and...

300 March In Kiddie Parade

Approximately 300 children marched in the annual kiddie parade last Sunday sponsored by the Country Club Homeowners Association in southern Mount Prospect.

The event was the 12th annual parade and picnic sponsored by the homeowners group. The parade started at 1 p.m. at Longfellow and Emerson streets and ended at Countryside Park where the picnic was held.

Parade prizes were awarded in several categories including floats, bicycle decorations, and costumes. Best overall prize was awarded to Paul, Tim and Steve Koepen. Other winners were Richard and Delray Dvorachek, Darlene and Bonnie Miske and Carla Keyser.

The picnic included free hot dogs, beverages and games. It lasted through the afternoon.

Ron Revers acted as chairman for the event. Planning started two months ago. In all, 20 homeowners association members helped to stage the event.

The kiddie parade and picnic is the biggest event of the year sponsored by the association. The group also sponsors bowling tournaments and women's golf league as well as several social events during the year.

School Taxes May Go Up 5.6%

High School Dist. 214 property owners could see their tax bills increase by about 5.6 per cent next year, a district official told the school board's budget committee Wednesday night.

Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business affairs, showed the board that the 1971-72 tax rate could climb from this year's figure of $2.27 to a new total of $2.33 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget committee was meeting to examine not only the district's projected tax rate, but also means of cutting into possible future deficit spending.

THE INCREASE would include a hike from $1.55 to $1.59 in the education fund, which makes up the largest portion of the budget and covers teacher's salaries, the largest single item in the budget.

Weber and Supt. Edward Gilbert cautioned that the proposed tax rates must be approved by the board, and could be changed by an upsurge in assessed valuation in the district.

Also, there is a possibility that the district might levy a small working cash fund levy, to cover the district coming up in the red if early tax collections don't keep pace.

This year, early collections of tax money gave the district a surplus. A working cash fund, which would collect interest for the district, could cover the district in case of a drop in early collection.

JACK COSTELLO, who is chairman of the budget committee, raised that question, as well as wondering if November might be suitable time for a referendum to raise tax revenue in the district.

However, both Weber and Gilbert said that the time might not be right. Weber said that early collections, to put the district in the black, would help this spring.

Gilbert pointed out that the district has not been involved in deficit spending through tax anticipation warrants, that disreputable gremlin of borrowing money to cover revenue deficits.

The committee spent much of their meetings looking ahead to the projected 1971-72 budget and a possible deficit of $982,000 in the education fund.

THE DISTRICT must look ahead, officials explained, as the 1970-71 levy, part of the official budget to be acted upon later this month, provides revenue for the 1971-72 school year.

That year will be a financially rough one for the district, as the district's seventh high school — Rolling Meadows High School — will boost the number of teachers and custodial and clerical personnel in the district.

Some expenditures can be shifted into the building fund to cover the deficit in the education fund, explained Weber.

Budgets aren't the only money matters facing the board. If the district decides that an eighth high school is needed for the district by 1974-75, the board will have to seek taxpayer support for a bond issue.

SEVERAL BOARD members are working to eliminate the need for another school. For example, Richard Stamm has argued strongly in recent weeks for a community program involving local businesses educating students in vocational fields.

And Mrs. Leah Cummins has added that evening courses for students could help channel the student population out of the regular, traditional schedule, thus allowing the district to serve more students in the present seven high schools.

Com 75 also is studying a four-quarter plan. It has recommended that the board adopt a four-quarter plan "at the earliest feasible time." That could eliminate the eighth high school, too.

Christmas Party Is Thrown Here

CHRISTMAS IN SEPTEMBER? ... Why not. Santa Claus greeted Maggie Lapcewich, left, and Lisa Filing at the front door of the Beaver Waring residence in Mount Prospect Wednesday. The Waring, of 504 S. I-Oka St., threw a Christmas party and luncheon for 15 little guests to celebrate the end of summer.

Glaucoma Unit Coming Here

A mobile glaucoma screening unit operated by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness is coming to Prospect Heights.

The unit, which will conduct free tests for glaucoma, a leading cause of blindness, will be at the Prospect Heights Shopping Center at Rte. 83 and Camp McDonald Road from 6 to 9 p.m. on Sept. 10 and 11.

Glaucoma is most often found in people over age 35. If undetected, the disease can eventually lead to blindness.

There are no symptoms for glaucoma in its early stages, according to Dr. Derrick Vail of the Illinois Association for the Prevention of Blindness. He estimates there are a total of 90,000 undetected cases of the disease in the state.

The unit is being brought to the area through the efforts of the Prospect Heights Lions Club.

Annual Charcoal Sale Near End

The Prospect Heights Jaycees are winding up their annual charcoal sale.

Today, tomorrow and Sunday Jaycees in three-men crews will be going door-to-door to sell bags of charcoal that can be used for outdoor cooking.

Residents can also call 392-7187 to order and the charcoal will be delivered. A 40-pound bag costs $3.25 and a 20-pound bag sells for $1.65.

The Jaycees have been selling charcoal all summer. Proceeds will be used to fund special projects. Some of the projects are a planned community survey, an annual Easter egg hunt, Fourth of July carnival and a gravel path the Jaycees plan to install over a McDonald Creek culvert near Eisenhower School.

School Board Meet Set Tuesday Night

The regular monthly committee meeting of the Dist. 23 school board will be held Tuesday night in the library at MacArthur Junior High, 700 N. Schoenbeck Road.

The meeting, to begin at 7:30 p.m., is usually held on the first Monday of the month but has been changed because of Labor Day.

Resident Listed In Personality Volume

A Mount Prospect resident has been chosen to be listed in the 1970-71 edition of "Personalities of the West and Midwest." She is Miss Patricia Tenerowicz, 1801 Palms Dr., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tenerowicz.

She is a 1967 graduate of Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and a 1969 graduate of Harper College. She will receive a bachelor of science in education degree in June 1971 from Illinois State University.

15-Year-Old Girl Dies In Crash

A 15-year-old Elk Grove Village girl died Wednesday night in a two-car collision on Rt. 83 at the tollway in Elk Grove Township.

Cook County Sheriff's Police, who handled the accident, identified the youth as Candy Otters, of 234 Peach Tree Ln.

The girl was pronounced dead on arrival at the emergency room of St. Alexius Hospital at 8:25 p.m.

Police said the collision occurred about 7:30 p.m. when a southbound car driven by Michael Kostopoulos, 18, of 554 Florian Dr., Des Plaines, went out of control and crossed the median strip under the tollway.

Kostopoulos' car was then struck on the right side by a northbound car driven by Julian Seifert, 35, of Melrose Park.

Police said the pavement was slippery due to rain and driving conditions were poor.

MISS OTTERS was a passenger in the car driven by Kostopoulos.

Seifert had four passengers in his car, but none was injured seriously. They were his wife, Joan Seifert, 30, George and Marjorie Gangalasa, of North Lake; and Floyd Kerner of Chicago.

All were rushed by ambulance to St. Alexius Hospital, along with Kostopoulos, and later released.

Elk Grove Village police assisted county police with traffic at the scene, and the Elk Grove Fire Department was called to cut Miss Otters from the car with an acetylene torch.

The speed limit on Rt. 83 is 50 miles an hour at the point the accident occurred, but police said they had no idea how fast the vehicles were going on impact.

Kostopoulos was charged with driving too fast for conditions and driving on the wrong side of the road. He is scheduled to appear in Niles traffic court on Oct. 5.

MISS OTTERS was a sophomore at Elk Grove High School. Visitation will be at the Lauterberg and Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights from 2 to 10 p.m. Friday.

Funeral services will be held there at 2:30 p.m. Saturday with the Rev. Gerald Malgren, North Austin Lutheran Church of Oak Park, presiding.

She is survived by her parents, William H. Jr. and Rosemary; a sister, Linda; and her grandparents, William H. (Sr.) and Ada Otters of Oak Park.

Bus Co. Meeting Set For Tonight

Officials from 15 area suburbs will meet in Des Plaines tonight to discuss the financial problems of United Motor Coach Co., which has said it may go out of business without some kind of subsidy.

The meeting, called by Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel, will hear a presentation from Elmer Shuermann, the firm's vice president and general manager, who has already met with officials of Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Park Ridge and Niles.

In addition to representatives of suburbs from Evanston to Barrington, which are all served by the ailing bus company, school districts 59, 207, 62 and 63 are invited to the meeting, to be held in the Des Plaines Municipal Building, 1412 Miner St.

According to Shuermann, representatives of the Milwaukee Road and the Chicago Transit Authority are also expected to attend.

THE COMPANY has been unable to get any commitment for aid from Des Plaines, Niles and Elk Grove Village and was turned down by Park Ridge after a meeting with city officials there.

United Motor Coach, according to Shuermann, lost $70,000 in the first six months of this year. The firm lost $84,000 in 1969 and more than $130,000 in 1968, Shuermann said.

In a letter to suburban mayors, Behrel said the bus firm "apparently is in dire financial circumstances, is already planning serious curtailment of its services, and there is also a great possibility that if some assistance is not forthcoming, (it) will go out of business."

There is some question, however, about the legality of any direct aid by area cities and villages to the bus company. Des Plaines City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi, said that in his opinion direct grants of municipal corporate or motor fuel tax funds to United Motor Coach would not be allowed under Illinois law.

A MASS TRANSIT district would have to be set up, DiLeonardi said, before funds could be funneled to the bus company.

Effective Aug. 30, the firm virtually abandoned service on four local Des Plaines routes, on routes in Park Ridge and Niles and on night and weekend trips between the northwest suburbs and downtown Chicago.

The Illinois Commerce Commission has said United Motor Coach can go ahead with token service on some routes unless local communities or a large number of citizens protest.

United Motor Coach serves Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Arlington Heights, Park Ridge, Palatine, Barrington, Glenview, Wheeling, Morton Grove, Skokie, Lincolnwood, Niles, Edgebrook and Countryside. The company has run buses between the northwest suburbs and Chicago's Jefferson Park.

Mrs. Beaver Waring of Mount Prospect may throw some unusual parties, but she has a lot of fun.

"And, after all, isn't that all that counts?" asked the slim housewife as she picked up the remnants of wrapping paper and tinsel from the floor of her home on South I-Oka Street.

Mrs. Waring threw a Christmas party for about 15 youngsters Wednesday afternoon.

"Doesn't everyone Celebrate Christmas during the summer? We've always celebrated Christmas or some other kooky holiday during the summer. It's fun, and the kids enjoy it. I think children need this break from routine and one more last spurge before school starts in the fall," she explained.

Mrs. Waring invited some of her children's friends to attend the Christmas luncheon and party, complete with presents and yuletide decorations. A small, stuffed Santa Claus greeted the little guests at the door and tinsel decorated the evergreen trees in the Waring backyard.

"I THINK children enjoy doing something different every once and awhile, especially at the end of the summer when they're so bored with the routine. And besides, I think the party gives them a semblance of family and friends. Both of my children are adopted, so they don't have many relatives," Mrs. Waring said.

"Beaver and I were both raised in the east. He's from New Jersey and I'm from Connecticut. Although we've lived in Mount Prospect for eight years and we have many friends here, our relatives live in the east," she said.

Mrs. Waring said she's been giving Christmas parties during the summer for about the last five years, since the Waring's adopted five-year-old Suzanne. "My parents use to rent a country club for a big Christmas party every summer. My brother and I always celebrated Christmas three times a year," she said.

MRS. WARING said her family celebrated Christmas during the summer, Dec. 25 and Jan. 6, which is when members of the Russian Orthodox faith celebrate the holiday.

Suzanne, two-year-old John Waring and friends devoured a Christmas luncheon of boiled ham, potato salad and chocolate cake. After lunch, they opened Christmas presents and sang carols.

"I asked all the children to bring one gift for the grab bag because whoever heard of having a Christmas party without presents. They brought toys, games, puzzles and dolls, and they all had such a happy time," she said.

"The kids had a good time, and that's all that counts, she added. "We may celebrate holidays a little differently here, but we have fun."

Fire Calls

New Rules Passed By Racing Board

All officers, directors and substantial owners of Arlington Park, along with those of other tracks in the state, will be required to make certain disclosures to the Illinois Racing Board under new rules adopted by the board yesterday.

The Illinois Racing Board approved three new rules—representing substantial changes to a proposed licensing regulation unveiled at a committee hearing last week.

The proposed regulation, released Aug. 25 by a special subcommittee, would have required the licensing of all directors, officers and substantial owners of any association, corporation or business entity desiring to conduct a racing meeting in the state.

Yesterday the subcommittee, headed by board commissioner Herman A. Stamer, proposed three rules that cover in part the original proposal. Prior to the board's vote on the new rules, Alexander MacArthur, board chairman, explained that the over-all nature of the rules would be one of disclosure instead of licensing.

REPRESENTATIVES of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE), operators of Arlington Park, and other track owners voiced objections to the original proposal, but accepted the new rules.

The first rule accepted states, "A license to conduct a horse race meeting is non-transferable, and will terminate upon a substantial change of ownership of the licensee, without prior approval of the board. The sale or transfer of 25 percent or more will be considered a substantial change."

The second new rule provides that all officers, directors and substantial owners of an applicant for racing dates must make a written financial disclosure to the board prior to Oct. 1, on forms provided by the board. This disclosure would be made under oath, as stipulated in the forms.

THE LAST NEW rule stipulates that the board must be notified within 10 days of any new officers or directors of a licensee and the identity of every person, trust or foundation acquiring 5 percent or more of the licensee's equity.

The new rules did not touch on some of the issues that CTE attorneys took exception to last week. Those areas include who would incur the expense of an investigation the board might decide to hold into the applicant's financial and moral integrity and the question of whether or not an applicant's interest in a legal gaming operation in another jurisdiction would be cause to deny racing dates.

Stamer said rules regarding these areas must go through the attorney general's office before they can be proposed to the board. Stamer said those rules, which might be ready in two weeks, also are in the nature of disclosure rather than licensing.

WHERE IS THE BEST INVESTMENT PROPERTY FOUND?

Downtown? Or up? Where is the "smart" money going?

If there was ever a field where an investor must be alert to changing trends and future developments, it has to be the specialty of real estate investment property.

An investor proceeding without the counsel of a seasoned Broker who thoroughly knows his local market, is just plain lucky if he avoids costly mistakes and ends up with a sound, income-producing property.

Experienced investors, many of whom have made fortunes in the real estate field, usually patronize a particular lawyer they have come to rely on who knows their objectives and financing potential. The lawyer values these investors as clients and friends and his specialized knowledge protects them from making serious errors.

Similar confidence in a competent Broker is often rewarded with opportunities to make unusually good investments before they are publicized. The Broker is not operating a service to a favored few; it is simply that when a good investment presents itself, he immediately thinks of clients who might be interested.

One of the first steps to make profitable real estate investments is to ally yourself with an expert Broker who is an investment specialist.

Kemmerly Real Estate has been lending their services for years to professional Real Estate investors. We know where the "Smart" money is going.

Proudly ITS LABOR DAY

On this their special day, we pay tribute to those men and women who make up this nation's working force. Their number is legion, their achievements supreme. It is their hands in which the progress and prosperity of this great country lies. The skill, strength and integrity of Labor accounts for the better future we're ever building. To America's workers, our warm thanks.

Teachers To Vote Today

Teacher Heads Reject Salary Package

by DAVE PALERMO

The governing board of the Mount Prospect Educational Association has refused the salary package offered by the Dist. 57 board of education.

During a meeting held yesterday morning at Westbrook School the 19-member board voted unanimously to reject the board's offer. The approximately 20 teachers who were in the audience applauded the final vote.

"We should not be as grossly underpaid as we are now in comparison with other districts in the area and we will not be at the bottom as 'we are now,'" said David Metzler, head of the teacher's negotiations team.

The salary schedule offered by the board of education Monday night put at least a temporary end to negotiations which started eight months ago.

THE OFFER INCLUDES an increase in salary for new teachers from $7,000 to $7,500 a year. It also provides increases from $700 to $1,250 for returning teachers.

The governing board feels the starting salary is too low, they also contend the total salary schedule short changes experienced teachers in the district.

"The salary scale in this district is grossly lower than other districts. A teacher working a number of years in this district is making $600 to $1,800 less than a teacher in a neighboring school district with the same amount of experience," said a spokesman for the group.

Harrison Hanson, president of the school board, said he was "agitated" at the MPEA governing board's reaction to the contract.

"What this salary schedule means is an increase from $700 to $1,250 for a returning teacher. For a district with our financial situation this is quite an increase. This is about what a 21-cent referendum would bring in," said Hanson.

"WE DON'T CLAIM to be the highest paying district in the area," said Hanson, "but we certainly aren't the lowest. I don't think a beginning teacher making $7,500 is too low. As far as the experienced teachers are concerned, we want to treat them fairly and I think we have done so."

"I don't see why you have to apologize for a $1,200 increase in salary for a returning teacher. Especially when you understand the financial problems of the district and the fact we are in an inflationary period," said Leo Floros, a school board member.

"You have to be realistic in terms of what you have in the 'kitty' I would hope that a majority of the teachers could see this. You can't have a policy of continually operating in the red."

The total membership of the MPEA will meet at Gregory School at 8 a.m. today to vote on the package. If the offer is turned down, the meeting will adjourn to the Mount Prospect Country Club. An attorney from the Illinois Education Association will be at the country club to assist in determining further action that may be taken.

THE TEACHERS could decide to meet with the school board before the opening of school Tuesday; vote to strike until another contract is agreed upon; or return to the classrooms without a new contract while negotiations continue.

None of the members of the governing board will mention what the teachers may do if the offer is turned down.

"We'll do whatever is necessary to resolve the matter. We feel the teacher-community relationship here is a good one, and we feel we have the backing of the residents. We don't want to do anything that would harm the community," said one member.

"I think we are dealing with three people (the negotiating team) who have a strong union behind them which is encouraging them and coaching them," said Pat Kimball, a member of the school board.

"I don't think they'll be satisfied until they have a starting salary of $12,000 for a teacher with a bachelor's and no experience and $25,000 for a teacher with a master's and no experience," she said.

"I would certainly be prepared to continue negotiations anytime after they vote, whether it be Friday night or Saturday morning," said Floros.

Jack Ronchetto, chairman of the school board's negotiating team, is out of town on vacation and is not expected back before Tuesday, the first day of school.

Busse Road Section To Be Closed

Busse Road between Golf Road and Dempster Street in Mount Prospect will be closed for road repairs for about three months beginning Tuesday.

Busse Road will be widened and resurfaced by Milburn Brothers, Inc. of Mount Prospect, who were awarded the contract on the project by the State Highway Department.

Acting Village Mgr. John Zimmermann said the road repairs will begin Tuesday following the morning rush-hour traffic, and completion of the project is expected to take about three months.

A single northbound lane on Busse Road will be open to local traffic. Southbound traffic may use Oakwood Drive at Golf Road or Robert Drive at Golf Road.

ZIMMERMANN SAID the following streets and driveways will remain open to traffic during the first phase of construction: Hatherleigh Lane Court south to the St. John's Apartments; White Chapel Drive south to St. John's Apartments; Timberlane Lake Villages south driveway; and Cottonwood Lane intersection.

Zimmermann said the village will post temporary stop signs to channel traffic which will use the side streets during the road construction.

Zimmermann said the signs will be posted in time for the beginning of the repairs.

Midget Football Starts Labor Day

The Mount Prospect Midget Football Association will kick off its 14th consecutive season on Labor Day at Lions Park.

Opening day will consist of 15 games which will be played on five football fields at the park. The activities will begin at 12:30 p.m. and end at approximately 6 p.m.

Elmer Ballotti, president of the league, predicts that this will be the most successful season in the association's history. This year marks the addition of a sixth system, the Lions.

"Participation in the program has increased by about 100 boys for the last four or five years," said Ballotti. "We now have about 850 youngsters in the program."

"We've never put an emphasis on winning. We try to provide an activity for the kids in the area and give them a chance to compete. Participation is much more important than winning," he said.

"SOME OF US FEEL we almost de-emphasize winning. We've reduced the maximum weight for ball carriers this year from 120 pounds to 110 pounds."

The league takes in the village of Mount Prospect as well as a portion of Des Plaines within the boundaries of the Mount Prospect Park District. The total area is divided up into six sectors with five teams in each sector: two bantam and junior teams and one senior team.

Each sector or "system," has a name which also serves as the name of the senior team in that sector. The Colts practice at Prospect High School, the Cardinals at Lincoln Junior High School, the Bears at Lions Park School, the Packers at Sunset Park School, the Giants at Dempster Junior High School, and the newly-formed Lions at High Ridge Knolls.

THE LEAGUE consists of youngsters between the ages of 8 and 14 and each team averages 25 players. Except for the Labor Day opening games, all other contests will be held on seven consecutive Sundays throughout the months of September and October.

The youngsters in the association will practice three times a week for a total of five hours. There are approximately 120 fathers who serve either as head coaches or assistant coaches, according to Ballotti.

The expansion of the league made it necessary for all senior players to purchase their own football pants, the only equipment they must supply. Junior and bantam players must provide all their own equipment except for game jerseys.

Along with the players, the association also provides activity for approximately 300 girls who serve as cheerleaders.

The cheerleading program and pre-season clinic is sponsored by the women's auxiliary of the football association.

Cheerleaders range in age from 8 to 13 and are assigned to one team for the entire season.

An all-star game and pageant will be held at the end of the season.

Dist. 59 Schools To Open On Time

Dist. 59 schools will be open as scheduled despite a teachers' professional sanction of the district, the school administration announced yesterday.

Schools are scheduled to open Tuesday. Teachers rejected the board of education's proposed contract Tuesday and voted to support a professional sanction of the district, therefore, providing limited services during school hours.

Letters were mailed to parents yesterday to notify them that school would be open, Mrs. Leah Cummins, specialist, public and community relations, said.

"We do expect that their will be curtailment of outside activities such as sports, until an agreement is reached with teachers," she added.

THE DISTRICT has also installed a 24-hour recorded phone message service for parents wishing more information about schools. The number is 437-7839. The service has been put into operation especially for the Labor Day weekend, so that parents will know any developments in the school situation before Tuesday.

The district plans to use the recorded message, however, to tell parents about special programs of interest to them during the year, including bus route changes, snow day closings, and other items.

The first day of school will be a full day for all except kindergarten students. For these students, the first day will be a visitation day for parent and child. Their first full day will be Wednesday.

Kindergarten half-day sessions will run from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 12:45 to 3:15 p.m. Grades one through five are scheduled from 9 to 11:45 a.m. and from 12:45 to 3:15 p.m.

Lively and Holmes Junior High Schools are scheduled from 7:55 a.m. to 2:40 p.m. and Grove and Dempster Junior High schools are scheduled from 8:20 a.m. to 3:05 p.m.

Parents are asked by the administration to be patient if buses do not arrive on schedule, or if children come home later than scheduled because of road construction, Mrs. Cummins said.

"Everybody knows that in this area the main arteries are torn up and we are almost certain that it will make the buses a little later than planned," she said.

"We are asking parents to tell their children to wait for the bus in the morning even if it hasn't arrived on time," she said.

No Paper On Monday

Paddock Publications will observe the Labor Day holiday Monday, Sept. 7 by not publishing newspapers that day.

Publication will resume as usual on Tuesday for the Cook County Herald.

Machines Not Ready For School Opening

Dwight Hall, principal of Lincoln Junior High School, said the vending machines for the new hot lunch program probably will not be installed in time for the first day of school Tuesday.

Hall said children should bring their own lunches and added that students will not be excused from the building during the lunch period.

2nd Annual Oktoberfest Starts Tonight

Beer, kraut and German music will highlight the Mount Prospect Jaycees' 2nd Annual Oktoberfest which begins tonight at the Mount Prospect Plaza.

Village Pres. Robert Teichert will join a car caravan which will organize at the Chicago and North Western RR station and journey to the Plaza for the official opening of the festival at 6 p.m.

Tonight the Oktoberfest will run until midnight under a large tent set up in the parking lot at the shopping center. The festivities will continue Saturday through Monday from noon to midnight.

The event is modeled after the Bavarian celebration of the harvest. For the gourmet, German brats, beer and kraut will be sold along with the American favorites of hot dogs, pop, taffy apples and popcorn.

KARL KUHN and his German band will perform nightly for dancing and impromptu singing.

A fashion show, with Jaycees serving as models, will be presented at 2 p.m. Saturday. Jaycees will sport pajamas, polo shirts and swimwear. Children's and women's fashions will also be included in the show.

Linda Zechman, a Jaycee and owner of Linda Z's Lingerie Fabrics in the Mount Prospect Plaza, is sponsoring the show in cooperation with the Jaycees.

Mrs. Zechman said all the fashions for the show have been handmade by herself and her staff at the Lingerie Fabrics. More than 50 fashions including lingerie will be shown during the hour-long show.

For the kids there will be pony-drawn hayrides during the day. Continuous activities will include a rock group, a folk singing concert, a performance by the Guardmen drum and bagle corps and a concert band appearance.

ROCK AND FOLK staging will take place Saturday afternoon after the fashion show.

A square dance jamboree will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. with Doc Adams, Gene Tidwell and Joe Gipsen doing the calling.

"If there is any good weather at all we should have at least 6,000 people over the weekend," said Terry Frakes, chairman of the event. "If the weather is good people might want to bring lawn chairs and sit on the grass near the parking lot."

"The event has been published in German newspapers in Chicago so we may get a lot of people. We've got plenty of parking and that tent is the biggest you can get."

Besides urging residents to attend, Frakes said it would be a perfect opportunity to hold a block party, reunion or neighborhood association party.

Admission to the Oktoberfest is free.

I haven't noticed any list in the building over at St. Paul's Church, but Bob Berlinger, 201 N. Fairview, who is a pillar of that congregation, has certainly been very busy of late with things other than church matters.

His daughter, his son, and then his wife, came down with mononucleosis — not together, but in spaced-out succession. Bob has spent the better part of the last month traveling between Mount Prospect and Holy Family Hospital. We understand that most of the family, if not all, are "out" now, but send regards, won't you?

Bob also holds up his corner of the Mount Prospect Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce. And slices a few jokes into your meal order at the J. & B. Market.

Mrs. A. Gundersen (Shirley), director of library services in Dist. 57, comes back to school this fall with new libraries to arrange at Gregory, Sunset Park and Lincoln Junior High.

Also a new son-in-law. Shirley's daughter, Christine, 22, was married this summer to William Price Jr., and the couple now live in Ypsilanti, Mich. where Bill has a private law practice with a partner.

They met at Ann Arbor while both were in school. Christine has a degree in business administration and a job with Arthur Anderson. She is working on her CPA exam right now.

Shirley isn't the only staff member to display new relations. Mrs. James Baker, (Esther), 414 S. Emerson, had a small party recently to introduce close friends to the Bakers' daughter-in-law, Jeannine De Raimis Baker, the new wife of their son, Blake.

The couple was married in Indianapolis, so many local friends had not yet become acquainted with the bride.

The young Mrs. Baker has a masters' degree in math and has taught in a junior high outside Boston. Blake does his thing with computers.

Esther, as you know, teaches Lions Park school. Now if those four young people would incorporate under the law and form a company to manufacture computers to teach math, marketing the thing through school libraries with Esther as a consultant and...

300 March In Kiddie Parade

Approximately 300 children marched in the annual kiddie parade last Sunday sponsored by the Country Club Homeowners Association in southern Mount Prospect.

The event was the 12th annual parade and picnic sponsored by the homeowners group. The parade started at 1 p.m. at Longstreet and Emerson streets and ended at Countryside Park where the picnic was held.

Parade prizes were awarded in several categories including floats, bicycle decorations, and costumes. Best overall prize was awarded to Paul, Tim and Steve Koepfen. Other winners were Richard and Delray Dvorachek, Darlene and Bonnie Miske and Carla Keyser.

The picnic included free hot dogs, beverages and games. It lasted through the afternoon.

Ron Revers acted as chairman for the event. Planning started two months ago. In all, 20 homeowners association members helped to stage the event.

The kiddie parade and picnic is the biggest event of the year sponsored by the association. The group also sponsors bowling tournaments and women's golf league as well as several social events during the year.

School Taxes May Go Up 5.6%

High School Dist. 214 property owners could see their tax bills increase by about 5.6 per cent next year, a district official told the school board's budget committee Wednesday night.

Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business affairs, showed the board that the 1971-72 tax rate could climb from this year's figure of $2.27 to a new total of $2.33 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget committee was meeting to examine not only the district's projected tax rate, but also means of cutting into possible future deficit spending.

THE INCREASE would include a hike from $1.55 to $1.59 in the education fund, which makes up the largest portion of the budget and covers teacher's salaries, the largest single item in the budget.

Weber and Supt. Edward Gilbert cautioned that the proposed tax rates must be approved by the board, and could be changed by an upsurge in assessed valuation in the district.

Also, there is a possibility that the district might levy a small working cash fund levy, to cover the district coming up in the red if early tax collections don't keep pace.

This year, early collections of tax money gave the district a surplus. A working cash fund, which would collect interest for the district, could cover the district in case of a drop in early collection.

JACK COSTELLO, who is chairman of the budget committee, raised that question, as well as wondering if November might be suitable time for a referendum to raise tax revenue in the district.

However, both Weber and Gilbert said that the time might not be right. Weber said that early collections, to put the district in the black, would help this spring.

Gilbert pointed out that the district has not been involved in deficit spending through tax anticipation warrants, that disreputable gimmick of borrowing money to cover revenue deficits.

The committee spent much of their meetings looking ahead to the projected 1971-72 budget and a possible deficit of $982,000 in the education fund.

THE DISTRICT must look ahead, officials explained, as the 1970-71 levy, part of the official budget to be acted upon later this month, provides revenue for the 1971-72 school year.

That year will be a financially rough one for the district, as the district's seventh high school — Rolling Meadows High School — will boost the number of teachers and custodial and clerical personnel in the district.

Some expenditures can be shifted into the building fund to cover the deficit in the education fund, explained Weber.

Budgets aren't the only money matters facing the board. If the district decides that an eighth high school is needed for the district by 1974-75, the board will have to seek taxpayer support for a bond issue.

SEVERAL BOARD members are working to eliminate the need for another school. For example, Richard Stamm has argued strongly in recent weeks for a community program involving local businesses educating students in vocational fields.

And Mrs. Leah Cummins has added that evening courses for students could help channel the student population out of the regular, traditional schedule, thus allowing the district to serve more students in the present seven high schools.

Com 75 also is studying a four-quarter plan. It has recommended that the board adopt a four-quarter plan "at the earliest feasible time." That could eliminate the eighth high school, too.

Christmas Party Is Thrown Here

CHRISTMAS IN SEPTEMBER? ... Why not. Santa Claus greeted Maggie Lapcewicz, left, and Lisa Filing at the front door of the Beaver Waring residence in Mount Prospect Wednesday. The Warrings, of 504 S. I-Oka St., threw a Christmas party and luncheon for 15 little guests to celebrate the end of summer.

Glaucoma Unit Coming Here

A mobile glaucoma screening unit operated by the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness is coming to Prospect Heights.

The unit, which will conduct free tests for glaucoma, a leading cause of blindness, will be at the Prospect Heights Shopping Center at Rte. 83 and Camp McDonald Road from 6 to 9 p.m. on Sept. 10 and 11.

Glaucoma is most often found in people over age 35. If undetected, the disease can eventually lead to blindness.

There are no symptoms for glaucoma in its early stages, according to Dr. Derrick Vail of the Illinois Association for the Prevention of Blindness. He estimates there are a total of 90,000 undetected cases of the disease in the state.

The unit is being brought to the area through the efforts of the Prospect Heights Lions Club.

Annual Charcoal Sale Near End

The Prospect Heights Jaycees are winding up their annual charcoal sale.

Today, tomorrow and Sunday Jaycees in three-men crews will be going door-to-door to sell bags of charcoal that can be used for outdoor cooking.

Residents can also call 392-7187 to order and the charcoal will be delivered. A 40-pound bag costs $3.25 and a 20-pound bag sells for $1.65.

The Jaycees have been selling charcoal all summer. Proceeds will be used to fund special projects. Some of the projects are a planned community survey, an annual Easter egg hunt, Fourth of July carnival and a gravel path the Jaycees plan to install over a McDonald Creek culvert near Eisenhower School.

School Board Meet Set Tuesday Night

The regular monthly committee meeting of the Dist. 23 school board will be held Tuesday night in the library at MacArthur Junior High, 700 N. Schoenbeck Road.

The meeting, to begin at 7:30 p.m., is usually held on the first Monday of the month but has been changed because of Labor Day.

Resident Listed In Personality Volume

A Mount Prospect resident has been chosen to be listed in the 1970-71 edition of "Personalities of the West and Midwest." She is Miss Patricia Tencerowicz, 1684 Palm Dr., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tencerowicz.

She is a 1967 graduate of Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and a 1968 graduate of Harper College. She will receive a bachelor of science in education degree in June 1971 from Illinois State University.

15-Year-Old Girl Dies In Crash

A 15-year-old Elk Grove Village girl died Wednesday night in a two-car collision on Rt. 83 at the tollway in Elk Grove Township.

Cook County Sheriff's Police, who handled the accident, identified the youth as Candy Otters, of 234 Peach Tree Ln.

The girl was pronounced dead on arrival at the emergency room of St. Alexius Hospital at 8:25 p.m.

Police said the collision occurred about 7:30 p.m. when a southbound car driven by Michael Kostopoulos, 18, of 554 Florian Dr., Des Plaines, went out of control and crossed the median strip under the tollway.

Kostopoulos' car was then struck on the right side by a northbound car driven by Julian Seifert, 35, of Melrose Park.

Police said the pavement was slippery due to rain and driving conditions were poor.

MISS OTTERS was a passenger in the car driven by Kostopoulos.

Seifert had four passengers in his car, but none was injured seriously. They were his wife, Joan Seifert, 30; George and Marjorie Gangialasa, of North Lake; and Floyd Kerner of Chicago.

All were rushed by ambulance to St. Alexius Hospital, along with Kostopoulos, and later released.

Elk Grove Village police assisted county police with traffic at the scene, and the Elk Grove Fire Department was called to cut Miss Otters from the car with an acetylene torch.

The speed limit on Rt. 83 is 50 miles an hour at the point the accident occurred, but police said they had no idea how fast the vehicles were going on impact.

Kostopoulos was charged with driving too fast for conditions and driving on the wrong side of the road. He is scheduled to appear in Niles traffic court on Oct. 5.

MISS OTTERS was a sophomore at Elk Grove High School. Visitation will be at the Lauterberg and Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights from 2 to 10 p.m. Friday.

Funeral services will be held there at 2:30 p.m. Saturday with the Rev. Gerald Malgren, North Austin Lutheran Church of Oak Park, presiding.

She is survived by her parents, William H. Jr. and Rosemary; a sister, Linda; and her grandparents, William H. (Sr.) and Ada Otters of Oak Park.

Bus Co. Meeting Set For Tonight

Officials from 15 area suburbs will meet in Des Plaines tonight to discuss the financial problems of United Motor Coach Co., which has said it may go out of business without some kind of subsidy.

The meeting, called by Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel, will hear a presentation from Elmer Schuermann, the firm's vice president and general manager, who has already met with officials of Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Park Ridge and Niles.

In addition to representatives of suburbs from Evanston to Barrington, which are all served by the ailing bus company, school districts 59, 207, 62 and 63 are invited to the meeting, to be held in the Des Plaines Municipal Building, 1412 Miner St.

According to Schuermann, representatives of the Milwaukee Road and the Chicago Transit Authority are also expected to attend.

THE COMPANY has been unable to get any commitment for aid from Des Plaines, Niles and Elk Grove Village and was turned down by Park Ridge after a meeting with city officials there.

United Motor Coach, according to Schuermann, lost $70,000 in the first six months of this year. The firm lost $44,000 in 1969 and more than $120,000 in 1968, Schuermann said.

In a letter to suburban mayors, Behrel said the bus firm "apparently is in dire financial circumstances, is already planning serious curtailment of its services, and there is also a great possibility that if some assistance is not forthcoming, (it) will go out of business."

There is some question, however, about the legality of any direct aid by area cities and villages to the bus company. Des Plaines City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi, said that in his opinion direct grants of municipal corporate or motor fuel tax funds to United Motor Coach would not be allowed under Illinois law.

A MASS TRANSIT district would have to be set up, DiLeonardi said, before funds could be funneled to the bus company.

Effective Aug. 30, the firm virtually abandoned service on four local Des Plaines routes, on routes in Park Ridge and Niles and on night and weekend trips between the northwest suburbs and downtown Chicago.

The Illinois Commerce Commission has said United Motor Coach can go ahead with token service on some routes unless local communities or a large number of citizens protest.

United Motor Coach serves Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Arlington Heights, Park Ridge, Palatine, Barrington, Glenview, Wheeling, Morton Grove, Skokie, Lincolnwood, Niles, Edgemoor and Countryside. The company has run buses between the northwest suburbs and Chicago's Jefferson Park.

Mrs. Beaver Waring of Mount Prospect may throw some unusual parties, but she has a lot of fun.

"And, after all, isn't that all that counts?" asked the slim housewife as she picked up the remnants of wrapping paper and tinsel from the floor of her home on South I-Oka Street.

Mrs. Waring threw a Christmas party for about 15 youngsters Wednesday afternoon.

"Doesn't everyone celebrate Christmas during the summer? We've always celebrated Christmas or some other kooky holiday during the summer. It's fun, and the kids enjoy it. I think children need this break from routine and one more last spurge before school starts in the fall," she explained.

Mrs. Waring invited some of her children's friends to attend the Christmas luncheon and party, complete with presents and yuletide decorations. A small, stuffed Santa Claus greeted the little guests at the door and tinsel decorated the evergreen trees in the Waring backyard.

"I THINK children enjoy doing something different every once and awhile, especially at the end of the summer when they're so bored with the routine. And besides, I think the party gives them a semblance of family and friends. Both of my children are adopted, so they don't have many relatives," Mrs. Waring said.

"Beaver and I were both raised in the east. He's from New Jersey and I'm from Connecticut. Although we've lived in Mount Prospect for eight years and we have many friends here, our relatives live in the east," she said.

Mrs. Waring said she's been giving Christmas parties during the summer for about the last five years, since the Warrings adopted five-year-old Suzanne. "My parents use to rent a country club for a big Christmas party every summer. My brother and I always celebrated Christmas three times a year," she said.

MRS. WARING said her family celebrated Christmas during the summer, Dec. 25 and Jan. 6, which is when members of the Russian Orthodox faith celebrate the holiday.

Suzanne, two-year-old John Waring and friends devoured a Christmas luncheon of boiled ham, potato salad and chocolate cake. After lunch, they opened Christmas presents and sang carols.

"I asked all the children to bring one gift for the grab bag because whoever heard of having a Christmas party without presents. They brought toys, games, puzzles and dolls, and they all had such a happy time," she said.

"The kids had a good time, and that's all that counts," she added. "We may celebrate holidays a little differently here, but we have fun."

Fire Calls

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 2

— 3:41 p.m. An ambulance responded to an auto accident at Northwest Highway and Main Street. Charles Tiedje, 6, of Mount Prospect, was taken to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

— 7:45 p.m. An ambulance responded to an auto accident at Elmhurst Road and the Northwest Tollroad. Six persons were taken to St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village. The Elk Grove Fire Department also responded to the call.

— 8:18 p.m. An ambulance responded to a call at 500 Dogwood. One person was taken to Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines.

Dist. 59 To Open Schools On Schedule

Dist. 59 schools will be open as scheduled despite a teachers' professional sanction of the district, the school administration announced yesterday.

Schools are scheduled to open Tuesday. Teachers rejected the board of education's proposed contract Tuesday and voted to support a professional sanction of the district, therefore, providing limited services during school hours.

Letters were mailed to parents yesterday to notify them that school would be open. Mrs. Leah Cummins, specialist, public and community relations, said.

"We do expect that they will be curtailment of outside activities such as sports, until an agreement is reached with teachers," she added.

THE DISTRICT has also installed a 24-hour recorded phone message service for parents wishing more information about schools. The number is 437-7839. The service has been put into operation especially for the Labor Day weekend, so that parents will know any developments in the school situation before Tuesday.

The district plans to use the recorded message, however, to tell parents about special programs of interest to them during the year, including bus route changes, snow day closings, and other items.

The first day of school will be a full day for all except kindergarten students. For these students, the first day will be a visitation day for parent and child. Their first full day will be Wednesday.

Kindergarten half-day sessions will run from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 12:45 to 3:15 p.m. Grades one through five are scheduled from 9 to 11:45 a.m. and from 12:45 to 3:15 p.m.

Lively and Holmes Junior High Schools are scheduled from 7:55 a.m. to 2:40 p.m. and Grove and Dempster Junior High schools are scheduled from 8:20 a.m. to 3:05 p.m.

Parents are asked by the administration to be patient if buses do not arrive on schedule, or if children come home later than scheduled because of road construction, Mrs. Cummins said.

"Everybody knows that in this area the main arteries are torn up and we are almost certain that it will make the buses a little later than planned," she said.

"We are asking parents to tell their children to wait for the bus in the morning even if it hasn't arrived on time," she said.

No Paper On Monday

Paddock Publications will observe the Labor Day holiday Monday, Sept. 7 by not publishing newspapers that day.

Publication will resume as usual on Tuesday for the Cook County Herald.

THERE'S THE PITCH... high and outside, but a pitch, nonetheless. Mike Kaskie and his teammates demonstrate the style which won them the title in the 16-inch softball league for high school students. The summer league was sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District and the first-place team, The Wisemen, won the title recently with an undefeated record. Runner-ups in the competition were the Braves and the Wopalopolos.

"OTHER OTHER" is not a misprint, but a category in the High School Dist. 214 budget. It seems, according to Bob Weber, the district's business manager, that there's a general category in the education fund called "Other," then there's a miscellaneous sub-category called "Other." Board members eyebrows were raised-when they spotted it.

THE BROCHURES for the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County were recently reprinted with a new format. However, don't think you're losing your mind when you open one up and find the inside of the brochure is printed upside down. The volunteer printer, who shall remain nameless in this column, apparently had a hectic week when he ran the brochures off and 800 copies were finished before the mistake was noticed.

AND DON'T eat pork on Friday: In an announcement in the St. James Catholic Church bulletin, parishioners were invited to a festival in the church's parking lot. Parishioners were warned, "It is not kosher to climb over the back fence."

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Park District's outdoor swimming pools were closed Sunday and the board decided that since schools started this week keeping the pools open any longer would not be worthwhile. No one seemed to remember that schools were not in session in the southern portion of the village in Dist. 59 which doesn't start until Tuesday. However, the park district was saved by cold nonswimming weather this week from what could have been a barrage of complaints from residents in the area of Heritage Park's pool.

WATER FLOWS UP? Reviewing a topographical map showing a water retention basin on a proposed apartment development site, Mrs. Alice Harms, plan commissioner, questioned the elevations indicated on the map. Turning to John Best, she joked, "Is it normal to have a detention basin at the highest elevation?"

New Rules Passed By Racing Board

All officers, directors and substantial owners of Arlington Park, along with those of other tracks in the state, will be required to make certain disclosures to the Illinois Racing Board under new rules adopted by the board yesterday.

The Illinois Racing Board approved three new rules—representing substantial changes to a proposed licensing regulation unveiled at a committee hearing last week.

The proposed regulation, released Aug. 25 by a special subcommittee, would have required the licensing of all directors, officers and substantial owners of any association, corporation or business entity desiring to conduct a racing meeting in the state.

Yesterday the subcommittee, headed by board commissioner Herman A. Stamer, proposed three rules that cover in part the original proposal. Prior to the board's vote on the new rules, Alexander MacArthur, board chairman, explained that the over-all nature of the rules would be one of disclosure instead of licensing.

REPRESENTATIVES of Chicago Thoroughbred Enterprises (CTE), operators of Arlington Park, and other track owners voiced objections to the original proposal, but accepted the new rules.

The first rule accepted states, "A license to conduct a horse race meeting is non-transferable, and will terminate upon a substantial change of ownership of the licensee, without prior approval of the board. The sale or transfer of 25 per cent or more will be considered a substantial change."

The second new rule provides that all officers, directors and substantial owners of an applicant for racing dates must make a written financial disclosure to the board prior to Oct. 1, on forms provided by the board. This disclosure would be made under oath, as stipulated in the forms.

THE LAST NEW rule stipulates that the board must be notified within 10 days of any new officers or directors of a licensee and the identity of every person, trust or foundation acquiring 5 per cent or more of the licensee's equity.

The new rules did not touch on some of the issues that CTE attorneys took exception to last week. Those areas include who would incur the expense of an investigation the board might decide to hold into the applicant's financial and moral integrity and the question of whether or not an applicant's interest in a legal gaming operation in another jurisdiction would be cause to deny racing dates.

CLIFF KRAINIK

Early Photos Serve History

by LINDA PUNCH

Cliff Krainik of Arlington Heights discovered a Minnesota fort in Baltimore.

The search for the fort began when Krainik, a specialist in early photography, purchased a daguerreotype of a stone fort from a history teacher in Baltimore. After five months research on eastern forts, Krainik finally discovered the identity of the fort while sitting in the living room of a friend.

While flipping through a book, "I saw a picture of the fort and it turned out to be a fort in Minnesota, Ft. Snelling," he said.

Krainik later visited Ft. Snelling, which is being restored. He presented the daguerreotype, the earliest view of the fort, to the Minnesota Historical Society.

The search for the exact location of the fort is cited by Krainik as an example of how his hobby of early photography serves as a vehicle for other interests.

KRAINIK, A STUDENT of criminal justice at the University of Illinois, began collecting early photographs while attending Maine West High School, Des Plaines.

"I was interested in history and studied the Civil War as a hobby. I acquired a few pictures I didn't know anything about and started asking around. I ended up reading a book on daguerreotypes," he said.

Krainik now has a collection of early photography which includes daguerreotypes which are photographs on silver plated copper, tintypes and cartes de visites, an early form of paper photographs.

Part of his collection is presently on display at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton Ave.

"I was interested in the whole field of photography in high school and college I didn't start avidly collecting until after I got married," he said.

Krainik's wife, Michelle, also has an interest in early photography.

A Look at People from the Passing Suburban Scene

"SHE'S MORE INTERESTED in it from the aesthetic viewpoint. She likes to look at the fashions and architecture, while I'm more interested in the historical development of photography," he said.

Krainik said it is not hard to build up a collection of early photography.

"You can get photographs from other collectors, antique shops, auctions, flea markets and junk shops," he said.

Krainik has spent as much as $300 for a daguerreotype, although some can be found as inexpensive as 25 cents.

"A good quality daguerreotype surpasses a kodachrome in clarity and detail. You can see a blemish on a face or splinters on a banister," he said.

Krainik said daguerreotypes were replaced in popularity by tintypes, which were less fragile and easier to store.

KRAINIK'S COLLECTION includes an 11x14 inch daguerreotype of the 1855 graduating class of Rutgers' Female Institute, photographs of a stagecoach, a surveying party of the 1850s and numerous portraits. He also has photographs by Lincoln photographer Alexander Hessler and Jeremiah Guernsey.

According to Krainik, the most common daguerreotype is a portrait of a man. Outdoor scenes and pictures of Indians, Negroes and Orientals are extremely rare.

"At this point the photograph was a spectacular innovation. Indians, Negroes and Orientals were in a minority and weren't in the position to let out money to have a portrait taken," he said.

Krainik is in the process of forming a Chicago association for specialists in early photography. He is also working on an article which will appear in the Professional Photographer Associations magazine in January.

KRAINIK'S INTEREST in early photography has led him to travel widely.

"I've run from Nashville, Tenn., to New York, Baltimore and Scranton, Ohio, in search of other collections. I guess you could say my hobby has me more than I have my hobby."

Arlington Art Fair Vote Shows Need For Culture

More than 90 per cent of the people who filled out research cards at the June art festival in Arlington Heights stated a cultural center is needed in the Northwest suburbs.

The computerized results of the research cards was made available recently and showed that almost 70 per cent of the people who filled out the cards are residents of Arlington Heights.

The research cards were designed to sample community support for a cultural center. The art festival was co-sponsored by the Arlington Heights Cultural Commission and Countryside Art Center.

Questions asked on the card included a person's name, age range, address, length of residency, whether the person lived in a house or apartment, whether the person was the head of the household and the sex of the person.

OTHER QUESTIONS on the card asked residents to indicate their areas of interest including art, dance, symphony, museum, opera and theater, and whether the person thought a cultural center is needed in the area.

The summary of the responses from residents of Arlington Heights over the age of 10 shows that 93 per cent of the people stated a cultural center was needed.

The length of residency in the Northwest suburbs was listed as 1 to 5 years by 38 per cent of the people, 6 to 10 years by 23 per cent and 11 years or more by 36 per cent. About 90 per cent of the village residents stated they lived in homes.

Although the people were attending an art fair, more people indicated an interest in theater than in art. Theater was chosen by 68 per cent of the Arlington Heights residents while 58 per cent chose art.

THE OTHER cultural activities and their percentages are symphony, 28 per cent; museum, 24 per cent; dance, 13 per cent; and opera, 8 per cent.

About 64 per cent of the total of Arlington Heights residents indicated they regularly attended cultural activities.

Of the total number of cards, 201 were filled out by residents of Mount Prospect. Other towns listed as home were Palatine by 131 people; Rolling Meadows by 71, Elk Grove by 41, Prospect Heights by 37, Buffalo Grove by 29, Wheeling by 18 and other Northwest suburbs by 36.

About 2 per cent of the cards were filled out by Chicago residents, about 5 per cent by residents of other Illinois communities and about two-fifths of one per cent by residents of other states.

Persons who did not answer the question about their age were not counted in per cent by residents of other states.

The results were compiled by the computers at Harper Junior College, Palatine. The service was provided free of charge to the Cultural Commission.

THE RESULTS ARE considered as a general indication to the amount of interest in a cultural center but the commission plans to do some additional surveying via village water bills.

Old Orchard Plan Passed By Board

An agreement paving the way for a multimillion-dollar apartment, office and hotel complex at Old Orchard County Club in Mount Prospect was reached Tuesday.

The settlement, agreed to by the Mount Prospect Village Board and the owner of the property, ends more than five years of controversy and litigation about the annexation and development of the 205-acre site at Euclid Street and Rand Road.

As a result of the settlement, a consent decree outlining the details of the development will be entered in court as soon as possible.

The consent decree calls for the development of 13 12-story buildings and the preservation of the golf course for 50 years. Two office buildings, 10 apartment buildings and a hotel have been proposed for the site.

The village will be required to allow construction of the development as outlined in the consent decree. No plans for the start of construction have yet been announced.

ALBERT NEWMAN, owner of the property, has agreed to turn over about two acres of land to the village for the construction of a two-million-gallon reservoir and pump station and a fire station. Construction of the fire and other facilities has not yet been decided by the village, however.

Mayor Robert Teichert said the board voted unanimously to authorize the consent decree following an executive session held after the board meeting Tuesday.

"The resolution of the Old Orchard property ends one big nagging problem for everyone concerned in the negotiations. This will be a beautiful development that will be a great asset to the community. I expect it will be one of the best developments in the Northwest suburban area," Teichert said.

"It's taken an awful lot of time and one hell of a lot of work by a lot of people to negotiate this consent decree. We've spent almost two years working out the details of the consent decree, which outlines the specific development of the property."

"I'm very happy with the proposed planned-unit development because it fulfills our goal to preserve as much open space in the community as possible. The development of single-family residences is not the only way to develop land in order to maintain open space in the community," Teichert said.

TEICHERT SAID the golf course, under the terms of the consent decree, will remain as recreational open space for 50 years. At that time, if the owner decides to sell the property, the village will have the option to purchase the land. Teichert said the golf course is about a 100-acre parcel.

Teichert said the consent decree ends more than seven years of negotiations and planning for the annexation and development of the property. "Old Orchard petitioned for annexation in the village about 1963 or 1964, at which time the village promised to rezone the property for a planned-unit development, which at that time was called a recreational open-space ordinance."

"After the country club was annexed by the village, the village repealed the zoning ordinance for the development of the property. When this happened, Old Orchard asked for disannexation from the village. This started a legal controversy (involving lawsuits) that we finally settled Tuesday," Teichert said.

Planners Urge Zoning Denial

The Arlington Heights plan commission voted unanimously Wednesday night to recommend that the village board deny a zoning change request for a lot on the northeast side of the village.

The rezoning request from R-3 (single family) to R-5 (multiple family) was made for a 2.1-acre lot just east of undeveloped Waterman Avenue, 450 feet north of Euclid Street.

The petitioners told the commission they planned to construct a three-story apartment building, containing 30 units, on the land.

The opinion of the commission, a recommending body only, will be passed on to the village board of trustees for a final decision. The issue is scheduled to come before the board Sept. 21.

Holiday Schedule Set By Post Office

The Arlington Heights Post Office will observe a regular holiday schedule on Labor Day, Monday.

There will be no regular window or delivery services according to Postmaster Virginia Dodge. Special delivery will be available.

Mail will be picked up from collection points on holiday schedules and post office lobbies will remain open for access to lockboxes and stamp dispensing equipment.

Village Bans No-pest Strips

No-pest insecticide strips may not be used in Arlington Heights restaurants, according to Village Sanitarian Bill Mack.

Mack said the village is following a Food and Drug Administration (FDA) ruling forbidding the use of no-pest strips in public areas where food is served or prepared.

The FDA also recommends that homeowners not use the no-pest strips in areas where food is prepared and the strips not be used in rooms with elderly people or infants.

Mack said the FDA "feels it is not necessary to build up levels of insecticide such as aerosol sprays should be used, shouldn't be any more of a concentration of insecticide than is necessary to kill the insect."

The no-pest strips may be used in areas where food is in containers, but Mack said the village doesn't condone their use.

Kids Hold Fair; Fight Pollution

An anti-pollution organization received a donation from a group of Arlington Heights youngsters who sponsored a fun fair recently.

The youngsters donated the money to Pollution and Environmental Problems (PEP) in Palatine because "we wanted to give it to pollution," according to Barb Walsgerber, 14, 706 E. Redwood Ln.

THE FAIR, which was planned by 10 youngsters, was held in the Walsgerber backyard and featured a stuffed animal zoo, penny pitch and other games.

The fair raised $15.20 for the cause. This is the fourth year children in the neighborhood have had the fair, Barb said.

Mrs. Hartman Quits Public Nursing Post

Ellen Hartman, 516 N. Gibbons, Arlington Heights, is retiring after 36 years of service as a public health nurse.

A 1931 graduate of Augustana Hospital, Mrs. Hartman has been affiliated with the Evanston North Shore Health Department. She has served with the Visiting Nurse Association of Chicago and Evanston and was the home consultant on Medicare and nursing homes.

In 1966 Mrs. Hartman initiated welfare and counseling programs at Evanston senior citizen centers and organized a "Friendly Visiting" program for elderly people who live alone.

Crane-Wagon Starts To Roll

U. S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, will launch his campaign for reelection tomorrow with a full day of activities in Schaumburg Township, the western edge of the district.

Crane, who was elected to the United States House of Representatives in a special election last November, will visit Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Hanover Park during the day and will conclude his activities at the Hoffman Estates Fireman's Dance Saturday evening.

The congressman will visit customers at the Suburban Bank in Hoffman Estates from 10 to 11 a.m. and then will move to the Schaumburg State Bank where he will stay from 11 a.m. until noon.

At 12:30 p.m., he will attend a luncheon at the Lancer Restaurant, Algonquin and Meacham roads.

From 3 to 5 p.m., Crane will attend several neighborhood receptions in the three communities, with special emphasis in Hanover Park, according to GOP Committeewoman Mrs. Sally Catlin.

A COCKTAIL party is planned for 7 to 9 p.m. at the home of Committeeman Donald L. Totten prior to the fireman's dance.

"We're trying to get the congressman and the grass roots together here in Schaumburg Township in just a 12-hour period," Mrs. Catlin said. "Communication between representatives and the constituency is a basic necessity for the successful operation of democracy and we hope interested residents will take advantage of this opportunity to meet and influence their congressman."

Schaumburg Township was one of Crane's most solid supporters when he ran against Democratic State Rep. Edward Warman in the special election to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of former Rep. Donald Rumsfeld.

Since he was sworn in December, Crane has received national publicity because of his visit to the Mid-East in February and his visit to China and South Vietnam in July.

Following the Vietnam visit, Crane refuted charges by two other congressmen that conditions in the Con Son prison were "inhumane" and accused Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., of being "blind or deliberately trying to mislead the public."

Crane is considered a safe winner in his Nov. 3 rematch with Warman.

Joan Klussmann

If you can't squeeze in a trip to Washington, D.C. yourself, you should talk to Arlington Heights Village Clerk Betty Revard. Her knowledgeable descriptions of our capital, — its monuments and hide-a-ways — make the city come alive for the Midwestern listener.

Betty, who lived in Washington when she was secretary to Sen. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and who just returned from a 10-day vacation in the city, said she "never gets tired of seeing the sights."

Her trip this year included a stop at the building site of the Washington National Cathedral, now 70 per cent completed. Sen. Monroney, in charge of the project, told Betty that the cathedral (non-denominational but sponsored by the Episcopal Church) will be the only purely Gothic structure in the world. The European churches and cathedrals with a Gothic flavor were originally done in Roman architecture and Gothic touches were added later.

FUNDS FOR THE new cathedral have been coming in from many sources, some from the sale of special Christmas cards. When money ran short, the skilled craftsmen working on the building were called into action to help with the new Catholic Shrine of the Immaculate Conception and so remained in Washington, available to work on the cathedral when funds allow.

Betty said that since her days of residence in Washington, the city has deteriorated a little because of the crime and poverty problems. "There is a tension there now that wasn't there before, but not enough to spoil the city and its fascination." In between visits to me-monials and homes, Betty's husband Bob managed to sandwich in a visit to the Office of Economic Opportunity. He serves in the Midwest as Federal Inter-agency Coordinator for the OEO.

Betty stresses that Congressmen really welcome inquiries and visits from constituents and are happy to have someone on their staffs help visitors from their home states. "When I worked there," she explained, "We spent much of our time during the day with visitors and really started getting down to work after 5 p.m."

RED ROSES gleaned on the white uniform worn by Rose Schanne on Wednesday. With a gleam in her eyes to match the flowers, Rose explained the corsage was a gift from her boss to celebrate her 17th anniversary on the job.

A dental assistant in Arlington Heights since 1953, Rose, 717 N. Patton Ave., formed the Northwest Suburban Branch of the Chicago Dental Assistants Association in 1964 and has been active in the organization ever since. She has also traveled to New York, Washington and Europe to attend national and international dental meetings and to hear lectures which keep her abreast of the latest developments in her field.

She explained that she has watched children grow up, marry and then send their own children in for dental examinations. "I sometimes feel like a mother to all of them," she said. Looking fondly at her corsage, Rose (known for her bubbling good humor and pleasant disposition) laughed, "After 17 years, I suppose I really should have bought my boss a medal."

School Taxes May Go Up 5.6%

High School Dist. 214 property owners could see their tax bills increase by about 5.6 per cent next year, a district official told the school board's budget committee Wednesday night.

Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business affairs, showed the board that the 1971-72 tax rate could climb from this year's figure of $2.27 to a new total of $2.33 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget committee was meeting to examine not only the district's projected tax rate, but also means of cutting into possible future deficit spending.

THE INCREASE would include a hike from $1.55 to $1.59 in the education fund, which makes up the largest portion of the budget and covers teacher's salaries, the largest single item in the budget.

Weber and Supt. Edward Gilbert cautioned that the proposed tax rates must be approved by the board, and could be changed by an upsurge in assessed valuation in the district.

Also, there is a possibility that the district might levy a small working cash fund levy, to cover the district coming up in the red if early tax collections don't keep pace.

This year, early collections of tax money gave the district a surplus. A working cash fund, which would collect interest for the district, could cover the interest in case of a drop in early collection.

JACK COSTELLO, who is chairman of the budget committee, raised that question, as well as wondering if November might be suitable time for a referendum to raise tax revenue in the district.

However, both Weber and Gilbert said that the time might not be right. Weber said that early collections, to put the district in the black, would help this spring. Gilbert pointed out that the district has not been involved in deficit spending through tax anticipation warrants, that disreputable gremlin of borrowing money to cover revenue deficits.

The committee spent much of their meetings looking ahead to the projected 1971-72 budget and a possible deficit of $682,000 in the education fund.

THE DISTRICT must look ahead, officials explained, as the 1970-71 levy, part of the official budget to be acted upon later this month, provides revenue for the 1971-72 school year.

That year will be a financially rough one for the district, as the district's seventh high school — Rolling Meadows High School — will boost the number of teachers and custodial and clerical personnel in the district.

Budgets aren't the only money matters facing the board. If the district decides that an eighth high school is needed for the district by 1974-75, the board will have to seek taxpayer support for a bond issue.

WHERE IS THE BEST INVESTMENT PROPERTY FOUND?

Downtown? Or up? Where is the "smart" money going? If there was ever a field where an investor must be alert to changing trends and future developments, it has to be the specialty of real estate investment property.

An investor proceeding without the counsel of a seasoned Broker who thoroughly knows his local market, is just plain lucky if he avoids costly mistakes and ends up with a sound, income-producing property.

Experienced investors, many of whom have made fortunes in the real estate field, usually patronize a particular lawyer they have come to rely on who knows their objectives and financial potential. The lawyer values these investors as clients and friends and his specialized knowledge protects them from making serious errors.

Similar confidence in a competent Broker is often rewarded with opportunities to make unusually good investments before they are publicized. The Broker is not operating a service to a favored few; it is simply that when a good investment presents itself, he immediately thinks of clients who might be interested.

One of the first steps to make profitable real estate investments is to ally yourself with an expert Broker who is an investment specialist.

Kemmerly Real Estate has been lending their services for years to professional Real Estate investors. We know where the "Smart" money is going.

'Save The Bus' Meeting Is Tonight

Officials from 15 area suburbs will meet in Des Plaines tonight to discuss the financial problems of United Motor Coach Co., which has said it may go out of business without some kind of subsidy.

The meeting, called by Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel, will hear a presentation from Elmer Schuermann, the firm's vice president and general manager, who has already met with officials of Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Park Ridge and Niles.

In addition to representatives of suburbs from Evanston to Barrington, which are all served by the ailing bus company, school districts 59, 207, 62 and 63 are invited to the meeting, to be held in the Des Plaines Municipal Building, 1412 Miner St.

According to Schuermann, representatives of the Milwaukee Road and the Chicago Transit Authority are also expected to attend.

THE COMPANY has been unable to get any commitment for aid from Des Plaines, Niles and Elk Grove Village and was turned down by Park Ridge after a meeting with city officials there.

United Motor Coach, according to Schuermann, lost $70,000 in the first six months of this year. The firm lost $84,000 in 1969 and more than $130,000 in 1968, Schuermann said.

In a letter to suburban mayors, Behrel said the bus firm "apparently is in dire financial circumstances, is already planning serious curtailment of its services, and there is also a great possibility that if some assistance is not forthcoming, (it) will go out of business."

There is some question, however, about the legality of any direct aid by area cities and villages to the bus company. Des Plaines City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi, said that in his opinion direct grants of municipal corporate or motor fuel tax funds to United Motor Coach would not be allowed under Illinois law.

A MASS TRANSIT district would have to be set up, DiLeonardi said, before funds could be funneled to the bus company.

Effective Aug. 30, the firm virtually abandoned service on four local Des Plaines routes, on routes in Park Ridge and Niles and on night and weekend trips between the northwest suburbs and downtown Chicago.

The Illinois Commerce Commission has said United Motor Coach can go ahead with token service on some routes unless local communities or a large number of citizens protest.

Park District Tells Autumn Offerings

Drama workshops, golf and football, knitting and women's volleyball are all among the fall activities recently opened for registration by the Des Plaines Park District.

For men, fall golf leagues are being formed. Fishing, sailing, canoeing and rowing Lake Opeka, Lee and Howard, is allowed from 4:30 p.m. to sunset on weekdays, and from 8 a.m. to sunset on weekends, park officials announced.

The gym at Rand Park, Dempster near Parkview, will be open every Wednesday evening for men's volleyball, badminton, basketball and table tennis, they said.

Women's volleyball teams will form in October and will play at Algonquin Junior High, 967 Algonquin. Volleyball skills will be taught by park district instructors.

Knitting and needle point will be taught by a professional instructor starting Sept. 29 at West Park, 651 Wolf.

The park district senior citizen group, the "Golden Agers," will meet at West Park, South Park, 1560 Howard and Rand Park, 2025 Miner. To become a member a resident must be at least 60. Card parties, trips, and a handwork fair are scheduled.

Touch football is offered for 3rd and 4th grade boys. Tackle football also is offered for boys in 5th through 8th grade, under adult supervision, park district officials said.

A junior high school program in two divisions, lightweight (114 pounds and below) and heavyweight is offered.

An eight week Learn to Swim course will be held at the Maine West Pool. The program has classes for all swimmers, from beginners to advanced.

A 12 WEEK Judo course, taught by a professional instructor, will be held, beginning September 29 at the "A" wing gym of Maine West.

Square dance lessons are offered for boys and girls aged 10 or older, at South Park.

A Twirling team and parade corps will meet at Rand Park, beginning Sept. 10. This team will perform in the 1971 Baton Twirling meets, officials said.

Baton techniques will be taught by Mrs. Gaye Senne, for youngsters age 4 and older.

Drama workshops, for 1st grade through 8th grade youngsters will begin in October.

DES PLAINES school children can make it safely across the street with the help of crossing guards like Walter Lenke, who has manned the intersection of Thacker and 2nd for six years.

Oakton Lists Student Codes

A code of student conduct and a policy statement on student involvement were approved Tuesday night by the Oakton Community College board of trustees.

According to the Oakton trustees, the two codes — developed during the past four years by administrators and board members — will be revised after the school year starts, taking student views into account.

The code on student conduct will require Oakton students "to observe and respect certain standards of behavior" and provides for disciplinary measures for those who "impair or prevent" the junior college from carrying out its lawful objectives.

Those objectives, it says, are to help students develop to their fullest potential and "maintain, support, critically examine and improve the existing social and political systems."

STUDENTS ALSO WILL be disciplined if they cheat, plagiarize or knowingly give the school false information.

Possession, distribution or "presence" of narcotics or alcohol on campus, unless permitted by law, will subject students to school disciplinary action, the code says.

Under the code, school authority will not duplicate regular legal authority of the city or state.

School officials will first try other means, such as counseling, guidance or warnings, before beginning formal disciplinary hearings, it states.

The hearings will follow "fundamental concepts of fairness" including adequate notice for all parties involved, an "opportunity for a fair hearing," and an assurance that no action will be taken without sufficient "substantial" evidence.

THE CODE CALLS for the appointment of a standards of student conduct committee of students, faculty and administration, to develop a more complete rules and procedures.

According to the "Statement on Student Involvement," the college is committed to involving all segments of the college community in forming institutional policies and procedures.

Oakton's trustees will be the final authority, according to the statement. The board, administration, faculty, and students — "all segments of the academic community" — will be involved in creating the organizations through which students can participate, the code says.

All the groups of the academic community would be a part of a president's advisory committee, that would meet once a month to discuss issues of general concern. Make-up of the committee would be determined by the student and faculty government associations.

FACULTY, STUDENTS and administration would all be a part represented on a council on institutional policies and procedures that would discuss scheduling, class size, grading policies and other matters affecting the class work side of Oakton.

Other suggested committees include an academic program committee, to develop new courses and evaluate existing ones.

An admissions committee would discuss admissions policies and review petitions for readmission. This committee would include administration, faculty and students.

A student personnel committee would work with the dean of student personnel in developing programs which would help students develop their full potential.

League of Women Voters Convention Success

by CARROLL SALMAN

Des Plaines Leaguers Charlotte Storer and Nancy Sherden describe their reactions to Wednesday's state-wide Constitution Day Convention in Arlington Heights as an "overwhelming and exciting" experience.

"There's something about being a part of history, even if it's only a small part," Mrs. Sherden added.

The ladies were the Des Plaines unit's delegates to the meeting, which, perhaps unsurprisingly, gave official League of Women Voters' (LWV) approval to the new document. Observers from the Des Plaines unit included Sally Gay, Renata Frell, Bertha Tash, Charlotte Thompson and Irene Birchfield.

Leaguers in general have much to be proud of in the newly-written state constitution.

According to Mrs. Storer, there are very few things in the proposed constitution which have not been thoroughly studied and approved by the state league. Leaguers spent a lot of time also, testifying before various Con-Con committees.

"IT'S NOT A CASE of the league bending any arms," Mrs. Storer explained. "It's more like a meeting of the minds. League opinions were studied and researched to reach the best conclusion. When the delegates did their own research and study, they reached the same conclusions."

Leaguers have been working on a new state constitutional convention for over 20 years, studying and restudying issues.

As an example of the kind of in-depth preparation the League has done for the new constitution, both ladies came home from Wednesday's gathering with 25 pounds of background materials.

Mrs. Sherden and Mrs. Storer will be responsible for informing Des Plaines residents about the constitution and its provisions. Mrs. Storer will present the League's point of view on various provisions; Mrs. Sherden will provide information impartially in what Mrs. Storer claims is the "harder part" of the job.

THE STATE LEAGUE has begun to prepare additional informational material on the new constitution. Ranging from page-long outlines of the highlights, to in-depth analysis of individual provisions, the information will be made available free or for a nominal cost.

A local speaker's bureau is being formed, too. Groups may request a speaker to present a general, impartial talk on the constitution, or a specific talk on the League's position on any provision.

Aside from two upcoming events, though, the League will generally "lie low" on the proposed Constitution until after the Nov. 3 elections. Watch out after that, though.

Because Dec. 15, decision day on the document, comes at the height of Christmas holiday preparations. Leaguers will be launching an intense campaign to get out and vote.

ONE THING WHICH will ease the task is the relatively uncomplicated ballot which will be used. It will require a yes or no decision on the general question of the new constitution.

Four options will be listed below the main question, all requiring a simple yes or no decision. These four are merit selection of judges, cumulative voting for state representatives, the 18-year-old voting age, and the abolishment of capital punishment.

The League will actively support merit selection of judges and the vote for 18-year-olds, as well as single district representation.

IT WILL REMAIN silent on the question of capital punishment, because the League has never studied the question and will not take an official position unless such research has been done and a consensus reached.

Leaguers do, however, have two big events — one public, one for Leaguers only — in preparation for the Constitutional campaign.

Wednesday, Sept. 9, the Des Plaines League will meet from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, 766 Graceland Ave. for a two-part meeting. The morning will be a general catch-up session on the League's study questions other than the constitution. These include such things as human resources, foreign policy, water resources, taxes and election laws, among others.

CON-CON DELEGATE Anne Evans, also a Leaguer, will discuss the constitution at the afternoon session. Leaguers will explore ideas about how to bring the constitution successfully to the voters.

Women planning to attend should bring along a sandwich; coffee and cake will be provided. Baby-sitters will also be available at the church.

The Des Plaines League will join with the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect League Sept. 24 at 8 p.m. for an open meeting with Con-Con delegates from the third and fourth congressional districts. Third district delegates Anne Evans and Clyde Parker have already accepted the invitation.

Don't forget that Leaguers will be in the Maine city hall building tomorrow and the following two Saturdays to register voters. Leaguers are especially anxious that young people take this opportunity to register.

The women will serve from 9 a.m. to 12 noon all three days. Check your voting registration right now, and, if you're not registered, please drop by city hall one of the next three Saturdays.

Leaguers will also have a small packet of information for the young voters. A minimum charge must be made.

Dist. 59 Schools To Open On Time

Dist. 59 schools will be open as scheduled despite a teachers' professional sanction of the district, the school administration announced yesterday.

Schools are scheduled to open Tuesday.

Teachers rejected the board of education's proposed contract Tuesday and voted to support a professional sanction of the district, therefore, providing limited services during school hours.

Letters were mailed to parents yesterday to notify them that school would be open, Mrs. Leah Cummins, specialist, public and community relations, said.

"We do expect that their will be curtailment of outside activities such as sports, until an agreement is reached with teachers," she added.

THE DISTRICT has also installed a 24-hour recorded phone message service for parents wishing more information about schools. The number is 437-7839. The service has been put into operation especially for the Labor Day weekend, so that parents will know any developments in the school situation before Tuesday.

The district plans to use the recorded message, however, to tell parents about special programs of interest to them during the year, including bus route changes, snow day closings, and other items.

The first day of school will be a full day for all except kindergarten students. For these students, the first day will be a visitation day for parent and child. Their first full day will be Wednesday.

Kindergarten half-day sessions will run from 9 to 11:30 a.m. and from 12:45 to 3:15 p. m. Grades one through five are scheduled from 9 to 11:45 a.m. and from 12:45 to 3:15 p.m.

Lively and Holmes Junior High Schools are scheduled from 7:55 a.m. to 2:40 p.m. and Grove and Dempster Junior High schools are scheduled from 8:20 a.m. to 3:05 p.m.

Parents are asked by the administration to be patient if buses do not arrive on schedule, or if children come home later than scheduled because of road construction, Mrs. Cummins said.

"Everybody knows that in this area the main arteries are torn up and we are almost certain that it will make the buses a little later than planned," she said.

"We are asking parents to tell their children to wait for the bus in the morning even if it hasn't arrived on time," she said.

Report Theft Of Tires At Station

Des Plaines police arrested a 26-year-old Rosemont man early Thursday morning within minutes after he allegedly took two tires from a Des Plaines service station.

According to police, John Caton of Rosemont was seen speeding along Touhy Ave. near Mannheim Road at 2 56 a.m. Thursday. Caton was driving a car which matched the description of the auto used by a man who had reportedly stolen tires from Zook's Mobil Service.

Police said an attendant at Zook's Mobil Service Station, 2380 River Rd., reported that while he was fixing a flat tire, Caton took two new tires from a rack and put them in his trunk. The attendant said he noticed the two tires but when he asked Caton to let him examine the tires Caton refused and drove away, police said.

When police stopped Caton several minutes later they found the two tires, which had been marked by the station owners, in his car trunk, police said.

Caton was charged with theft, dis-regarding a red light and driving without a license. His court date has been set for Oct. 2.

Bar Mitzvah Set For Chip Sohmers

A Des Plaines youth, Chip Sohmers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sohmers, 9433 Dee, will celebrate his Bar Mitzvah at 9:30 a.m., this Saturday, at the Maine Township Jewish Congregation, 8800 Ballard.

Rabbi Jay Karzen, and Cantor Harry Solowinechik will officiate.

Rabbi Karzen also has invited the community to hear the ceremonial blowing of the Ram's Horn. This ancient instrument is blown during the 30 days prior to the High Holy Days, synagogue spokesmen said. The instrument is blown each morning after services at 7:30 a.m., and at 9 a.m. Sundays.

Classes in the Religious School begin after Labor Day. Registration is now in progress at the congregation office from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily and on Sundays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Membership applications and High Holiday reservations are also being accepted, spokesmen said.

Harper Sign-Up Under Way

The two-week-long registration for students at Harper College in Palatine is underway, with registration open this week for persons interested in continuing education courses.

Registration in that category will run through Saturday, Sept. 12, at the community college. It will be conducted in Building A, Room A213, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays, 9 to 4 on Fridays and from 9 to noon on Saturdays.

The college offers noncredit courses ranging from Personal Finance Management to Karate to Astrology to The Challenge of Chemistry.

AN ADDITIONAL registration period will be offered from Oct. 27 to Nov. 4 for classes beginning the week of Nov. 9.

Tuition varies from course to course, depending on the operating cost of each course. Enrollment is possible during the first class session, although students will be enrolled on a first come, first served basis. Tuition is due at the first class meeting.

Next week, the college's registration for full-time and part-time students will be held. Telephone registration is available that week for part-time students.

Kaplan Center To Sponsor Contest

A benefit concert for the Kaplan Jewish Community Center, which serves the Northwest suburbs, will be held Nov. 9 at Orchestra Hall in Chicago.

The concert will feature Zubin Mehta, conducting the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

Tickets may be purchased at the Kaplan Center, 3941 Dempster, Skokie.

15-Year-Old Girl Dies In Crash

A 15-year-old Elk Grove Village girl died Wednesday night in a two-car collision on Rt. 83 at the tollway in Elk Grove Township.

Cook County Sheriff's Police, who handled the accident, identified the youth as Candy Otters, of 234 Peach Tree Ln.

The girl was pronounced dead on arrival at the emergency room of St. Alexius Hospital at 8:25 p.m.

Police said the collision occurred about 7:30 p.m. when a southbound car driven by Michael Kostopoulos, 18, of 554 Florian Dr., Des Plaines, went out of control and crossed the median strip under the tollway.

Kostopoulos' car was then struck on the right side by a northbound car driven by Julian Seifert, 35, of Melrose Park.

Police said the pavement was slippery due to rain and driving conditions were poor.

MISS OTTERS was a passenger in the car driven by Kostopoulos.

Seifert had four passengers in his car, but none was injured seriously. They were his wife, Joan Seifert, 30; George and Marjorie Gangialasa, of North Lake; and Floyd Kerner of Chicago.

All were rushed by ambulance to St. Alexius Hospital, along with Kostopoulos, and later released.

Elk Grove Village police assisted county police with traffic at the scene, and the Elk Grove Fire Department was called to cut Miss Otters from the car with an acetylene torch.

The Mount Prospect Park District and the Karnes Music Co. will jointly sponsor an all professional combo show on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 11th at 3 p.m. in Karnes Music Co., 3800 Milwaukee Ave., Des Plaines.

The performance by the Karnes teaching staff, will feature a guitar, piano, drum and organ program for beginning and intermediate students.

Scouts Thank Mister Faney

A School Dist. 62 employee has received the thanks of the Northwest Suburban Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

John Faney, a district maintenance employee, was thanked for his work with Boy Scouts of Troop 22, sponsored by St. Mary's Mens Club, while they were at Boy Scout Camp Napowan, near Wild Rose, Wis.

In a letter to the Dist. 62 board, J. David Wells, director of program and camping for the council said "We so deeply appreciate the willingness of John Faney to give his vacation time to helping boys become men, that we want to extend our appreciation to you, his employer."

The law of symmetry is one of the greatest frauds perpetrated on the bridge playing public. The idea of this pseudo law is that if you have a singleton or singletons then everyone else will have singletons.

The reason why some people believe this is that when you have a singleton, you have a long suit; when you have a long suit someone else has a short suit.

South was looking at two singletons, one in his hand and one in dummy. He was also looking at nine spades.

All else being equal the correct play with nine of a suit is to play out the ace and king. Once both opponents follow small to the first lead the odds are that the queen will drop on the next lead.

This applies no matter how many singletons declarer is looking at. The opponents' spades don't know how declarer's suits are divided. They just split in accordance with the law of averages which is a valid law and never has been repealed.

With this hand there is a further and really cogent reason to play out the ace and king of trumps. If the queen of trumps doesn't drop, South can try the club finesse. If it works he can discard both his hearts on the ace and king.

South knew all this but he had also fallen for the symmetry propaganda. He had one singleton. Dummy had one singleton. There had to be a singleton in spades! South played his ace of spades. Ruffed a diamond to get to dummy and tried the trump finesse.

West took his queen gratefully and led a heart to his partner's ace.

Mayor Herbert Behrel calls the city council to order.

Mayor Keeps Pace Moving

Photos by Jim Frost

The mayor always starts it off, usually a few minutes late.

"Will the council please come to order and the aldermen take their seats," he says forcefully into the microphone in front of him. With 13 years of practice, he makes the words sound the same every time.

"This is a regular meeting of the Des Plaines City Council, held on Mon., Aug. 17 (or Aug. 3 or July 6 or Oct. 5), 1970, in the city council chambers at Des Plaines, Ill. Will the clerk please call the roll."

After a sometimes brief, sometimes interminable prayer from a local clergyman, everyone turns to face the south wall, where the flag stands beside a two-inch-lettered sign with all the words to the pledge of allegiance.

But Mayor Herbert Behrel knows them and it's lone voice that booms out "I pledge..." before everyone else catches up.

The minutes are approved, city department heads give their reports and the council moves on, with a fast-slow pace that can find the aldermen spending endless minutes debating the purchase of a motorcycle and/or a truck or sometimes pushing a major ordinance through in the time it takes to call the roll.

THE COUNCIL'S real work is done in committee, making for an absence of rhetoric and speechmaking that can disappoint the casual or infrequent observer. But there's drama there among the rows of curved wooden desks that seat the 16 representatives of the city's eight wards.

A lone, disgruntled alderman expressing his opposition without comment can mask some furious private debates with his colleagues during the previous week. There are always jokes, too, but you have to be around a while to get their meaning.

A long stream of stop sign ordinances or a sudden outburst of opinion are often interrupted by the council's faulty public address system, which can force an alderman to push furiously at the button on his mike and finally end up speaking louder to be heard.

Behrel keeps the pace moving, through committee reports and ordinances on first and second reading. Four aldermen can raise their hands at the same time to second a motion but the mayor always knows just which one to recognize. Then, just when it seems like it's getting late, the motion is made and seconded, the mayor votes aye and the council is adjourned.

Follow Tips For A Safe Labor Day

By BRAD BREKKE

Each Labor Day a terrible price is paid on our highways to get from here to there.

Paid in toll. Paid in blood.

The National Safety Council (NSC) estimates 870 motorists will be killed this weekend and 27,000 more will be injured.

The statistics aren't encouraging and mean little to the average motorist, unless of course, he is one of them.

A large percentage of persons in the Northwest suburbs will be leaving town this weekend to visit relatives and friends.

And local officials have some safety tips:

Capt. Jack Aldrich of the Arlington Heights police force said, "Avoid Golf, Algonquin, Arlington Heights and Palatine roads because of construction." He said the frequency of accidents is lower over holiday weekends, but the accidents which do occur are more severe.

IN MOUNT PROSPECT, the Jaycees Oktoberfest will be the only community activity and Police Chief Newell Edmond said he doesn't anticipate any special traffic problems due to it.

Robert Centner, Palatine Police Chief, said he expects local traffic to be less than on normal weekdays and urged residents "to leave early and take your time

by JUDY BRANDES

The waiting room for the intensive care unit at Northwest Community Hospital is in the hallway between the coronary care unit and the surgery rooms.

The hallway is where family and friends of people seriously hurt in automobile accidents wait for progress reports and a chance every hour to see their injured loved ones.

Right now, before the Labor Day weekend even begins, families of five area residents are sitting in the intensive care unit waiting room. Some of them have been there two weeks. They will all be there over the Labor Day weekend.

The patients are in serious or critical condition. One Wheeling man is still unconscious two weeks after his car hit a median strip on the Northwest Tollway in mid-afternoon.

The three men in the intensive unit were driving their cars, the two women were passengers. In four of the five cases the driver lost control of his car and hit a guard rail.

THE FIFTH PATIENT, a Rolling Meadows man, was struck head-on by an automobile which crossed the median on Route 53 near the Tollway.

Weather was not a factor in any of the accidents. All but one accident occurred in daylight hours. According to police reports, none of the drivers were under the influence of alcohol.

High speed and failure to have an automobile under control at all times were the factors which caused the accidents, police reports show.

A Palatine man lost control of his car on the Tollway near Oakton Road in Mount Prospect and hit a rail. He received a brain concussion. His passenger, an Arlington Heights woman, is also in the intensive care unit with a broken right leg and ankle, broken left hip and elbow, and facial injuries.

A ROLLING MEADOWS couple traveling south on Route 53 on a Saturday morning also hit a guard rail. The wife has a fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

The intensive care unit has eight beds in it. Today five are occupied by patients who were in automobile accidents which occurred under what police call "normal and safe road conditions."

"Our intensive care unit is not only for auto accident victims," a hospital spokesman said.

"We get other types of patients in intensive care, but the accident ones are the most tragic. They are also the ones who stay the longest."

The five intensive care unit patients will be recuperating for their injuries at least six months, hospital officials estimate. "They may be moved out of intensive care fairly soon, but they won't be up and about for quite a while," the observer said.

He gave one final fact about the five: the oldest is a 32-year-old man, the youngest, two 19-year-old wives.

coming home."

In Rolling Meadows, Police Chief Lewis Case said an extra squad car will be patrolling the streets over the weekend and that the heaviest traffic will be Saturday morning and Monday night.

In Elk Grove, Fire Chief Allen Hulett warned against using gasoline to start outdoor grills or pouring it on hot lawnmowers for the final cutting of the year. It often starts fires, he said.

M. O. Horcher, Wheeling Police Chief, traffic crashes.

Aside from traffic accidents, the American Red Cross has warned boaters and swimmers to be extremely cautious this weekend.

So far this year, there have been nine persons who drowned from the Northwest suburbs: four adults and five children.

Every year some drownings occur when persons who don't even intend to be in the water fall off docks or are thrown from overturned boats. According to the statistics, boys and men are more likely to drown than girls.

THE RED CROSS urges persons who overturn in boats to stay with the craft. They say it will still float and support passengers until help can reach them.

Four rules they listed to help parents and their children avoid drowning are:

First, never swim alone, but only in guarded areas and with a buddy.

Second, be sure each boat passenger has a life jacket and don't overload the boat.

Third, supervise children when they are near water, constantly. This includes ponds and drainage ditches as well as lakes and rivers.

And fourth, enter the water to save a swimmer in trouble only if you are a trained lifesaver. If you can, extend your reach to the victim by offering him an oar, tree limb, towel or lifesaving ring.

Maryville Garter Night Earns $2,000

Some students will be playing baseball with the success of the Red Garter Nights.

About $2,000 was earned by a recent beer-pizza-ragtime music charity event held at Maryville Academy, 1150 N. River Road.

The money will pay for baseball and basketball equipment, and "maybe even some wrestling mats which we've always wanted," John LaMotte, head of special programs, said.

Red Garter nights will become one of the school's annual charity events, LaMotte said.

School volunteers had decorated the gymnasium in an 1880 style, and waiters had dressed with striped shirts and hand-drawn mustaches. Pizza and beer were served.

The Red Garter Banjo Band played Aug. 21 and another ragtime band, The Bourbon Street Banjo Quintet, played Aug. 22.

The only difficulty came when tap connections from the beer barrels became filled with air. "For about a half-hour we were pouring beer. We finally figured it out, and all went well after that," LaMotte said.

Father Art Fagan, also fulfilled at least part of his wish.

The idea for a Red Garter night had sprung from Father Fagan's hobby of playing the banjo. Two volunteers at the school heard him talking about how nice it would be to sit at the head of a Dixieland band.

Father Fagan didn't sit at the head of the band this year, but he did play his banjo. At about midnight, Aug. 22, he and a school counselor, Al Gerlock, played a banjo-piano duet.

Maine Adult School Plans For Opening

Maine Adult Evening School brochures, listing over 350 classes scheduled for the Fall 1970 term, are now being mailed to former students and to all residents of Maine Township and adjacent communities.

Evening classes will begin Sept. 24; Sept. 28; Sept. 29; and Sept. 30 at the three Maine Township High Schools — Maine East, Dempster & Potter, Park Ridge; Main West, Wolf and Oakton, Des Plaines; and Maine South, Dee and Talcott, Park Ridge, evening school officials have announced.

The evening school, now in its 33rd year, will offer as always a wide variety of classes to provide adults with opportunities for intellectual stimulation, advancement, self improvement, and meeting new friends. Arts, crafts, physical education, languages, homemaking, business, and technical subjects are represented in the non-credit curriculum.

In addition to the non-credit classes, the Maine program offers college extension courses beginning Sept. 14, classes for high school credit, the Maine East and Maine West series of travelogues, a psychological lecture series at Maine South (co-sponsored with Forest Hospital Foundation of Des Plaines), and a film study showing of cinema classics.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the district office of the Maine Adult Evening School, 666-3800.

gin at 12:30 p.m. and end at approximately 6 p.m.

Elmer Ballotti, president of the league, predicts that this will be the most successful season in the association's history. This year marks the addition of a sixth system, the Lions.

"Participation in the program has increased by about 100 boys for the last four or five years," said Ballotti. "We now have about 650 youngsters in the program."

"We've never put an emphasis on winning. We try to provide an activity for the kids in the area and give them a chance to compete. Participation is much more important than winning," he said.

"SOME OF US FEEL we almost de-emphasize winning. We've reduced the maximum weight for ball carriers this year from 120 pounds to 110 pounds."

The league takes in the village of Mount Prospect as well as a portion of Des Plaines within the boundaries of the Mount Prospect Park District. The total area is divided up into six sectors with five teams in each sector: two bantam and junior teams and one senior team.

Each sector or "system," has a name which also serves as the name of the senior team in that sector. The Colts practice at Prospect High School, the Cardinals at Lincoln Junior High School, the Bears at Lions Park School, the Packers at Sunset Park School, the Giants at Dempster Junior High School, and the newly-formed Lions at High Ridge Knolls.

THE LEAGUE consists of youngsters between the ages of 8 and 14 and each team averages 25 players. Except for the Labor Day opening games, all other contests will be held on seven consecutive Sundays throughout the months of September and October.

The youngsters in the association will practice three times a week for a total of five hours. There are approximately 120 fathers who serve either as head coaches or assistant coaches, according to Ballotti.

The expansion of the league made it necessary for all senior players to purchase their own football pants, the only equipment they must supply. Junior and bantam players must provide all their own equipment except for game jerseys.

Along with the players, the association also provides activity for approximately 300 girls who serve as cheerleaders.

The cheerleading program and pre-season clinic is sponsored by the women's auxiliary of the football association.

Obituaries

Mrs. Alice C. Hway

Mrs. Alice C. Hway, 52, of 108 Maywood Lane, Hoffman Estates, died Wednesday in Albert Merritt Billings Memorial Hospital, Chicago.

Visitation is today from 3 to 10 p.m. in Oehler Funeral Home, Lee and Perry streets, Des Plaines. Funeral mass will be said at 11 a.m. tomorrow in St. Hubert Catholic Church, 126 Grand Canyon St., Hoffman Estates. Burial will be in St. Adelbert Cemetery, Niles.

Surviving are her husband, Alexander; three sons, Ronald and Thomas, both of Hoffman Estates and Richard of Rolling Meadows; one daughter, Joanne, at home; two grandchildren; her mother, Mrs. Martha Graniner of Mount Prospect; and four brothers, Raymond Graniner of New Orleans, James Graniner of Des Plaines, Norbert Graniner of Mount Prospect and the Rev. Eugene Graniner, C.M.F. of Oak Park.

Family requests, contributions or masses preferred.

George R. Cook

Funeral services for George R. Cook, 47, of 220 S. Reuter, Arlington Heights, were held Wednesday in Ryan-Parke Funeral Home, Park Ridge. The Rev. W. Roland Koch of Congregational United Church of Christ, Arlington Heights, officiated. Interment was private.

Mr. Cook, a resident of Arlington Heights, for 14 years, died suddenly Monday. He was the vice president and general manager for Rams-Head Co. in Des Plaines; a member of A.C.S. and was chairman of A.S.L.E.

Surviving are his widow, Ruth; a son, Steven; and a daughter, Nancy, both at home.

Universal Oil Co.

Names Coordinator

R. R. Allen has been named coordinator of Universal Oil Products Co.'s (UOP) Purzast automotive exhaust control program.

Allen will direct development testing and marketing of UOP's catalytic converter systems which have demonstrated an ability to eliminate up to 90 per cent of the hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide, and nitrogen oxides contained in automotive exhausts.

The Purzast system is the result of more than 10 years' research at UOP. When used in combination with lead-free motor fuels, the company claims, it is the most efficient and economic method of substantially reducing pollutant emissions from cars and trucks.

An engineering and business administration graduate of the University of Michigan, Allen joined UOP in 1965 as director of domestic and international marketing for its former subsidiary, Calumet & Hecla, and served most recently as manager of special projects for the corporation.

When A Fellow Needs A Friend

The Way We See It

Aid Crime Victims

Too often, the victims of violent crime are overlooked as society focuses its attention on punishing the offender.

An individual may be beaten and robbed, may suffer disastrous personal and financial consequences, and the law treats the offense solely as crime against the state.

However, attitudes change, and a growing number of states are providing compensation to hard-pressed crime victims. Among them are New York, California, Hawaii, Maryland and Massachusetts. So far, they have paid out

$1.8 million to approximately 1,000 claimants.

That is a small sum but in individual cases the assistance can be vital.

How the compensation is paid varies from state to state. In New York, a three-member board rules on claims investigated by staff members and can pay up to $15,000 for loss of income. In Maryland, the highest allowable payout, for permanent disability is $45,000. In general, compensation is allowed only for unreimbursed medical expenses and loss of income. However, Hawaii's code permits claims for mental anguish, and a rape victim was compensated $108 for medical fees and more than $2,000 for pain, suffering and medical shock.

The concept of compensating crime victims dates back to ancient times but fell into disuse in modern times. The present system permits a crime victim to file a civil suit against his attacker, but the attacker usually has no resources.

Compensation acts recognize this injustice, as well as the growing incidence of crimes against individuals.

The Political Beat

Campaign Slow Starter

by CHARLES HUFNAGEL

Though virtually reams of political news is being written and distributed through newspapers and additional reams broadcast over the airwaves on the 1970 election campaign, that campaign has not yet got off the ground. From observations everywhere candidates seeking votes are going to find slow and rough going.

In the first place these candidates are already learning that the campaign donation is not easy to come by this year, and volunteers no longer are interested in working for "the good of the party" without reward. The politics of the last decade with its student revolts has led to a distrust of politicians, political methods and political goals.

The enthusiasm generated at the beginning of the decade for participation in the great American circus has all but disappeared in this era of uncertainty we are now beginning. The 1960's for the most part belonged to the politicians of both parties as is testified to by the debacles of 1964 and 1968 respectively. Now there is good reason to believe such decision-making will be removed almost entirely from these hands.

Charles Hufnagel

IN THE 1970's can be seen coming on the horizon the revolt of the consumer in practically every facet of the economy. Free enterprise is challenged not by Communists but by the people for whom it professes to provide the best of services, second to none in the world. The politicians never looked for this but they are going to have to accept it. For the slogan-makers consumers are not just a symbol for this or that group of votes. Consumers represent the votes of everyone who earns and spends. So when the candidate gets on his soap box he had better be sure his speechwriter knows the temper of the voter who is critical of slick rhetoric.

The consumer wants to know how many ounces he is getting in the pound and what ingredients are contained in the merchandise. This is the climate of the 1970's. The opposing candidates will be weighed accordingly.

Beyond this and the cliché issues that candidates like to promote in their campaigns is transition politics itself. A national labor leader has warned that the Democrats are headed for lean days because their principal voting bases are disappearing. The great New Deal coalition of the 1930's comprising mainly union labor and the big city machines is long in decline. Both labor and the big city are said to have passed their peak and must become not primary but secondary factors in future state and national elections.

New voter groups — the young, the working professions, the racial and low-income minorities together with a growing army of pensioners — represent a formidable voting strength looking for constructive and trustworthy leadership. These are the people Sen. Robert Kennedy sought to organize when an assassin's bullet cut him down in 1968. Are they the wave of the future in the politics of the 1970's?

BUT THE MOST promising innovation to come in American politics in this decade are the many talented younger names now appearing in the news on the state and national scene. They are a different breed, highly educated with a social intelligence. They are knocking at the door of leadership, to take over from tired hands too weary and confused to face the problems of a new kind of society.

It is safe to say that the politics of this decade and the political destinies of our state and nation will be shaped almost entirely by these politically aware and younger men in both Republican and Democratic parties. Whatever their shortcomings they accept the realities of this age and have a sense of their world as a community.

Veto-Proofing A Federal Bill

When the House voted to override the veto of the $4.4 billion education bill, there were pious statements about the enormous needs of the schools. Among observers, however, there was wide agreement that the biggest factor in the vote was the bill's allocation of an extra $126 million to "federally impacted" areas.

These are areas where the schools have heavy enrollments of children of Federal workers. While some such areas may indeed need special help, some of them are among the nation's wealthiest districts.

President Nixon had sought to trim this sort of assistance to a more reasonable level. But it happens that well over half the House members come from districts that would be favored by the bill.

So the lesson for proponents of legislative measures is clear: If you really want to veto-proof a bill don't worry too much about how well it is drawn. Just be sure it passes out enough bucks in enough places.

Des Plaines Beat

Charlie Has Three Good Questions

by LEON SHURE

Let me tell you about Charlie.

This guy Charlie is about 150 years old and in the nearly three months I've worked in Des Plaines, I've gotten to know him and to appreciate the keen insights of his mind, not because he knows so much but because he asks so well.

I met him at the Des Plaines Public Library one day while I was doing some research. I'd noticed him a few other times, but this time I leaned over to find out what he was studying so carefully. It was a racing form from 1942.

He saw I was startled. His face crinkled into a youthful looking grin. "That was the last time I really made a killing at the race track," he giggled.

IT TURNS OUT THAT Charlie is one

1419 Ellinwood in downtown Des Plaines and asks me the same three questions each week, hoping, I guess, for a good answer. He hasn't been in yet this week, so I might as well share my answers.

His first question is "Are you finding new perspectives on Des Plaines?" My answer for this week is, yes. In past weeks I've looked out of the window from city hall for new perspectives and looked at Des Plaines from the Tollway bridge over Dempster. This week I changed my perspective at a school board meeting, and got eyestrain and a stiff neck.

THE SECOND question is "Is your hand on the pulse of the community?" My answer is, somewhat. It's always been my theory that in every organization there is one person who really knows what is going on. That person is never the head of the concern, or boss of the company it's usually a secretary. I'm still searching for that person who knows what's happening in Des Plaines. I'll probably have to interview everyone in town.

Charlie's third question is "Are you coming up with new answers?" This is a tough question, but I think I can say

"maybe." My latest new answer is for the pollution and trash problem. I feel there are two ways of doing it.

One, the hardest, is to make people better. Churches and schools have been working on this for a long time, so I'll leave it to them. The second way is to invent something. I suggest someone invent sidewalks that digest trash. Also, sell milk in frozen blocks with handles frozen in them. This would mean that containers wouldn't be necessary.

Well, that completes this week's thoughts on Charlie's questions. I hope to report on my further thoughts on his questions soon.

The Fence Post

Change, But For The Better

The research done by one of your readers in regard to a letter I had written about "no-left-turn" signs was extensive.

However, although he clocked various routes down to a tenth of a second, he was not accurate enough to notice that there is no address 1047 W. Miner. That was a previous typographical error. The address is actually 1005. Why was the gentleman not accurate enough to notice this?

Secondly, he suggests we proceed straight ahead on Wing to Dunton. Did he not notice the sign at Vail and Wing "Right turn only"? To continue on through to Dunton would have been illegal.

FINALLY HIS suggestion of cutting through the Jewel Parking Lot to avoid the signs does not seem a legitimate one. Public streets are to be used as thoroughfares, not private property. To do so, infringes on property rights and purposes of another individual.

Therefore, the routes I previously outlined seem the only alternative to reach the train, bank or access to the Northwest Highway which many use to drive to and from work. The time involved would depend on the hour of day and weather conditions.

I certainly am not opposed to change if it be for the better or even if only a few were inconvenienced but benefited the majority. However, when many hundreds have attested their opposition by their signatures to petitions, it seems the plan should be reevaluated and a better solution formulated.

Looking At Con-Con

League Endorsement First Of Many

by ED MURNANE

The endorsement of Illinois' proposed Constitution this week by the League of Women Voters probably is only the first of many statewide endorsements the new document will receive.

The League's endorsement, which came even before the Constitutional Convention adjourned, was not surprising. LWV members pride themselves on their efforts in behalf of a new Constitution for Illinois during the last 25 years and the document written during the last nine months in Springfield is so close to the League's proposed Constitution that the League itself may have written it.

In fact, at last Tuesday's LWV program at which the endorsement was made, one League member said the Constitution would have been written long ago if the delegates had let the LWV write it.

THE LEAGUE'S endorsement means

Ed Murnane

10,000 LWV members in Illinois will campaign for the Constitution when it is submitted to the voters Dec. 15. That's a lot of support, particularly when the LWV's efforts on behalf of the Constitutional Convention call in 1968 are recalled.

It was the League that tirelessly worked to win voter approval of the convention call, more so than any other organization, and the referendum was overwhelmingly approved.

Several other statewide organizations also are likely to take action on the new Constitution, and the odds are that they too will endorse it.

The Illinois Education Association, whose membership includes thousands of Illinois educators and administrators, probably will endorse the Constitution since it removes the office of state superintendent of public instruction from politics and replaces that office with an appointed state superintendent who would be selected by an elected state board of education.

And the Illinois Jaycees, whose membership includes more than 30,000 men between the ages of 21 and 35, also is likely to take favorable action on the document since it very closely parallels the model Constitution the Jaycees them-

"When that bell rings and those horses start off, there's nothing separating you from millions, but your luck." Which in Charlie's case is enough.

Charlie is also the only person I know who can name every Chicago Cub right fielder since 1930. "I figured I couldn't remember all the players, but I could remember all of them playing just one position," he says.

Anyway, what's been so great about Charlie is that he comes to our office on

Just Ask Any College Coach

Grades More Important Than Touchdowns

With the start of the new school year, high school athletics will be getting into full swing.

Many, many athletes will be spending countless hours perfecting their skills on the court, the track, the diamond, the gymnasium and what have you.

Many of these athletes may wish to use their athletic abilities in a profitable manner — obtaining a college scholarship.

But while these athletes are working so strenuously in sports, many of them will fail to spend hours on a most important item — their studies.

If any athlete feels that his physical capabilities alone will earn a college scholarship, he is sadly mistaken.

College scouts prowling the nation from coast to coast looking at high school athletes compete.

But what many high schoolers forget is the scout's very next move.

After the scout is impressed by a young man on the field, the next thing he looks into is the athlete's grades in the classroom.

More than once a 210-pound speedy fullback, a 20-point averaging forward, a .450 hitting shortstop or a 8.9 scoring side horseman will be astonishingly by-passed by the college scouts.

Actually, it is not all that astonishing. The prime athlete simply did not have the grades to earn the college scout's attention.

Charlie Tate, the head football coach at the University of Miami, has said, "You athletes must pay the price in the classroom as well as on the football field."

The price must be paid BEFORE the athlete even gets into college.

The NCAA has ruled that each college athlete must carry a 1.6 average out of a 4.0 to remain eligible to compete. A 1.6 is equivalent to a 'C'.

Since college courses tend to be much more difficult than high school courses, college scouts rarely look at a high school athlete that does not carry a 2.0 average in his grades.

The college recruiter figures that if a young man can not reach a 2.0 average in high school, he surely will not be able to carry a 1.6 in college.

And as former University of Florida coach Ray Graves has said, "An All-American does me no good on the ineligibility list."

Admittedly, it is difficult for a high school athlete to earn good grades in the classroom.

After a two-hour (or longer) practice, the young man comes home to a late supper and by the time dinner is finished, he is a tired person at 8 p.m.

Nothing looks more inviting than just crawling into bed and leave the studies for another day.

But the books must be attended to right then and there. The books must be studied EVERY night.

Too many high school students figure, "Well, I won't study tonight but I'll catch Scrimmage Lines

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

up tomorrow."

And then tomorrow comes and they say the same thing.

Before they know it they are three or four chapters behind their classmates and it is soon too late to catch up. In the meantime, the grades just plunge to the bottom.

Many seniors might say that it is too late to build up their classroom credentials in order to attract college attention. But they are wrong.

A college scout may notice that an athlete has had poor grades in his first three years in high school.

But that same scout will also notice a change in the young man's attitude in the classroom. The scout will say to himself, "He didn't do very well in his first few years but it looks like he's coming around now and has finally gotten into good study habits."

The college scout will then take the young man into careful consideration for a scholarship.

It is extremely sad to see so many potentially fine athletes go by the wayside when the college recruiters come around. These athletes will never have the opportunity to further their athletic endeavors.

Many of you athletes have probably heard all of this before from your parents, your teachers and your coaches.

To some of you, this is a bunch of hog-wash.

But remember, if you don't pay that price in the classroom, those college scouts will be saying hog-wash to you when it comes to handing out those scholarships.

COACHING TIP. Maine East head football coach Al Eck demonstrates the proper pitchout technique on an option play during a Demon practice earlier this week. Eck is a former football star of Palatine High School and Northern Illinois University. The Demons are preparing for the opening of the 1970 gridiron season. Maine East will be open the campaign at Forest View High School on Friday, Sept. 18.

UP FOR GRASS. Three Maine North High graders go up for the football during a Norsemen practice earlier this week. The Norsemen were practicing pass patterns and pass protection when this play occurred. Maine North is preparing for its season opening against the Elk Grove junior varsity on Friday, Sept. 18, at Elk Grove.

Swimming Mom Passes Little League Mom

by BOB FRISK Sports Editor

FOR MANY YEARS the Little League baseball mother was the undisputed champion of the irate phone calls.

It wasn't even a contest. The phone would ring, and we'd all sit there looking at it, and each other.

"A baseball mother," someone would say. We'd all nod. Nobody moved. Everybody tried to look busy.

"You answer it."

"No, you answer it."

"It's your turn."

"But I talked to that mother of the 9-year-old right fielder yesterday."

"Yes, but you forgot that call just before quitting time from the woman whose son pitched that 18-hitter, walking 17, but didn't get his name in the paper."

"Sure, sure, but I got a call at home last night from some gal whose 10-year-old caught four balls in the outfield and didn't get one mention in the bleep sports section."

"I did forget that. It is my turn."

According to an eminent psychologist, Dr. Clifford Adams of Penn State University, a woman seeks love, affection, sentiment, security, companionship, home and family, community acceptance and sex in that order.

He spent 30 years researching the subject.

Dr. Adams is dead wrong. He never bothered to consult our sports department.

According to many years of research by the Herald sports staff, the first thing a woman seeks is publicity for her son or daughter.

Further research shows that 88 per cent of our irate phone calls come from women. Sure, a man phones now and then, but on a clear day you can hear the wife screaming instructions in the background.

For many years the Little League mother dominated the field. And then, suddenly, dramatically, another mother moved into the coveted No. 1 spot. The swimming mother has now vaulted into the lead with the track and field mother second and the Little League baseball mother pushed down to third place.

It's a tremendous race and every time that phone rings, it signals a new development in the never-ending battle to make sure Johnny gets what publicity he deserves.

This was a summer for the swimming mother. She passed the Little League mother and moved into a commanding lead. It was almost like the Mets surge to the pennant last year.

The swimming mother has this approach:

"I think it would be wonderful if you'd come out and take a picture. You're swimming coverage has been terrible and these boys and girls just aren't getting the credit they deserve, especially the six-year-olds."

"If it was a football team, you'd be out here. No, I'm not interested just because I have four children on the team."

How can you single out a swimming mother? Well, she leans just a wee bit forward as she walks. This comes from years of carrying a stop watch around her neck.

Now, it would be easy to get the track mother and the swimming mother mixed up. They both carry stop watches. But the track mother is a shade paler since she does most of her timing during the cold, windy days of April and early May.

Both ladies squirt. This comes from years of peering into the sun in an effort to catch the smoke of the gun when the starter fires his weapon.

Both have loud, penetrating voices. You would too if you constantly shouted, "C'mon Sid, You can do it Sid. C'mon Sid. Keep it up, keep it up, Sid. OOOOOH, Sid."

Sid didn't do it.

The track and field mother makes a poor finish look good.

"Atta boy, Sid. That was a seven minute mile. Did you get the school record?"

The track and swimming mothers have another thing in common. They can spot a photographer the proverbial mile away. If they can't see one, they know how to dial this number and ask us to send one out.

"If it was a football team, you'd be out here."

There are, of course, football mothers, basketball mothers, American Legion mothers, tennis mothers, wrestling mothers, cross country mothers, golf mothers, and, in this area particularly, gymnastics mothers, the fourth ranking gals for irate phone calls.

Lacrosse mothers are the finest. We haven't had a call from one in years.

I sure wish Dr. Adams would spend a year up here. I know he'd reverse his findings.

Sorry, there goes that phone again

"It's your turn, Larry."

"No, I had the last one, it's Paul's turn."

"Paul's on vacation. It's Phil's turn."

"No, I had one this morning Jim gets it."

"Keith should take this one."

"Yea, but he only works nights — lucky guy."

"It is my turn"

Everybody watches as you pick up the phone, slowly, cautiously.

"May I help you?"

"What? What was that?"

"A Lacrosse team? Where?"

Midget Football Opens Monday In Mt. Prospect

by FRANK HOLAN

About 800 boys and 300 cheerleading girls, representing 30 teams in three divisions, will converge on Lions Park on Labor Day (Monday), September 7th when the Mount Prospect Midget Football Association kicks off its 14th season.

This year the league has added five teams and created the new Lions System which will be ably guided by Tony Arredia who will again coach the bantam Boller-makers. Big Bill Butler will handle the rookie senior Lions eleven. The junior Jets and raw Raiders squads will be under the supervision of Jim Jacobs and Tom Taylor respectively.

Bears System Director — senior coach Bob Kranz has Roger Spielmann (Vikings), Joe Allegretti (Browns), and Norb Chmura (Illini) returning. The Wildcats destiny has been placed in the hands of Mike Alesia.

Ron Weld will continue as the Colts System Head and has all five coaches returning, namely dandy Dick Grigby (Colts), Bill Radtke (Cowboys), Bud Clark (Wolverines), Kurt Teichert (Rams) and Frank Vlach (Hoosiers).

Veteran Cardinals System Director Larry Oeking will assist others majordomo Bob Moore. Happy Howie Van Schick has been put at the helm of the senior Cards and Dick Hiller will start his first full season as the Buckeyes boss-man. Bob Carroll, after an absence of several years, returns as the Redskins top warrior. Pete Petron, dean of all bantam coaches, continues with the Badgers.

The Giants System Director Frank Holan is taking over the Hawkeyes this season. Don Spahr has moved up to the Giants head mentor and Joe Hayer will harden the Steelers. The new Falcons coach will be Connie Maestranzi and Scotty Dixon will toughen up the new bantam Tigers.

Capable Ken O'Callaghan will double as the Packers System Director and senior eleven head coach. Other returnees include Tony Falduto (Chiefs), Dave Dowefko (Gophers), and Roger Patterson (Spartans). Newcomer Jim Frankowski hopes to make the Eagles soar.

Association officers this year are: Elmer Ballotti, President; Cliff Herman, vice president; Hal Hetherington, treasurer; William Reinert, secretary; Charles Domick, head referee; Ed Benrich, commissioner; Dave Mann, Dennis Kennedy, Wayne Hamilton, Warren Starkey, Tosh Okuma and Vic Rose Assistant Commissioners.

The Women's Auxiliary is headed up by Carol Hopp, president; Shirley Daigle, 1st vice president; Wilma Reitz, 2nd vice president; Kay Ost, assistant vice president; Joyce Antonson, secretary; Lynn Bennett, director of special events; and Delores Vodenberg, assistant director of special events.

The opening day — Labor Day (Monday) September 7th — scheduled is as follows:

Paddock Tennis Tourney Starts

The 10th annual Paddock Publications Tennis Tournament will be held this Saturday, Sunday and Monday at the Arlington High School courts. Competition will be singles only and will include four divisions: men, women, boys and girls.

Trophies will be awarded to the four division winners as well as the runners-up.

For the past nine years, this amateur meet has been a mixed doubles affair. It was changed to singles play to give more players a chance to participate.

Handling the seeding as well as the organization of the tourney is Dick Adashek, president of the Arlington Tennis Club.

Rules are as follows:

•The boys and girls divisions are for youths 18 and under.

•New balls will be supplied by both players with the winner keeping the used balls.

•A 15-minute default time will be enforced.

•Players who have a bye will be notified in advance by phone.

•Boys and girls divisions will begin at 9 a.m. with men and women starting at noon Saturday, Sept. 5.

There is no entry fee for the tournament. Entries have been closed.

The Arlington High School courts are located at Ridge Ave., one block north of Euclid Ave.

Dist. 26 School Tax Rises Slightly

Des Plaines residents in River Trails School Dist. 26 will face only a slight increase on their school tax bills next year.

Tuesday the Dist. 26 school board approved a tax levy that will result in an estimated tax rate of $2.31 per $100 assessed valuation, an increase of 3 cents over this year's levy. The school board also approved a budget of approximately $2,804,000 for the coming year.

The levy, collectible next May from 1970 property taxes, includes rates of $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation for the education fund; 25 cents for the building fund; 5.2 cents for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Funds; 3.8 cents for the rent fund; and 6.3 cents for the transportation fund.

The levy will generate about $980,000 in the education fund, $175,000 in the building fund, $33,000 in the retirement fund, $24,000 in the rent fund and $39,000 in the transportation fund.

THE SCHOOL BOARD also approved the 1970-71 budget which shows estimated expenditures of $2,326,170 for the education fund; $60,400 for the transportation fund, $24,400 for the rent fund, $161,750 for the building fund and $31,000 for the retirement fund.

The educational fund is down $92,144 from last year. Harwood said the decrease was the result of paying off $400,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants. The warrants were sold to finance the education of children from Maryville Academy.

The building fund has increased by $49,950 due to proposed black topping at district schools and additions to Indian Grove and Euclid Schools.

$1.2 Million For Teachers Salaries

Almost $1.2 million has been allotted for teachers salaries in School Dist. 26 as the result of acceptance of a new salary schedule.

Tuesday the Dist. 26 school board ratified a plan for salary increases that had been drawn up by board and teacher negotiations teams. Last week teachers ratified the agreement that was reached after more than three months of negotiations between the board and the River Trails Education Association (RTEA), the teachers bargaining agent.

Only the night before, the school board of neighboring School Dist. 23 ratified a new salary plan giving pay increases to its teachers.

The new Dist. 26 schedule includes increases in pay raises for each salary level. A teacher is placed on a salary step according to the number of years of teaching experience and college training he has had.

A TEACHER WITH no experience and a bachelor's degree will receive $7,500 for the school year as compared to last year's $7,000. The maximum salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree is $11,625, an increase of $1,425 over the previous maximum. A teacher with a master's degree could start at $8,350 and eventually be paid as much as $14,200. Last year he got $7,600 and could rise up to $12,150.

The schedule also provides for a $375 increase for each salary raise after the third step. Teacher benefits from health and accident insurance have also been increased. Now a teacher can accumulate 150 sick days instead of the previous 120.

The plan also recognizes RTEA as the official bargaining agent for teachers. This is only a formal repetition of a procedural agreement signed by the board and teachers in May.

Clark Robinson was the only board member opposed to the new salary plan. He said it would increase the cost of operating the schools, and, as a result, the district would have to borrow additional money.

A 4-YEAR-OLD boy perfects his coordination at the Children's World School. Carrying water and putting it in a pitcher is a simple exercise designed to help the child build confidence in his own ability. The school uses the Montessori Method of teaching.

School Teaches Montessori Way

Children's World is a new school in Park Ridge designed to let preschool children develop their mental, physical and emotional capabilities.

The private school uses the Montessori method of teaching in developing a child's confidence in his own ability to achieve.

According to the school's director, Janet Bowes, Montessori children develop self-discipline, self-knowledge and independence as well as enthusiasm for learning, an organized approach to problem-solving and academic skills.

"Children are respected as being different from adults," Mrs. Bowes explained, "as well as being individuals who differ from each other. They possess unusual sensitivity and mental powers for absorbing and learning from their environment. And the child has a deep love and need for purposeful work — that is work for the activity itself. It is this activity," Mrs. Bowes said, "which accomplishes for him his most important goal — the development of himself and his powers."

CHILDREN'S WORLD will offer unique features to the 40 students who will attend this fall. "We will have extended classroom time to develop a child's concentration span to its maximum potential," Mrs. Bowes noted, "there will be emphasis on the social development of each child and each student will have freedom with responsibility. We will also have a step by step large muscle development program to prepare each child for reading."

There will be two classes at the school and each will be guided by a teacher skilled in the Montessori method. The teacher acts to guide the child and help him accomplish his own personal goals.

The child in the Montessori school is free to walk around the classroom and work with any of the materials he chooses. He is free to talk with other children and to ask the teacher for new materials to work with, but he may not disturb others or abuse classroom facilities.

Children's World is affiliated with the Illinois Montessori Society and the American Montessori Society and is a non-profit organization. It is located at 2000 W. Sibley in Park Ridge.

School Taxes May Go Up 5.6%

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS Friday, September 4, 1970 Section 2 —5

High School Dist. 214 property owners could see their tax bills increase by about 5.6 per cent next year, a district official told the school board's budget committee Wednesday night.

Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business affairs, showed the board that the 1971-72 tax rate could climb from this year's figure of $2.27 to a new total of $2.33 per $100 of assessed valuation.

The budget committee was meeting to examine not only the district's projected tax rate, but also means of cutting into possible future deficit spending.

THE INCREASE would include a hike from $1.56 to $1.59 in the education fund, which makes up the largest portion of the budget and covers teacher's salaries, the largest single item in the budget.

Weber and Supt. Edward Gilbert cautioned that the proposed tax rates must be approved by the board, and could be changed by an upsurge in assessed valuation in the district.

Also, there is a possibility that the district might levy a small working cash fund levy, to cover the district coming up in the red if early tax collections don't keep pace.

This year, early collections of tax money gave the district a surplus. A working cash fund, which would collect interest for the district, could cover the district in case of a drop in early collection.

JACK COSTELLO, who is chairman of the budget committee, raised that question, as well as wondering if November might be suitable time for a referendum to raise tax revenue in the district.

However, both Weber and Gilbert said that the time might not be right. Weber said that early collections, to put the district in the black, would help this spring.

Gilbert pointed out that the district has not been involved in deficit spending through tax anticipation warrants, that disreputable gimmick of borrowing money to cover revenue deficits.

The committee spent much of their meetings looking ahead to the projected 1971-72 budget and a possible deficit of $682,000 in the education fund.

THE DISTRICT must look ahead, officials explained, as the 1970-71 levy, part of the official budget to be acted upon later this month, provides revenue for the 1971-72 school year.

That year will be a financially rough one for the district, as the district's seventh high school — Rolling Meadows High School — will boost the number of teachers and custodial and clerical personnel in the district.

Some expenditures can be shifted into the building fund to cover the deficit in the education fund, explained Weber. Budgets aren't the only money matters facing the board. If the district decides that an eighth high school is needed for the district by 1974-75, the board will have to seek taxpayer support for a bond issue.

SEVERAL BOARD members are working to eliminate the need for another school. For example, Richard Stamm has argued strongly in recent weeks for a community program involving local businesses educating students in vocational fields.

And Mrs. Leah Cummins has added that evening courses for students could help channel the student population out of the regular, traditional schedule, thus allowing the district to serve more students in the present seven high schools.

Com 75 also is studying a four-quarter plan. It has recommended that the board adopt a four-quarter plan "at the earliest feasible time." That could eliminate the eighth high school, too.

Neither Rain Nor Sleet Nor Snow...

by DOROTHY OLIVER

"If you like people, you'll love this job," said Pat Rodgers, 2033 Rand Road. "The majority of the people are really surprised to see a woman in my job — the kids react more than anybody. One kid said to me, 'When's the real mailman going to be back?'"

Pat, Cheryl Click, 320 Hawthorn Lane, Des Plaines; and Dawn Wyss, 640 W. Belden, Chicago, are the three lady mail carriers who work out of the West Annex Post Office, North and First Avenues, in Des Plaines. They are not alone. There are women carrying the mail from all of the stations in Des Plaines and have been for the past seven years.

All three chose the job originally because of the money. Starting pay is $3.51 an hour plus many benefits. "I couldn't afford to work in an office," said Pat. "The pay is less, the benefits are less and you need a complete wardrobe."

"I SAW A SIGN in the post office asking for help," said Dawn. "I've seen other women mail carriers on the street, and the pay was good so I thought I'd try it."

It is physical labor to carry the mail but easy enough for most women. The only physical requirements the post office makes are that an applicant be able to lift 50 pounds (which they rarely do on the job) and be in good physical condition.

"It's hard at first," said Cheryl, "unless you're in top-notch shape. It takes getting used to — all the walking and carrying the packages."

"The first day you go home and your legs are aching, and you know you have to turn around and do the same thing the next day," added Pat. "But it's just as hard for the men who are starting."

THE DAY BEGINS early for mail carriers. It's up at 4:30 to 5 a.m. and on the job by 6 a.m. for the ladies. But the day ends early with quitting time at 2:30 p.m.

Cheryl and Pat each have one child. They like the hours because it gives them time to get the housework done and spend time with their children. Dawn, who is single, added that there is no such thing as a traffic jam when she is commuting back and forth to work.

"Getting up at 5 is no harder than getting up at 7 once you're used to it," Cheryl said.

Clerks, again many of which are women, have the mail sorted by the time the mailwomen arrive. They go to their "case," a booth with slots, and sort their route by address. Then they strap the bundles, haul them to their cars in little canvas wagons on wheels and load the mail in the cars.

IN ORDER TO GET their jobs, the women had to pass a Civil Service exam. They also had to take a test driving right-handed vehicles and a standard physical exam.

"All the job requirements are completely equal whether you're a man or woman," said Day. "The only thing they have said in regards to your sex is that women can carry a bigger purse than a man."

The women spoke of the fringe benefits their job carries. Besides the good pay and hours, they cited that they have become healthier, are given responsibility yet freedom to work as they please and they have lost weight.

"You meet so many people, too," said Pat. "You meet more in this type of job than you do in an office."

"And it's really great working with the men," Dawn added. "They have accepted the women beautifully. You adapt to the men's way and yet you're not any less feminine because of it."

"NONE OF US EXPECT any special treatment because we're women," Cheryl added. "They don't haul your mailbag into your car, but you don't expect them to."

The ladies agreed that being a mail

LIKING PEOPLE is a prerequisite for a job as a mailwoman. Cheryl Click does and is very happy in her job. Mail ladies receive a $125 uniform allowance per year and the female carriers have a choice of uniforms, including bell-bottomed slacks, skirts or culottes.

carrier is a good job and think other women would enjoy it.

"Some women want the pay but are not willing to do the work. You're going to get your hands dirty and be out in the rain and snow. And this is a physical job. You can't be prissy about it," Dawn warned.

As an afterthought we asked the women if they were at all involved with the Women's Liberation Movement. They all responded that they found the movement a little ridiculous.

"I think there's an awful lot of hulla-balloo. They should go out and get the jobs and work at them," said Dawn.

"WE WANT TO MAKE the same wages that the men do — because we do the same work," Pat added. "But we still want them to get off their chairs when we come in the room."

Of the 275 employees at the Des Plaines Post Office, 45 of them are women. Bob Boeckenhauer, 1733 Forest, is the assistant supervisor of mails and is in charge of the women.

"They are very good workers," he said regarding his female employees. "They can do anything including driving the one ton trucks. With seniority they can step up to become a carrier technician after four years with the post office."

"In fact," he continued, "we have less of a turnover with our women carriers than with the men. Sometimes, though, we lose them because of pregnancy."

The post office offers another opportunity for women to find good jobs. Cheryl, Pat and Dawn will testify to that.

It's That Time Again

Clinic Is 'Capsule Course'

"A capsule course in journalism and public relations, your publicity workshop was delightful, informative and interesting."

"A clever idea beautifully carried out."

So read just two of the scores of letters received by the Herald and Registers following last year's publicity workshops. Because of the enthusiastic response to the workshops in past years and because Paddock Publications wishes to help each and every woman assigned the job of publicity chairman for her club, the newspaper chain again will sponsor the workshops for presidents and publicity chairmen of northwest suburban women's clubs and organizations.

THIS YEAR THE newspaper chain has added a third workshop to better accommodate the women. The first workshop for DuPage area women, is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 10, in the Tioga Post VFW, 25 N. York Road, Bensenville. The second will be held in the Plum Grove Club, Plum Grove Estates, Palatine, and the third in the Northwest Suburban YMCA, Des Plaines. Cook County area clubwomen may attend either the Palatine or the Des Plaines workshop, whichever is more convenient for them.

All workshops will be held from 9 to

Sorry 'Bout That!

Just as we expected — we are receiving calls from PTA publicity chairmen wishing to attend one of the Paddock-sponsored publicity workshops.

The workshops are designed especially for women's clubs and organizations, and although the sessions might be of some help to these PTA news chairmen, it will not answer many of their questions nor fill their needs for publicity help. We suggest that the PTA presidents and news chairmen contact the news editors from their individual towns for particulars about sending in PTA news.

11:30 a.m. and will include a coffee and roll break in mid-morning. The workshops will close at 11:30 a.m. so that busy homemakers can be home by lunchtime.

THE TIOGA AND Plum Grove Club locations, the same as last year, were chosen again as centrally located, easy-to-get-to spots. The Des Plaines location should prove convenient not only for Des Plaines women, but also for those in Mount Prospect and other nearby suburbs.

Invited to participate in the workshops are the presidents and publicity chairmen of all social and service clubs, community and church groups, women's organizations and all other clubs in which the membership is predominately women. PTA's are not specifically invited as the workshop coverage will not completely fill their needs.

THE WORKSHOPS are designed to help publicity chairmen write releases of interest to all readers and thereby perform a greater service to their clubs. A helpful pamphlet will be given to those in attendance, and it is expected that there will be time for a question and answer period.

Of special interest will be a slide presentation depicting both good and bad publicity pictures.

So that comfortable seating arrangements may be made for all, club presidents and news chairmen are asked to make reservations for the workshops by calling Paddock Publications, 394-2300, Extension 233. In Des Plaines, the chairmen may call 297-6633; in DuPage, 773-1598.

Sunday Musical, Tea

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA

The Park Ridge Alumnae Chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota will open its 1970-71 season with a musicale and tea on Sunday, Sept. 13, at 3 p.m. Mrs. William Wilkins, 111 N. Kenilworth, Mount Prospect will be hostess and Mrs. Harry Neibel will assist.

Soloist for the musicale will be Mrs. L. W. King of Palatine. Mrs. King has sung with the Pekin Civic Chorus and done solo work with Peoria summer stock. She is currently a music teacher at Jack London Junior High School in Wheeling.

She will perform a cycle of five children's songs called "I Hate Music" by Bernstein and then do arias by Puccini and Korngold and end with an Italian song by Sibella.

The 1970-71 yearbooks will be distributed and highlights of the year will be discussed. All members and patronesses in the northwest suburban area are invited. The chapter president, Mrs. Albert Pranno may be called at 825-7476 for information.

PI BETA PHI

Oct. 13 has been set by the Arlington

Heights Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club for its annual Arrowcraft sale and fashion show. Mrs. Lawrence Brown is chairman for this event to be held at the Arlington Heights Masonic Temple.

Plans for the sale and a program, "The Art of Decoupage," will head the agenda next Wednesday when members meet at the home of Mrs. Richard Nieland, 906 White Gate Drive, Mount Prospect.

Any new members wishing further information may call Mrs. N. Scott Davis, 392-3705.

BEFORE GOING OUT ON her route, Pat Rodgers sorts through the stack of letters, magazines and packages the mail by address. Standing in her "case" she goes and gets them ready for the mailbag.

The Potting Shed

by MARY B. GOOD

Brown patches on lawn may mean webworms at work. The webworm comes out at night and eats like a horse on the grass.

A well-maintained lawn can withstand the greedy attack of as many as four webworms per square foot. Any more than that will produce noticeable lawn damage. The only control is with insecticides — Sevin or Diazinon. Follow manufacturer's directions carefully; take safety precautions during use.

If you lost tomatoes to blossom-end rot, chances are your babies were staked plants, heavily pruned, that got hit during hot, dry weather. To help reduce losses grow tomatoes in well-drained soil, avoid excessive use of commercial fertilizer, avoid close deep cultivation in dry weather, try growing different varieties.

SLOW GROWTH and general decline of trees is a sign of starvation. If the growth of the smaller twigs at branch ends is short — just a few inches — or becoming less and less each year, the tree needs feeding. Other indications are yellow or brown leaves, undersized buds, dead branches, undersized or sparse foliage. Drill numerous holes, 12 to 15 inches apart over the entire root system and apply tree food.

Begonias transform a bald porch to an inviting summer garden. They need very little, if any, direct sunlight. If leaves turn yellowish and develop brown tips, it may mean too much light; if leaf stalks are long or leggy, it may mean lack of light. All begonias like a loose, well drained humus soil. Waterlogged soil means rot and poor success.

THE NORTHEASTERN Illinois Rose Society will hold its fall show — true test of the rose buff (the survivor) on Sunday from 1:30 to 7 p.m. at the International Minerals and Chemicals Corp., Route 45 and Winchester Road, Libertyville.

Fresh flowers in the bedroom — bowls of soul-reviving flowers, placed where you can see and smell them can do more to revitalize than anything else. The bedroom gets my vote for the best plant placement in the home. Bath rates second, kitchen third. Other good spots — suspended from the ceiling, going up the stairs, on the picnic table, in a child's room.

Drama Classes

The Mill Run Theater in Niles is offering classes in drama, ballet and voice for anyone aged six to sixty beginning Sept. 19. Students may enroll now through Harry Lee Roberts, 298-2170.

Auditions

Best Off Broadway Players will hold auditions for their next musical production, "Lil' Abner," at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights, Sept. 21, 22 and 23 at 7:30 p.m. The show will be presented Dec. 2, 5, 11 and 12.

To banish those "audition night jitters," the BOB Players are scheduling two singalongs for individuals interested in auditioning who wish to familiarize themselves with the music prior to actual tryouts. The dates of the two singalongs are Sept. 15 and 16. Further information is available through 392-2330 or 958-0820.

In addition to "Lil' Abner" Best Off Broadway Players is presenting another musical, "Take Me Along," in June and a straight play in March.

DRIBBLE PAINTING

by Marilyn Hallman

Mix some liquid laundry starch with tempera paint or food color. Pour it into a "squeeze" bottle, such as an empty honey jar or detergent bottle, with a small hole in the top. You may want to use several bottles, each with a different color. Dribble designs on a sheet of paper by squeezing the paint from the bottles.

A new restaurant unlike any other. Top of the Towers.

Nothing quite like it anywhere.

You'll enjoy a bird's eye view of our golf course, and beyond it. Arlington Park Race Track, where thoroughbreds run all spring and summer.

Your gaze will take in a stunning interior, a feast of color wherever you look.

Then, when you call for the menu, another feast begins. Entrees from around the world, with the accent always on fine dining.

During dinner The Notables play old and new tunes for dancing. Starting at 9:30, they blend music, song and comedy and turn

Top of the Towers into a supper club.

In the Towers Lounge, Cees Beasart plays guitar and sings in seven languages. A most entertaining background for cocktails.

Spend an evening at Top of the Towers. There's nothing quite like it anywhere.
